At the Twenty-third Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, on Tuesday, May 6, 1823.

The Right Hon. LORD GAMBIER, Vice-Patron and President, in the Chair.

The Report of the Committee having been read by the Secretary, and the Statement of the Accounts of the Twenty-second Year,

On a Motion by the Hon. and Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Gloucester, seconded by the Right Hon. Lord Calthorpe, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report now read be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee: and that this Meeting cannot but record its grateful sense of the Divine goodness in continuing to afford a steady increase to the Income of the Society, and also a growing conviction to its Members that it is only by the grace of the Holy Spirit that Missionary Exertions can become successful.

On a Motion by Major Mackworth, seconded by the Right Hon. the Earl of Gosford, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting, viewing with commiseration the degraded state of our Heathen Fellow-Subjects in India and Ceylon, and especially the condition of the Hindoo Widows, rejoices in the progress of its Missions in those quarters, and more particularly in the establishment and rapid increase of Female Schools.

On a Motion by W. Wilberforce, Esq. M.P. seconded by the Right Hon. Viscount Lorton, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting feels that the discouragements attending the New-Zealand Mission ought not to damp the zeal of the Society, but rather to stimulate the Members to more earnest Prayer, and the Society to more strenuous and extended efforts; especially when contrasted with the success granted to the West-Africa Mission, after encountering the most severe trials—a Mission, which, under the Divine Blessing, is returning some small remuneration to Africa for her long-continued wrongs.

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Sir G. H. Rose, M.P. seconded by the Right Hon. the Earl of Rocksavage, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting learns with pleasure the permission granted by the Local Government to form a Printing Establishment in Malta, for the benefit of the Countries surrounding the Mediterranean; and cherishes the hope that the troubles in which some of those Countries are involved may be overruled, by the mercy of God, for the revival and extension among them of Christian Truth.

On a Motion by the Rev. W. Marsh, seconded by the Hon. and Rev. Lyttleton Powys, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting trusts that the earnest and repeated entreaties from every part of the Society's Missions for Christian Teachers, will strongly impress on the Members the duty of Prayer to the Lord of the Harvest to send forth Labourers, and of a due use of all requisite means for this purpose; and, in this view, the Meeting cordially recommends to their support the plan adopted by the Committee for the more efficient preparation of the Society's Schoolmasters and Missionaries.

On a Motion by the Rev. Robert Daly, of Dublin, seconded by the Rev. Basil Woodd, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the sincere Thanks of the Society be given to the Noble President of the Institution, to the other Vice-Patrons, and to the Vice-Presidents, for their continued protection; to the Treasurer, for his assistance; to such Clergymen and other Gentlemen as have, during the last year, prepared or supported Associations; to the Younger Friends of the Society; to those Ladies who, in various places, have very successfully exerted themselves in promoting its interests; and to the Committee for their exertions.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church) a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIV. The Office of the Committee of Funds, is to circulate information respecting the Institution; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as agents for the Society in the principal towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The Office of the Committee of Correspondence, is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The Office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful, the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee, and Three each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued.——The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence of his qualifications, and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a special meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose; respect however being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretary.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon his designs, under the full conviction, that, unless he "prevent us in all our doings with his most gracious favour, and further us with his continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

WHEN a disposition appears in any place to assist the designs of the Society by establishing an Association in its support, a Meeting of persons favourable to such a measure should be called. The friends who meet for this purpose should form themselves into a "Church Missionary Association, in aid of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and should proceed to appoint a Committee and proper Officers.

In large Towns, comprehending several Parishes, it may be expedient to appoint a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, and a Secretary; with a pretty numerous Committee, composed of persons from the different parishes.

In Parochial Associations, a Treasurer, a Secretary, and a smaller Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, may be best suited to conduct the business.

It may sometimes be found expedient to form Associations in Separate Congregations in the same Parish, rather than one Association in the parish at large; and in this case also, a Treasurer, Secretary, and Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, will suffice to accomplish the object.

In a Voluntary Union of Friends, whether the members of the same family, the children of a school, or persons connected by affinity or friendship, such arrangements may be made as may prove most convenient to themselves.

In this manner, benevolent persons, willing to assist the designs of the Society, from the domestic circle to the largest town, may unite for a purpose most beneficial to their own minds, while it expresses a due regard to the glory of God in the salvation of the Heathen, and a proper sense of their own infinite obligations to Divine Mercy.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS SUITABLE FOR ASSOCIATIONS.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be, all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward, or, if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea; and also such Persons as shall collect in its behalf One Shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, or, if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per Annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Reports of this Association, and also the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at all their General Meetings: but Collectors of One Shilling and upward per week will further receive a Copy of each Monthly Number of the Missionary Register.—Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at all Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society.—Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors.

VI. The business of the Association shall be under the management of a Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, Secretaries, Governors, and a Committee not exceeding ——— Lay Members of the Established Church, and of all Clergymen who are Members of this Association. The Committee to meet on the ——— in the months of January, April, July, and October, at ——— o'clock; Five Members being competent to act.

VII. The object of the Committee shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed Persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society; and to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary Information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VIII. The whole of the Funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society in aid of its designs.

IX. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day in the month of ——— as shall be found expedient (of which due notice shall be given), when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be presented.

LADIES' ASSOCIATIONS.

RULES RECOMMENDED FOR ADOPTION BY LADIES' CHURCH-MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

I. THAT an Association be now formed, in connection with the ———— Church-Missionary Association, and that it be denominated "The Ladies' Church-Missionary Association for ———— and its Vicinity."

II. That every person subscribing One Penny per Week or upward, or Sixpence per Month or upward, be a Member of this Association, and, as such, be supplied with a copy of the Quarterly Papers of the Society.

III. That this Association be under the direction of a President, Treasurer, One or more Secretaries, and a Committee; consisting of all such Ladies as collect One Shilling and upward per week; who shall be respectively furnished with a copy of the Missionary Register and the Annual Report of the Parent Society, copies of the Quarterly Papers for the use of their Contributors, and Annual Collecting Cards to assist them in gathering the Weekly and Monthly Contributions.

IV. That the Committee meet on the ————* day in the months of January, April, July, and October, at Twelve o'clock precisely; when the Members shall pay the amount of their Collections to the Treasurer, and receive the requisite number of Quarterly Papers for their Subscribers.

V. That a statement of the accounts of this Association be annually prepared at a special Meeting of the Committee, preceding the Anniversary of the "———— Church-Missionary Association;" and, after being signed by the Treasurer and two of the Committee, shall be transmitted to the Secretaries of the said Association.

When these Regulations have been adopted, it will be proper to appoint the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, and to take down the Names of Collectors.

The Day of Meeting should be fixed with reference to the times of receiving the Quarterly Papers, which are despatched from London on the First Day of the respective Months specified in the Rule.

N.B. The only BOOKS required by a Ladies' Association, are,

1. A Minute Book, to be kept by the Secretary, wherein the Proceedings of every Committee Meeting should be entered.
2. A Cash Book, to be kept by the Treasurer, wherein the amounts received from the Collectors, Quarterly, should be entered, as well as all payments on account of the Association.

The Secretary should always keep a stock of Collectors' Cards, for the supply of the Members.

All Communications relative to Associations may be addressed to the Secretary, the Rev. JOSIAH PRATT, at the Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square, Fleet Street, London; where every information and assistance may be obtained in the establishment and support of Associations.

NOTICE RESPECTING COLLECTORS.

BY Collectors is to be understood Persons who gather, in behalf of the Society, the Contributions of such of their Friends as may be able and willing to render assistance to the great Work of Christian Charity in which the Society is engaged, but who may not have it in their power to give their Annual Guinea.

Those who may have leisure for this service, are Members of the Society, so long as their Collections amount to Fifty-two Shillings per Annum. They may collect this sum in such way—weekly, monthly, or quarterly—as may best suit their own convenience, and that of the Contributors.

Collectors will, of course, exercise due discrimination. While they bestow their own time on this work, from a just conviction of the misery of the Heathen and the duty of sending to them the Gospel, they should ask no contributions but from such as may be able to give them; and should endeavour that their contributors may give on the same just sense of duty as they act themselves.

For this purpose, they will be regularly supplied, on writing to the Secretary, with the Numbers of the Missionary Register, and Tracts calculated to diffuse information and excite attention, and with Cards to assist them in making their Collections. They will be furnished, also, with a sufficient quantity of Quarterly Papers, to supply a Copy to each Contributor. These Quarterly Papers consist of a few pages of striking Facts and Anecdotes; with Addresses and Exhortations, adapted to the level of the Labouring Classes and the Young; and are illustrated by Engravings on Wood.

If Five or Six or more Collectors unite together in any place, the Committee will send the Monthly Numbers and the Quarterly Papers in a parcel; but, in order to this, it will be requisite for the parties to procure the permission of their Bookseller in the country, to have such parcel sent with his monthly packet of Magazines, and to apprise the Secretary of the names of the Bookseller, and of his Correspondent in London.

A single Collector, or any number short of Five or Six, may purchase of the nearest Bookseller, both the Missionary Register and the requisite Quarterly Papers, and deduct the cost from the sum collected, and remit the remainder to the Society. This method is, on the whole, more convenient and economical to the Society than that of sending the Numbers and Papers in a parcel, in cases where the Collectors are less than five or six.

While Collectors render important aid to the designs of the Society, they both contribute to the strength and honour of that Church with which the Society is connected, and confer also great benefit on those persons whose contributions they gather.

This system of engaging, according to their power, the Labouring Orders and the Young in this work of charity, has a direct and important influence on the real strength and honour of that Church of which we are Members. Facts are multiplying daily which demonstrate the growing attachment of those persons to the Church, whose minds are interested in the great objects of the Society, and who are themselves associated in its charitable labours.

For the Contributors themselves, the regular diffusion among them of intelligence respecting the state of the world and the efforts now making for its conversion, enlarges and elevates their minds. Many, who may not be able to give their Annual Guinea, would gladly take their share in this noblest work of Christian Charity. That numerous class have, in our days, the opportunity given them for the first time, of regularly contributing, according to their power, to extend the kingdom of Christ in the world: and HE, who accepted the two mites of the Widow, will accept every gift when offered from love; and will look with especial approbation on that servant of His, who, "remembering the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive"—"labours, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth."

JOHN XII. 31, 32.

NOW SHALL THE PRINCE OF THIS WORLD BE CAST OUT; AND I, IF I BE LIFTED UP FROM THE EARTH, WILL DRAW ALL MEN UNTO ME.

HUMAN reason, of itself, suggests to us the probability of the existence of other classes of intellectual agents, besides that to which we ourselves belong. Considering the minuteness with which the scale of being is graduated, and the many classes which intervene between the scarcely-sensitive animal and human creatures, it is highly probable that other orders are so interposed, as to break the vast interval between Man and the infinitely great and glorious Being to whom we owe our existence and our happiness. Accordingly, the more learned among the Heathen universally believed in the existence of certain spiritual essences, to which they ordinarily gave the name of "Demons;" and who occupied this intermediate space: one of their Philosophers calls these spirits the "carriers between the Gods and men:" others, maintained that some particular spirit was appointed to preside over each distinct country or city: and the greatest of the Greek Philosophers conceived, that to each human being was assigned a sort of invisible and spiritual guardian; and actually presents us with some of the communications between himself and the spirit thus appropriated to his own use and consolation.

Of course, the suggestions of mere reason on a subject so entirely beyond the grasp of our intellectual faculties, however coincident to a certain extent with the truth, combine, with a measure of truth, a large infusion of errors. It is to Revelation that we must go for any full and satisfactory reply to our inquiries on a subject so difficult and remote.

If then we turn to the Sacred Volume, we there learn, that, besides the visible creation by which we are surrounded, there are spirits of various character, rank, and employments, who walk the earth or wing their flight through the regions of air; exhibiting, perhaps, to the eye of God, a multitude more dense, as well as far more active and intelligent, than the class of proud Beings who are sometimes tempted to consider themselves as the exclusive objects of the Divine regard. These spirits are described as sufficiently numerous to constitute hosts and legions—as holding different ranks and offices, to which are assigned the titles of thrones, dominions, principalities, and powers—as delighting to mingle, for purposes either of good or of evil, in all the affairs of this lower world—the class of pure spirits, as having sung together with joy at our creation, as rejoicing over every sinner that repenteth, as coming down to minister to the heirs of salvation; and the class of evil spirits, on the contrary, as working in the children of disobe- dience, and as blinding the eyes of those who believe not.

But, my Christian Brethren, if these general facts are unquestionable, nothing, I may venture to say, can be more just and natural, than that every honest inquirer in religion should feel the deepest anxiety to obtain an accurate acquaintance with the nature and habits of these invisible agents, and to ascertain their probable influence on his own state and character. The question, especially, to what extent the Fallen and Malignant Spirits are permitted to interfere in the concerns of this lower world becomes a question of the highest interest, and the most solemn importance.

It is, then, to this subject, and especially in its connection with MISSIONS, that I propose, under the Divine Blessing, to call your attention to-day.

In the first clause of our text, the Ruler of these Evil Spirits is designated as the Prince of this World—an expression which evidently ascribes to him a certain empire and dominion upon earth. In the last clause, the Saviour describes Himself as the destroyer of that empire—I, when I am lifted up from the earth, when I am nailed to the Cross, will draw all men unto me—will deprive the Prince of this World of his subjects, and thus extinguish his terrible dominion. To these two topics, then—THE EMPIRE OF SATAN UPON EARTH, and THE DESTRUCTION OF THAT EMPIRE BY THE SON OF GOD—I would now endeavour to direct your notice.—And if, my Christian Brethren, even the great Apostle of the Gentiles, when entering on the discharge of his ministerial functions, felt it necessary to ask—Who is sufficient for these things? well may I, in the presence of such an assembly, and designated to fulfil an office of which I am so unworthy, feel and acknowledge my own incompetence; and take refuge in the goodness and power of that Redeemer, whose triumphs we are about to contemplate. Unite with me, I beseech you, in earnest entreaties to our Common Master, for His presence, and His blessing upon an undertaking, dedicated, as I trust, to His glory.

I. We are to consider THE EMPIRE OF SATAN UPON EARTH.

That Satan possesses a certain measure of influence over the minds and affairs of fallen creatures, will not, I suppose, be questioned by any who really admit the truth of the Volume of Inspiration. He is styled in the text the Prince of this world. In another part of the Sacred Writings, he is called the God of this world. In other passages, he is described as the Prince of the power of the air—as the spirit which now worketh in the children of disobedience; which leadeth them captive at his will, and shuts up in fatal darkness the eyes of them that are lost. In like manner, in the Book of the Revelation of St. John, the dwellers at Pergamos are said to dwell where Satan hath his Throne.

But, besides these expressions of a more general nature, many are found in Scripture, which ascribe to these wretched spirits all the attributes and characters of sovereignty. One of them, for example, to whom the name of Satan, or the accuser, is given, is called the Prince of the devils. Others are termed Ministers of Satan. The LAW of the Devil is called the law of sin. And the homage which he demands appears to be more profound and humiliating, than that of any earthly sovereign—all these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

If the SEAT of this Empire be required—to say nothing of those regions of woe and punishment of which we have so imperfect a conception, and where he appears to reign without a rival—it is obvious, from some of the preceding expressions of Scripture, that this world, in its present fallen state, and doubtless as a punishment for its offences, is, to a certain extent, submitted to the sway of the Devil. As its Prince—and as the spirit who blindeth the eyes and worketh in the minds of a portion of its inhabitants—he must exercise a moral influence, in the highest degree formidable.

The AGENTS and INSTRUMENTS, by which this terrible Empire is established, perpetuated, and enlarged, are described in the expressions to which we have already referred, and in others which resemble them.

These AGENTS are called, as we have seen, Ministers of Satan. And they consist, in part, of those Evil Spirits, who are condemned, in company with their Chief, to await—with such a relaxation of their bonds, as permits them to try the constancy of the Friends of the Redeemer, and to inflict vengeance on His enemies—the final punishment of their guilt: and, in part, of those Bad Men, who, subjected to the will of the Devil, find no higher satisfaction than in accomplishing the purposes of his hatred and cruelty. Some of these are described as openly the Children of the Devil.

Some are represented as transformed, in appearance, at least, into angels of light; and as, under the mask of purity or zeal, fighting his battles and doing his work.

The INSTRUMENTS, by which these distinct classes of agents are enabled to carry on the war of destruction, are chiefly Temptations to the understanding and passions of fallen man. When, for instance, Satan is said to be a liar and the father of it, it is obvious that he avails himself of the tendency to Error, and the love of Falsehood in the fallen heart. When, in like manner, those living under his influence are represented as walking in the lusts of the flesh, and as fulfilling the desires of the flesh, it is equally evident, that another species of assault on our nature is carried on, by the supply of temptations to our Sensual Appetites. And thus, also, when our Lord says to His angry and cruel countrymen, Ye are of your father the Devil—and, he was a murderer from the beginning—it is no less obvious, that the Violence and Irritability of our nature are means, from which he profits for the extension of his horrible dominion.

These observations will assist us to define with some precision the peculiar FEATURES, by which the Government of Satan, either in the hearts of individuals or in the character and circumstances of nations, will be distinguished. And, perhaps, they may be arranged under the three general heads of Falsehood, Pollution, and Cruelty.

Wherever he, who is called by way of emphasis the Wicked One, establishes his empire, there, in the first place, ERROR and FALSEHOOD largely prevail. When he speaketh a lie, saith our Lord, he speaketh of his own. Of his subjects, it is said that they are given up to strong delusion, that they should believe a lie. He himself is called The power of Darkness; and his office is, to present to the mind false views of truth—of good and evil—of right and wrong—of the duties of life—of the way to heaven—and, especially, of the nature and character of the Great Being, on whom all our hopes and happiness depend. How awful, my Brethren, are the facts thus presented to the mind! and yet how anxiously and constantly are they kept in the back ground, or the veil of forgetfulness thrown over them!

Look at the proud Rationalist, for instance—at the man who maintains the all-sufficiency of human reason, and spurns at the proffered teaching of the Spirit of God: Does not such a man forget, that, whatever may be the natural powers of the mind, they have not free and fair scope given them in the things of God and Eternity? Could he lift the veil which is wrapped round the invisible world, he would discover a Spirit, infinitely more willing and powerful to deceive, than himself to learn—and one of whose chief employments it is, to darken the avenues of truth, to dazzle or perplex the understanding, and to cheat it into conclusions destructive of present and eternal happiness. Is it not then right for every fallen creature to take the just measure of his circumstances, to remember the delusive medium in which he moves and acts, and to seek earnestly and devoutly the only light which can discover to him the stratagems of the enemy, and guide him into the path of truth?

A second feature, which is sure to present itself wherever the dominion of the Wicked One prevails, is SENSUALITY OR POLLUTION. Ye, says our Lord, are of your father the Devil; and the lusts of your father ye will do. It is equally, therefore, his office to kindle the fire of appetite and passion in the soul—to poison the well-spring of purity—to seduce us from the paths of temperance and chastity, and allure us into those of animal indulgence and voluptuous sensuality.

In like manner, CRUELTY is a feature of his terrible dominion. He is said to have been a Murderer from the beginning. A poor woman, who is described by the Evangelist as labouring under a dreadful disease, is said to be one whom Satan had bound these eighteen years. And the wretched creature, driven out into the tombs and raging under the anguish of disease in body and soul, is described as reduced by Satanic influence to that miserable condition.

These remarks on the Features and Character of the Empire of Satan, will assist us in considering the only additional point to which, under this head, I shall call your attention—the EXTENT of his dominion.

The Kingdom of the Wicked One may be regarded, in two distinct points of view, as either Visible or Invisible.

The Visible Kingdom of Satan may be said to exist wherever the true God is not recognized, wherever falsehood and superstition are established, and wherever the pollution and misery which flow from their dominion deform and defile the face of society. His Invisible Kingdom may be said to exist in those countries or hearts, in which, whatever be the outward profession of faith, the mind is subjected to the dominion of falsehood, lust, and cruelty; and is habitually conformed to the Law of Sin, instead of to the Law of God.

With these distinctions in our view, let us go forth into the world—and how large is the territory which appears to be more or less subjected to the power of the Devil! As however it is my object mainly to draw your attention to one particular province of this Empire, our notice of others must be brief.

Look, in the first place, at the regions of Mahomedanism. Consider the radical Errors, which that system involves—the Pollution, to which it ministers—and the Cruelties, by which its empire was originally gained, and has through all ages been sustained. Even the conflict of the last few months will attest, that this horrible fraud upon the understandings and consciences of mankind has lost little or nothing of its original ferocity—that its arches of triumph are still built with bones, and cemented with the tears and blood of human beings.

Look, next, at the hardened and pertinacious unbelief and corruptions of the Jews. It is by no means my wish to pass judgment on individuals. To their own Master they stand or fall. But I speak of Modern Judaism as a system; and of the general character of many of its professors. And, surely, it is not too much to say, that, in the corrupt and adulterate opinions of the Modern Jews, are to be found, though of course much qualified by the large infusion of Divine Truth derived from the Sacred Volume, many of the essential features of the Empire of Satan. The principle, on which their Creed, as opposed to the Gospel, is founded, involves perhaps the greatest of all errors—THE REJECTION OF THE SON OF GOD. He came unto his own; and his own received him not. And I need not say that the moral habits of large numbers among this unhappy people are by no means such, as to rescue them from the imputation of being led captive by this great enemy!

Look, next, at the regions of Popery. Far be it from me, either to imitate, or in the smallest degree to sanction, that intemperance of language, which is often, without the smallest discrimination, applied to the great body of Roman Catholics as individuals. Let us hope, that many individuals of that profession, who—according to the expression of Hooker, "hold the foundation," that is, "salvation by Christ alone"—are finding their way, even through the thick mists of falsehood and superstition, to the kingdom of God. "Many," says the same admirable writer, "are partakers of the error, which are not of the heresy, of the Church of Rome." But of Popery, as a SYSTEM, it is difficult to think without the deepest disapprobation and awe. In the lying wonders, which it propagates—in the license, which some of its principles and practices give to the bad passions and appetites of man—in the spirit of bigotry and bloodshed, by which it has too often been characterized—it seems to exhibit unequivocal features of an influence that is earthly, sensual, devilish. It is remarkable, also, that, in a passage in the Epistles, which it is difficult to apply to any class of Religionists except to the Church of Rome, their doctrines are expressly called the Doctrines of Devils.

Look, next, for a moment, at the state of opinion and practice among many of the professors of Protestantism. How numerous and capital are the Errors of some classes!—even denying the Lord who bought them, and trampling under foot the blood of the covenant. How terrible also is the Spirit of many, who hold a sounder creed! And, in a still larger class of professed believers, what an anxious and feverish pursuit of the world do we witness! how little of the mind which was in Christ Jesus—of the lowliness, and love, and rigid obedience, and self-denial, and self-devotion to every high and holy cause, which are the prominent features of that Lord, who is to be the model as well as the deliverer of His people!

But look next, and more especially, my Christian Brethren, at Heathenism, as it presents itself under its different aspects—either as disguised in the splendid and venerable mantle of Ancient Philosophy, or as unmasked and undisguised amidst all the horrors and atrocities of the Savages of New Zealand. I know it to be the habit of some, to give vent to their spleen against the Gospel, by bestowing gentle names on Heathenism—to call the various systems of Idolatrous Worship the "Religion of Nature"—to consider them as only an inferior modification of Truth—and to imagine that a man may almost as easily find his way to heaven by the bye-path of Idolatry, as by the new and living way, trodden by the feet of Saints and Martyrs, and consecrated by the blood of the Son of God.

But it is my own strong conviction—a conviction not adopted, I trust, in the spirit of exclusion, or without both a deep sense of my own liability to error, and an anxious desire to do justice to the opinions of others—that IDOLATRY, under whatever shape it may exist, is nothing more or less than the WORSHIP OF DEVILS.

But this is a statement, which deserves rather to become a matter of proof, than to rest upon mere assertion.

Look then, in the first place, at the Language of Scripture.

In the Book of Leviticus, the Lord Himself, when interdicting to His people the worship of Idols, says expressly, they shall no more offer their sacrifices unto Devils. Thus, also, in the Book of Deuteronomy, the Israelites, in their apostacy, are said to have sacrificed unto Devils, not to God. Jeroboam, in like manner, is said to have ordained him priests for the high places, and for the Devils. And, not to mention other passages in the New Testament, St. Paul, when speaking to the Corinthians, declares, in the most unequivocal language, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to Devils, and not to God.

Look, in the next place, at the general Features and Character of Idolatry.

Is Falsehood, as we have seen, one of the marks by which the Empire of Satan is to be recognized?—observe, then, the gross and pestilential errors and lies, which are more or less incorporated with every System of Idolatry—the monstrous fables, ordinarily connected with the origin of the various systems—the base and distorted conceptions, which they present, of the Supreme Being—the shameless impostures, which are palmed by the priests on the deluded worshippers. Observe, especially, the HABITS of Falsehood, which are grafted almost universally, by these different systems, on the character of the worshippers. "They are a race of people"—says a competent judge*, speaking of the worshippers under one of the most refined of these systems—"UTTER STRANGERS TO THE IDEA OF COMMON HONESTY." "A man must be long acquainted with them," says another witness of the highest authority†, "before he can conceive them capable of that barefaced falsehood which they daily practice." "An Englishman," says a third witness, "will be ever UNFIT to follow the SUBTLE Natives. Their character has little to distinguish it, except low cunning, deceit, and intrigue." Nor let the Hindoos be considered as thus false in opposition to their Creed: such falsehood is the natural and necessary fruit of a Creed, which, under many circumstances, expressly sanctions and enjoins a Lie.

In like manner, are Pollution and Sensuality to be classed among the ordinary evidences of the existence of the Empire of the Devil?—need I then go back to the horrible mysteries of Bacchus or Venus—mysteries of too atrocious a nature to be described, but into which, let it be remembered, the most distinguished individuals of antiquity considered it as a privilege and honour to be initiated! But the fact is, that this feature prevails to no less extent in almost every other System of Idolatry. The worship of India—as described by a writer‡, whose testimony comes to be every day more honoured, as it is more brought to the test of experience—is "far too licentious and polluted to allow of any delineation of it being presented to a Christian Congregation." It is sufficient for our purpose to state, that the grossest symbols of sensuality are unequivocally exhibited in a large number of the temples; and that the most solemn of the ceremonies of religion are constantly polluted, by rites of more than common obscenity and pollution.

* Holwell. † Lord Teignmouth.

‡ Rev. Dr. Claudius Buchanan.

Is Cruelty, a third feature by which the Religion of Devils is distinguished?—look then at the enormities in India—the bed of spikes, the hooks thrust through the integuments of the back, the burning of widows, the drowning of parents. Look at the practices of Obi in Africa—at the enormities in New Zealand—at the terrors of the ancient Druidical Worship in our own country—at the Human Sacrifices, so often adverted to in the Old Testament, and known to have prevailed at different periods from almost one end to the other of the regions of Idolatry. But it would be impossible, even if it were desirable, to dwell on these horrible and disgusting details. This one fact is to me decisive of the real character of Idolatrous Worship—it is, with little exception, addressed to a Being, who is the object, not of love, but of HATRED; not of confidence, but of TERROR: and that Being, who, with a nature superior to our own—invisible, spiritual, and indestructible—lives but to tempt, to demoralize, to afflict, and to destroy, is, in my judgment, THE DEVIL, whatever be the title under which his real character and office are veiled.

Such then, my Christian Brethren, is a slight sketch of that terrible Empire, to the consideration of which it was my first object to call your attention. And is it necessary for me to display the breadth and depth of the devastation, which, in the exercise of this awful dominion, the Great Enemy of the World has inflicted on the Creation of God? Search into whatever Quarter of the Globe you will, call whatever classes of Idolaters you please to the bar of an honest and scriptural judgment, and, at once, evidences of the reign of lies, sensuality, and blood, present themselves. Look, for example, at the various classes of Irrational Creatures, lashed on, as it would seem, by some invisible power, to annoy and torment one another. Look at the Mother, in India, suspending her children in branches of trees, to be devoured by birds of prey. Look at the horrors of the Slave Trade—that traffic, which is the curse of one Quarter of the Globe, and the disgrace and infamy, so far as they have been implicated in it, and are making no haste to escape from their guilt, of all the rest. Look at the fires of the Inquisition, lighted for the protection of ignorance and imposture, and for the destruction of every high, and holy, and valuable quality in the mind of man. Look, finally, at the real Servants of God, harassed by doubts, vexed with persecutions, seduced into offences which they detest and condemn, distracted in prayer, or stretched on the rack of superstitious alarm and disquietude. Such is the work of this fierce enemy—such the wounds which he inflicts on the heel of the Church—such the daily effects of HIS malignity, who, we are told, prompted the blow of the first fratricide, the denial and oaths of Peter, the treason of Judas, and the lie of Ananias and of his partner in guilt; and who, from day to day, is shedding a mildew on the fields of human existence, and mixing the ingredients and kindling the flames of that terrible furnace whose fiery deluge is perpetually wasting the paths of domestic peace and public prosperity.

But, my Brethren, I gladly escape from the contemplation of this gloomy picture to consider, II. The predicted OVERTHROW OF THE KINGDOM OF SATAN BY THE SON OF GOD—and I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

This overthrow, I need not say, is continually adverted to in Scripture; and is ordinarily ascribed to the Redeemer of the World, who, through the agency of His Spirit, shall judge, condemn, and finally destroy this general destroyer of the happiness of the human race. At the moment of the first transgression, it was declared that the Seed of the Woman should bruise the Serpent's head. It is afterwards said, that the Son of God was manifested that he might destroy the works of the Devil. In the Epistle to the Hebrews, it is added, that He took upon him our nature, that, through death, he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the Devil. And, in the Book of the Revelation, He is described as coming with all the armies of heaven—as treading the wine-press of Almighty wrath—and as driving down, with irresistible arm, the Great Enemy into the lake of fire burning with brimstone.

It is my wish, my Christian Brethren, under the present head, to call your attention, as briefly as I am able—

To the Success already obtained by the Son of God, over the power of the Wicked One—

To the Present State of His work—and

To the complete Victory, which will eventually be gained.

1. In the first place, we are to consider WHAT HAS BEEN ALREADY ACCOMPLISHED.

No sooner had Satan made his first attack on the welfare of man, than the prediction, as we have seen, was issued, that the Seed of the Woman should bruise his head. Immediately, the fulfilment of the promise began to take place;—and an implacable enmity to the Devil and his works was planted in the hearts of the real servants of God. When, at later periods, the Great Enemy had made the most formidable inroads upon human happiness and virtue, the Lord, in a conspicuous manner, laid bare the arm of His vengeance in opposition to this implacable adversary: He broke up the fountains of the great deep, and, at once, destroyed all the subjects of Satan: He afterward deluged the guilty cities of the plain with fire; and overwhelmed the idolaters of Egypt in the Red Sea.

It was at this moment, that the peculiar scheme adopted for the preservation of True Religion began more especially to develop itself. It pleased the Lord to collect together a peculiar people, with whom he might deposit the Oracles of Truth, and the glorious promises of the Saviour who was to come. By a series of the most astonishing miracles, in the desert, or wherever the interests of His people were endangered, He, as it were, lifted up the awful standard of His wrath; and, with the sword bathed in heaven, hewed to pieces the enemies of Religion. In the further accomplishment of this plan, He has, through the succession of ages, preserved this chosen people: though scourged by His anger, they have been protected by His power; and, like the bush surrounded by the sacred fire, they have remained unconsumed, though encompassed by the elements of destruction.

But it was at the period to which the text particularly adverts, the period of the Crucifixion of the Son of God, that the most marked display of the power of the Saviour took place. At once, on His appearance, the lying Oracles of Heathenism were silenced. The Devils were cast out of the bodies of men. The Spirit of the Lord descended, in a visible form, on the Church. Unheard-of powers, and almost equally unknown graces and qualities, were communicated to the followers of the Redeemer. And, armed with this power and with these qualities, they went forth conquering and to conquer. A few simple and uneducated men subdued the world. They planted the Cross, not only on the shores of India, but probably in these last islands of the West—on the wild and inhospitable coasts of Africa, and even in the polished Capital of the Empire. And, such was the rapidity of the march of True Religion, that, before long, the sacred banner floated over the ruins of Idolatry in almost every part of the known world.

It is true, that the corruptions of many of these countries have, as it were, revoked the mercies of God, and restored the awful dominion of darkness, pollution, and misery. Nevertheless the Church has been preserved—the sacred lamp has not been suffered to go out—the prayer of contrition and the song of praise and joy have never ceased to arise—the Ordinances of the Gospel, its Rites and its Sacraments have been perpetuated—and the prediction has been accomplished to the Church, that the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against it.

And consider, my Christian Brethren, the astonishing display of the power of the Redeemer, which is involved in the creation and maintenance of a SINGLE Church of true believers. It is something, to establish the exterior Church—to throw down the Pagoda, and to erect the Temple on its ruins—to cleanse the Pantheon of its images, and to introduce the single and exclusive altar of the True God—to sweep, from a large division of the earth, rites of obscenity and blood, and to substitute the simple and pure Ordinances of the Gospel. But all this is little in comparison with the act by which a single soul is really convinced of its guilt, and led, humble and believing, to the Cross of the Saviour. How astonishing is the change, by which one heart is translated, from the power of darkness, into the kingdom of the Son of God!—by which it is prompted to cast down the arms of its rebellion, indifference, and worldliness; and to submit, gratefully and joyfully, to the righteousness and dominion of the Son of God! How many are the idols which it then casts to the moles and the bats! What a renunciation of old habits, and creation of new ones, takes place!

And tell us, ye Ministers of the Lord—by whom is this astonishing victory accomplished? I would put it to yourselves, whether, in the endeavour to bring souls to God, every merely human weapon has not broken short in your grasp.

Tell us, also, ye convinced Hearers of the Word —Is not this work evidently and palpably of God? Is not the hand, without which was not any thing made that was made, the only hand competent to render you a child of God? Tell us, whether it is not by the exhibition of Christ, as He is lifted up on the Cross for sinners, that this change has been accomplished? Say whether, when the mere terrors of the Law were displayed to you, the heart did not wrap itself closer in the mantle of indifference or self-righteousness; and whether it was not under the soft beam of the Gospel that your soul melted, and you threw away every incumbrance in order to reach the feet and cling to the bosom of your Crucified Lord? I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me

2. But consider, secondly, WHAT IS NOW DOING toward the accomplishment of this great work.

Our own days, my Christian Brethren, certainly exhibit many evidences of the progress of the Gospel, which would be in vain sought for in the history of other periods of the world.

Consider, for instance, the rapid Extension of the Kingdom of Christ—its recent conquests in the three Quarters of the Globe, which have been hitherto abandoned to Idolatry.

Consider, also, the Genuine Quality of the Religion propagated by modern Missionaries—a religion, I may confidently say, not any longer, as in the days of Popery, a spurious Christianity, exhibiting the forms, but neglecting the spirit of the Gospel; not merely a corrected Heathenism, but a genuine Protestantism; not merely a rectified Morality, but the genuine Gospel—a religion moulded in the form, and breathing the very spirit of the Faith, which Jesus sealed with His own precious blood.

Consider, again, the astonishing Increase of the Missionary Spirit—and this increase, especially, in a country possessing the Gospel in its purest form—furnished with the greatest facilities for its promulgation, whose ships cover the seas, and whose sceptre sways so immense a portion of the known world.

Call to mind, next, that spirit of Union and Love so widely diffused in our own times and country; under whose sacred influence the hostility of the various bodies of professing Christians is so much softened, that those better days may seem to be dawning of which it is said,—they shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain.

Add to these, the consideration of the perfectly novel fact, that the Missionary, by the aid of that wonder of modern times, the Bible Society, goes no longer into the benighted regions of Idolatry without that Word of the Lord, which is the depositary of the truths and the promises that he has to announce—that, in fact, the Book of God ordinarily, as a herald, precedes his march, and hews for him a passage through those dark mountains on which the feet of his predecessors so frequently stumbled.

Consider, also, the astonishing progress of Education, in our own country, and in other Christian Nations—and a species of education, which, generally speaking, promises to add most largely to the company of faithful Missionaries of the Gospel of Christ.

Call to mind, moreover, the more Universal Character of the Missionary Efforts of these days—efforts embracing our Antipodes, with one hand, and, with the other, ministering to the wants of that Ancient People of God, who, though dwelling in this and other European Countries, have been so long shut out from the common privileges of the species—so long scorned and abused by those, who had in part been themselves the guilty authors of the very degradation and pollution of which they complained.

Consider, lastly, the Growth of real Scriptural Religion—of the habits of solitary and united prayer; of prayer especially for the all-powerful influence of that Spirit, by whom the Prince of this world is to be judged—of devout attachment to the great doctrine referred to in the text, the Crucifixion of the Son of God for the sins of the world. CHRIST is preached: and I therein do rejoice, yea, and I will rejoice—holding it as an unquestionable truth, that no longer and no further than the Lord is displayed on the Cross as the only and all-sufficient refuge of the guilty and the miserable, will the dominion of Satan be weakened, and the empire of sound morals and genuine religion be extended in the world. Eloquence, my Brethren, will, of itself, do little for the accomplishment of these great objects. Human reason, learning, or even the truths of morality, if employed alone, will perish as the withs in the hand of the strong man. And the contenders with these mere human weapons will, in the end, as the just penalty for their presumption, be scattered as the chaff before the whirlwind; or be left as imperishable monuments of that deadly infatuation, which tempts men to fight the battle of religion with any other than the weapons of the Lord.

3. But, my Brethren, it is necessary to pass on, from this almost inexhaustible topic, to notice the third point to which I proposed to direct your attention—the COMPLETE OVERTHROW of the Kingdom of Satan, which we are permitted to anticipate.

And, here, although the rapid progress of this great work in these latter ages of itself supplies strong ground for the anticipation of a day of more complete victory; yet all such conjectures are worse than useless, while we have the Volume of Truth and its ample predictions in our hand.

Ascend, then, ye doubting or impatient Servants of the Lord, the mount of Prophecy, and behold the bright scenes which unfold themselves to you. Ask of me, says your God, and I will give thee the Heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession—There shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people: to it shall the Gentiles seek—I have sworn by myself, and the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return, That to me every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall swear—I will give thee a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayst be my salvation to the ends of the earth—The God of Heaven shall set up a Kingdom, which shall never be destroyed; and it shall break in pieces and consume all these Kingdoms; and it shall stand for ever.

But, my Brethren, WHY should I multiply quotations so familiar to many here present, and which are sprinkled over the Scripture as profusely as the stars over the face of Heaven? Let me, rather, pass away from this obvious though delightful subject to add a few such PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS as may seem to be best suited to our present circumstances.

1. And here, in the first place, if the fact be unquestionable, to the establishment of which so much of this Discourse has been directed, that there is an empire upon earth of which Satan is the anxious, powerful, and malignant protector, then WHY SHOULD ANY MAN BE ASTONISHED TO FIND ALMOST INNUMERABLE OBSTACLES AND ENEMIES TO THE PROSECUTION OF THE MISSIONARY CAUSE?

Other movements of the servants of God may or may not be of a nature to assail any strong-hold in the empire of the Prince of this World; but the Missionary Enterprize may be considered as an assault, at once open and direct, at the very heart of its citadel. Is it not then to be expected, that an enemy so fierce, powerful, and implacable, will resist such an attack? Although, therefore, I would be far from considering the whole of the opposition to the Institution whose cause I am now pleading, or to similar Institutions, as originating in so terrible an influence as that with which we are here concerned; and would, on the contrary, freely ascribe a portion of such hostility to mere misapprehension on the part of the enemies of these Societies, and another portion to the defects of their advocates: yet, it is obvious, from the foregoing statement, that much of this hostility ought to be assigned to the direct influence of that Malignant Spirit, of whom the Missionary Cause is the natural and avowed enemy. Is the Spirit of Evil, an accuser of the brethren?—then have we a right to expect railing accusation against his opposers. Is he the father of lies?—then we may expect to be pursued by the grossest falsehoods and calumnies. Was he a murderer from the beginning?—then have we reason to anticipate severity, persecution, and every species of violence by which unmeasured and unwearied malignity can prosecute its object. Has he a direct interest in weakening the hands or alienating the hearts of the friends of Missions?—then may we expect temptations to grow weary in well-doing, to magnify difficulties, to multiply dangers, to associate all that is honest and vigorous in religion with fanaticism, and to identify that which is languid and useless with sound sense and manly discretion. But, my Brethren, if the Soldier in an ordinary warfare would be contemptible, who, having marched to encounter the enemy, should abandon his colours the instant that the enemy presented himself, it is surely no less unworthy of the Soldier of the Cross to quit the field, because the very Enemy appears, whose absence would at once demonstrate the cause to be too bad or too weak to demand his interference. Has not the Wicked One, as well as we ourselves, heard the declaration, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven?—and will he not endeavour to shackle the hand, which would assist to pluck him from his usurped throne, to extinguish his glory, and to hurl him down to the pit, the smoke of which ascendeth for ever and ever? Instead, then, of shrinking from the hostility of this deadly foe to the Church of Christ, welcome it as a token for good, and as the pledge of future and everlasting triumph!

2. But, secondly, let the nature and power of the Adversary to whom we are opposed instruct us as TO THE NATURE OF THE WEAPONS BY WHICH WE ARE TO ENCOUNTER HIM.

Is he, for example, an enemy both subtle and malignant?—then let our efforts be commensurate to the urgency of the case. Away with all lazy resolves—all half measures—all niggardly contributions—all petty objections, as to the past—all remote and fanciful conjectures, as to the future. Go forward, as those who have every thing at stake: pour the whole heart into the act: enter on the conflict, as men familiar with its difficulties, and eager to pursue the enemy even to the very den of his iniquities and horrors. If the trumpet give an uncertain sound, how is the Church of the Lord to prepare itself for the battle? Cry aloud, then, ye Ministers of the Lord, lest the armies of the Saints slumber in the trenches when the Ark of God is in jeopardy. Awake, awake, ye Followers of the Lamb! for He, who has on His head the golden crown, and in His hand the two-edged sword, is gone forth to meet the foe: and he shall reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

3. But is the Adversary whom we have to encounter a Spiritual Adversary?—then, remember, that IT IS ONLY BY AN AGENCY, like his own, SPIRITUAL AND INVISIBLE, THAT WE CAN HOPE EFFECTUALLY TO CONTEND WITH HIM.

The language of Scripture is express on this point. We wrestle not, not merely, against flesh and blood, but against principalities and powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places—WHEREFORE, take unto you the whole armour of God. Every other defence is unsuited to the awful conflict. While, therefore, my Brethren, we would anxiously call upon you this day for every other kind of assistance which you are able to render to this high cause—for your money, your personal exertions, your hearts, and your hands—we call upon you, especially, for your ardent, anxious, and believing PRAYERS, that the all-conquering Spirit of God "would come among us, and with great might succour us"—that He would drive from earth the foe, whom He has already expelled from heaven; and would chain him, even now, to the lake of fire, in which he is to suffer for ever. We have already seen, that the multiplication of prayers for the influences of the Spirit of Grace is to be considered among those Signs of the Times which promise a future triumph to the servants of God. Such prayers are, indeed, the very sinews of this arduous warfare. Multiply them—and the cause is safe. Cherish in your own heart, among the members of your family, in your neighbourhood, in your congregation, the spirit of devout supplication; and the voice of prayer, like the shouts of the armies of Joshua, shall shake the strong-hold of the Empire of Satan to its foundations. And how consolatory is the fact, that, THUS, the weakest, the most unlearned, the poor palsied or bed-ridden Soldier of the Cross, may carry the war into the very camp of the enemy, and plant the banner of Salvation on the deserted and detested ramparts of the implacable Adversary of God and Man!

4. And, lastly, let the language of the text instruct us, as to the PECULIAR CHARACTER WHICH IS TO BE STAMPED ON EVERY EFFORT IN THIS GREAT CAUSE—I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

Hear this, ye Desponding Servants of the Lord; and, having followed, without success, the march of other leaders, now follow Him whose banner over you is love, and who hath on his vesture, and on his thigh a Name written, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.

Hear it, ye Ministers of the Altar; and, while you endeavour to rouze your hearers to every honest exertion in this high cause, instruct them that they can conquer only by fighting in the name and strength of Him, who hath loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood.

Hear it those, of whom I would venture to hope there are not a few in this Assembly, who are about to dedicate themselves as Missionaries to the service of their Crucified Lord. Remember on what the efficacy of your labours must depend. Say of the Doctrine of the Cross, whatever be the other instruments proposed for the conflict—Give me that: there is none like that! You go forth, indeed, to a conflict, perhaps with all the fury of the elements, and assuredly with the malignity of him who gives to every hostile weapon a new power and a keener edge—with our great adversary the Devil. But, be strong, and of good courage. The Lord, who has called you to the contest, has promised to be with you always, even to the end of the world:

and of this conflict it is said, They shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them; for he is Lord of Lords, and King of Kings.

And, finally, I may apply this clause of the text to the particular Institution, whose humble advocate I am to-day. If I am able, in pleading the cause of the Church Missionary Society, to persuade myself that I am fulfilling the commands of the Master whom we serve; if I am able, with solemn importunity to beseech all who hear me largely and liberally to minister to its wants, and to sustain, by renewed exertion, the impulse which has been given to its labours; it is mainly on THIS ground, that NO Institution has been more loyal and true to the great FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE OF MISSIONARY EXERTION—that of regarding the Cross of Christ as the instrument by which the Kingdom of Satan is to be heaved from its deep foundations. Look, my Brethren, at the Rules and Principles of this Institution—look at the Instructions and Addresses which it has given to its Missionaries—look at the Doctrines which have been promulgated by these Missionaries. If they have hoped to conquer, has it not been by the blood of the Lamb?

And, while I thus call on the supporters of the Institution to give their sanction to rules and proceedings such as these, I must also be permitted to say to the Administrators of the Society—Let nothing tempt you to abandon the ground which you have hitherto so faithfully occupied. Stoop to no lower object. Wield no less ethereal weapon. Never enlist a soldier in your ranks, who will not follow you to the foot of the Cross. Reject and abhor those temporizing and unholy counsels, by which you have been recommended to secularize your proceedings, to bow yourselves to the standard of a corrupt world, and to multiply your nominal converts by lowering the test of conversion.

But, my Christian Brethren, I must bring these observations to a close. Allow me, however, in conclusion, to congratulate you on the prosperity, which has, during the past year, been granted to your Institution—to implore you, with humility and prostration of soul, to trace this prosperity to its right source, in the mercy and might of your Lord—to beseech you to carry to the solemnities of the week, in which the Anniversaries of this and similar Institutions are to be celebrated, the spirit of men who are such immeasurable debtors to the Divine Compassion—to express my heart's desire that the love of that Lord, whom you are thus anxious to proclaim to others, may be shed abroad abundantly in your own souls; and that His presence may animate you in life, and cheer and sustain you amidst the agonies of dissolving nature.

And, finally, let me direct the eye of every doubting and faultering Soldier in this holy enterprize to that Volume of Inspiration, in which the Prophet of remote ages spoke to the believer of all times and all countries—I saw in the night-visions, and behold, one like unto the Son of Man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of Days; and they brought him near before him: and there was given him dominion, and glory, and a KINGDOM, that all people, nations, and languages should serve him: HIS dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away; and HIS kingdom that which shall not be destroyed. (Dan. vii. 13, 14.)

COMMITTEE.

DELIVERED, IN SUBSTANCE, TO THE ANNUAL MEETING,

HELD MAY 6, 1823,

AT FREEMASONS' HALL, GREAT QUEEN STREET.

REPORT,

THE Twenty-third Year of the Society's Proceedings having been brought to a close, the Committee will now lay before the Members as brief a view of the whole as the extent and variety of the transactions will allow; and will begin, as on former occasions, with reporting the state of its FUNDS.

EXERTIONS OF FRIENDS.

In visiting the Associations, the labour has chiefly fallen, as usual, among the Officers of the Society, on the Assistant Secretary; the Secretary's other engagements in its affairs having allowed of his visiting no Associations beyond the vicinity of the Metropolis, except those of Cambridge, Bath, and Bristol, and assisting at the formation of one at Maidstone for the County of Kent.

From a few days after the last Anniversary of the Society till about the middle of June, the Assistant Secretary was occupied in some of the Midland and Northern Counties: in this journey, he attended the Anniversaries of the Leicestershire, Lincoln, Gainsborough, Hull, York, Leeds, Doncaster, Retford, Bradford, Huddersfield, Manchester and East-Lancashire, Liverpool and West-Lancashire, Cheshire, and North-Staffordshire Associations; and the formation of Associations at Halifax, Keighley, and Warrington. After assisting at the Anniversary at Staines in the end of June, and the formation of the Kent Association in the beginning of July, he spent from about the middle of that month till nearly the end of August, chiefly in visiting other Associations to the Northward: having attended the Anniversary of the Village Association of Paston near Peterborough, he assisted at those of Sheffield, Rotherham, Derbyshire, Stafford, Dudley, Shropshire, Yoxall, Bewdley, Birmingham, and Tamworth. In the middle of September, he attended the South Bucks Anniversary at High Wycombe, and that of Berkshire at Reading, with the formation of a separate Association at Faringdon. In March of the present year, after assisting at the Clapham Anniversary, he accompanied the Secretary and other friends to Bath and Bristol: but Passion Week intervening, the visit could not be extended, this year, to Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester, according to the plan, mentioned in the last Report, of including, when practicable, these Five Cities in one journey. Returning, therefore, to London, and attending at the beginning of April the Bromley and Beckenham Anniversary, the Assistant Secretary visited, in the course of that month, the Gloucestershire and Worcester Associations, preached at Monmouth, attended the Hereford Anniversary and that for Chichester and West Sussex, assisted at the formation of the Portsmouth Association and at the Fifth Anniversary of the Cambridge, and is just returned from attending the Anniversary of the Guildford.

In the First of these Journeys to the North, the Assistant Secretary was accompanied, at the request of the Committee, by the Rev. Francis Cunningham, the Rev. Thomas Mortimer, and the Rev. S. C. E. Neville; and, in the Second, by the Rev. George Hodson: he received also much aid from other friends in these Journeys and on other occasions, as will be seen in the following enumeration of the places at which each attended:—The Rev. R. P. Beachcroft, at Ipswich and in its vicinity—the Rev. Edward Burn, at Newcastle-under-Line and Bewdley—the Rev. Samuel Carr, at Norwich—the Rev. J. W. Cunningham, on the same occasion—the Rev. Francis Cunningham, at Colchester, Hull, York, Leeds, Doncaster, Retford, Bradford, Huddersfield, Halifax, Manchester, Preston, Lancaster, Liverpool, and Warrington—the Rev. Fountain Elwin, at Gloucester and in its vicinity—the Rev. Professor Farish, at Bedford—the Rev. T. Rock Garnsey, in the Forest-of-Dean and at Hereford—the Rev. George Hodson, at Sheffield, Rotherham, Derby and in its neighbourhood, Stafford, Dudley, and Birmingham—the Rev. Professor Lee, at Bedford—the Rev. W. Marsh, at Chichester and Portsmouth—the Rev. Thomas Mortimer, at Colchester; at Leicester and in its neighbourhood, at Lincoln, Gainsborough, Hull, York, Pontefract, and Leeds; and at Ipswich and in its vicinity—the Rev. S. C. E. Neville, at Hull, York, Doncaster, Bradford, Huddersfield, Manchester, Preston, Lancaster, Liverpool, Warrington, Chester, and Newcastle-under-Line; and at Kirkby-Lonsdale, and in the Isle of Man—Hon. and Rev. G. T. Noel, at Sunderland and Newcastle-on-Tyne; and at Maidstone—the Rev. H. Palmer (Second Chaplain of Sierra Leone), at Sunderland and Newcastle-on-Tyne; at Leicester and in its neighbourhood, and at Dudley and Birmingham—the Hon. and Rev. Lyttleton Powys, at Birmingham and Tamworth—the Rev. Thomas Robertson, at Cambridge—the Rev. James Scholefield, at Bedford; at Ipswich and in its neighbourhood; and at Norwich—the Rev. W. Spooner, at Leicester and in its vicinity; at Ashbourne, Shrewsbury, Whittington, Yoxall, Birmingham, and Tamworth—the Rev. J. H. Stewart, at High Wycombe and Reading; at Ipswich and in its vicinity, and at Norwich; and at Bath and Bristol—the Rev. Dr. Thorpe, at Bath and Bristol—and the Rev. Thomas Webster, at High Wycombe, Reading, and Faringdon.

While the Assistant Secretary and his friends were engaged in the Second Journey to the North, the Rev. Henry Tacy and the Rev. Henry Berkin entered, in the latter part of July, at the request of the Committee, on a visit to the Society's Associations in the West and South. Having attended the Anniversaries at Yeovil, Taunton, Wellington, and Plymouth-Dock, they proceeded into Cornwall, where Meetings of the Penryn, Falmouth, and Helston Associations were held—New Associations formed at Truro, Cambourne, and Liskeard—and Sermons preached in various places. At Exeter, on their return from Cornwall, the Deputation were joined by the Rev. Daniel Wilson: the Anniversaries of the Devon and Exeter Association with its Branches having been attended, and those of Bridgwater and Weymouth, Mr. Berkin returned home, and Mr. Tacy and Mr. Wilson sailed for the Channel Islands, where they assisted, in the latter part of August, at the Anniversaries of the Guernsey and Jersey Associations.

The Rev. Henry Düring, whose return to this country for the recovery of his health was noticed in the last Report, attended the Meetings held at the following places, with great advantage:—Blackheath, Birmingham, Tamworth, High Wycombe, Reading, Faringdon, Ipswich and its vicinity, and Norwich.

The Committee have thus to express their thanks, as in former years, for the very kind and efficient aid, which has, by these different friends, been rendered to the Assistant Secretary in visiting the various Associations; and they earnestly request of every Clergyman, and of all other persons of influence, anxious for the prosperity of the Society, that they will, in every practicable way, promote the formation of New Associations, and the productiveness and efficiency of those which are already established. The Society's numerous Associations require a regular course of visiting, which it is now found impracticable to maintain, even with all the help of friends, without an increase in the number of its Officers: in the meanwhile, large districts of the country offer themselves to the hand of the cultivator, at present nearly wholly unproductive to the Society for want of Labourers.

The Committee have to lament the death of one of their active Members—William Blair, Esq. He assisted at the formation of the Society, and became a Member of its Committee in its Fifth Year, and continued so, with the exception of a few years, till his death: He departed this life, with a hope full of glory, on the 6th of December*.

NEW ASSOCIATIONS.

To the Associations formed previously to the last Anniversary have been added New Associations—at Halifax, and at Keighley, in Yorkshire; at Maidstone, for the County of Kent; at Truro, at Cambourne, and at Liskeard, in Cornwall; and at Portsmouth, for Portsmouth, Portsea, and Gosport.

At Warrington, a Branch has been formed in aid of the Liverpool and West-Lancashire Association: at Blackheath, the Ladies' Association, which had been in operation for upward of six years and had raised more than 800*l.*, has been enlarged into a General Association in support of that of the County: and at Faringdon, on the borders of Berkshire, an Association collects contributions from friends in several neighbouring Counties.

Ladies' Associations have been formed—at Chester, in aid of the County Association—at Teignmouth, in aid of the Teignmouth Branch—and at Bath, in aid of the Bath Association.

On the increase and local situation of Associations, the Committee of one in the vicinity of the Metropolis remark—

> The Committee feel assured, that the Members of this Association rejoice with them at the formation of New Associations in various parts of the United Kingdom. Of these Associations it is worth while remarking the relative position as given in the Report: from Chichester in the South, we proceed to Sunderland and Shields in almost the extreme North: from thence, through Darlington, we trace the line Westerly to Ireland: from Ireland, we return through North Wales; and, in a South-Easterly direction, through Somersetshire to the Metropolis. A pleasing evidence is hereby afforded, that a growing interest in the Cause of Missions is pervading the whole circuit of the country.

* An Obituary of Mr. Blair is printed in the Missionary Register for February.

MEANS OF INCREASING THE NUMBER AND EFFICIENCY OF ASSOCIATIONS.

The Committee remark with thankfulness, that the Meetings held on behalf of the Society have been more numerous than in any former year, and the Associations generally more productive.

The Society would have been involved in various difficulties, had it not been for this increased spirit of zeal and liberality, as its expenditure necessarily increases with the growing extent of its Missions.

It becomes then an important consideration for all the friends of this great work—how funds may be raised, in some degree adequate to support those exertions among the Heathen for which their spiritual wants so urgently call.

The valuable disquisitions of Dr. Chalmers have shewn the power of locality, in reference to benevolent plans; and the Committee are anxious to avail themselves, to the utmost, of this power. Such just claims, indeed, have Missions now established on the support of the humane, for the temporal benefits which they confer on multitudes, that though the higher principle of religious duty may be but partially acknowledged, the way is opened for a general appeal to the inhabitants within the sphere of an Association; and it cannot be doubted, that an application from house to house throughout a district, where no local objections may render such an application inexpedient, and after an adequate circulation of intelligence, would be attended with the most beneficial results.

Circumstances have hitherto prevented the Representatives of the Committee from devoting that portion of time, in visiting the Associations, to each particular neighbourhood, which they found would be requisite to its full efficiency; as, from conversation with various friends on the spot, they are convinced that it would much promote the interests of the Society, to give more time to each place, and to have more Meetings than one General Meeting.

In all large and populous places there should be a Public Meeting, in the middle of the day, for such persons on the spot and from the vicinity as it may then suit to attend. Another Meeting, designed more particularly for the Labouring Class, should be held in the evening; and, in the largest towns, perhaps two or three Evening Meetings, each comprehending two or three districts or parishes, and a more select meeting of the Collectors.

Many of the Society's friends have intimated the advantage of holding the Association Anniversaries on fixed days, like the Anniversary of the Parent Society. If this can be generally accomplished, it will greatly diminish the difficulty of making arrangements, and will enable the Parent Society to provide visitors with much more facility.

The Committee beg to recommend to the Committees and Officers of the various Associations some considerations relative to their steady and increasing efficiency, which experience has shewn to be of great importance.

It must ever be remembered by the friends of the Society, that OCCASIONS OF DECAY are inseparable from all Associations for benevolent purposes. The death of some contributors, the removal of others to distant parts, and the inability of a third class from a change of circumstances to continue their accustomed aid—these are occasions of defalcation to which, without any diminution of zeal, and interest in the cause, all Associations are exposed. But to these must be added, the constant tendency of the fallen mind to a diminished feeling of interest in the salvation of mankind and of zeal for the glory of Christ.

There are suitable REMEDIES against these evils: and the Committee venture to press on all the Society's friends a vigilant and religious regard to these remedies.

The first and capital remedy is undoubtedly the rectification of the heart. If the heart be alive to our infinite obligations to serve God in the Gospel of His Son, by promoting to our utmost the salvation of every human being, all the rest will naturally and easily follow. And this state of the heart must be cherished in ourselves and others, by a diligent attention to the records of the state of the Heathen and of the work of God among them, which are daily multiplying upon us; and by fervent prayer, in our closets, in our families, in our social circles, and in solemn and stated meetings for that purpose.

Awakened to a due sense of the duty and blessedness of promoting this great cause, a vigilant eye will frequently survey its neighbours, with the view of discovering among them some or other, who may be added to the list of stated Contributors, according to their means. The establishment of Strangers within the range of the Association will never pass unnoticed: such persons may have contributed in the places of their former residence, or the subject may never have been brought before them. And as while, in the order of Divine Providence, some willing contributors may find with sorrow their means diminished, other contributors will be increasing in the power of doing good; such persons should be reminded, in every proper and becoming way, to render to the Lord according to His goodness to them.

The Clergy may engage in this work with peculiar propriety and advantage: and the Committee venture to suggest to them, that the topics which they have noticed, and others of a similar nature, frequently adverted to in their Pastoral Ministrations, could not fail, with the Divine Blessing, to operate powerfully as a remedy against that tendency to decay and deterioration in good undertakings to which the Committee have alluded.

LEGACIES.

Notice of the following Legacies has been received during the year:—

Mr. George Bent, late of Great Claybrooke, Leicestershire—The sum of 10*l.*

Mrs. Elizabeth Eglington, late of Coventry—The sum of 100*l.*

Mr. Samuel Green, late of York—The sum of 19*l.* 19*s.*

Mr. Thomas Mann*, late of St. Catharine's by the Tower, London—The sum of 100*l.* 3 per Cents.

* The Committee think it right to state some particulars relative to this worthy friend of the Society. Mr. Mann was a Waterman, on the Thames. By hard labour and economical habits, he acquired, in the course of a long life, a considerable sum of money. But his mind was not contracted thereby. Religion had its due influence upon him. He was always ready to relieve the distressed; and after the death of his father, he supported his mother and sisters by his industry. His character was honourable, in all things, to his Christian profession: it was so well known on the River, that he had acquired the name of "The Honest Waterman." He has left liberal Legacies to various Religious Societies, besides a considerable sum to his relatives.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE.

It is ground of congratulation and thankfulness, that, under the circumstances which have been stated, and considering the pressure of difficulties which has continued through the year, the Income of the Society still holds on its steady rate of increase. In its Twenty-second Year, the Income, without deducting the expenses incurred on account of the Associations, amounted to about 34,000*l.: that of the Twenty-third Year, just brought to a close, reckoned in the same way, has advanced to 35,000*l.*

The steady rate of the Society's increase has just been mentioned. That rate of progress has been greatly augmented during the last ten Years, chiefly in consequence of the establishment of Associations—the Income of the Society in its Thirteenth Year having been 3000*l.*; while in its Fourteenth, the formation of Associations, which had their origin chiefly in the zeal awakened throughout the country for opening India to Christianity, the Income rapidly rose to a gross amount of nearly 12,000*l.*, not deducting the expenses attending the Associations.

It will be satisfactory to the Members to review the course in which the Society has been led; as this review will sufficiently indicate the guidance of the Divine Hand.

The first Thirteen Years of the Society may be considered, for the reasons just given, as its state of infancy: it has been since gradually acquiring strength and developing powers, which will one day, it may be hoped, arrive, under the blessing of God, at such maturity as may enable the Society to achieve

* In order to distinguish more clearly the available from the gross Income of the Society, not only will the various incidental charges incurred on account of the Associations continue to be deducted as heretofore, from the aggregate amount of their contributions before they are brought to account, but the expense also of supplying to such Associations the requisite copies of the Missionary Register and of the Quarterly Papers.

its full portion of that conquest over the Empire of Darkness and Sin, which awaits the combined efforts of all the true Members of the Church of Christ.

The whole Income of these first Thirteen Years was little more than 22,000*l.*—the Income of the last year, alone, has been, as already stated, 35,000*l.*

The average annual Income of each of these Thirteen Years was a little more than 1700*l.*—that of each of the last Ten Years has been upward of 25,500*l.*

In reference to the subject of the Society's Income, there is a fact to be stated, which deserves attention. The amount of interest on stock annually received, will serve as a criterion of the proportion which the Expenditure has borne to the Income. On a careful investigation of this point it appears that the Society never had since it began to send out Missionaries, and has not at this moment, more funds in hand than would serve to discharge its actual obligations on account of its Missions in various parts of the world. And yet it has never been put to any difficulty in discharging the obligations which it had contracted; nor has it been withheld, merely by the want of funds, from entering on any very promising undertaking brought before its Committees. The Committee state this fact as a ground of thankfulness to Almighty God, that He has enabled the Society to proceed with such an equal and steady course.

Promising fields of labour are, indeed, opening on every side; and a far larger sum might be profitably expended in promoting the Conversion of the Heathen, than is as yet placed at the Society's disposal: the Missions already formed, particularly those in Africa and India, are beginning to ask for more funds to enable them to extend their exertions: the Committee beg, therefore, to urge on all the Society' friends every practicable exertion to increase its means of usefulness.

Before the Committee pass to another topic, they wish to make some remarks on a subject which is intimately connected with that of the Society's Income and Expenditure.

They have ever considered the Publications periodically circulated by the Society, not so much in the light of a mere expense connected with its management, as in that of an efficient instrument in awakening and cherishing that Missionary Spirit, which is vital to the best interests and highest success of the Society. They are nevertheless anxious, now that the records of Missionary Proceedings unavoidably occupy a considerable space, to reduce the expense within the most practicable limit.

It will be seen, that the size of the present Annual Volume is considerably diminished without giving up any integral part of the usual contents, whether the Sermon, Report, Appendix, or List of Contributors; as the Committee have found, on very extensive inquiry, that the omission of any one of these would be objectionable to a great number of the Members.

They request, therefore, that the Committees and Officers of the Associations will be pleased annually to ascertain, about the time of each Anniversary of the Society, what number of Reports will satisfy the wishes of the Members of their respective bodies—in no case withholding copies from those who are entitled to them by the Society's Regulations, where the possession of them is desired; but providing only for such economy in the distribution of them, as may be consistent with a due regard to cherishing and encreasing the Missionary Spirit. And the Committee further request, that a vigilant eye may be kept on the copies of the Missionary Register and Quarterly Papers received from the Society, that the due returns may be made for them, wherever practicable, by the Collectors of 2*l*. 12*s*. and upward per annum, and by the Contributors of one penny and upward per week.

The Committee notice with pleasure that the suggestion offered to the Associations in the last Report, of adopting Sheet Reports instead of the pamphlet form, has been acted upon in a number of instances; and they doubt not but that it will be pursued by other Associations, where local circumstances will allow it. It is obvious that a saving of expense, which may appear small in the case of a single Association, becomes of importance, when it pervades hundreds of Associations.

The Committee have much satisfaction, also, in witnessing the different methods adopted in the more brief Reports of the Associations, to awaken attention to the details of the Society's Proceedings, without occupying such space and so entering into particulars as to supersede the Parent Report. In the Report of one Association, for instance, the Society's proceedings during the Year are collected under a few general heads, with pertinent remarks on them; while, in another, brief observations are made on the proceedings, in the order in which they occur in the Report and the corresponding parts of the Appendix, with a notification of the pages where the matters remarked on may be found. It is obvious that either of these methods will be likely to answer the valuable end of leading the Members to an intelligent use of the Annual Publication of the Society.

MUTUAL BENEFITS OF MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

The Reports of several of the Society's Associations notice this subject in a manner, which induces your Committee to give the whole body of the Members the benefit of the remarks.

The promotion of a spirit of harmony and love is thus touched on in the Report of one of the Ladies' Associations:—

The Committee are increasingly convinced, by the experience of another year, of the good effects of the general machinery of which their own Association forms a part. From their intercourse in various quarters as Collectors, they have observed, with much pleasure, the kind and benevolent feelings excited by means of the Association: they have received several subscriptions from persons not of their own communion, in token of their good-will to a cause, conducted in a spirit of zeal and love toward their common Saviour; and, as they trust, under the influences of the same Blessed Spirit, from whom alone any "holy desires," any "good counsels," or any "just works" can proceed. Though they have felt it their duty to increase as far as practicable the funds of their own Society, they are happy to add, that they have reason to believe that no other charitable institution in the neighbourhood has been injured; but, on the contrary, that many have benefitted, since the formation of this Association, by the general spirit of zeal and Christian benevolence which has been excited.

On the topic last mentioned in this extract, another Association thus speaks:—

In addition to the pleasure which the Committee feel, in announcing to you the increase of the funds of the Society, they have the satisfaction of observing, that it has not been accompanied by any diminution of the resources of other Societies engaged in the work of Christian Beneficence. They have, indeed, felt the force of the remark—that those persons "who conceive an alarm, lest one Benevolent Institution should suffer, by the formation of another Benevolent Institution among the same people, do not calculate upon the MORAL IMPULSE, which every new scheme of philanthropy is fitted to send into the heart." And the justness of the remark has been abundantly confirmed by matter of fact*: so true it is, that "the mere habit of liberality, in behalf of one object, renders men MORE accessible to the claims of any new object, than if the habit had not been previously called into existence."

* The fact above referred to is thus illustrated in the Report of the same Association:—

On the establishment of the Church Missionary and Bible Societies, great fears were entertained that they would injure the funds of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. The event has happily proved exactly the reverse. At the first Anniversary of the Bible Society, in 1805, its income ammounted to 5592*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* In that year the funds of the Church Missionary Society rose from 912*l.* (the income of its first year) to 1959*l.* 18*s.* 7*d.* And, in the same year, the total receipts of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge amounted to 12,424*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

Passing over the intermediate years, in which the funds of these Societies continued to increase with astonishing rapidity during a period of great national difficulty, let us direct our attention to the statement made at their respective Anniversaries, in 1822; and we shall find the income of the Christian Knowledge Society 53,729*l.* 9*s.* 3*d.*—that of the Church Missionary Society 32,975*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*—and that of the Bible Society 103,802*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

Thus it appears, that the Society which led the way in the great work of Christian Charity, is so far from having received any injury, from the interest excited among the Members of the Church of England in favour of the other Societies just mentioned, that in the course of the seventeen years of their joint operation, an addition has been made to its annual receipts of no less a sum than 41,305*l.* 4*s.* 1*d.*

claims to support, from the spirit which it labours to cherish:—

The Society commends itself to every conscientious Member of the Protestant Church established in these realms. It is a kindred Society to those venerable institutions of the Church of England—the Societies for Promoting Christian Knowledge and for the Propagation of the Gospel, which have laboured in the glorious work of preaching Christ, among the Heathen and in the British Colonies, during more than a century. It utterly disclaims all interference, all rivalry with them. It occupies no Missionary Station which they are able to occupy. It exercises toward them a temper respectful and conciliating. It regards them as elder sisters; and rejoices to behold them putting forth their strength, increasing the number of their friends, extending the limits of their Missions, and taking a prominent part in the grand attack which is now making upon the Ruler of the darkness of this world, entrenched in his strongest hold of Heathen cruelty, licentiousness, and superstition.

If the Society thus recommends itself to the countenance and support of the Members of the Church; it merits, on the other hand, to be viewed with an eye of kindness and good-will, by the members of other Christian Communions, not connected with the Established Church. It is a Catholic Society, which breathes a spirit of Christian Charity toward other Societies of a similar nature. Without departing, in any point, from its fixed object, to diffuse the knowledge of Christ and of salvation by Him, in strict agreement with the doctrines and the discipline of its own Church; without forfeiting, in any particular, its character as a Church-of-England Society; it can appreciate the exertions, and its prayer is that God may speed the labours, of every other Society in the Empire, embarked in the same Sacred Cause with itself. It views the field of Missionary Exertion as distant—vast—uncultivated—and affording abundant employment for labourers, however numerous, zealous, and united; and it delights to record the animating fact, that when the Christian Missionary, whose heart is in his work, reaches the scene of his labours, whether he belong to this or that or the other denomination of Protestant Christians, he quickly rises above all differences of opinion—he ceases to be tenacious of points of doctrine not essential to vital religion—and his whole soul is put forth in one great effort, to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ, to win souls to Him, that He may be exalted on His throne over the subdued and adoring Heathen.

MISSIONARIES AND STUDENTS.

The Missionaries who had departed for different Stations, at the date of the last Report, have safely arrived. The Rev. William Jowett, with his family, reached Malta, from Marseilles, on the 27th of April of last year. The Rev. W. Sawyer, the Rev. Jacob Maisch, and the Rev. Theophilus Reichardt, with Mrs. Sawyer, arrived at Madras in the beginning of September, after a passage of nearly five months, attended with considerable peril: Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer continued at Madras; but Mr. Maisch and Mr. Reichardt left that place on the 1st of October, and reached Calcutta on the 20th. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, who sailed for Port Jackson on the 28th of April of last year, in their way to New Zealand, arrived at Rio Janeiro on the 20th of June*.

Offers of service have been numerous, in the course of the year: but many of these offers have been from persons, whose qualifications were not such as to induce the Committee to accept them, though of their piety, generally, they had no doubt. Of 57 offers of service, 18 have been accepted, 27 declined, and 12 are still under consideration. There are, at present, 22 Students preparing, under the Society's care, for future service—14 in different parts of this country, and 8 at Basle†.

The Committee are thankful that they have not to report, on this occasion, the death of any of the Society's Missionaries. All have been still spared to labour‡. The deaths of Mrs. Wilson at Tranquebar, of Mrs. Norton at Allepie, and of Mrs. Lisk of the West-Africa Mission, were stated in Notes to the last Report.

In the course of the year, Nineteen Labourers have proceeded to different Missions; and Mr. and Mrs.

* Information has arrived since the Anniversary, that Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, after a stormy passage from the Cape, reached Van Dieman's Land on the 10th of September. After staying there nearly a month, they arrived at Port Jackson on the 16th of October.

During with their children, and Mr. James Lisk (whose visit home was mentioned in a Note to the last Report) have returned to Sierra Leone.

On the 6th of August, at a Special Meeting of the Committee, the Rev. Henry Williams, who had been admitted, under the Colonial-Service Act, by the Lord Bishop of London, to Deacon's and Priest's Orders, received their Instructions, on his appointment to the New-Zealand Mission. After a Reply from Mr. Williams, he was addressed, on behalf of the Committee, in a manner highly seasonable, in reference to the peculiar difficulties of that Mission, by his relative the Rev. Edward Garrard Marsh, of Hampstead*. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, with their three children, embarked at Woolwich on the 7th of September, in the Lord Sidmouth Female-Convict Ship, Captain Ferrier: the ship left Deal on the 15th, and arrived at Rio Janeiro on the 17th of November. Much time had been spent in benefitting the Female Convicts on board.

On the dismission of Fourteen other Missionaries and Teachers to their labours, a Special Meeting of the Committee was held, on Tuesday the 24th of September, the Right Honourable the President of the Society in the Chair. The Instructions of the Committee having been delivered with the Replies of the Missionaries, the Rev. James Haldane Stewart, Minister of Percy Chapel, addressed them, at the request of the Committee†: after much Christian counsel and encouragement, Mr. Stewart commended them in prayer to Almighty God, and the Noble Chairman dismissed them with devout wishes and affectionate benedictions.

All the Labourers dismissed at this Meeting, except one, were destined for Western Africa. Of these, the Rev. G. Emanuel W. Metzger, Mr. James Lisk, and Mr. Philip Vaughan, with Mrs. Metzger, Mrs. Lisk (Mr. Lisk having married again), and Mrs. Vaughan, embarked at Gravesend, on the 3d of October, on board the Lively, Captain Hodgson; but did not finally leave the coast, in consequence of bad weather, till the 23d of that month: they arrived at Sierra Leone on the 3d of December. The other Missionaries proceeding to Africa — the Rev. C. W. Beckauer, the Rev. John Gerber, the Rev. W. H. Schemel, and Mr. James Bunyer, with Mrs. Gerber, Mrs. Schemel, and Mrs. Bunyer—sailed from Deal, on the 8th of November, in the Esther, Captain Lowther; but were detained on the coast, by contrary winds, till the 11th of December: on that day the ship left Cowes; and, on the 9th of January, reached Sierra Leone.

The Rev. Henry Düring, with Mrs. Düring and their two Children, embarked at Cowes, on the 10th of November (two days after the Esther left that port), on board the Betsey and Ann, Captain Langley, on their return to Sierra Leone. They arrived at the Gambia on the 28th of December, and at Freetown on the 19th of January.

The Rev. Theophilus Christopher Deininger, appointed, at the Meeting of the 24th of September, to the Mediterranean Mission, sailed from Falmouth, on board the Prince Regent Packet, Captain White, on the 10th of November, and arrived at Malta on the 7th of December.

Some addition has also been made to the Labourers in the East.

Mr. Thomas William Smyth, a native of Bengal, who had been under education some years in this country at the charge of his friends, was taken into the service of the Society, and embarked at Gravesend for Calcutta, on the 13th of March, on board the Madras, Captain Clarke, to assist in the Society's Schools.

Mr. Michael Wilkinson, who had been under preparation upward of four years for Missionary Service, was admitted, by the Lord Bishop of London, on Sunday, the 22d of December, to Deacon's Orders; and received Priest's Orders from the Lord Bishop of Bristol, at Cambridge, by Letters Dimissory, on Sunday the 13th of April. At a Special Meeting of the Committee, held on Friday the 25th of April—Major-General Charles Neville, one of the Vice-Presidents, in the Chair—Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson were appointed to proceed to Calcutta, and Miss Hannah Cortis to assist in the education of Female Cingalese Children at Baddagamme in Ceylon. They embarked at Gravesend on Saturday last, the 3d of this month, on board the Palmira, Captain Lamb.

Miss Jane Cooke, Sister to Miss Cooke of Calcutta, was to have sailed in the same vessel; but it pleased God to deprive the Society of her services. She died about a fortnight before she was to have embarked*.

Mr. David T. Jones, who had been pursuing his studies under the Society for about three years, was admitted to Deacon's and Priest's Orders at the same time with Mr. Wilkinson. He is to proceed to the North-West America Mission.

To the European Labourers now employed by the Society, is to be added a very considerable number of that class, on which, under the blessing of God, the enlargement of all Christian Missions must chiefly depend. The Society has now in its service not less than 230 NATIVE LABOURERS of various descriptions; and not a few of them are intelligent, assiduous, devoted, and successful Labourers.

At their head stand two Ordained Missionaries—the Rev. Abdool Messeeh, and the Rev. William Bowley; whose steady and useful course may serve to assure the Society that the Natives of India are become competent, under the Divine Blessing, to form Christian Churches from among their countrymen, and to instruct and edify those Churches.

And, for Africa—little short of a moral miracle has been wrought on some of her once-degraded Sons, in raising them in the course of a very few years, from men almost brutalized by cruel oppression and base superstition, into humble, active, intelligent, and devout Instructors of their countrymen. The Committee will quote Mr. Johnson's account of one of these Christian Labourers. Of this worthy man, Mr. Johnson writes—

* See p. 199 of the Missionary Register for April.

David Noah is employed from day-break till ten o'clock at night—a continuance of exertion, which no European could endure in this climate. He conducts entirely the Day and Evening Schools. Besides this, he issues rations for about 1200 people—keeps the provision list and return, and school lists—measures out all the lots, and sees that all the fences and houses are regularly built—prays with the sick—receives the stores, every Thursday, in Freetown—enters Marriages, Baptisms, &c. and does the duty of a Parish Clerk: in short, he is every thing at Regent's Town. He, occasionally, when I cannot go, has a run to Bathurst, and also to Gloucester. I cannot sufficiently praise God for having given me such an Assistant. He does all with great pleasure, and never thinks that he can do too much. If he has five minutes to spare, they are generally spent in my Study among the books. He works a slate-full of Problems during school-hours, which he copies in a book between ten and eleven o'clock at night; and, after that time, he writes his Journal: he then retires, and rests till half-past five in the morning.

With these, and many similar examples before our eyes, what should restrain our hope and expectation, that He, who, by His Providence and Spirit, has raised up these Native Christians effectually to co-operate with us in this best and most beneficent of all designs—the Salvation of the perishing Heathen—should so multiply their number in all Missions, as to supersede the necessity of any other supply of Teachers from Christendom than those guides and Counsellors, who, availing themselves of the experience of all the older Churches of Christ in the West, may be the means of establishing and extending the rising Churches of the Heathen World? Nothing is wanting to this great end, but the blessing of the Holy Spirit on the exertions of competent Instructors of Christian Converts.

While, therefore, the Committee do earnestly press on all the Members the great duty of unwearied and fervent prayer, for the especial and abundant influences of the Holy Spirit on all the Young Persons under preparation, in the Seminaries connected with the Society's different Missions, for future labours among their countrymen, they feel it their duty to do all in their power to send forth a body of Teachers, who may be competent to the task of leading forward the minds of such Young Persons to every practicable degree of enlargement and knowledge. In Sierra Leone, more than Twenty pious African Youths are prepared for Instructors of this description: in Calcutta and in Madras, this branch of the Christian Institutions of the Society formed at those Presidencies, loudly calls for such aid: and at Cotym, among the Syrians, and in other places, the Seminaries of this description, already established, require more Instructors; while, not only in these places, but in other parts of India, in Ceylon, and in the Mediterranean, devoted Missionaries, nurtured in the admirable system of our Universities, might put their acquisitions to the most noble use in the service of their Heavenly Master, by training up in sound discipline and learning the future Pastors and Evangelists of the Unchristianised World. The Committee fervently beseech the Great Head of the Church to call forth such men!

In the mean while, they have felt it to be their duty to take every practicable step to increase the efficiency of all the Labourers sent forth from the Society.

In the choice and preparation of Missionaries, the Committee have hitherto availed themselves of the best means in their power; but these means are becoming so inadequate to the increasing wants of the Missions, that the Committee have found it requisite to adopt some more efficient measures.

In the choice of Students, it has been the usual practice to place them with a Clergyman for Six Months on probation; and, in their preparation, if approved, to continue them with him, unless sent to one of the Universities, till ready to be offered as Candidates for Holy Orders. It is an obvious defect in this course, that the Committee and Officers of the Society can have but an imperfect acquaintance with the character of the Missionary; and the advantages connected with mutual knowledge, in their future correspondence, are, consequently, in a great measure, lost: neither are such opportunities afforded by this course, for the character of the Candidate to develope itself, as more constant intercourse with other Missionary Students would furnish; nor can those means of instruction and improvement be so well supplied, with reference to the Students who do not go to College, in small and insulated circles, as may be brought into action when a larger number are collected together. The duty of adopting the best practicable system of preparation for the Society's Missionaries is obvious: advantages are afforded for this object by the vicinity of the Metropolis, which cannot be elsewhere secured: means, for example, of acquiring from living instructors the Elements of various Heathen Languages are thereby offered, which may obviate much of the evil arising from the early application of Missionaries to that object, in debilitating and unhealthy climates. A further advantage will be obtained, the importance of which has been strongly represented to the Committee, by several friends of the Society who have returned from India; which is, that the capacity or incapacity of a Student to acquire the requisite languages may be thus ascertained, before the expense of sending him abroad shall be incurred.

The benefit of personal intercourse between the Society's Missionaries and its Committee and Officers has been already felt, even in the imperfect manner in which it has as yet been attained. It has been the practice for several years, for such of the Missionaries and Schoolmasters as could be there accommodated to reside with the Assistant Secretary, in a house rented by the Society at Islington, as opportunities may have offered during the course of their education, and also for a few weeks before their embarkation: but this House is quite inadequate to the present wants of the Society.

In contemplation of these and other advantages, the Committee, after frequent and serious deliberation, have judged it conducive to the interest of the Society that an Establishment should be formed within such a distance from Salisbury Square, as might place it under the immediate superintendence of the Committee and Officers of the Society: and they have, in pursuance of this object, availed themselves of an opportunity to purchase a House and an eligible piece of land, the greater part of which land is Freehold and the rest Copyhold of Inheritance, in the Parish of Islington, within a short distance from the Church.

A Special Committee having been appointed to consider the best mode of rendering these Premises available for the purposes of the Society, they entered with much care into the inquiry. It appeared, on an examination of the number of Students and Missionaries likely to be brought together, that an average of not less than Twenty should be taken; for whom, together with the necessary Teachers, suitable apartments must be provided: with these apartments must be connected, a Hall or common Dining Room; and a Lecture Room, which might also serve for a Library. The buildings at present on the premises may be rendered available to the objects for which the purchase was made; but other buildings will be required, and for these the ground offers a very eligible site.

In contemplation of the opening of a Separate Subscription for the attainment of the proposed object, the Committee have advanced about 2500*l.* for the purchase of the premises in their present state: but as the regular Income of the Society is barely sufficient to meet the current demands of the various Missions, the Committee hope to be enabled to replace the said sum of 2500*l.* for the general use of the Missions; and having formed, on the most economical principles, a Plan and Estimate of the proposed buildings, they have every reason to believe that the sum required for the necessary alteration of the present buildings, together with the erection of such new structure as is found requisite, the furnishing of the whole, and the replacing of the money advanced, will not exceed 10,000*l.*

The Committee hope, therefore, to be enabled, by the bounty of the Members and Friends of the Society, to raise a structure which shall afford every reasonable convenience, while its plainness and simplicity shall comport with the principles and objects of the Institution: and they are well satisfied, on accurate calculation, not only that the preparation of the Society's Missionaries will be rendered more efficient by this plan; but that the annual charge of such preparation will be very considerably diminished.

This appeal is made to the liberality of the Society's Friends, because its expenditure has, for several years, kept so steady a pace with its Income, that its regular annual resources are inadequate to carry into effect the plan in question, however directly and intimately connected with the vital interests of the Society: nor can any part of its funded property be alienated for that purpose, as that has long been scarcely adequate, as has been already stated, to cover the claims on the Society becoming due.

The Committee have no doubt, therefore, that, on this representation of the facts of the case to the Society's Members and Friends, the requisite sum will be cheerfully contributed; and they are happy to report, that liberal contributions have been already made to the Fund, which has been but just opened. They beg to state to the Members, that such sums as they may be pleased to give to this object, will be thankfully received.

MISSIONS.

In surveying the Nine Missions of the Society, it will be found that a steady progress is making in almost every quarter. It is true that this progress, while it may be called great in reference to the exertions and expectations of former years, is little compared with the actual condition and urgent wants of mankind.

It is gratifying to your Committee to observe the manner in which this subject is stated by the Committees of some of the Associations. It is remarked in one of the County Reports.—

> In meeting you, from year to year, with some details of those operations, for the furtherance of which your help is solicited, your Committee are called repeatedly to the gratifying duty of thanking Almighty God for that favouring influence, through which they are always enabled to speak of widening prospects of success and usefulness. Even had the case been otherwise—had they seen nothing, in looking over the wide field of Missionary Exertion, but labourers at work; no symptoms of fruitfulness in the soil; no promise of the rising blade—they would not have hesitated to exhort you to continue and to increase your exertions, in a simple reliance on the promises of God; leaving to Him the manner and the season of their accomplishment. But they certainly hold out such language to you with a more cheerful confidence, under circumstances which authorize them to point your attention to the growing promise of a rich harvest, and to augur favourably of what may be done from what actually has been done.

In estimating this, we ought not to form our notions simply according to the increased hopes, to which the extending details of each succeeding year have given rise; but to carry our thoughts back a few years, and to collect what the state of the world then was, with regard to the progress of Missions. Could we do this quite impartially, and really view things in the light in which we should then have seen them, the present state of Missionary Prospects would undoubtedly fill our minds with astonishment, as well as with thankfulness.

How few years have elapsed, since it was an almost universally accepted notion (particularly in our Senate, and in the Commercial World), that openly to combine the word Mission with the name of the East Indies, was to proclaim the immediate ruin of our Asiatic Empire! What would have been thought, in 1810, of any one, who had hazarded a conjecture, that, in 1820, the first stone of a MISSIONARY COLLEGE would be laid in Calcutta, with every public and solemn ceremonial, by an English Bishop? This single fact may serve as a specimen of the very favourable change which has recently taken place in the state of things with regard to Missions in general; and on account of which your Committee feel that they are authorized to use expressions of cordial exultation, and bound also to adopt those of the warmest and most lively gratitude. For it is not in the strength, or by the hand of MAN, that such great things have been effected: it is the power of God, working progressively in the developement of that mighty plan of mercy and love, by which He has willed that all the nations of the earth should, in His own good time, be brought to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus. His is the work, and to His Holy Name be all the praise!

One of the most efficient of the Associations for the sphere in which it acts, which is among a few Country Parishes, is thus addressed by the venerable Clergyman, who usually takes, in its Annual Reports, a forcible and original view of the subject of Missions:—

The work, which we have in hand, is not the work of a day or a year, but the WORK OF AGES; and a work which must never be laid aside, until the whole earth be illuminated with the Gospel of God. That period may be distant; but it must arrive, for so hath God appointed: the thing is certain, and the end will be glorious. It requires faith and patience to persevere heartily in a work which will not be completed in our time. When the Jews were rebuilding their temple at Jerusalem, they worked with courage, for they expected soon to see the top-stone brought forth with joy and triumph; but this building of God which we have in hand, must be carried on by generations yet to come. We have done something in it, but let us never think that we have done enough, until we have done all that we can do. Let every one go forward, with increasing diligence; and never slacken his hands, till the lamp of life be extinguished.

Enough is already ACCOMPLISHED to encourage our most diligent and zealous exertions; though, hitherto, we have witnessed only the first-fruits. The great harvest is yet to come. It will come: the time is hastening on, when, in the valley of dry bones, a great army shall stand up to praise the God of Zion: all lands shall be adorned with Christian Churches, and Idols' Temples shall no where be found. Say to Him who rides in the gospel chariot, "Go forth from conquering to conquer, till the kingdoms of the earth become thine own." It must be so at last, for so hath God decreed.

When the MORNING LIGHT begins to dawn, we know that the SUN itself will soon appear. The dawn of the morning is come already: the day, the glorious day of God cannot be distant. The dismal darkness which has long covered the earth must recede as the sun approaches: all dark clouds will vanish at the brightness of his coming. The light of Christ is spreading over the earth, and, in a little while, all that dwell in the world shall sing together, The night is over and gone! the darkness is past! the day-spring from on high hath visited us! the flowers appear on the earth! the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle-dove is heard in all lands!

Who can feel reluctant to part with his gold and silver to further such a Cause? And who, that has his heart in the work, would not economise to save money to lend unto the Lord?

Who would not consecrate his service and employ his talents in this grandest work of God? And who of us can cease from pouring our most fervent prayers before the throne, for the outpouring of the Holy and Eternal Spirit to bless and prosper the Everlasting Gospel among all nations?

Every BRANCH of this Society is contributing toward this benevolent work. Nay, every poor person, and every child, that gives his penny a week, and especially the faithful COLLECTORS, are helpers in carrying on the greatest work that God is doing under the sun.

In vain should I attempt to describe all the SOURCES OF PLEASURE attending these Societies. We have pleasure in carrying them on, in hopes of what may be done: we have greater pleasure in hearing, from time to time, what has been done: and we may reasonably expect that our pleasures will still increase, by the arrival of fresh and encouraging tidings from various parts of the world. These are pleasures of the most refined nature, that sanctify the heart and benefit the soul—pleasures, that rise and swell as we enter into the spirit of the Institution—pleasures, that will last as long as the sun and moon endure.

The men of this generation have but tasted of this felicity: the feast of delights is to come hereafter. Your children shall hear that the Gospel of Christ is spread through all lands; that Antichrist, in all its forms, is fallen; that the grace of God has universal reign; that Jews and Gentiles, Barbarian, Scythian, bond and free, are one in Christ; and that all nations are become holiness unto the Lord.

The Committee of a third Association say—

Your Committee will only add, in conclusion, that though our work be but that of preparation, it is not the less honourable, and certainly not the less important. It may be allotted us thus to labour, and to future generations to enter into our labours and reap the fruit. Ours may, therefore, appear the more inglorious part; for man judges by sensible appearances and by visible fruits: the commencement of a work has with him far less splendour and acceptance than the successful termination. But it is not really so much the part assigned, as the labour, diligence, faith, and unwearied prayers, called into exercise in the discharge of it, that the Most High regards: the widow, who threw in her two mites to the Sacred Treasury, met with a different but certainly not less gracious token of approval, than the illustrious King of Israel, who beheld, in the descending cloud, the glory of the Lord filling the temple that he had built.

With a brief extract from a Fourth Report, the Committee will conclude these introductory remarks:—

There is success enough already, to encourage the most fearful, and to stimulate the most lukewarm; while there is trial enough, to maintain in us the habitual conviction of the inefficacy of the best human means in themselves, and the duty of fervent and unceasing prayer for the succours of the Holy Spirit, "without which nothing is strong, nothing is holy."

WEST-AFRICA MISSION.

For abundant encouragement to persevere through the most pressing difficulties in pursuit of its great object, this Society has but to read the records of its own proceedings. In the earlier years of its West-Africa Mission, the loss of some of its Labourers, the unfaithfulness of others, and the defeat and ruin of its Missions among the Natives by the Slave Trade after years of toil and the expenditure of large sums—these painful disasters seemed, at times, to extinguish all reasonable hope concerning the Mission. But, all this while, the Providence of God was preparing a field of labour quite unexpected by the Society.

The Colony of Sierra Leone was not originally contemplated as itself the seat of any considerable and important Missionary Labours; but chiefly as a point of support to the Missions, which it was intended should be fixed among the neighbouring Natives. But the very traffic, which drove the Society from that field, led to the opening of the Colony as an Asylum for the recovered captives—an Asylum such as the world never before beheld; and which now holds out a reasonable prospect of an ultimate influence on the social and religious condition of Africa, beyond the most sanguine expectations.

By the latest Return* of the Population of Sierra Leone, there were 16,671 Inhabitants: of these more than 15,000 are Natives of Africa, the rest being chiefly Europeans and Maroon and Nova Scotia Settlers. Of those born in Africa, upward of ELEVEN THOUSAND appear to have been liberated from the holds of the vessels which were carrying them into INTERMINABLE bondage.

THAT character, indeed, of West-India Slavery, the Committee begin to conceive hopes that they shall have ere long to blot from the records of the Society's proceedings: and they cannot but anticipate with joy that day, when the persons most nearly interested, being convinced that, in this, as in all other cases, the path of Justice and Humanity is also that of true Policy, the Illustrious Advocate of the African Race shall witness that grand consummation of his toil—a public and solemn provision, under such regulations as the case may suggest, for securing the personal freedom of every African throughout the British Dominions! The Committee invoke most earnestly the aid of the whole body of Members in this cause*. They cannot pursue a more direct course toward the utter extinction of that sanguinary Traffic, which still desolates the shores of Africa, and which, above all other obstacles, narrows and hinders the diffusion of Christian Light throughout those dreary regions.

It is with great pain, that the Committee witness the continuance, under even aggravated circumstances, of the Traffic in Human Beings, which is the curse of these devoted shores. There is, however, no relaxation on the part of the conscientious and humane, not only in the United Kingdom and the American States, but in other countries, to put an end for ever to this opprobrium of the civilized world. The rising Commonwealths of the New World are not only exterminating the odious traffic, but they are preventing the possibility of its revival, by making provision for annihilating the State of Slavery within their respective territories. In France even, at present the Nation most eminently guilty, the voice of justice and truth is beginning to make itself heard; while the friends of humanity in our own country are pursuing with determined perseverance, in co-operation with the Legislature, the great object of a final and total Abolition†. The continuance, indeed, of the Trade is not, through the merciful overruling of the Almighty Hand, without some countervailing alleviations; as the victims of this traffic are still rescued in considerable numbers, and placed under Christian Instruction.

Sir Robert Mends, who succeeded Sir George Collier in the Naval Command on this coast, pursued the Slave Traders with such vigour, that, in a few months, a large addition was made to the Liberated Africans of the Colony.

In a Letter of June 18, 1822, Mr. Johnson feelingly depicts some of the horrors consequent on this trade of blood:—

The day before yesterday, a Slave Schooner, with 400 unhappy fellow-creatures on board, was upset off Cape Sierra Leone. Only seven men were saved: they had got into a boat, and were picked up by the Myrmidon. Nineteen Sailors and two Officers of this vessel were on board to bring her in to Sierra Leone, who have all perished with the rest. A tornado came on suddenly, and turned the vessel over.

Oh my Dear Brother, how many poor creatures fall a sacrifice to the inhuman traffic in human blood! I have been filled with horror ever since. Numbers were landed from another vessel yesterday, in the most deplorable condition.

The Hospital at Leicester is overflowing. Some are but just alive; and others are walking about with a death-like look, and will to all appearance fall also a sacrifice. One poor creature in the Girls' School died just now; and five or six more will soon follow. My heart is full!

What do the good people of England know about the real state of Africa? They can have no idea of its misery, unless they are eye-witnesses, as we are. Oh, when shall an end be put to this Trade! O Lord have mercy, have mercy upon afflicted Africa!

How perniciously the Slave Trade is retarding the civilization of these shores, is strikingly seen in the testimony of an authentic witness, printed in the Parliamentary Papers*, to the beneficial effects of the restrictions on that traffic, wherever they have been duly enforced:—

Along the range of coast (he writes) where the restrictions may be considered as having been effective, and industrious habits are extending their beneficial influence among the inhabitants, attention to agriculture and commercial pursuits is evidently increasing; and these pursuits want only encouragement to render them productive of extensive gain to the merchants, and to make them the means of supplying the increasing wants of the Natives.

The Rains of last year set in with great severity, but afterward abated. Many were affected with fever, but most recovered.

* See the Missionary Register for 1822, pp. 322, 323.

The painful disease of Ophthalmia was brought into the Colony by some of the Slave Vessels captured last year. It broke out in the Schools: more than half the Girls' School, of 130 Scholars, at Regent's Town, were affected. Mr. Johnson suffered much from the disease.

The American Colony, adverted to in former Reports as about to be established on this coast, has been formed at Cape Mesurado, land having been purchased for the purpose in that quarter. Various difficulties had attended the first establishment of the Colony: the land was, at length, taken possession of on the 25th of April of last year; the Settlers having removed thither from their temporary residence in Sierra Leone*. In the latter part, however, of the year, the Natives attacked the Settlement; but were repulsed with great loss. The Colonists suffered much on this occasion; but were most seasonably relieved by the arrival, that very morning, of the Sierra Leone Colonial Schooner on her way to Cape Coast. Her Commander, Captain M'Coy, with Captain Laing and other British Officers, who were passengers on board, entered into a negociation with the Natives, and peace was restored. Severe sickness soon after visited the Colony, and brought many to the grave.

COLONY OF SIERRA LEONE.

Sir G. R. Collier expresses a very decisive opinion with respect to the prospects of the Colony†. He states, in his Report to the Lords of the Admiralty—

If the encouragement hitherto shewn shall be continued to the British Merchant, no reason appears to me why this Colony shall not, in the course of time, amply repay the anxiety and care, and the expense so liberally bestowed by the Mother Country.

The Committee have already stated the augmented population of this Colony, and the last Return of Liberated Africans here collected together. On the share which the Society has been enabled to take in the instruction of those Natives, the Committee of one of the Associations speaks in glowing terms:—

Your Committee are aware that they have occupied a more than proportionate space in extracts relating to this Mission; but such a spectacle as more than ELEVEN THOUSAND of our fellow-creatures rescued from slavery, and living in peace and security under a mild and equitable Government, rising from brute ignorance into a civilized and industrious population, many of them dispossessed of the Evil Spirit that ruled them, and sitting in decent order and restored understanding at the feet of Christ—such a scene must arrest and detain the attention of the Christian. He must turn from it with reluctance; uncertain whether his eye will ever again fall on a spot in the whole compass of the world, that presents so striking a proof of the overruling providence and converting grace of God.

The testimony of Mr. Düring, addressed to the Committee on occasion of his return to Africa from his visit to this country, will be read with great pleasure:—

Six years' experience has taught me that the African can learn any thing; and that he is not what designing men have represented him—"a sort of middle being, between man and brute."

Most of those with whom I live, I have seen brought from the holds of Slave Ships. I have seen them rise, from the chains of the Slave Dealer, to become industrious men and women, faithful subjects, pious Christians, affectionate husbands and wives, tender fathers and mothers, and peaceable neighbours. Considering these things, I have always thought myself among the happiest of men, in serving in this way our Lord Jesus Christ, whose blood cleanses even the soul of an Ethiopian from all sin; and in being connected with our Society, which is evidently instrumental, in the Lord's hand, of much good to distant nations, especially to the afflicted sons of Africa.

Mr. Johnson adduces a very strong proof of the moral improvement of the Colony. He writes, in September—

At the Quarter Sessions, the Chief Justice observed, when addressing the Inquest, that, 10 years ago, when the population of the Colony was only 4000, there were 40 cases on the Calendar for trial; and, now that the population was upward of 16,000, there were only 6 cases on the Calendar: he congratulated the Magistrates and Grand Jury on the moral improvement of the Colony. There was not a single case from any of the Villages under the superintendance of a Missionary or Schoolmaster: when the Chief Justice found that this was the fact, he dismissed us and our constables in a very civil manner, as having no business to attend to at the Quarter Sessions; and we departed well pleased.

The Chief Justice also, in a Letter to the Secretary, bears testimony to the great advance of the Liberated Africans. He writes—

I avail myself of this opportunity to express to you my surprise that Mr. Johnson, Mr. Düring, or Mr. Nyländer has not, as I infer from the want of notice in the Missionary Register, mentioned to you a matter, which, as I conceive, ought to be considered an important event for their respective communities generally; and worthy of notice, even if only the interests of those immediately concerned were to be regarded.

At the Colonial Sessions holden in Dec. 1821, I inquired of Mr. Johnson whether any of the inhabitants of Regent's Town were qualified to serve on Juries; and I intimated, that, if there were any so qualified, it would be proper to call upon them to perform that duty, in conjunction with the inhabitants of Freetown. Mr. Johnson named two or three of his people as being fully qualified; and one of them, named Josiah Yamsey, took his turn as a Juror on several trials. A similar intimation was given to Mr. Düring and Mr. Nyländer; and, subsequently, persons from Gloucester and Kissey, recommended by those Gentlemen severally, have served with perfect satisfaction to their fellow-jurors.

It was my intention, originally, to limit their service to trials for offences not capital; but, as they were called over in turn with the others, and no objection was made to them, I did not like to interpose personally for their exclusion, after having, in the first instance, invited them, upon a general assurance of their fitness, which after their first service might be considered as approved. I had, besides, reason to believe the cases pending to be of that nature in which, in the event of the conviction of the accused, the capital punishment would be remitted.

The first, or at least the most remarkable, instance of a Liberated African serving on Juries, is John French, Headman of the Coromantine Nation at Sierra Leone; whose industry, as well as his generosity in relieving the distressed people of his country with the fruits of it, have been noticed by me on some public occasions; in consequence of which some of the most remarkable traits of his excellent character and beneficent conduct were copied into the Missionary Register *. John French has long been in the habit of serving as a Juror, in the ordinary course, with the other householders of Freetown. The station which this man has attained, and his conduct in it, render him worthy of higher consideration; residing, as he does, in the independent community of Freetown, in a perfect state of self-governance. Others may be found in the same community, like him in industry and affluence; but I could not ascertain that they were like him in moral and religious character and conduct. They were left to come forward in ordinary train; and, as it was expedient that a further number of Liberated Africans should be accustomed to act as Jurors, I knew not whence they could so well be called as from the Villages; the better disposed inhabitants of which are known to the respective Superintendants, and are favoured with their particular care and instruction.

The result of the first experiments having proved satisfactory, the practice of calling the qualified inhabitants of the Villages will be continued, until they shall be trained and accustomed to take their share of the duty, in regular proportion with the persons on the Jury List of Freetown.

The Committee will add to these satisfactory testimonies, that of the Sierra Leone Gazette, which appeals to facts within the cognizance of its readers:—

It is in our Liberated African Towns that the richest enjoyment awaits the philanthropist. There he may contemplate, with delight, the happy fruits of that system, the primary feature of which is Religious Instruction, and with, and proceeding from, that instruction, the inculcation of moral and industrious habits. The superiority of the mountain roads, the cleanness and respectable appearance of the villages, the immense forests cleared away, and the soil covered with the various productions of the climate, fully attest the unremitting industry of these interesting people.

Of the victims rescued from Slavery, it is said—

Uncultivated as these New Colonists really are on their arrival, it appears surprising with what facility they acquire our language, and how soon they abandon their native customs. In no instance, perhaps, is the superiority of the plan adopted in the management of this portion of the community more apparent than in their moral and intellectual improvement, even in a few months subsequent to their landing in the Colony.

* See pp. 159 and 160 of the Volume for 1820.

Some remarks, in the Gazette of Aug. 31st, on the Reports made to the Agricultural Society relative to the state of the different Settlements, furnish a strong testimony to the industry of the Liberated Africans:—

The Reports of the Superintendants afford undeniable proofs of the industrious habits of the people; and hold out the most pleasing and gratifying prospect, of the advantages to be reaped from agricultural labour in this Colony. No individual member of the Society had formed any accurate idea of the extent of cultivation, and the quantity of produce obtained thereby, until the facts contained in these Reports were disclosed to the Meeting. The highest praise is due to the different Superintendants of the Villages, for their assiduity and attention in directing their respective flocks into habits of agricultural industry. Cultivation is still extending in all the Villages; and many of the people expect, this year, to be enabled to supply the markets much more abundantly with rice and other vegetable products of the soil, than formerly. The rearing of Stock is also more particularly attended to: it appears from the Reports, imperfect as they are in many respects, that the total stock on hand consisted of 173 head of cattle, 2967 ducks, 1668 pigs, 522 sheep, 731 goats, and 9399 fowls, without including turkeys, pigeons, jack-asses, and horses. The honorary rewards which were bestowed on those farmers who had pre-eminently distinguished themselves for industry, as well in clearing the ground and cultivating it, as in rearing stock, have excited no ordinary spirit of laudable zeal among the people; and it is fully expected, that the next prizes to be given will be very warmly contested by the cultivators of the different parishes.

The Society has now twenty-eight European Labourers in the Colony, who are assisted by a number of Native Teachers. The Committee are in expectation of Mr. Johnson's arrival on a visit to his afflicted Wife; whose health, though considerably improved in this country, scarcely allows any hopes of her returning to participate in her Husband's labours.

Those labours, with the exertions of his Brethren, continue to receive that blessing from on high which has so remarkably rested upon them. The Committee have, during the last year, been favoured with additional testimonies on this subject from Gentlemen under no bias whatever to give an undue warmth of colouring to their representations. They have the authority, in particular, of Captain Sabine, of His Majesty's Engineers, to state, that, after spending six weeks in the Colony, and closely and repeatedly inspecting the state of the Liberated Africans under the care of Christian Instructors, the representations of their improved condition are perfectly true; and that in reference to the largest assemblage of them, at Regent's Town, their spirit and conduct are such, that he is persuaded that there is not to be seen upon earth a community of equal size so truly exemplary.

Captain Sabine is so well satisfied of the capacity of the Africans for higher measures of improvement, and of the disposition of many of them to avail themselves of every opportunity for that end, that he earnestly seconds the request of the Governor for a greater number of Teachers, and those such as may be able to lead on the Africans to every practicable degree of knowledge.

With this request the Committee are anxious to have it in their power fully to comply. In the course of the year, as has been already stated, a considerable number of Missionaries have been sent to the Colony, and others have returned thither to their labours: and the Committee hope to be able, when the intended Seminary comes into action, to supply, both more speedily and more effectually, the demand for Labourers in Africa.

On the openings for labour, and the want of more men of right character, Mr. Johnson writes, in April of last year—

Allow me to specify, to the best of my knowledge, the different places where either a Missionary or a Schoolmaster is required. In Freetown, two Missionaries and one Schoolmaster—in Wilberforce, a Missionary—in York, a Schoolmaster—in Kent, a Missionary; Mr. Beckley, now there, to go to the Bananas—in Calmont, an intended Settlement, a Schoolmaster—in Hastings, one—in Wellington, one—in Bathurst, a Missionary—at the Plantains, two Missionaries, accompanied by William Tamba—on the Bullom Shore, one Missionary, accompanied by John Johnson—in the Bassa Country, two Missionaries, accompanied by William Davis—and, on the Gold Coast, six Missionaries and six Schoolmasters; to be supplied with assistance from the Seminary. The distant places may all be visited with great facility by water.

But how difficult it is to find men who really deny themselves, and take up their cross, and come to Africa, not conferring with flesh and blood! We want men who have the mind of St. Paul. When the Holy Ghost witnessed in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions awaited him at Jerusalem, he conferred not with flesh and blood, but said, None of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy. When he was besought, with tears, not to go, he declared that he was ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem, for the name of the Lord Jesus.

Oh may the Holy Spirit separate more Pauls from the Church for the work of the Ministry among the Gentiles!—especially for Africa, which has the greatest of all claims on the Christian World. None has been so much injured as Africa, and none is more degraded.

On the departure of Mr. Düring and Mr. Lisk for Europe, it became necessary to bring forward more Native Teachers. To William Tamba, William Davis, and David Noah, who had been some time in the Society's service, were added John Sandy and James Thomson: and several of the Youths of the Christian Institution were brought into active service in the different Schools.

Mr. Johnson drew, at this period, the following striking picture of the state of the Mission:—

Our company is now smaller than I have known it to be since my being in Africa. When I, in thought, survey our Missionary Settlements, I behold one here, almost exhausted, having lost his strength by long residence in this country, yet struggling to bring another soul to the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world—and another there, endeavouring to get the better of repeated attacks of fever, which have unfitted him for usefulness almost the whole time of our being in Africa. But let us consider, on the other hand—It is the Lord who will work: notwithstanding our weak state, He is still doing wonders: by His Sovereign Power He carries on His work through the instrumentality of a few weak, worn-out men, that the praise and glory may be all His.

On the arrival of the Missionaries in the Lively and Esther, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan and Mr. and Mrs. Bunyer were placed in charge of the Freetown Schools, the Rev. C. W. Beckauer at York, the Rev.

John Gerber and Mrs. Gerber at Kissey to prepare for taking charge of some Settlement, the Rev. G.E. W. Metzger and Mrs. Metzger at Wilberforce, the Rev. W. H. Schemel and Mrs. Schemel at Bathurst, and Mr. and Mrs. Lisk at Waterloo to assist Mr. Wilhelm*.

The Rev. Henry Palmer, appointed Second Chaplain of the Colony, arrived, with Mrs. Palmer, on the 20th of March, on board H. M. Frigate the Owen Glendower.

The attention of the Committee was called to a point of great importance to the health of the Missionaries, by the following remarks of Mr. Nyländer, in May of last year:—

I have kept my health tolerably well, since I wrote to you last; but my constitution is so broken, that a very little exertion obliges me to lie down to rest—not to say sick, but exhausted. Our Physicians say, that had I visited Europe in due time, I should have been now as strong as ever I was: this induces me to suggest to the Committee, whether it might not be made a rule for Missionaries coming hither in future, that, after staying a certain number of years, they should be permitted to return home for the purpose of recruiting their strength; for, certainly, in this country, we do eat our bread by the sweat of our brow and at the expense of our lives. The Missionary would be animated by hope of seeing his friends at the expiration of a given period, and of being refreshed both in body and soul—and our spiritual life needs as much reanimation as our bodies do after so much absence. When I say this, do not think that I myself should wish to leave my Station. I have lived here sixteen years—now let me be buried with my people.

After deliberating on this suggestion, the Committee thought it due to the Labourers in this Mission, and likely to promote its best interests, that they should be authorised to visit this country, if they found it requisite after the completion of every sixth year of their residence in Africa.

The increasing interest in the objects of the Society

* Very distressing intelligence has been received since the Anniversary, which has been already alluded to in a Note at p. 52. Further particulars have appeared, since that sheet went to press, at pp. 369, 370, and 379—383, of the Missionary Register for September. The death of the Chaplains, Messrs. Flood and Palmer, of Mr. Bunyer, of the Rev. W. H. Schemel, and especially that of the Rev. W. Johnson, have deeply afflicted the Committee and other friends of Africa.

was manifested at the Third Anniversary of the Church Missionary Association*, held at Kissey, on the 8th of January; when it appeared that the sum of 281*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.* had been contributed, in the preceding Year, of which more than half was given by the Liberated Africans; and making a total raised by the Association of 636*l.* 1*s.* 0½*d.* Mr. Nyländer writes on this subject:—

The contributions were unexpectedly liberal. The day was solemn. We had a congregation of about 800 Liberated Africans, besides the most respectable Ladies and Gentlemen from Freetown; and our own Missionary Family, about twenty-two in number.

Freetown Schools.

The return of Mr. Lisk to England left these Schools without any European Teacher during the greater part of last year. Mr. and Mrs. Fox, the Native Assistants, did what was in their power for the benefit of the Scholars; but it requires two European Schoolmasters and two Schoolmistresses to be in constant and active exertion, together with Native assistance, in order to maintain these Schools on that efficient footing which the good of the Colony demands. The efforts of the Society to accomplish this have been frustrated by the sickness and death of the Teachers. The requisite number has, at length, been supplied; and the Committee doubt not, if it shall please God to grant them health, that a rapid improvement will take place in the Schools. To secure, however, every practicable advantage to them, the Committee have requested the two Chaplains to act as Superintendants of the Schools, in connection with the body of Missionaries; and specially to charge themselves, at a fixed stipend, with making the best provision for supplying any assistance that may be wanted in case of contingencies. Of the disposition of the Colonists to promote the education of their children, the Governor writes—

The people of the Colony are so fully sensible of the great benefit which their children would derive from good education, that several of them, at a very high expense to themselves, have sent their children home, and many others propose following the same steps.

* Further particulars have been given, since the Anniversary, at p. 298 of the Missionary Register for July.

In the course of last year, there were not less than 715 Scholars on the books—300 Boys, 212 Girls, and 203 Adults. Of these, there had been discharged 45 Boys, 74 Girls, and 118 Adults; leaving 255 Boys, 138 Girls, and 85 Adults. The average attendance had been 166 Boys, 56 Girls, and 56 Adults.

The want of proper accommodation had continued to be one cause of the irregular attendance; which had, however, been doubtless increased by the deficiency of Teachers. A School House and three School Rooms were in preparation. One of these School Rooms, for 200 Girls, was opened at the beginning of March: the other two are each to contain 200 Boys and Adults.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan, arriving in the beginning of December, entered, about a week after, on their labours. The attendance of the Boys, at that time, was reduced to 121; but increased, soon afterward, to 160: that of the Girls increased from 32 to 90; and, on the opening of the new room, to 107.

Kissey.

The Rev. G. R. Nyländer suffered much from sickness, in June, July, and August; but was mercifully spared. The youngest of his three daughters, between two and three years old, died during his illness. Assistance was sent by the Governor for the Boys' School: George Thomas, now received into the service of the Society, has continued to labour in the Schools. Mrs. Wenzel has remained in charge of the Females, and is very active and useful among them. The New Church has been opened.

The number of inhabitants was 1069, at the Official Return in January; but was considerably increased during the year. At Midsummer, Mr. Nyländer reported—

I have had an increase of the population of about 300 persons; so that the whole number now maintained by Government is upward of 800. About 450 Recaptured Africans are living near Kissey, and are subject to its regulations; but they never attend Divine Worship, and are, in consequence, destitute of all Christian Instruction: a few of them send their children to School, but very irregularly. Of the 800, about 450 attend Public Worship.

A further addition took place, in the next quarter; but about one-half of their number died. In February last, about 1000 people were under Mr. Nyländer's immediate care; and about 500 were living in huts near Kissey, but under his controul.

At Midsummer, the Schools had considerably increased: they contained 80 Boys and 150 Females. The Evening School had been diminished by the men being occupied in the cultivation of the land: in the next quarter it improved, and had an average attendance of about 70.

At Christmas, Mr. Nyländer reported as follows:—

Divine Service is attended on Sundays by 600 people and upward; and about 400 attend Morning and Evening Prayers on week-days. About 50 mechanics attend Evening School: 100 Boys and 100 Girls are at the Day Schools: a few married Women also attend, but very irregularly. George Thomas is of very great service to me: he is assistant at the Boys' School, and Clerk in the Church: when I am absent, or otherwise prevented from attending prayers, he is the only person who can take my place, and read and pray with the people.

A gradual increase of religious influence on the people was manifested during the year. In the earlier part of it Mr. Nyländer wrote—

With respect to the work of grace, I am sorry to state, that it looks rather dull. Those few who have been admitted into the Church of Christ, seem to have a desire to follow after the Lord, that they may increase in grace and knowledge; but it is through many stumblings and failings: others, though they have ears, yet do not take to heart what they hear. Our Church is, however, crowded every day, and more so on Lord's Days; and I cannot give way to thinking that all this should be in vain: the Lord will yet, in His own good time, cause His Word to accomplish that which pleases Him.

At Midsummer, he thus speaks—

I have baptized two men and two women this quarter, of whose sincerity I have no doubt. About twenty partake with me of the Lord's Supper.

Our Weekly Prayer-Meetings, on Wednesday and Saturday Evenings, are continued: a blessing rests on them; and I feel my spirits much revived, by the simple and, I believe, sincere expressions of my people. One Woman, for instance, who had some difficulties in her family, said, that, whatever troubles she might meet with, she was married to the Lord Jesus, and no trouble should drive her from Him. All express a steady desire to be found in Christ, testifying that of themselves they can do nothing: and these their sincere wishes they accompany with Christian-like conduct. May the Lord continue to water His vineyard for His great Name's sake!

At the close of the year, he writes—

It has pleased God still further to bless the preaching of His Word. On Christmas Day, I baptized 15 Adults, of both sexes; and a still greater number have applied for admission to the ordinance, some of whom are, I trust, under religious impressions. The number of Communicants will, in future, be 35.

In October, a Missionary Association was formed, when 4*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.* was collected. The Contributions for November were 1*l.* 16*s.* 1*d.*, and those for December, 1*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.*

Wellington.

In January last, John Sandy, one of the Native Teachers, was stationed at this place; which, at the last Return, had 547 inhabitants.* He had been previously stationed at Hastings, and had afterward assisted at Leopold and Regent.

Waterloo.

At this Station, the Rev. J. G. Wilhelm and Mrs. Wilhelm have been assisted by two Native Youths, W. Neville and W. Lawrence; and were joined, as before stated, by Mr. and Mrs. Lisk, who entered on their charge on the 12th of December, and were received by men, women, and children, with loud acclamations of welcome. Mr. Wilhelm had been but little interrupted, through the year, by sickness.

Daily Morning and Evening Worship had been maintained, and Divine Service on Sunday Mornings and Evenings: on Sunday Afternoons, Mr. Lisk catechises the Children.

The foundation-stone of St. Michael's Church,

* From a Letter which has appeared since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register, p. 393 of the Number for September, it appears that John Sandy had, in August, 36 Scholars in the Day School and 89 in the Evening.

which is to be a stone-building 72 feet by 48, was laid, on the 12th of February last, by Mr. Reffell, in the absence of the Governor: a Sermon was preached, on the occasion, by the Chaplain, the Rev. S. Flood. In the afternoon, the Missionary Association was organized; Joseph Reffell, Esq. in the Chair: when 5*l*. 11*s*. 8*d*. was collected.

At the time of the last Official Return, the population was 519, of whom 80 were Disbanded Soldiers. At Midsummer, Mr. Wilhelm reported an accession of 163 liberated from Slave Vessels; but, at Michaelmas, makes the following affecting representation respecting these new comers:—

> The mortality among these poor men, women, and children, was so great, that of 163 whom I received, 54 have died since the 1st of June. What dreadful evils does the Slave Trade occasion! I alone have to report fifty-four murders as the result of it within one quarter of a year!

The Scholars were at Lady Day 50 Boys and 76 Girls: at Midsummer they had increased, chiefly by new comers, to 70 Boys and 130 Girls. At the end of May the Girls were 140, but the newly-liberated were very weak, and ten had pined away and died: 14 more soon followed, reducing the number to 116: they were carried off by consumptive diseases, contracted by their treatment on board the Slave Vessels.

In the early part of the year there were 15 Communicants, who walked consistently with their Christian Profession. Seven of these had been baptized in the preceding half-year, six of whom had belonged to the Christian Institution. At Michaelmas, Mr. Wilhelm had the pain to report—

> The profane life and conduct of some of the Disbanded Soldiers settled here, and of some Freetown People that were employed in the Station, seem to have effected much mischief, in having caused some to backslide and others to remain careless about their souls.

At the close of the year, Mr. Wilhelm gives the following summary:—

> The Disbanded Soldiers are, at present, 86 in number, and 66 Women: quietness and order were kept up among them. The Liberated Africans are 183 Mechanics and Labourers, 73 Women, 110 School Girls, 69 School Boys, and about 60 little Children of two years old and under; all together forming a population of 647 souls. The Communicants are 16. The Day and Evening Schools have been attended regularly; the latter by 52 Mechanics (single men), besides the married men, who attend more or less in number, being left to their own choice. Having received Mr. and Mrs. Lisk for assistants, we intend to open an Evening School for the Women.

Hastings.

It was stated in the last Report, that William Davis, a Native Teacher, had been placed at Hastings, and afterward removed to Wilberforce. John Sandy, another of the Native Teachers, succeeded him at Hastings, in the beginning of last year; and continued here till the Governor appointed one of the American Settlers to the charge of this Station: when, after assisting at Leopold and Regent, he was stationed, as mentioned before, at Wellington. Hastings contained, by the last Return, 171 people.

Kent.

The inhabitants of Kent were 418 at the last Return. In June 107 new people were added from a captured Spanish Schooner; but many of these died. In November, a further addition was made from captured vessels. The Settlement appears to be comparatively very healthy.

Mr. Beckley has continued in charge of the Settlement; Mrs. Renner having had the care of the Females. On the 4th of February, Mr. Beckley was married at Regent, by Mr. Düring, to Mr. Johnson's Sister.

The Return of Scholars for the Year is as follows:—

	Lady Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	12	30	40	98
Girls' Day School	49	70	66	103
Adults' Evening School	25	50	50	32
Total	86	150	156	233

At the beginning of the year there were but few Boys in the Settlement: but, in June, a considerable accession was obtained from a captured Slave Ship; and, in the last Quarter, large additions from the same source. Of these last Mr. Beckley writes, at Christmas—

On the 11th of November, we received 59 Boys and 39 Girls, captured by H. M. S. Cyane, from the Gallinas; some of whom came only three days' journey from this place. They are the most promising Children whom I have seen: some of them have already made considerable progress.

Mr. Johnson visited this Settlement in March, and administered the Lord's Supper to ten Native Communicants: this was the first time of its celebration at the Station. He again visited it in May*, in company of Mr. Reffell and the Rev. S. Flood; on which occasion the Communicants were Sixteen.

Mr. Beckley found his situation, at first, difficult and discouraging; but was animated by the prospect of increasing usefulness. Daily Morning and Evening Prayer is better attended than ever: a great desire is manifested among the people to hear the Word of God: on Sundays the Place of Worship is full. Several have become altered characters. He writes at Michaelmas—

There still remain many flinty hearts, and stubborn and perverse wills; and these persons are used by the Wicked One, not only to disturb the peace of the town, but to endeavour to destroy the peace of the Christian.

York.

This Settlement, which, at the last Return, had 494 inhabitants, was repeatedly visited† by Mr. Johnson in the course of last year. The People had built a Place of Worship, and heard Mr. Johnson, on his first visit, in March, with great attention: several were anxious to be baptized; and were placed by him under the instruction of William Allen, the Native Youth who came hither from Leopold, as mentioned in the last Report: some appeared to be under much concern for their souls: one woman said to another, on looking at Mr. Johnson, "Ah, them words that White Man talk, go through my heart!"

---

* Some account of these visits is given at pp. 141 and 142 of the Missionary Register for March.

† See Missionary Register for March, pp. 140 and 141.

In May, Mr. Johnson found the people eager to hear the Word of God. A great reformation in the manners of the people had resulted from his former visit. He wished to place John Sandy here, on his leaving Hastings; but could not prevail on him to settle so far from Regent's Town.

In August, Mr. Johnson again visited York, and succeeded in obviating some prejudices, which evil-disposed persons had attempted to instil into the minds of these simple people.

In November, Mr. Johnson writes—

The people at York have wonderfully improved; and many, I have reason to believe, are truly converted. Several have attended the Lord's Supper at Regent, at the last administration, and I have promised to administer it next Sunday week at York. I baptized 33 Adults and Children when I was there last, and expect to admit about 40 to the Lord's Supper. I hope, when our friends arrive, that we shall be able to furnish York with a Schoolmaster at least. We have begun a road, and hope to be soon able to make the tour to York and Kent on horseback.

It has been already stated that the Rev. C. W. Beckauer was appointed to this Station.

Charlotte.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, with the assistance of John Jackson, a Native mentioned in the last Report, have continued in charge of this Settlement, and have been generally in the enjoyment of health. A new house has been built for them.

Mr. Taylor states the inhabitants, at the close of the year, at 676: of these, 137 were received from Slave Ships in June, and 129 in November. In reference to these last, he writes—

It was pleasing to see how anxious the people were to take the new-comers to their houses, and make them comfortable. Having no clothes for them, I said that the women must remain in the School House till clothes could be made for them; unless any of them were willing to go and fetch their clothes, and lend them till they were supplied. This was received with great pleasure; and, in a little time, women were coming from all parts of the Town with clothes for them; so that they were all exhausted very soon, and some of the women obliged to return with their clothes only, and sorrow depicted on their countenances.

The Quarterly Returns of the Schools were as follows:—

	Lady Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	33	62	63	63
Girls' Day School	49	66	57	66
Adults' Evening School	57	57	100	126
Total	139	185	220	255

At Christmas, 1821, the total number was 240: the cause of its subsequent reduction was stated in the last Report. Mr. Taylor writes, at Michaelmas, in reference to this—

The Evening School for Adults, I am happy to say, again resumes a hopeful appearance, in consequence of His Excellency's having given me positive orders that all the artificers and the young men among the labourers should constantly attend School. I have not been able to carry these orders into effect, for want of a large School-room.

A Sunday School was opened on the arrival of John Jackson.

A School House, 50 feet by 30, built some time since, and used as a Place of Worship, is become insufficient to accommodate more than half the inhabitants. On Sundays the piazzas are filled from end to end; but the people do not attend so well on week-days: the hearts of the great majority seem, as yet, insensible to the blessings of the Gospel. The influence of religion is, nevertheless, increasing.

Nine Natives had been admitted to the Lord's Supper, but one was afterwards dismissed for inconsistent conduct. Of the rest, Mr. Taylor says—

They often comfort me when cast down, by their simple experience, their humility, and their growth in grace.

The Members will be pleased and instructed by the lively manner in which some of these people illustrate their feelings. One said—

That man who trusts to himself is a fool; he stand like a man who wants to go to his country without a canoe or a ship; he jump into the water and swim till the shark catch him, and then he go down; so those who trust in themselves: they go on till they drop down into hell. As for me my heart stand like a man have gun and powder, he shoot plenty; so my sin shoot Jesus Christ every day, but he God, and cannot die: suppose he no shew mercy to me I am in hell.

Another said—

I am foolish too much: no sabby nothing. I stand like a little child, no more lay on his mother's lap; and if he want something he cry, but cannot tell what he wants. So I am so ignorant I can't tell what to pray for as I ought, but I cry, and Jesus hear my cry.

A third thus described his sense of dependence on Divine Strength:—

I stand like grass what grow in the brook: when the water is low, he lift up his head, and look fine; but when the big water come, it knock him down, and run over him. Or like grass grow in the street: one man walk, and mash him; and another mash him; but he still live, although he does not grow high. So I stand: one trouble and another come, but I still live, because God keep me!

A fourth thus expressed his inability to be sufficiently thankful for Divine Mercies:—

Suppose a poor beggar live there, and one big Gentleman call him and give him 600*l.*, he can't tell how to thank him: no more—he look at him. So me stand when I look back and see all them mercies from the hand of Jesus. I cannot thank him enough, but I look at him; suppose I was to begin now, and tell you all them mercies I receive from the hand of my God, (tae) till day close, I cannot finish: but O, me no good, dirt better more than me. I thank Jesus Christ (but cannot thank him enough) for his mercies toward me.

The Evening Meetings are continued with great advantage*, both to the Teacher and the people.

The industry of the people is manifest, from the following statement by Mr. Taylor:—

A wall round the public buildings of the Settlement, containing 9000 solid feet of masonry, has been completed; and a School House begun for the Boys.

During the Christmas Quarter, 3067 bushels of Cassada were sold to Government, amounting to 134*l.* 3*s.* 7½*d.*

A road has been begun toward Hastings, two miles of which are finished.

At a Meeting of the Missionary Association, held on

* Some particulars on this subject, in evidence of the Influence of Religion among the people, are printed at pp. 170 and 171 of the Missionary Register for the last month (April).

the 10th of December, the sum of 3*l.* 19*s.* 2½*d.* was collected. The Contributions of the Year had been 9*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* The spirit cherished by these Meetings may be judged of, by some of the Resolutions, in recommending which the Natives take their share:—

That this Meeting earnestly urge on the Members of this Association, the necessity of uniting in fervent prayer to God, for the abundant effusion of the Holy Spirit on all engaged in the Work; that so the ensuing year may be more prosperous than the last, and more productive of glory to God, in the Salvation of immortal Souls.

That this Meeting humbly unite in returning thanks to Almighty God, for raising up, and sending out, a fresh supply of much-wanted labourers into this benighted part of the World.

That this Meeting, reflecting on those Countries which are still in darkness, cannot but feel sorrow in the consideration; and are more than ever convinced of the necessity of praying, with David of old, O Lord, send out thy light and thy truth.

The system of Collectors was adopted at this Meeting, and six Natives were appointed to that office. The benefit was soon felt, in more than doubling the next month's contributions.

Leopold.

Mr. and Mrs. Davey have continued to labour at this Settlement. He received some assistance from John Sandy, when incapacitated by sickness. The inhabitants were increased, during the year, by accessions from Slave Ships, from 420 to 652.

In March of last year, Mrs. Davey was safely delivered of twin sons: one was born dead, and the other survived but a few hours. She was mercifully supported during this trial, and received many proofs of the sympathy of the people.

The Quarterly Returns of the Schools here follow:—

	Lady Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	37	65	52	64
Girls' Day School	33	56	44	41
Adults' Evening School	50	20	50	180
Total	120	141	146	285

The Evening School passed through the vicissitudes of that at Charlotte, from the same cause: the accession, at the end of the year, was so large, that room was wanted for the accommodation of the Scholars. The Schools, in general, make a steady progress.

Of the state of the people Mr. Davey writes, in the early part of the year—

They manifest greater attention than before to the means of grace: frequently, on Sundays, many have to stand outside. The seed which has been sown begins to appear: there are two Communicants, and three Candidates are under preparation.

At the close of the year, he reports—

The attendance at Divine Service on Sundays is now upwards of 600—who appear to listen with attention to the Word of God. The place has long been far too small: the Piazzas on each side are now so filled on Sundays, that some are obliged to stand upon the steps. I am about to enlarge the present place by adding galleries on each side, and at one end, which will make room for about 300 more than at present. The attendance at Morning and Evening Prayers is also very good: we have three Services on Sundays, as usual, besides prayer in the morning.

At the Anniversary of the Missionary Association, held in November, 3*l*. 8*s*. 1½*d*. was collected; making, with the monthly subscriptions of the year, 10*l*. 1*s*. 6*d*.

Collectors are now established at the other Settlements. Mr. Davey writes, on this subject—

I have now adopted the plan of the other Towns, of having Collectors to the Association. And it occurred to me that it would be well to allow one Register to each Settlement for the use of Collectors, that it might be lent from one to the other: my reason for saying this is, I lent one of mine to a Collector, and have not been able to get it back again: the answer which I received when I asked for it, was, he would pay me for it any thing that I liked to charge: this I, of course, declined, and allowed him to keep the Register.

Of the industry of the people, Mr. Davey says, at the close of the year—

Of our inhabitants, 124 are now able to support themselves; and have sold to Government, in the last Quarter, 1751 bushels of Cassada at 10½*d*. per bushel.

We have lately completed a wall, containing 9600 feet of masonry, which encloses the Dwelling House, Schools, Stores, Kitchens, and other Offices; and have begun a large stone-building for a School, 56 feet by 30.

Bathurst.

William Tamba, having been placed in charge of this Settlement, as stated in the last Report, continued to labour usefully among his countrymen till he was removed to Gloucester, to assist during Mr. Düring's visit to England. He was succeeded by William Davis, from Wilberforce. The people were 393 in number at the last Return.

Mr. Johnson, under whose superintendence these Native Teachers acted, writes, in March of last year—

I examined, at Bathurst, some Candidates for the Lord's Supper, and admitted eight, who will join us at Regent on the next celebration of the ordinance. There were several more, whom I thought it proper to keep a little longer on trial. I believe that our sable brother Tamba has been made a blessing to some of his countrymen.

At Midsummer, Mr. Johnson reports—

At Bathurst, also, it pleases God to carry on His gracious work: the people are, in general, quiet, and attend the means of grace regularly. The eight Communicants whom I admitted, attend the Lord's Supper regularly at Regent: I have since received 11 as Candidates for Baptism, who are instructed, three times a week, by William Davis, who is now in charge of the Settlement.

At Michaelmas, the Communicants were 15; and, at Christmas, 19.

The Schools rapidly increase, as will appear from the following statement:—

	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	44	44	46
Men's Evening School	33	50	90
Women's Evening School	10	30	40
Total	87	124	176

The sum of 1*l.* 5*s.* 5½*d.* was contributed to the Society.

Regent's Town.

The work of Divine Grace, which has been so remarkably displayed in this Settlement, has continued its progress throughout the year. The Rev. W Johnson, as already stated, had to lament the loss of Mrs. Johnson's assistance; his Sister continued her active and useful services, particularly in the Female Schools, until her marriage, mentioned before, with Mr. Beckley, and her consequent removal to Kent. Mr. and Mrs. Norman have also continued their labours. Of the effectual aid rendered by David Noah, in various departments, the Committee have before spoken. John Johnson and William Bickersteth, from the Christian Institution, assisted David Noah in the Schools: other Youths from the same place, with the First Classes in the Day Schools, acted as Teachers in the Evening Schools. At Michaelmas, the whole number of Ushers and Teachers, male and female, was 47. John Sandy assisted Mr. Johnson in preparing the Candidates for Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

In the Official Return, at the beginning of the year, the inhabitants amounted to 1551; who were all, with the exception of 28, Liberated Africans. In June they were increased, by newly-liberated Slaves, to 1750.

The state of the Schools for three of the Quarters of the Year was as follows:—

	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	182	178	212
Girls' Day School	193	174	191
Men's Evening School	352	439	465
Women's Evening School	40	42	41
Total	767	833	909

The progress of the Schools has been very satisfactory. A considerable number of new children were received in June, but many of them died; but a rapid increase took place in the Men's Evening School by the addition of the newly-arrived.

The Church has been improved and enlarged, for the FIFTH time. In this, and similar matters, Mr. Norman's knowledge of building has been of great advantage. It was, at first, only 40 feet by 30; but is now 80 by 64, with galleries which will accommodate 450 persons: yet it is still often crowded to such excess, that many are obliged to stand outside. The tower, which had fallen, is rebuilt—22 feet by 21, and 70 feet high.

The attendance on Public Worship, both on Sundays and Week-days, has continued most exemplary —old and young crowding the House of God. On the religious state of the Congregation, Mr. Johnson, in April of last year, gives the following particulars:—

I have felt reluctant to number the Communicants; but, as some one has done it for me, I hesitate no longer to give you the exact account of the Church of Christ at Regent's Town:—

Present at the Lord's Table, yesterday, April 28, 1822	310
Absent through sickness	30
Excluded for a short time; and on trial, having been baptized, and are, strictly speaking, Communicants	38
		378
Excommunicated, but attend Church	21
Communicants who have died	13

The steady increase of the work of grace among the people will be seen from the regular accession of Communicants during the year. At Lady Day, they were, as above stated, 340—at Midsummer, they were 375—at Michaelmas, 400—and at Christmas, 424.

On Christmas Day, the Communicants from Gloucester attending at Regent, about 470 Native Christians assembled at the Lord's Table, to commemorate the Birth and Death of that Almighty Saviour, of whose miracles of Grace and Mercy this extraordinary company exhibited an evidence such as the Church has seldom seen.

To the general state of the people, Mr. Johnson bears this striking testimony:—

Love and unity among the Communicants continue to increase; and morality does, at large, more prevail at Regent: disputes diminish very fast, and those which do occur are trifling.

That exemplary character of the inhabitants of this place, to which Captain Sabine has borne so strong a testimony, is formed upon the Word of God. The authority of that Word, in connexion with Christian Discipline, supersedes, among them, almost all necessity for human laws; and, such is the influence of the Communicants, by their honourable walk as Christians, on the rest of the community, that not only are all relics of former Superstitions swept from the town, but flagrant vice and profaneness are almost entirely unknown.

The whole body of the people form one industrious community. More ground was cleared in the year ending at Lady Day of last year, than in any preceding year. At that time, 400 acres of land, forming five years before one entire forest, were brought into cultivation; and about 600 persons were supported by the produce, which is sold in the markets of Regent and Freetown. Of one Farmer, Mr. Johnson says—

> He sold, last year, Cassada 30*l.*, Cocoa 19*l.*, Indian Corn 3*l.*—total 52*l.* He has more than this value now on the ground—some Indian Corn to sell, which is good for seed—and a great quantity of Pine-apples, Plantains, and Bananas now growing; and clears ground for Rice. Three years ago, he bought two goats, which have since produced fifteen. He is building a substantial house. All this is the fruit of his labour!

The people continue to give cheerfully of the produce of their industry, to support that work which has been made such a blessing to themselves. The contributions to the Missionary Association amounted for the year to 74*l.* 10*s.* 2½*d.*

Mr. Johnson's communications through the year have contained, as usual, many powerful illustrations of the Influence of Religion on the Christian Natives. The Manner in which the Word of God is applied for Conviction and Consolation, their Watchfulness, their Tenderness of Conscience, the Benefits of Christian Discipline and Admonition, their Sympathy with their Minister in his Afflictions, their Affectionate Confidence in him, the Growth of Religion among the Young, and the Increase and Efficiency of Native Teachers—on all these topics Mr. Johnson's late despatches have furnished very impressive details*: but, for these, and many other interesting and instructive particulars respecting the Work of Divine Grace on

* These details have appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for July, pp. 307—326. To the four Quarterly Reports for 1822, is added that for Lady Day of the present year—the last sent in by him to his brethren. These documents will be read with the hearts of the African Converts at different Stations, the Committee must refer to the communications printed in the Missionary Register, which continue to be read, they are persuaded, all over the country, with great personal profit. They cannot refrain, however, from quoting a few instances of the manner in which Christian Principles control and regulate the tempers and habits of this people.

That their religion is the "Life of God in the Soul of Man," and that their exemplary conduct springs from a Divine principle implanted in the heart, will appear from their simple and very affecting statements of their feelings.

One Man said—

Massa, them things God done for me pass every thing. Who live there, who will die for another? Oh, the Lord Jesus die for sinner—yes, for them people who been sin against Him! I sit down, and consider this; and I don't know what to say: I never hear such thing before. Sometimes people say, "Such men do me good very much;" but what the Lord Jesus Christ do, pass every thing: He love so much, till He die to save me. Oh I love Him, so little! That time I want to love Him my heart no willing—he always run about. That trouble me much—but yet He love sinner! Ah, true—that pass every thing.

with peculiar interest, as among the last communications which will appear from that distinguished Servant of Christ. In Appendix III. will be found a series of Extracts from his Journal, from February 1822 to February 1823. The Committee will here subjoin an entry made in the following month. It will be read with mournful interest:—

March 19, 1823—In my distress, I cried unto the Lord; and He heard me. Blessed be Thy name, O my Father, reconciled through the blood of Jesus, for having once more restored my sight.

My eyes have been very much affected with ophthalmia, so that I almost despaired of ever recovering my sight again. However, through the infinite mercy of God, my right eye is restored. Last Sunday Morning, I was just able to read the text: Eph. ii. 18: For through Him, we both have an access by one Spirit unto the Father. In the evening I could not see the text, having no light in the pulpit, as I was not able to bear any: I preached from Rom. ix. 14: What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid! I found it good to speak on these words; but rather difficult, as I could not refer to the Scriptures as usual. On Monday Evening, the inflammation in my right eye began, at once, to abate; and, yesterday morning, it was nearly restored. Oh, what shall I render to the Lord for all His benefits toward me!

I felt thankful that, though I could not read, the Lord had not shut my mouth. Two Officers of the Navy attended Divine Worship last Sunday, and several on the Sunday before last.

The Lord is still pleased to bless the poor and feeble endeavours of His sinful dust. O Lord my God, be thou pleased to receive all the praise and glory!

Another Man said that the Lord Jesus Christ was to him as his breakfast and his supper—his morning and his night! and added—

I can put no trust in any thing beside; for all thing I see is sinful: in my heart, nothing but sin: in the world, nothing but sin. The Lord Jesus Christ, He take all sin and die for it; and He only good, and only able to save. That make Him my every thing.

The Committee cannot refrain from quoting an instance of the blessing attending the enlightened and faithful use of the Ordinances of the Church.

Mr. Johnson, having observed some declension of spirit in the Communicants, assembled them all in the Church before the Morning Service, on the day of administering the Lord's Supper. The scene which followed will be best described in his own words:—

When the clock struck nine, the whole, except the sick, came in twelve different parties, according to the division of the town, to Church. My heart did rejoice when I saw this scene. When they had entered the Church, the Churchwardens came and told me that all who were well had come. I went; and, as some had been readmitted, I read and explained such passages of Scripture as were suited to humble them; and exhorted them to carefulness and watchfulness: I also read and explained the Commination Service, and concluded by urging them to self-examination and repentance; and, when my concience was satisfied, I concluded with prayer. Two young men then came forward, and said that they had quarrelled, and desired to make peace with each other before they came to the Lord's Supper: this was soon effected, as each said that he was in the wrong! A woman said to me, that she had spoken ill behind another woman's back, and wished to beg her pardon, which, of course, I advised her to do: she went and did so, and the offended woman forgave her with cheerfulness. I was so delighted with the simple mode in which they thus dealt with one another, that I scarcely could forbear shedding a tear of joy on seeing that my children walk in truth. Oh that these beloved people may continue in their simplicity!

The Christian Institution.

The Youths under education were about twenty-four in number throughout the Year. They made considerable progress. The assistance rendered by some of them in the Regent Schools has been stated. Two of them have been married to Young Women brought up in those Schools—John Johnson, to Rachel Garnon; and William Bickersteth, to Sarah Allen: they are become Assistants in the Regent Schools*. Two Youths, Henry Johnson and Edward Bickersteth, have been admitted from those Schools into the Seminary.

Gloucester.

The absence of the Rev. Henry Düring and his family from the Colony, on account of health, from the 3d of May of last Year to the 19th of January following, has been stated before. It was a cause of great pain to him to leave his affectionate and improving people: he would gladly have sought renewed health by a short residence at the Isles de Loss or in the Gambia; but a visit to Europe was become indispensable. He thus feelingly expresses himself on this subject, in a Letter addressed to the Secretary, March 6, 1822:—

My personal trials weigh down my spirits so much, that I am like a worm crushed in the dust. I have had to undergo many severe sicknesses, since the distressing year 1819. Last year, I was twice attacked by Cholera Morbus: this present season, the same complaint has seized me again, and with more violence than ever. But that which most disturbs me is, that the principal Medical Men leave me not even a distant hope of permanent recovery, unless I return to Europe for a season.

But how this is to be done, I know not. It is here where my distress of mind takes its rise; and what the issue of this afflicting providence may be, is only known to our God, who will surely glorify His ever-adorable Name in making darkness light, and crooked things straight.

The consideration that I have, once for all, given myself up to the Lord's cause among the Heathen, and that henceforth I am no more my own, makes it my duty to take advice, if that may be conducive to future usefulness: this is the easiest side. But when I consider the people among whom I have laboured these five years past, and who are endeared to me far above all that is natural or merely human, it is not so easy to leave them without somebody to give them continually seasonable advice, which they cannot do without for one single day.

* Many interesting and encouraging particulars relative to these Young People, and the other Youths in the Seminary, have appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for July, pp. 321—326.

This, my Dear Sir, is a sore trial to me, and which I have great reason to believe augments my present sickness.

Of the state of the people when Mr. Düring left, he writes—

Divine Service, on Sundays, is regularly and well attended, three times a day. Morning and Evening Prayer is also regularly kept up, and well attended, though not so numerously as on Sundays; and it is my comfort, that those who come, I have reason to believe, come with a sincere heart to hear the Word of God.

As it respects the Communicants, I am happy to say, the Work of Grace is still going on; and is more and more evident by their bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit. Their number is gradually increasing.

The people here also manifest, by their industry, the genuine influence of religion; and have doubled the produce and live-stock of the preceding year.

The Governor, on a visit to Gloucester soon after his return from England, in company of a Naval Officer, bore an honourable testimony to the powerful operation of religion on the people. The Officer was so forcibly struck with their state, that, having seen much of Negroes who had enjoyed less advantages, he could scarcely be brought to credit the declaration that these had been under instruction only since the end of 1816. Inquiring what method had been pursued to bring them, from the deplorable condition in which they were received, to such a state, in so short a time, "No other," said His Excellency, "than teaching them the truths of Christianity; which these Gentlemen were sent to propagate, by the Church Missionary Society: by this alone they have ruled them, and have raised them to a common level with other civilized nations; and, believe me," added Sir Charles, "if you admit Christian Teachers into your Island, you will find your Negroes soon become affectionate and faithful Servants to you!"

Mr. Düring furnished, when in London, at the request of the Committee, a brief view of the beginning and progress of the work in which he had been engaged: this sketch of the History of the Settlement, in connexion with his Journal of the early part of last year, and Mr. Johnson's statements, during Mr. Düring's absence, will have been read with much interest by the Members*.

In the last Official Return, the Inhabitants of Gloucester amounted to 697: when Mr. Düring left, they were 720; of whom 500, at least, were able to read the New Testament.

William Tamba was placed in charge of the Settlement, under Mr. Johnson's superintendence, during Mr. Düring's absence. At Midsummer, Mr. Johnson made the following Report:—

Things proceed much the same as when Br. Düring was here; and I shall endeavour to keep them so during his absence. Divine Service is attended as usual: six backsliders have, through the sovereign mercy of our God, been reclaimed; but two, on the other hand, have severely fallen: 11 Candidates for baptism have been received, and are now under a course of instruction. The number of Communicants is, at present, 51.

At Michaelmas, he states—

The Lord is pleased to carry on the Work of Mercy. On Sunday, the 8th of September, 14 Adults were admitted to the Lord's Supper, 11 of them having been baptized the same morning. A considerable number have since applied for Baptism: of these, 35 have been received as Candidates for that ordinance. The Communicants are 66. The people have behaved much to my satisfaction. The attendance on the Means of Grace is very regular.

At Christmas, he reported—

The Communicants are 98; and 27 Adults have been received as Candidates for Baptism and the Lord's Supper, and are daily instructed by W. Tamba.

In the first Quarter of last Year, the progress of the Schools was much impeded by sickness; and that of the Evening School was further hindered by the necessary attention to building and farming. In the subsequent Quarters, as will appear from the ensuing statement, great numbers attended:—

	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	72	48	90
Girls' Day School	64	78	75
Men's Evening School	111	109	74
Women's Evening School	2	0	8
Total	249	235	247

* The documents here mentioned are printed at pp. 102—109 of the Missionary Register for February.

The Contributions of the Year to the Missionary Association amounted to 14*l.* 13*s.* 9½*d.*

On Mr. Düring's return, he was received by the people with the most ardent affection. When he landed, a considerable number of the inhabitants of Gloucester were attending the market at Freetown. The news of his landing was soon carried to Gloucester. Many others flocked down to welcome their beloved Minister, and he and his family were conducted, in triumphant procession, to the scene of his labours *.

On the 12th of February he addressed the following Letter to the Secretaries :—

I rejoice exceedingly in being again permitted to address you from this interesting spot, which I was obliged to quit for a time, to my great sorrow.

The seed of eternal life, which is the Word of the Lord sown by our instrumentality, though in great weakness, is springing up continually, and bringing forth fruit to the praise of His name. The two or three Discourses, which I last preached just before I left, had great effect on many of the people; not only on the Communicants, but on others—some of whom were admitted to Baptism during my absence, and others are now Candidates for that ordinance.

Nothing could have given me more comfort and encouragement, than to meet things in a state of which I had not the least expectation: for this greatly adds to my assurance, that the work is not of man but of the Lord Jehovah : Acts xvi. 6 & 7. Compare with Chap. xviii. 9, 10, & 11. The fear that I should probably find few, if any at all, of my people, who had stood fast on the Lord's side, continually harassed me while absent; but, thanks be to God, this had no foundation but in the weakness of my faith.

William Tamba has conducted the whole to my entire satisfaction; and the people seem to like him much: for, as yet, I have not heard a single individual complain of him; but, on the contrary, all speak of him with respect.

* Very interesting details on this subject have been given, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for September; with Mr. Düring's Journal from Jan. 19 to April 10, 1823. It grieves the Committee to be obliged to add, that Mr. Düring's return to the Colony appears to have been premature; his sickness having renewed its attacks with such violence, that it was feared that he would scarcely survive to embark on another voyage to Europe. See pp. 381 and 384—393 of the Missionary Register for September.

Wilberforce.

At the last official Return, the nhabitants of Wilberforce were 595. William Davis, one of the Native Teachers, was put in charge of this place, as stated in the former Report. He was afterward removed, as already mentioned, to Bathurst: and was suceeded, at this station, by James Thomson, another of the Communicants at Regent; who continued here till the appointment, in January, of Mr. and Mrs. Metzger.

During a considerable part of last year, James Thomson read the Scriptures, morning and evening, and on Sundays, with the people: the attendance was but small. A few Children were taught, and about 20 Adults in an Evening School. Mr. and Mrs. Metzger were heartily welcomed by the people: the day after his arrival, about 100 persons assembled for Evening Prayer, but an attack of fever obliged him to return to Freetown for medical advice, where he was confined nearly three weeks, some or other of the people from Wilberforce coming almost daily with affectionate inquiries after his health.

BULLOMS.

In the early part of last year, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Düring visited the Bullom Shore, the seat of Mr. Nyländer's labours for several years. They were accompanied by John Johnson, the Senior Student at the Christian Institution, who is a native of the country. The object of the visit was to prepare the way for the renewal of the Mission, which will probably be attempted, as the people seemed very desirous of having their countryman settled among them*.

SHERBRO COUNTRY.

It was intended that Mr. and Mrs. Metzger should be fixed at the Plantains, with the view of prosecuting Missionary Labours in the Sherbro Country; but circumstances required, on their arrival in the Colony, that they should render assistance at one of the Stations within its borders.

* Mr Johnson's Journal of this visit is printed at pp. 138—140 of the Missionary Register for March.

In the mean while, there is reason to apprehend that some of the Chiefs of this country have not been proof against the seducing profits of the Slave Trade; which scandalous and criminal traffic will continue, so long as its existence is allowed, to counteract the benevolent efforts and blast the reasonable hopes of the friends of oppressed and injured Africa.

GOLD COAST.

The Committee have, on former occasions, expressed their conviction that the annexation of the various Settlements on the coast of Africa under the Government of Sierra Leone would tend to the advancement of Christianity. Some extracts of Letters from Sir Charles Mac Carthy, will manifest both the wants of the Settlements on the Gold Coast and His Excellency's anxiety that they should be speedily supplied.

He writes to the Secretary, under date of July 1, 1822—

I beg to call your attention to the Gold Coast, as a place from whence much good might be diffused. Except among the few Boys and Girls attending School at Cape Coast, and the Boys at Accra, you can hardly say that Christianity is known by NAME among the Natives living under the protection of our flag. I have recommended the appointment of a Chaplain at Cape Coast, and another for Accra. Provisions are, in both places, very abundant, and much cheaper than at Sierra Leone. I would propose that the two new Chaplains should leave Europe, so as to arrive upon the Gold Coast in November or December: as I purpose going thither about the same time, I should be happy to afford them every assistance.

The two European Schoolmasters at Cape Coast and Accra were educated in London under the National System, which they understand; and would readily comply with the instructions and wishes of the Chaplains: the Boys under them have made some progress. With two of their assistants, I have formed Schools at Annamaboe and Dix Cove. I shall wait with some degree of anxiety to hear of your intentions, as early as you can answer this.

In a Letter of Jan. 4th, from Cape Coast Castle, His Excellency writes—

I look upon this coast as affording a very promising prospect.

The School here is double the number that it was in May: that at Accra is going on well. The School which I established at Annamaboe has upward of 60 Scholars, and is limited to that number only by want of room. Christianity is unheard of, except among the Scholars.

In a subsequent Letter, Sir Charles adds—

This part of Africa, although for nearly two centuries under British Protection, is, I regret to say, almost that time behind Sierra Leone in civilization and a knowledge of Christianity. It will, I fear, require some time to eradicate the superstition under which the Natives at present labour. Some, however, have evinced a desire for improvement; and the advantages of a change of System begin already to be apparent—there is an ample field for well-disposed Missionaries to labour in; and, with industry and zeal, a fair prospect of an abundant harvest.

Government acceded to the proposal of Sir Charles with respect to Chaplains; and have appointed one of them, the Rev. Richard Harold. This Gentleman sailed with Sir Robert Mends, in the Owen Glendower; and has engaged to render every assistance to the Society's designs, whenever the increase of Labourers shall enable it to enter on this new sphere *.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

This sphere of Christian Labour is increasing yearly in importance and begins to awaken deep interest in the breasts of all those benevolent men who labour for the conversion of Fallen Israel, the subjugation of the Mahomedan Antichrist, and the revival of the Ancient Christian Churches.

It is justly remarked in the Report of one of the County Associations, in accordance with the sentiments of the Committee in the last Report—

The shores of the Mediterranean have recently been the scene of tremendous convulsions, both physical and political †; and it may be hoped, that when the judgments of God are thus visibly abroad in the earth, its inhabitants, and particularly those who are the subjects of their awful visitation, will learn righteousness. It is at least the duty of those, who hold in their hands and treasure in their hearts that source of consolation, which may enable the sufferer to meet the horrors of the sword, the earthquake, and the pestilence, as light afflictions, not to lose such an opportunity of holding forth the Word of Life.

* A more particular account of the state of the Schools on the Gold Coast, and of the prospects opening there for benevolent exertions, will be found at pp. 330—332 of the Missionary Register for 1822.

† Various affecting particulars of the Divine Visitations here alluded to, with remarks upon them, will be found at pp. 20, 21, & 109—111, of the present Volume of the Missionary Register.

The Committee and the Representatives of the Society are alive to these views, and are anxious to improve every opening in Providence for pouring into the hearts of the afflicted the consolations and instructions of the Divine Word. The line, indeed, of the Society's duty with regard to this Mission has been clearly delineated in the Report of another Association:—

> In this quarter, the Society must necessarily proceed with much caution—planting her foot slowly and circumspectly, that there may be no occasion of retracing her steps. The opening page of the Book of Providence may speedily announce great changes, and even commotions: a way may thus be made for the progress of the pure and undefiled faith of the Gospel. Till then, the Society must wait with patience, watch with vigilance, and labour with perseverance, in the scene now opened—ready to hail the dawn of a brighter day.

The arrival of Mr. Jowett and his family at Malta, on the 27th of April of last year, on their return from this country, has been already mentioned; and also that of the Rev. T. C. Deininger, on the 7th of December, to assist in his labours.

Mr. Jowett entered, without delay, on the various objects of pursuit which had engaged him in his first residence at Malta. He resumed his correspondence with various quarters, and rendered every aid in his power to the circulation of the Scriptures by the Bible Society. He has since given much attention to the improvement of his knowledge of Arabic, with a view to his Journeys among those to whom that language is vernacular; being fully aware, from experience, that confidence cannot be established between parties who can communicate only through an interpreter. He had it in view to undertake, as soon as circumstances would allow, a Journey in Syria.

Mr. Jowett's Volume of "Christian Researches" has awakened, as might be expected, much new interest in the field of his labours; and has greatly enlarged the views of his Readers, with respect not only to the nature and difficulties of the work to be done, but to the best means of accomplishingit. The Committee have no doubt but that the same line of research, continued as the health and opportunities of the Society's Representatives may allow, will hereafter add much useful and important information to the stores already accumulated.

The translation of the Scriptures into Maltese is prosecuting, with the advantage of additional and learned aid: and, though objections are made to the circulation of copies among Roman Catholics, the Committee will not cease to avail themselves of every means in their power of procuring, in due time, a faithful Version of the Word of God into the language of these Islands. The assistance to be derived from such a Version in the acquisition of Vernacular Arabic is, of itself, an object of importance sufficient to induce the Society to proceed, should the time even be distant, which will however undoubtedly arrive, when every inhabitant of these countries will be freely permitted to read, in his own tongue wherein he was born, the wonderful works of God.

Authority has been given to Mr. Jowett by the Government to establish a Press in Malta, under regulations rendered necessary by local circumstances, and to which he will strictly conform. On this point, the Committee quote his own words, from a Letter of November 26th:—

> I feel most truly thankful to God, that a measure, tending to results of incalculable utility, has obtained the approbation of our Government. It shall be my constant endeavour, to act in such a manner as not to impair that good understanding, which subsists between your servants and their superiors in this Island. Government has allowed us liberty to do more good than we are at present able to do.

Two founts of Roman Types have been procured from Paris: founts of Greek and Arabic will be sent from this country. A Printing Press has been forwarded, and had safely arrived. A Printer will proceed from this country, with all despatch, competent to superintend the various parts of a Printing, Stereotype, and Lithographic Establishment. The use of the Press is rapidly increasing in these parts; and it will, doubtless, prove one of the chief instruments of reviving Knowledge and Truth on the surrounding shores. The Bashaw of Egypt has an Arabic Press at Caïro; and has been reprinting there the Society's Arabic Tract on the System of Mutual Instruction.

A Periodical Work, in Italian, communicating information on the state of mankind and on the plans in progress for their present and everlasting welfare, will be, of all methods of employing the Press, one of the most important; and may serve, hereafter, as the basis of similar works in Greek and in Arabic.

The state of Mr. Deininger's health disqualifying him for the West-Africa Mission, for which he was originally designed, he was appointed to co-operate with Mr. Jowett, in the hope that the climate of these seas would prove genial to his constitution: at the date of the latest intelligence this hope was not disappointed*. Mr. Jowett suffered more in health, last summer, than in any other since he had been in Malta, except that of 1820: his visit to England, from the excitement of mind and variety of occupation to which it led, had not sufficiently recruited his strength.

Meetings are held on Tuesday and Saturday Evenings, for religious edification and prayer. A spirit of friendly intercourse is maintained with other Labourers; and conferences held with them, on the best methods of promoting true religion among the various classes round these shores.

Mr. Deininger was devoting his attention to the acquisition of such languages, as would enable him to enter into full co-operation with Mr. Jowett. He was opening a correspondence with his Brethren lately gone to the neighbourhood of the Black and Caspian Seas, and with those also in West Africa with whom he was originally designed to labour. The thoughts and prayers, indeed, of zealous Missionaries in these seas will not fail to be much occupied with that dreary region, which forms their southern border. Mr. Deininger well expresses the feelings and desires, which a first sight of it may be supposed to awaken in the breast of a true Christian. In sailing through the Straits of Gibraltar, he says—

* The Committee are concerned to add, that it appears, from communications received since the Anniversary, that it was found necessary for Mr Deininger to retire, for a season, as the hot weather came on, to the cooler climate of the north of Italy. He left Malta, on the 9th of July, for Leghorn.

> My attention was arrested, far more than by any other object, by Africa's far and wide extending coasts. Ah, there is not yet one of the servants of the Lord preaching the Gospel!—not yet the voice of one crying in this wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make his paths straight: Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. May the Lord prosper the Missions in the South and the West; and may the revival of the Abyssinian Church to renewed Christian Exertions soon take place, and the Northern Coasts of Africa soon be awakened; and may all advance, till the four divisions of Labourers shall meet in the centre of Africa, and rehearse to one another the wondrous things which the Lord has wrought through their instrumentality! Watchman! what of the night? Watchman! will the night soon elapse, and the day soon break forth?—The Ape hill presented a very fine scene. I saw the vapour of the sea ascend up its sides and gradually form into clouds, which discharged a heavy rain upon us the following day. May a rain of grace, like that which the Apostles witnessed on the Day of Pentecost, soon be showered down on Africa's spiritual deserts, and render its whole languishing Continent a blooming and a fruitful field!

CALCUTTA AND NORTH-INDIA MISSION.

In reference to India, the Society will have heard with regret the early removal of the First Bishop of that extensive See from his labours*—a regret which can receive, in connexion with submission to the Divine Will, no greater mitigation than the appointment of a Successor, who has already given an ample pledge, in his long-tried zeal in support of Missions, that the interests of Christianity in India will be an object of his unfailing solicitude; and that the efforts in that country of the Societies more immediately connected with the United Church, will have the benefit of his cordial support and able direction.

* Some particulars of the death of the late Bishop are printed at pp. 513—515 of the Missionary Register for 1822; and a brief view of his character at p. 82 of the present Volume.

On the appointment of the Right Hon. Lord Amherst as Governor-General of India, a Deputation waited on his Lordship from the Committee, to state the objects and views of the Society, and to present a copy of its Proceedings.

The Corresponding Committee, in their Fifth Report, give the following review of the progress by which the Society's affairs in the North of India have attained their present importance:—

From the establishment of the Church Missionary Society in 1800, opportunities have been carefully sought by the Committee, of entering on Missionary Labours in India. It was not, however, till 1807, that any direct part was taken by the Society in the propagation of Christianity at this Presidency; and so unfavourable were circumstances at that time to the subject of Missions generally, that the Corresponding Committee could find no opening for pursuing the direct objects of the Society. The funds placed at their disposal were, therefore, in the first instance, appropriated to assist in translating the Scriptures: afterward, assistance was afforded toward the establishment of Native Schools; and various friends of Christianity were supplied with means to improve opportunities of imparting religious instruction in their respective circles. Thus Missionary Stations began to be formed, and pressing applications sent home to the Parent Society for Missionaries to cultivate the ground thus broken up. All the Stations occupied by the Calcutta Corresponding Committee have been formed in this manner; and, in some other promising spheres of labour, where already partial assistance has been afforded, the Committee hope that the Parent Society may be able eventually to supply the necessary aid of an Ordained Missionary.

At Six Stations, Missionary Labours are pursued; and, at two others, Schools are maintained. In the Schools at the different Stations, upward of 2000 Children are receiving education.

The labours of the Committee at these several Stations have not been in vain; and, in but very few instances, less than an attentive observation of the progress of religious truth under similar circumstances might have led to expect.

Your Committee have made every effort to increase the number of LABOURERS in this Mission. The arrival of the Rev. Jacob Maisch and the Rev. Theophilus Reichardt on the 20th of October, and the sailing of Mr. T. W. Smyth and of the Rev. Michael Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson, to assist in the labours of this Mission, have been before stated under the head of Students and Missionaries.

Mr. Sawyer did not accompany his friends from Madras, it having been arranged between the Corresponding Committees of Calcutta and Madras, that he should occupy the place of the Rev. Isaac Wilson, who was to remove to Calcutta.

Mr. Reichardt was to be stationed at Mirzapore with Mr. Jetter, and Mr. Maisch at Burdwan with Mr. Deerr, till they had obtained some proficiency in Bengalee: it had been in contemplation that they should proceed to Titalya, in order to prosecute the labours of the late Mr. Schroeter; but the lamented death of Major Latter, which took place in October, prevented the execution of this plan.

In reference to the state and effects of EDUCATION in this Mission, the Committee would remark, that a great number of facts might be adduced, in proof of the efficiency of the Schools in the improvement of the habits and the enlightening of the mind. They will quote, on this point, the testimony of Mr. Corrie in reference to his Examination last year of the Burdwan Schools:—

> What struck me particularly in the Examination during both days was, the order with which the Boys fell into their places and attended to their lessons, and the quickness with which they corrected mistakes in one another. This habit of attention, so foreign to the native character, has not been formed without much labour on the part of their Teachers; and it cannot fail to be of essential benefit to the Scholars, in transacting the future business of life.

But a still higher benefit results, through the blessing of God, from the Christian Instruction which these Native Children receive. Mr. Corrie states—

> On being asked what prophecy was fulfilled by the Birth of Christ, one Boy answered, with perfect readiness, Behold, a Virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son.
> The duty of praying for our enemies, and loving our neighbours as ourselves, and the blessedness of those who are peace-makers, was quite familiar to them; and it was peculiarly pleasing to observe, that they always spoke of Jesus Christ as the Saviour: for example—"How often must we forgive an offender?" "The Saviour says till seventy times seven."—"What is the meaning of that expression?" "That we should every day forgive."

Some of them shewed an acquaintance with the interior, so to speak, of Christianity, highly interesting; for instance—"What is it to meet together in Christ's name?" "To assemble for prayer."—"What is meant by Christ being in the midst of them?" "He will make their hearts feel His presence."

This is but a mere sample of the Scriptural Knowledge acquired by these Youths, now in the Burdwan Schools: the tendency of such instruction to promote the happiness and increase the comfort of the native population, is sufficiently obvious.

Under this head, the Committee will advert to a subject of incalculable importance, in reference to the Conversion of India to the Faith and the enjoyment of all its attendant blessings; and they are thankful that they are able to report encouraging progress. Mr. Corrie had apprized them, in respect of Boys' Schools in Calcutta—

If funds were forthcoming we might have all the Youth of the town under our tuition—

And Mr. Jetter adds—

Wherever a Boys' School is established, the Natives are now happily beginning to expect, as a matter of course, that a Girls' School shall also be formed!

This will be welcome intelligence to those benevolent persons, who have mourned over the degradation of Fifty Millions of Females in British India, as rivetting, even perhaps more than Caste itself, the chains with which the God of this World binds that vast population in superstition and sin.

The arrival of Miss Cooke at Calcutta, and the commencement of her labours among the Native Females, were stated in the last Report. On the seasonableness of this Lady's arrival, the Corresponding Committee remark—with less prejudice than formerly appeared to exist; and the Corresponding Committee having, in the course of the seventeen years during which they had been associated, experienced how much quiet and persevering efforts may accomplish in introducing more liberal habits of thinking among the Natives, engaged to take upon themselves the responsibility of providing for Miss Cooke's future support, and to promote as they might be enabled the objects of her Mission. This arrangement fully met the wishes of Miss Cooke herself, who, from education and principle, is a Member of the Established Church.

Indications had appeared of a growing disposition on the part of the Natives to meet offers to educate their Daughters,

Of the measures adopted for the benefit of the Native Females, the Committee give the following detail:—

The Corresponding Committee, without delay, took measures toward the establishment of Native Female Schools, trusting to the liberality of the Christian Public to supply them with the means of carrying on their operations. In this expectation they have been far from experiencing disappointment; and they have no doubt that the favourable beginning which has been made will engage the friends of the moral and intellectual improvement of the Natives, to assist them still further in their important and difficult undertaking.

While engaged in studying the Bengalee Language, and scarcely daring to hope that an immediate opening for entering upon the work to which she had devoted herself would be found, Miss Cooke paid a visit to one of the Society's Boys' Schools, in order to observe their pronunciation. This circumstance, trifling in appearance, led to the establishment of her first School. Unaccustomed to see an European Female in that part of the Native Town, a crowd collected round the door of the School. Among them was an interesting-looking little girl, whom the School Pundit drove away. Miss Cooke desired the child to be called; and, by an interpreter, asked her if she wished to learn to read: she was told, in reply, that this child had for three months past been daily begging to be admitted to learn to read among the boys; and that if Miss Cooke (who had made known her purpose of devoting herself to the instruction of girls) would attend next day, twenty girls should be collected.

On the following day, Miss Cooke, accompanied by a female friend who speaks Bengalee fluently, attended accordingly. About 15 girls, accompanied in several cases by their mothers, assembled, and the following few particulars of a long conversation which took place with them will afford some insight into the modes of thinking prevalent among them. On their inquiring Miss Cooke's circumstances they were told, that she had heard in England that the Women of this country were kept in total ignorance; that they were not taught even to read or write; that the Men alone were allowed to attain any degree of knowledge; and it was also generally understood, that the chief objection to their acquiring knowledge arose from their having no females who would undertake to teach them: she had, therefore, felt compassion for their state; and had determined to leave her country, her parents, friends, and every other advantage, and to come here for the sole purpose of educating their Female Children. They with one voice cried out, smiting their bosoms with their right hands—"Oh! what a pearl of a Woman is this!" It was added, "She has given up every earthly expectation to come here; and seeks, not the riches of this world, but to promote your BEST INTERESTS." "Our children are yours—we give them to you"—replied two or three of their Mothers at once. After a while, one asked, "What will be the use of learning to our FEMALE children, and what advantage will it be to them?" She was told, that "it will enable them to be more useful in their families, and increase their knowledge: and it is to be hoped that it will tend also to gain them respect, and increase the harmony of families." "True," said one of them, "our Husbands now look upon us as little better than brutes." And another added, "What benefit will you derive from this work?" She was told that the only return which we wished, was to promote their best interests and happiness. "Then," said the Woman, "I suppose this is a holy work in your sight, and well-pleasing to God." As they are not yet able to understand our MOTIVES, it was only said in return, that "God is always well pleased that we should love and do good to our fellow-creatures." The Women then spoke to one another in terms of the highest approbation.

This developement of Miss Cooke's plans seems to have prevented much suspicion from being entertained as to her motives, and the effects of her intercourse with the children; for since then, petitions have been presented, from time to time, from different quarters of the Native Town, so that Eight Schools have been already established, and more might have been begun had time allowed. One instance, however, of the suspicion with which untutored minds are apt to view disinterested labours for their good, it may be well to notice.

The first girl who presented herself, after having attended daily for some weeks was withdrawn; and, under the pretext of going to a distance, was absent about a fortnight. Daily inquiry being made after her, the Father one day presented a paper, written in English, which he required Miss Cooke to sign; and promised, in that case, to send his child to School again. This proved to be an agreement, by which Miss Cooke was required to bind herself to make no claim upon the child hereafter on the score of educating her, and that her parents should be at liberty to take her away when they chose. Miss Cooke, with the utmost readiness, signed the agreement: the child returned to School; nor has any further interruption, except what the indolence and ignorance of the parents occasion, arisen in any quarter*.

At the time of printing the Fifth Report there were 277 Girls in the Ten Schools; about 200 of whom were in daily attendance.

The Corresponding Committee remark on the prospect thus opening—

The influence of the Female Sex in imparting early impressions, and thus materially influencing the future character of Society, is confessedly great. Whilst this sex, therefore, remains in a state of ignorance and degradation, no great progress in civilization and morals can be reasonably hoped for: on the other hand, the giving way of the prejudices, which have so long held the females of this country in a degraded state, cannot but be hailed as a most favourable omen: and that this is the case is abundantly apparent, not only from the circumstances stated above, but also from communications received from the Committee's other Missionary Stations, as well as from what is effecting by other Societies similarly employed. It is also matter of considerable encouragement in this view, that an interest in the subject of Native Female Education is increasing among Europeans; so that as assistance in the work of superintendence is called for, it will probably be supplied.

An extract from a Letter just received from Miss Cooke will be heard with great pleasure, as it manifests both the zeal with which she is animated, and the wide scope which the Providence of God is affording to the exercise of her zeal:—

You may perhaps, Sir, recollect, that I told you nothing LESS than TWO HUNDRED Hindoo Scholars would satisfy me. I have now nearly twice this number! For these I am thankful; but to be satisfied, is not an easy thing in this land of darkness. In the midst of these thousands of grossly-ignorant people, it would be a feeling to guard against, if one COULD be in danger; which, however, seems impossible. Could I do daily ten times more than I do, I should still perceive that very much more was necessary.

* In the last Volume of the Missionary Register, pp. 481—485, the conversations with the Females referred to in the above extract are given at large, with other details of Miss Cooke's proceedings: and, since the Anniversary, at pp. 355—360 of the August Number, further particulars are printed, consisting chiefly of animated communications from that Lady, some extracts of which are quoted in the Report.

I have Fifteen small Schools: many more might be built, in spots equally favourable, immediately.

I look most anxiously for accounts from England, to know how this branch of your object has been taken up, what publicity has been given to it, and what funds raised. I look to England as a strong-hold. We cannot get on without money from home.

I feel as though nothing were done, or even begun, compared with what ought to be set on foot by our Society, to do itself justice; and to do justice to this important cause, which the Lord has so providentially placed under its wing. I have often thought it would be desirable to gain the patronage of the King and Royal Family, particularly the Female Branches. This step would ensure it the support of the great of this world, both in England and Bengal, or rather of Europe and Asia. I do not like narrow boundaries. I think there is ONE channel by which money might be raised to forward the education of the Heathen, if any means could be thought of by which a fair trial might be made: I mean by collections in male and Female Schools GENERALLY, high and low, each in favour of their own sex. Would that the King would command a Sermon to be preached for the Cause throughout his Dominions! Oh then we might get Schools at every Station, and a Church too! I deeply feel how many ways you have for Missionary Funds, and how many calls the religious friends in my own dear country have upon their liberality. Still, this is a new and important object; and I hope every Lady, at least, will become its friend. I have no hope that this country will produce funds at all adequate to the wants of the people, for many years to come. Of course, every means have been tried, and will be continued, to obtain money on the spot; but the persons who give here, from a love to the object, are few indeed. May their numbers increase for their own sakes!

If, Sir, it should prove that you have made Mr. Harington (who is daily expected) the bearer of ONE THOUSAND GUINEAS, to build proper School-Houses, &c. &c. I trust you will soon hear good news of the sons and daughters of the many rich Hindoos in Calcutta. Mirzapore is a most valuable Station for Printing Offices, &c. and as ONE Station for Native Preaching; but to be satisfied with ONE Station among the Natives, would be like saying "We have one Church in Westminster—to build one in the City would be unnecessary, notwithstanding most of the respectable and rich Hindoos live in the latter direction." You will think me a bold beggar—a THOUSAND GUINEAS at once; but we may be bold in pleading such a cause as the one in which we are engaged.

May the day be near, when you may be enabled to send forth Fifty pious and humble Labourers, where you now send one or two! O Dear Sir, what are these among so many? But, when the Lord gives the word, great will be the number of Teachers.

The Committee are persuaded that this Meeting, and the whole body of the Society, will respond to this fervent appeal. Such a spirit, in pursuit of so noble an object, thus unexpectedly opening before the Society, must be met, on the part of the Members, with corresponding liberality and zeal: and the Committee have no doubt but that the Ladies, who have already formed themselves into a Society for the supply of Clothing and School-Rewards to the Women and Girls of the Western-Africa and the West-India Missions of the Society, will gladly enlarge their objects, and offer to Miss Cooke that co-operation which she solicits in behalf of the multitudes of Indian Females.

But the gracious guidance of Divine Providence may be still further traced in this opening prospect of good. The want of suitable Teachers for the Female Schools would have soon brought the Committee into serious difficulties; but this want is likely, in a great measure, to be supplied. Several of the Elder Girls at the Asylum for the Female Orphans of European Parents, have given good evidence of having become truly religious; and have entered, with gladness of heart, on the study of Bengalee, in order that, under Miss Cooke's instructions, they may be prepared to act as Teachers of the Female Schools. In Mr. Thomason's zealous exertions to establish that Asylum, he always hoped that it might be rendered subservient to the interests of Christianity in India; but he could scarcely look for such a gratifying fulfilment of his wishes. It is particularly satisfactory also to Mr. and Mrs. Schmid, who proceeded to India in the service of the Society, that they have been led into a situation, in the superintendence of the Asylum, in which they are enabled so effectually to promote its objects.

The Committee cannot quit the subject of the Females of India, without expressing a hope, that the annihilation of that cruel and mercenary superstition, which seduces or compels them to self-immolation on the funeral piles of their Husbands, will not be left merely to the progress of Light and Truth among them; but that the Legislature of this country will listen to the irrefragable reasonings of an eloquent Vice-President of this Society and the friends who surround him, and will wipe away at once this foul blot from the practices permitted to the Hindoos under our Government, as it has been already proved to have no sanction in the best and most ancient Hindoo Authorities.

The education of Native Boys has been carried on by the Society, for several years, at Kidderpore, near Calcutta: the commencement of the system in Calcutta itself, under the superintendence of the Rev. Andrew Jetter, was stated in the last Report. Its growth has been rapid. In April, there were Five Schools, including Kidderpore, containing 425 Scholars: in June, Six Schools had about 600 Scholars: in November, Eight Schools contained 735 Scholars. The favourable disposition of the people will be seen from the following statement of the Corresponding Committee, in reference to the Schools opened by them:—

> They have, in every instance, been established on the representation, and at the earnest request of a number of the most respectable inhabitants in the respective neighbourhoods, expressed in writing.

Besides these Bengalee Schools, an English School was opened, in April of last year, on the Mission Premises at Mirzapore, and intended, like the Central School at Burdwan, for the instruction of the most attentive Scholars in the Bengalee Schools: it had, in November, 16 Boys.

An Examination of the Head Classes took place, in January of last year, at the Society's House. Sir Edward Hyde East, from whom the cause of Native Education in India received constant encouragement during his residence as Chief Justice of Bengal, was pleased to express his satisfaction with the mode of instruction and the proficiency of the Scholars.

The noise and splendour of the Heathen Festivals are found to be a serious hindrance to the Scholars; as they draw them away, in Calcutta, at least one part of the year out of four.

The nearest of the Bengalee Schools is a quarter-of-a-mile from the Institution, and the farthest (Kidderpore) five miles and a half distant. Mr. Jetter's time was chiefly occupied by the superintendence of the Schools. The wretchedness and vice, indeed, which abound among the teeming population of these suburbs of Calcutta awaken the pity and zeal of Christian Labourers; but it is here, as in other places similarly circumstanced, among the Children that they chiefly look for the fruit of their toil. And there is the more hope in reference to the Children, as the fears and suspicions of the Natives with respect to Christian Books, which were at first very powerful, are gradually subdued by a gentle but steady course of proceeding. At Kidderpore, the Scriptures are freely received; and, in all the Schools, the History of Joseph; and Ellerton's Dialogues on Genesis are making way for the Gospels.

The MINISTRY OF THE WORD is, however, constantly kept in view, as the appointed ordinance of God for the salvation of men. Divine Service is held, in Bengalee, every Sunday Morning, in the spacious School Room at the Institution. Mr. Jetter also preaches to the Natives, as opportunities offer, in different parts of the town; and, on Monday Evenings, explains the Scriptures at Kidderpore. His communications* will be read with much pleasure. He takes great delight in his work; and, though he meets with many difficulties, he is encouraged by what he witnesses:

For many things (he says) shew already, that the Lord is, in a special manner, about to establish His kingdom among the benighted Heathen.

He adds—

I hope that our Christian Friends in Europe will, with redoubled exertions, prosecute the work of our Lord, when they hear from so many quarters the long wished-for news—the ardent desire of the Heathen for knowledge!

The Schools are efficient means of introducing the Gospel among the Heathen. A Missionary may go out every day, and preach the Saving Health to perishing sinners.

In all these labours Mr. Reichardt will take a share, as he shall attain proficiency in the language.

Of the spirit in which Missionaries must engage in their work among these people, a judgment may be formed, by an extract of a Letter lately addressed by Mr. Jetter to the Assistant Secretary:—

Patience is a virtue which is tried among these Hindoos, to a very high degree. Whoever has no patience may have the best opportunity to learn it by intercourse with the Hindoos. Faith, and a sure hope in God's promises, are the only foundations upon which a Missionary can rest, and whereby he can maintain his cause against despair of final success among the people of this country; and a Saviour's love, and a knowledge of the value of one immortal soul, are the only stimulus to persevere. Oh remember us, my Dear Friend, whenever you approach the Throne of Grace, that the Lord in mercy may impart these divine graces unto us more and more! I had to pass through many trials and difficulties, and had to experience many, many things of which I had no knowledge before, since I left you; but, thanks be unto God, I can say it was all for my good—it was all intended by our merciful Saviour to make me more useful in His glorious cause. I am enabled, by the grace of God, to bless Him for His unbounded love and mercy toward me. He has borne me most affectionately under all trials and adversities, and has given me to taste His love in close communion with Him: nor has He withheld His blessing from my feeble endeavours, but has given me success where I hardly could have expected it.

On the subject of the PRESS, the Corresponding Committee report—

The press has been constantly employed, and its proceeds have repaid the expenses incurred.

The History of Joseph in Bengalee, from the Sacred Text, has been carried through; and, in addition to the Morning and Evening Prayer and Litany in Bengalee, the Collects, Epistles, and Gospels are nearly finished. The Committee also printed at the Hindoostanee Press, 900 copies of the Ten Commandments in Hindoostanee Verse; together with some Christian Hymns and Poems in the same dialect, prepared by Fuez Messeeh.

A fount of Hindoostanee Types having been at length obtained, a History of Abraham, extracted out of the Old and New Testaments, is commenced.

These works, added to the School and Missionary demands of the current year, will give full employment to the press for a considerable period.

Preparations are also making for printing three large editions of the New Testament, in Bengalee, Persian, and Arabic, under the patronage and at the expense of the Calcutta Auxiliary Bible Society.

On the advantage and necessity of the employment of the Press in immediate connexion with the Mission, they add—

In proportion as Schools multiply, Books will be in demand, which must be furnished gratuitously; and the Missionary Labourer, without a supply of Tracts, is unprovided for his work. To obtain these supplies in any adequate degree, through the medium of presses not connected with the Society, would be enormously expensive; not to mention that it would be impracticable to secure the independence of operation and rapidity of execution, which are connected with a press under the control of the Society. It has always, therefore, been important to attach a Printing Establishment to every Central Missionary Station.

The two Presses already employed were found so inadequate to supply the wants of the rapidly-increasing number of readers, that a third was ordered in Calcutta; but, so urgent is the demand, that the Committee have just received a request, that, in addition to two powerful Presses, known to be on their way to India, two more might immediately follow—"that," says the intelligent and indefatigable Printer, "our Office may be so far worthy of the high name by which Mr. Thomason pleasantly calls it—the 'King's Printing-Office.'"

The Society is happy in having placed this important engine of good under the direction of one, who esteems it his privilege to co-operate in its designs. Mr. Brown thus expresses his feelings, at the close of a Letter to the Secretary on the business of the Press:—

As I have ventured thus far to encroach on your time, I would be permitted to add a few words more relative to my own condition. It is not my object to attempt to recount all the signal mercies of God vouchsafed to me; but merely to say, that my being called to this country, that the great privilege which I enjoy of intercourse with the eminent Servants of Christ here, and that my labour is made my delight, are mercies which I reckon among those that call forth my loudest praise. Though I could often wish that there were a person in my situation competent to my duties, yet I must say that I should be sorry to be removed to labour in a Cause that has not the salvation of souls for its object. While I consider the greatness of that cause, I trust I feel duly impressed with the importance of a faithful acquittal of both time and talent in the duties of my situation. It pleased the Lord to visit me lately with sickness; but it has been attended with communications of His Divine love. Though I have drunk deep in the cup of affliction, yet I find that communion with God as a reconciled Father in Christ is sweetened thereby. I trust that this may be sanctified to my soul; and that I may be enabled to devote restored health unreservedly to His Glory.

The Rev. Deocar Schmid has continued his preparation of Bengalee Books for the press, so far as his health and his engagements at the Asylum have allowed. The History of Joseph has been translated from the Hebrew, and is now an elementary book in all the Schools of the Society. A translation of the Liturgy and Psalms is in hand: in this Mr. Jetter has rendered assistance.

The purchase of the Society's premises at Mirzapore, in the midst of the native population of Calcutta, was stated in the last Report. All the departments of a Christian Institution among the Heathen are here coming into action. It is the head-quarters of the Mission; and is favourably situated for constant visits among the Natives and the superintendence of Schools.

The Corresponding Committee speak thus, in their last Report, on this subject:—

Several improvements have been made in the Mirzapore Premises. Ten cottahs of land have been purchased at the south-east corner, to render them of a regular form. The upper-roomed house has been repaired, and the Printing-Office removed to the lower part, while the upper part has been occupied by the Rev. Mr. Jetter and Mr. Brown. A part of the former out-offices has been fitted up as an English School-Room, and a part rebuilt so as to form a commodious Printing-Office; and others of the buildings converted into a residence for the Native Youths maintained by the Society: and, with a view to the accommodation of a sufficient number of Missionaries for the purposes intended by this Institution, a lower-roomed house is also erecting.

The place is rapidly assuming the form of a Missionary Settlement; and, when all the improvements shall have been effected, will afford good accommodation for the component parts of such an Institution.

The Committee confidently hope, that, from the central position and spaciousness of these premises (considering that they are in the midst of a populous city,) every advantage will be possessed for a vigorous prosecution of their important objects. Such an Institution as the one now in progress is obviously necessary to the permanency of the Committee's Missionary Proceedings at this Presidency.

Burdwan.

The Rev. John Perowne and the Rev. W. Deerr have been joined, as already stated, in the charge of the Burdwan Schools and Mission, by the Rev. Jacob Maisch. In April, a Church was nearly finished. Divine Service was held twice on Sundays.

The first Converts in this Mission were baptized on the 5th of May. An Adult Native received, on this occasion, the name of Daniel; and a Youth of thirteen years of age, that of John. Another promising Youth was a Candidate for admission to the holy ordinance.

The Annual Examination of the Schools took place in February of last year; and was conducted by the Rev. Daniel Corrie and Major Phipps, assisted by J. F. Ellerton, Esq. Registrar of Burdwan. Of its satisfactory results the Committee have already spoken, under the general head of Education*.

At the beginning of last year the thirteen Bengalee Schools had 958 Boys: the smallest had 58; the largest, 90. The Central School contained about 30: the desire to learn English does not prevail among the Bengalee Scholars to the extent which was expected: very many applications are made, however, by Youths who have not gone through the Bengalee Schools; but none of these had been admitted. Mrs.

* A Report of this Examination, and various interesting communications from Mr. Perowne and Mr. Deerr relative to the Schools, and to the Opinions and Character of the Hindoos, have been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 360—367 of the Missionary Register for August.

Perowne was pursuing Bengalee, with a view to the establishment of Female Schools: after several unsuccessful attempts, she had succeeded in forming one School.

The Missionaries had taken possession of the New House, mentioned in the last Report as in preparation. The English School had more Scholars, when held on the old premises, than the number just stated: the removal was an occasion of offence to some of the Boys; but the diminution of the number having left Mr. Perowne greater leisure, he has availed himself of the opportunity to open a Bengalee School, in which he soon collected not less than 110 Children.

The Gospels are now read in all the Schools; and interesting conversations often arise on the different subjects. The Missionaries are delighted with the intelligent answers, which they sometimes obtain to their questions. The Schools are decidedly advancing in point of efficiency: that apathy among the people, which is so distressing to the Missionary, is very much conquered in the Scholars.

Mr. Corrie writes—

The favour shewn to the Schools by the British residents, and the growing popularity of the subject among the Natives, are encouraging: a gradual melioration of the state of the people cannot fail to crown the persevering efforts of the Society.

Mr. Perowne adds, in April—

The remarks and questions of the Children in the Schools evince that a foundation is laid for much future good. There is abundant reason to bless God for what has been done. Who would have expected, a year ago, to see a thousand Hindoo Children reading the Gospel? Nay, so greatly are their prejudices removed, that those very Boys, who, a few months since, disliked or refused to read any book which contained the Name of Jesus, are now willing to read a professed History of His Life and Doctrine; and what is more, in some instances they have solicited the Gospel in preference to every other book! May the Lord the Spirit bless to them His own Word!

Buxar.

A Native Teacher, named Kurrum Messeeh, is stationed at Buxar, about 70 miles below Benares, but accounts of his proceedings have not been received.

Benares.

The visit of Mr. Adlington to Calcutta was mentioned in the last Report. He was there married, with the concurrence of the Society's friends. Of the Labourers at this Station, the Corresponding Committee Report—

Through the kindness of His Excellency the Commander in Chief, a suitable person from H. M. 17th Regiment has been obtained, as Schoolmaster for the Benares School: Mr. Stewart, who had been brought to the notice of the Committee by Lieut. Peevor before his departure for England, took possession of the upper story of the house in Benares, which the Committee understands to have been fitted up in a suitable manner for the residence of his family, in March last. Mr. Adlington, after having recruited his strength, returned to Benares; and, together with Mr. Stewart, devotes his time to the City School; leaving the Rev. Mr. Morris more at leisure to acquire the language, and to devote his time to more immediate Missionary Labours.

A suitable situation, nearer the city than that occupied by the Missionaries, had not been obtained; which was to be regretted, as the operations were less efficient than they otherwise would be.

The Corresponding Committee state, in relation to the Schools—

The number of Scholars in the City School is 110. In a Letter, dated June 10, Mr. Adlington thus writes:—

The School is going on well, I hope; and the Scholars, in general, are regular in their attendance. The first class in English affords me much satisfaction. The avidity with which the Boys receive instruction, and the eagerness manifested by several of them to comprehend the meaning of the daily portion of the New Testament that is read, give cause for hoping that they will be eternally benefited by the instruction which they receive.

The want of suitable books for the upper classes is much felt. Mr. Adlington employs his leisure hours in endeavouring to supply the deficiency.

Mr. Morris reports, in the latest communications, that the number of Scholars was greater than it had been since the opening of the Schools, and that a thirst for knowledge was evidently increasing among them. Between 30 and 40 Boys are taught in a School near his house.

A Schoolmistress has been obtained from Chunar; and a few Girls were learning to read, knit, and sew. A few other Girls were in a Second School. Both are supported by Ladies at the Station.

A Hindoostanee Congregation of Native Christians has been collected: from twenty to thirty usually attend. Mr. Morris writes, in September—

We have Hindoostanee Worship in the Mission Bungalow, every Sunday Morning and Evening; and also on Wednesdays: the people attend very regularly, in general. The 4th of August was a day to be recollected by myself with gratitude; being the day on which, for the first time, I assisted in Public Worship in the Native Language. On the 1st of September, the Native Christians received the Sacrament at the Church. I read the whole of the Service in Hindoostanee.

There is a young Hindoo in the city, who has been, for some time, inquiring into the Christian Religion. He seems convinced of the folly of Idolatry, and has expressed his desire to receive Baptism; but he is a little afraid of persecution for Christ's sake. I have reason to believe him sincere. There are other appearances favourable to the Mission.

The intention of Kolly Shunker to secure, by the transfer of some estates to the Society, the monthly payment assigned by his Father to the Schools, was stated in the last Report. On this subject, the Corresponding Committee say—

These estates have since been regularly made over to the Committee as Trustees; the profits arising from them to be applied to the use of the School, according to the intention of the Founder. The Committee cannot better express their feelings on this subject, than in the words of the Rev. Mr. Morris, when communicating to them the event:—

I feel exceedingly thankful, that the Baboo should have been inclined to come forward in so handsome a manner. The Lord is, in a wonderful way, supplying the means, by which we may confer the greatest blessings on the Natives. Oh, that we may all possess a right spirit! May we put forth all our powers, and devote our future lives to the great and glorious object, of bringing both Hindoos and Mussulmans out of darkness into the marvellous light of the Gospel!

Chunar.

The Rev. W. Greenwood and the Rev. W. Bowley have continued in their respective spheres of labour at Chunar. Four Adults have been added to the baptized: the number of Communicants is now upward of 50: of these Mr. Bowley says—

Their humility, teachableness, and meekness, encourage me greatly to spend and be spent for them.

Between 30 and 40 Adult Christians learn to read the Hindoostanee Testament. There are Five other Schools, one of which is for Girls and had Nine Scholars.

Mr. Bowley attends the Annual Fairs at different places and many Festivals at Benares, on which occasions considerable numbers of single Gospels, Tracts, and Catechisms are circulated, and conversations and discussions held with the people. Many have come, by these means, to acknowledge openly, that, without Christ, there is no salvation*.

Of the temper of the people among whom he lives, Mr. Bowley says—

Our Sunday Service is so thronged, that the pews are not sufficient to contain the Native Christians. The Mahommedans and Hindoos have been pretty numerous of late, though, no doubt, curiosity is the motive with the major part: the few who come from better motives are ridiculed.

When any manifest favour to the Christian Religion, or dare to talk reasonably on the subject of Christianity, they are instantly branded with the opprobrious epithet of "He is a Christian!" Hence the fear and caution of the Natives.

In reference to these two Stations, the Corresponding Committee give the following testimony:—

A Member of the Committee having been called, in the course of his duty, to that part of the country, and having minutely inquired into the temporal affairs of the Society's Missions at Benares and Chunar, concluded an interesting report to the Committee with observing—

In taking a general view of the state of the two important Missionary Stations, mentioned in this Letter, I do not see any cause for discouragement. It is, I believe, true, that in England too favourable an opinion has been formed of the actual and visible progress made in this quarter of the world; but, by those who are well acquainted with the deplorable darkness which is to be dispelled, a very slow, but progressive improvement, is all that can be reasonably expected. By the means of Schools, we are teaching the rising generation to exercise their reasoning faculties; and an improvement in the moral feeling must soon ensue. Among persons of mature age, a spirit of inquiry is most assuredly gone forth, unknown to their forefathers.

Our Missionaries are zealously occupying the fields of labour around them; and, by a consistent Christian walk, they secure the esteem and respect of all parties.

Lucknow.

About fifteen Scholars attend Mr. Hare's School, but no report has been received.

Bareilly.

The Corresponding Committee state—

The Native Teacher, Fuez Messeeh, continues his accustomed

labours. He has passed much of the last year at Rampore and Mooradabad, making known the Gospel to some Natives of high rank, who wished to inform themselves more accurately of the Christian Religion. He lately visited Calcutta, bringing testimonials of good character from several respectable persons, and is now on his way back to his Station.

On the departure to England, in January last, of F. Law, Esq. he delivered over to the Committee a School-House at Bareilly, erected at the sole expense of his late truly Christian Lady, where Fuez Messeeh has, since 1818, under her direction, superintended the education of the Scholars, conducted Christian Worship on Sundays, and afforded information to many inquirers on religious subjects.

Meerut.

Hindoostanee Service is held once on the Sunday, Mr. Fisher's duties as Chaplain occupying the rest of the day. Several of the Native Christians are active and useful in Missionary Labours, and the Number of Communicants increases*.

Mr. Fisher, disappointed, as stated in the last Report, of a spot on which he wished to collect the converts in a Christian Village, had a prospect of assembling them in a convenient place within the walls of Meerut.

Delhi.

Mr. Fisher writes, in reference to Anund Messeeh—

Anund is now at Delhi, planning a new School. The acting Resident has been kind enough to give us a situation for our purpose, and we hope to succeed. Here Anund is to conduct Divine Service in Hindoostanee: he writes us word, that a decent congregation will be assembled. From Delhi he continues occasionally to visit the Saadhs.

Henreepore.

The intention of the Saadhs to form this village was stated in the last Report. Mr. Fisher thus writes on the subject:—

David's little School is at Henreepore; but I fear the want of a regular visitor, and, above all, the want of a faithful and resident Church Missionary, will defeat our hopes in that quarter. I am myself unable to visit the Saadhs, my occupations are so incessant. If I can possibly get over for a day in the cold weather, it is all that I can do: at other times of the year, the distance renders it an impracticable undertaking. That a Christian Church might be established there, I think, humanly speaking, is certain; but Anund is insufficient alone.

* Further particulars have been given, since the Anniversary, at pp. 432—434 of the Missionary Register for October.

Agra.

The arrival of Abdool Messeeh, after his Ordination, was stated in the last Report. The Corresponding Committee say of him—

He continues to maintain the same uniform character, for piety and faithfulness, which has, through the grace of God, distinguished him from his first connexion with this Society.

A Christian Friend, passing through Agra, writes, in May—

You may be sure I availed myself of the opportunity, to see as much as I could of dear Abdool. I went to visit him at the Kuttra, and sat with him a considerable time. On our leaving Agra, Abdool accompanied us to Secundra in his little cabriole, and spent the whole day with me and my family in Ackber's Tomb. He is still the same interesting and faithful servant of Christ, that he has been so long considered by us all. His conversation was very delightful, from its piety and simplicity; and truly the Christian courtesy of his manner gave a peculiar charm to his society, and I regretted when he left us.

Abdool was, soon afterward, brought near to the grave, but recovered. In the beginning of September, he states, that Morning and Evening Prayers were attended daily by 21 Men and 22 Women; and that, on Sunday, the Place of Worship often would not contain all who wished to attend. Five Hindoo Men and five Women had been baptized since his return to Agra; and one Man and three Women had fallen asleep in Christ. The inhabitants of the Kuttra were 40; consisting of 13 Men, 16 Women, and 11 Children. The Scholars were 35; being 3 Mussulmans, 17 Hindoos, and 15 Christians *.

Mr. Crowley had been succeeded in the care of the School by Mr. Daniel; but, Mr. Daniel having resigned, Mr. Priestly was appointed.

* The Letter from which these particulars are taken is addressed by Abdool to the Rev. Daniel Corrie; and has been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 434, 435, of the Missionary Register for October.

The Expenditure, by the Corresponding Committee, in the North-India Mission, from the 1st of July 1821, to the 30th of June 1822, amounted to about 50,460 rupees; or 6,308*l.*, reckoning the rupee at 2*s.* 6*d.* It consisted of the following sums:—Calcutta, 1938*l.* (being 707*l.* for the Christian Institution at Mirzapore, 853*l.* for the Schools including Kidderpore, and 378*l.* for the Female Branch)—Burdwan, including purchase of Mission House and Premises, 1667*l.*—Benares, and Chunar, 1084*l.*—Lucknow, 81*l.*—Bareilly, 69*l.*—Meerut (for Delhi and Henreepore) 38*l.*—Agra, 219*l.*—Printing-Office, 669*l.*—Books, Stationery, Writers, Pundits, and Incidentals, 543*l.*

The Receipts, in Calcutta, besides the Bills drawn on the Society, were, in round numbers, as follows:—Benefactions and Subscriptions, 574*l.*—Female Branch, 892*l.*—Collection, after the Annual Sermon, preached by the Rev. Daniel Corrie, 175*l.*—Donation from Government to the School at Benares, 347*l.*—Printing, Binding, and Sale of Books, 345*l.*: making a total of 2333*l.*

In reference to the State of the Funds, the Corresponding Committee remark, that the advantages which have been obtained in Calcutta for carrying on the Society's designs could not have been secured without a considerable expenditure; and they were so important, that they are persuaded the friends of the Society will cordially acquiesce in the expenses incurred. They add—

> In order that the Committee might be enabled to meet these expenses, a very large demand has been made on the funds of the Parent Society. The call will, they are persuaded, be received with pleasure; and every effort will be made at home to support their objects, in a quarter to which they have so long looked with affectionate solicitude.
> Yet the Committee cannot forbear expressing their earnest hopes, that the friends of the cause in India may be themselves stirred up to use every practicable exertion for its support. It is surely desirable, that all who bear the Christian Name in this country should make common cause with Christians in England. If this were the case, the contributions of India would soon be adequate to its own wants.
> In making this remark, the Committee are by no means insensible to the exertions already made. Considering the difficulties which long opposed Missionary Labours, they rejoice in the enlarged views which now prevail, the new interest which has been excited, and the increasing zeal for the diffusion of Christianity which continues to be manifested. They acknowledge, too, with unfeigned joy and gratitude, that the contributions during the last year to the General and School Objects of the Society have considerably exceeded those of any former year. But they speak out of the fulness of their hearts, impressed with the growing importance of a work, which, as it developes itself from year to year, calls for new sacrifices and new exertions, as it excites new joys and hopes in the hearts of all who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity.

But they will add no more on the subject in this place, as it is probable, that, with a view to relieve the great pressure on the funds of the Parent Society, they may adopt the measure of circulating an Appeal to the Christian Inhabitants, at large, of this Presidency.

The following Gentlemen form the Corresponding Committee of the Society:—G. Udny, Esq., John Walter Sherer, Esq., E.S. Montagu, Esq., Major Phipps, E.A. Newton, Esq., Rev. John Parson, Rev. T.T. Thomason, and Rev. Daniel Corrie who acts as Secretary. The Rev. H. Fisher is Corresponding Member at Meerut, and the Rev. W. Fraser at Benares.

MADRAS AND SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

The Fifth Report of the Madras Corresponding Committee, with various communications from the Missionaries, will supply a view of the Proceedings of the Year in the South of India.

The Corresponding Committee introduce their Report, by a reference to the breaches which have been made in their own body:—

The Madras Corresponding Committee of the Church Missionary Society, at the commencement of the Report on the state of the Society's establishments for the current year, is called upon to record the afflictive events that have befallen some of its most valued and useful Members, in the course of the period coming under review.

Early in the present year, the Rev. James Hough, formerly Chaplain at Palamcottah and founder of the Society's Mission in the District of Tinnevelly, afterward Chaplain at Poonamallee in the vicinity of Madras and founder of a Christian Mission at that place, was compelled, by a sudden and alarming attack of sickness, to seek a restoration of health by an immediate return to Europe. The Committee have had the satisfaction to learn, that Mr. Hough's health had materially improved during the progress of his voyage homeward.

Shortly afterward, the Rev Charles Church, Chaplain of the Black-Town at Madras and Secretary to the Corresponding Committee, was also obliged to quit India on the same account. It has, however, pleased God to disappoint the hopes of a like favourable result in his instance: Mr. Church died at Sea, on the 15th of April last, beloved and revered, in no common degree, by every one, whom the relations of ministerial or official duty, or the attachment of friendship, had connected with him.

Other afflictive occurrences in the list of its Members have further diminished the number of the Corresponding Committee. But with the accession of new members which it has obtained, the Committee has endeavoured to carry on the important duties intrusted to it.

These duties have been discharged with that wisdom and zeal, which have ever marked the proceedings of the Society's representatives in India.

Your Committee have to record the death of another Member, Edward Uhthoff, Esq., and the retirement of Mr. Mortlock from India on account of health. The return of the Rev. Marmaduke Thompson, with Mr. G. J. Casamajor a former Member of the Committee, who left this country in October, will recruit the strength of the Corresponding Committee. In the mean time, the Rev. W. Thomas, Senior Chaplain at the Presidency, and R. J. Hunter, Esq. of the Company's Civil Service, had cordially accepted the invitation to join the Committee, which consisted, at the last dates, of the following Gentlemen:—Rev. W. Thomas, John Sullivan, Esq., Major Cadell, J. M. Strachan, Esq., W. T. Blair, Esq., and R. J. Hunter, Esq.: with the following Corresponding Members—Rev. W. Malkin, at Bangalore; Rev. H. Harper, at Hydrabad; Rev. Francis Spring, at Tellicherry, Rev. C. Jeaffreson, at Quilon; and Rev. J. Wright, at Vizagapatam.

In reference to the LABOURERS in the Mission, it may be remarked, that the death of Mrs. Wilson* was stated in a Note to the last Report. The Corresponding Committee thus speak of a change which has taken place, in consequence of her death, in the destination of some of the Missionaries:—

At the request of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, the Rev. Isaac Wilson, who was designed for the Madras Mission, has been transferred to the Calcutta Committee; and, in his place, the Rev. W. Sawyer, a Clergyman of the Established Church, in full orders, who arrived from England in the month of September†, intended for the Society's Mission in Bengal, has been attached to this Committee, and is stationed at Madras.

Your Committee, though adverse, as a general principle, to every change of destination not imperiously called for by circumstances, entirely acquiesce, in the present case, in the determination of the two Committees. Mr. Wilson had been preparing himself for his work in the South of India with exemplary diligence, and had secured in a very high degree the affection and confidence of the Corresponding Committee. They parted with him, therefore, with great reluctance; but their regret was alleviated by the prospect of his occupying a station in Calcutta of chief importance, more particularly in the English Department of the Mission, and, in union with Miss Cooke, with whom marriage was in contemplation, in furthering the cause of Female Education.

Both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Sawyer manifested, on this occasion, that spirit of ready and cheerful conformity to whatever might be the determination of the Society's representatives at the respective Presidencies, which have greatly endeared them to all concerned.

Mr Wilson writes, to the Treasurer of the Madras Committee—

The case will entirely, under God, rest with you and the other

* An Obituary of Mrs. Wilson has been printed at pp. 401—406 of the Missionary Register for last year.

† Some account of the perilous Voyage of Mr. Sawyer and his companions has appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for October, pp. 436—438.

Gentlemen of the Committee. I am quite passive in the hand of the Lord, wishing, I trust, that His will may be done, and that Self may be quite out of the way.

Mr. Sawyer writes—

From the first hour of my engagement with our Society, I considered myself bound to follow the direction of the Committee: the peculiar satisfaction which I always felt, while at home, in giving up myself into the hands of a body of men, whose desire and prayer I firmly believe it was, to be guided by the unerring light of God's Holy Spirit, inclines me most gladly to submit to the decision of the Madras Committee.

Of Mr. Bärenbruck, it is said—

The Rev. G. T. Bärenbruck, who has been hitherto attached to the Mission at this place, will shortly proceed to take charge of the Society's Schools in the Tanjore Country.

The extent to which EDUCATION is carried in this quarter may be judged of by a statement of the Corresponding Committee :—

The number of children of all classes, Christians and Hindoos, in the Society's Schools, is between three and four thousand; and probably nearly as many more have successively quitted them for various employments in life, after acquiring, through their means, the rudiments of learning, and some measure of religious instruction.

MADRAS AND ITS VICINITY.

In reference to the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, the Committee will first quote the statement of the Corresponding Committee on the Native Department of the Mission in Madras :—

The Native Congregation, which assembles at the Mission Church in Black-Town on Sunday Morning, has usually, during this year, consisted of from 90 to 100 persons, besides the children of the Mission Schools. The Communicants have been from 25 to 30 persons monthly.

Two Heathens have been received into the Church during the year. In the Congregation, six children have been baptized. The marriages have been two, and the deaths seven.

Of the state of the Congregation, and the effects of his labours among the Native Christians composing it, Mr. Bärenbruck reports as follows :—

With regard to the Tamul Christians, we bless God that we have good ground for believing that our labours among them are not in vain. In conversation with them, we have frequently perceived proofs of this. As far as we can discover the work of God among the people, there is a gradual growth in grace. The number of Communicants, two years ago, was 10: at present there are generally every month upward of 20, sometimes 30. The number of the members of the congregation is increased to 86. Having found that several Christians from Tranquebar and other places had been living here without attending Church for years, we visited them in their houses, and exhorted them to come to the Mission Church; and succeeded in prevailing upon the greater part to attend regularly. The Wednesday-Evening Service, two years ago, was attended by about 10 persons only: now, there are frequently 40 or 50 present. And we have ascertained by personal inspection, that family worship is now practised by a greater number of the people.

In addition to the means of instruction previously established, a Meeting for reading and explaining the Scriptures has been commenced at one of the School Rooms situated in a populous part of the town, at which the Christian Natives of the neighbourhood attend, and many Heathens. The Missionary's visits to the Mission Schools also afford occasions for imparting religious instruction to numbers of people, who collect to witness the examination of the children; and Christian Tracts are frequently distributed among them.

Mr. Bärenbruck writes on this subject, in September—

Besides the Tamul Service on Sunday Morning, and the meeting in the evening, we have recently begun a regular Service on Wednesday Evening instead of the former Lectures; and meetings on Tuesday and Thursday Evenings are held in our School Room in a street near the Bazar, where there is a constant concourse of people. We have, to our great encouragement, this house filled with Christians and Heathens, and as many as the doors and windows will admit. I intend, if possible, to have another Meeting like this, as soon as our hands are strengthened by another Reader. I have it also much in contemplation to have an Evening Catechetical Meeting of all the School Children, for catechisation.

Of his Ministry, Mr. Bärenbruck says—

I have, for upward of a year, been under the necessity of reading my Sermons; partly on account of the scantiness of my time, and more especially from finding that I could not keep up the attention of my hearers in this enervating clime. I follow the example of my worthy predecessors, by putting questions during the Sermon to the hearers, in the way of catechising them on the subject on which I am speaking: these questions they will answer. Several, and in particular the Schoolmasters and Seminarists, take down the Sermon in short hand: though this is but imperfectly done, yet it greatly assists and sharpens the attention. I am blessed with the presence of the Lord in His Sanctuary. When I am permitted to stand up in His Name, I feel my unworthiness and unfitness for His work; but His presence is with me, that I may not prepare an awful day of wrath for myself by neglecting immortal souls.

Of a new opening for labour, the Corresponding Committee thus speak:—

An addition was made to the Native Branch of the Madras Mission, in the course of this year, by the Committee undertaking to carry on, under the superintendence of the Missionaries here, an Infant Christian Establishment commenced at POONAMALLEE, about 15 miles from Madras, by Mr. Hough, while officiating as Chaplain at that Station. The measure was recommended to the Committee in the following communication from Mr. Hough, prior to his departure for Europe:—

I wish to consign to the protection of the Corresponding Committee the Mission which I have been enabled to commence.

In September, we opened a Tamul School, for which a commodious building was procured gratis. There are now 43 Scholars. The Master's name is Verasawmy, a Heathen; whom I found very attentive to the duties of his station.

There is a small Native Christian Congregation, consisting of four men, sixteen women, and six grown-up children; besides four native women, Candidates for Baptism: most of the women are the wives of the English Pensioners who reside at Poonamallee. In October, I appointed a Catechist over this Congregation.

We have commenced the building of a small Church, and a house adjoining for the use of the Catechist. The foundation is laid; and I think sufficient money is already collected at Poonamallee to complete the building. The Church is building on a dry and elevated piece of ground, close by the road side—a situation which it is hoped will be favourable for attracting the Heathen passing by.

The recommendation of Mr. Hough was confirmed by Letters, addressed to the Committee in favour of the same objects, by two Gentlemen who had inspected the School and the Church of Christian Natives; one of whom, Captain Miller, then in charge of the European Asylum there, benevolently offered his services in aid of the measures which the Committee should take to maintain those humble establishments. Subscriptions were also collected on the spot, to finish the building of the School and Church.

The Committee, in consequence of the above circumstances, engaged to carry on the Native School, and to provide a Catechist. The Rev. James Ridsdale was appointed to visit this branch of the Mission, and he has since done so regularly every month. The following Report from him exhibits the present condition of the Station:—

Our Mission Establishment at Poonamallee consists of a neat little Church, a School Room, and a Dwelling-house for the Catechist, all constructed in the native mode of building, with mud walls and thatch of palmira leaves. There are three Services in Tamul held by the Catechist weekly; two on Sunday, and one on Friday, Evening, at which between 20 and 30 persons usually attend. A monthly Missionary Prayer-Meeting is also held, at which the Catechist reads extracts from the Missionary Register, and explains them to the people. The Catechist is chiefly occupied in visiting the neighbouring villages, and conversing with the Heathen, as opportunity offers, to whom the Scriptures are frequently read and explained. A Journal of his proceedings is kept, and delivered to the Missionary at his monthly visits of inspection.

In the School there are upwards of 40 Scholars. The first and second lasses have made some progress in reading and writing English, and have mostly committed to memory the First Catechism. The Doctrinal and Historical Catechisms are also in course of reading by some of the more proficient boys.

At Trippasoor, also, a village 18 miles from Poonamallee, a Country-bornTeacher, named Dennis, has opened, under the Society, an English School. Divine Service is performed on Sundays.

Of the English Department of the Mission, which is in the charge of the Rev. James Ridsdale, he thus reports:—

The English Services continue the same as stated in the Fourth Report of the Committee, except the Missionary Prayer-Meeting, which has been changed from Thursday to Tuesday Evening. The Congregations are not so numerous as they were a few months ago, but more stated; and several are evidently growing in faith and love, and adorning the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour by a consistent walk and conversation. A spirit of reading prevails and increases, for the cherishing of which our Lending Library* has been a most valuable auxiliary.

On the 17th of July a Female Church Missionary Association was formed in the Congregation, which promises benefit both to the cause and its own members. Some of the Collectors have been very active; and a remittance of 64 rupees to the Society's funds has been the result of their labours for the first quarter.

In reviewing the past year, we are not without ground of encouragement in this branch of labour: some instances have occurred, in which the preaching of the Gospel has proved the power of God unto salvation, and among the young there are several hopeful characters. The importance of our exertions in this quarter is unquestionable: they are directed toward a class of people, who, a few years ago, were destitute of any adequate religious instruction; and who, consequently, have been a standing reproach to Christianity in the eyes of the Heathen, and an impediment to their conversion. Another consideration that gives importance to our English Labours is, that it promises to raise up Teachers from among those, who, having been born and brought up in the country, are therefore far better acquainted with the manners, customs, and language of the Natives, than an European Missionary can possibly be; and who, on that account, will have a more ready access to the native population.

* It had been suggested to the Committee, that it would greatly contribute to the extension of true religion among both Europeans and Natives, if Libraries were established at the chief Stations of the Society in India, to consist chiefly of standard pieces in Divinity, which should be lent to proper persons, gratuitously, or at such rate as might merely secure the preservation of the Volumes. Such Libraries were, in consequence, sent out, some time since, to Calcutta, Madras, and Cotym; and also to each of the Society's three Stations in Ceylon. Each Library consisted of about 60 volumes, most of them in 12mo., of useful and popular Works. Additions have been made, in some cases, on the spot; and new books will be occasionally forwarded from home. The advantages of the measure have already been so great, that the plan will be gradually extended and enlarged.

The following Return of the SCHOOLS, as they stood at the end of September, shews an increase of about 140 Scholars during the year:—

The Corresponding Committee state—

A General Examination of the Children in the Madras Schools took place, at the Mission Church, in the month of July, when about 300 Children were assembled. The following Report was made upon the occasion by Mr. Bärenbruck:—

Wednesday, the 17th of July, was the day appointed for our Public School Examination. The Children assembled in the morning at the Mission House; and, being arranged according to their classes, proceeded to the Church where they were placed according to their relative proficiency. At nine o'clock we opened the business, with our daily Morning Service, in Tamul: after singing a Hymn, Mark x. 13—25. was read, and prayer offered. Then the first class, about 80 Boys, rose; and the Examination commenced. The Rev. W. Thomas put several questions to the Boys, which they answered so much to his satisfaction, that he was pleased to present the sum of five pagodas, for distribution, in rewards to the most deserving Scholars.

At this Examination, about 300 Children were present, including the Girls' School of 20 Scholars: 84 Boys and 4 Girls, obtained rewards; and one Boy of the Third School, and a Girl of the Girls' School, the first premiums. After the Examination, the children took their places in the classes of their respective Schools, and we concluded this solemnity by singing a Hymn and by prayer.

It afforded real pleasure to see the emulation of the Boys, in answering the questions put to them; and to remark the increase in the number of the Girls, and the improvement of the most regular in attendance.

We felt thankful to observe, that, as in the preceding year, there were at the Examination only a few Girls, who by their irregular attendance had been greatly retarded in their progress, at this Examination there were twenty from the different Schools, and several had made considerable progress.

In June and July, Mr. Bärenbruck visited the Country Schools*. Of these Seven Schools—the three at Conjeveram, with those at Kannipootoor, Trivaloor, Perriapolliam, and Madabaram—he thus speaks:—

I returned to Madras from my visits to the Seven Mission Schools, refreshed in spirit as though I had visited the Seven Churches. May these Seven Schools become indeed Seven Churches of Christ! We are, at present, toiling as in the dark; though with a sure hope, notwithstanding all our disappointments, that the Mercy of God will be revealed to this people.

On the PRESS, the Corresponding Committee report:—

The Printing Office and Depository are increasing in efficiency and importance. Upward of 30,000 copies of Christian Tracts and School Books, and some larger Works, have been struck off during the year. Printing, in nearly all its branches, in the English and Tamul characters, can be performed to any extent; and the Office will henceforth, it is expected, become a resource to the funds of the Society, instead of being, as hitherto, an expense. A large edition of the Tamul New Testament has been undertaken, on very moderate terms, for the Madras Auxiliary Bible Society; and work has been done for other local Religious and Benevolent Institutions, either gratuitously or at very low prices, with a view to promote, collaterally, the general cause of Christian Beneficence.

From the Depository, upward of 8000 Tracts and School Books have been supplied, for the use of the Society's different Missions, in the course of the year.

The Treasurer writes, in August—

Our Tamul Press is just now commencing the printing of an edition of 2500 copies of the New Testament, with 2500 additional copies of the Gospels, on account of the Auxiliary Bible Society. The press of the Vepery Mission of the Christian Knowledge Society is engaged in an edition of the Tamul Old Testament, on the same account, and our press has undertaken the New on the same terms; which are very moderate, but sufficient to defray the charge of our Establishment: while the undertaking has the happy effect of exhibiting the Three Societies, acting in their respective spheres, and mutually contributing to the propagation of the Sacred Oracles and the common advancement of our Blessed Faith.

Mr. Bärenbruck writes, in September—

My two Tamul School-Books have been printed; and a Tract especially adapted for Heathens, containing quotations from their books respecting their mythology contrasted with Sacred History and Doctrine, is at present submitted to the Corresponding Committee for their sanction.

TRANQUEBAR.

The appointment of the Rev. Isaac Wilson to a temporary residence at Tranquebar was stated in the last Report. He was allowed, while there, the use of the Danish Mission Church for an English Service on Sunday Evenings; which was attended by Europeans and Native Christians, and not without a blessing. A Missionary Prayer-Meeting, on the First Monday in the month, was begun by him in March. While he was diligently studying Tamul, he assisted the objects of the Society, by visiting the Schools; and by particular attention to the Seminarists, who are preparing for service as Teachers under the Society.

On the subject of LABOURERS at this Station, the Madras Committee report—

The following Letter contains an account of the beginning of a practice, which has been frequently recommended, for communicating the knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures to the Natives in a familiar manner by their own countrymen; and which has been partially adopted at some other Stations. The Committee have willingly sanctioned the expense attending so hopeful a beginning, in the employment of READERS OF THE SCRIPTURES by John Devasagayam.

Relying on the Divine aid, I employ two persons for this duty: they go, almost daily, two or three miles' distance, and sometimes further; and, wherever they meet a few souls that are inclined to hear the Holy Scriptures, they read them a Chapter or two, and speak to them in the way of explanation. They have found several attentive hearers, especially among the Low-caste People; and have been requested to visit them frequently. One of the Readers is a Poet, of the Soodra Caste: he takes another Young Man with him, who chiefly assists him in singing; by which the hearers, in some plaees, are collected together: he meets frequent opportunity of speaking with learned Brahmins and Soodras. The other is a Low-caste man; and he takes also another Youth with him, for the same purpose. They sometimes go to three or four different places in a day. They keep also a Journal: from which I intend to make a few extracts, occasionally, for the information of the Committee. May I request you to communicate to them our humble commencement; and, at the same time, my request, if kindly approved by them, to enable me to support the present Readers, and to add a few more, if faithful labourers are found. A Roman-Catholic Catechist from Avoor, near Trichinopoly, is with me. One of our Tamul

New Testaments fell into his hands, and the reading of it has principally brought him to us. He longs to be admitted, with his family, into the communion of our Church. Dr. Caemmerer has spoken with him, and will soon grant his request. He is now daily occupied in reading the Holy Scriptures for himself; and I humbly trust that the grace of God will soon enable him to do it also for the benefit of others.

Of the SCHOOL-ESTABLISHMENTS, they report as follows:—

The Corresponding Committee give the following general summary of the Scholars admitted up to September 30, 1822:—

Protestant Christian Children	538
Roman-Catholic Ditto	279
Brahmins	313
Soodra Heathens	3927
Mahomedans	198
Christian and Heathen Girls	37
Total Children admitted into the Schools	5292
Number who have successively left them	3567
Number remaining	1725

In the first five of these Schools, both English and Tamul are taught; in the rest, Tamul only. Of the First and Second Schools, the Head Native Superintendant, John Devasagayam, thus speaks:—

The two English Schools within Tranquebar are examined once a week; and the progress of the children, both in English and Tamul, is very satisfactory. Although the poverty of many parents in this place, and the little advantage which they meet with here by acquiring English, are great discouragements to them; yet they send them regularly, chiefly with a view to improve their moral character—an expectation, which I trust, they are not disappointed in.

Of the Heathen Scholars, generally, he thus writes to Major Mackworth, who visited Tranquebar *:—

We still observe among the Heathen Scholars a continuance of their former indifference, and want of resolution to shake off their Heathen Yoke. They however greatly improve in Christian and useful knowledge; and appear to become a little more thoughtful than they were. They shew a particular regard and attention to their Christian Teachers; and their understandings become day by day more clear. The Rev. Mr. Hough's valuable Tracts are of no small benefit to us.

To the Secretary he writes, in October, of the Schools in general—

I and my Assistants endeavour to watch every opportunity to impress on the minds of the Children the great truths of the Gospel in which they are instructed. Though we witness in many of them a kind of indifference to the great concerns of their Salvation, we meet singular instances, here and there, which very much encourage us; and we may say, with thankfulness, that we daily experience the fulfilment of the promise—*Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days.

The beneficial effect of Mr. Wilson's attention to the SEMINARISTS is thus spoken of by John Devasagayam:—

By the mercy of the Lord, several of our present Seminarists appear more serious than any whom I have hitherto known. I hope the pious labours of Mr. Wilson will be greatly blessed to them: we have now more prospect that some of our Scholars will go forth from us to the work of the Lord with better knowlege and sentiments, yea with hearts more devoted to His cause, than many who have hitherto left us.

Several Youths at Tanjore very earnestly requested Mr. Wilson, when he was there lately, to be admitted into our Seminary. This is owing to the improvement which several Youths from thence make in our Schools, of whom two have since returned to their parents, and four still remain with us. The instruction which Mr. Wilson commenced in Grammar and Geography, as well as in Religion, induced several Christian Parents, and even the Heathens in the country, to send their children here at their own expense. His departure to Madras is deeply lamented by many, and by our children in particular; and his great affection and frequent instruction will be long remembered by them with tears of gratitude and filial attachment. He gained their hearts so much, that some of them, to my great surprise, long to go with him even to Calcutta.

On the general prospects of the Mission, this worthy Native thus expresses himself to Major Mackworth:—

We have good prospects and encouragements among the Low-caste People. We daily witness their eagerness to hear the Word of God. I trust fully, that, from them, faithful servants of the Lord will soon arise, and break down the pride of the Brahmins and other high Castes.

I doubt not, my kind Sir, but you will inform our pious superiors of the thankfulness which many of our Natives feel, for their having sent us the blessed Word of God and Teachers to explain it. They will soon see in heaven, with joy inexpressible, with what rich success their prayers and their labours in India have been attended.

* Some remarks, by John Devasagayam, on the Advantages of Public Free-Schools, have been printed, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register, at pp. 443 and 444 of the Number for October.

TINNEVELLY.

The Rev. C. T. E. Rhenius and the Rev. Bernhard Schmid have continued their labours at this Station.

In reference to the SCHOOLS, the Madras Committee report—

Some changes have been made in the Schools. An English School being established at the expense of Government under charge of the Chaplain of Palamcottah, the English School in the Mission Garden became unnecessary. The boys of the other English School in the Town of Tinnevelly, influenced probably in some measure by the attraction of the Public School at Palamcottah, manifested a repugnance to continue the course of Christian Education observed in the Mission School; and the School was, in consequence, relinquished. The discontinuance of these English Schools has enabled the Missionaries to give more attention to the Native Schools; and to employ the Master of one, a pious and intelligent country-born young man, very usefully in the inspection of them. An additional Native School was established in the village of Keelpatam in the month of July last, making the number of Native Schools thirteen. The state of these Schools, at the end of September, was as follows:

1.	Mooroogenoorchy . . . . . Scholars,	45
2.	Tinnevelly	30
3.	Munjacooly, in Tinnevelly	38
4.	Pettah, in ditto	19
5.	Mylappalyum	29
6.	Courichy	36
7.	Chickneygramum	38
8.	Tatchanalloor	41
9.	Vannarapettah	28
10.	Kopidoopallam	34
11.	Kanasabaram	29
12.	Moorappanadoo	22
13.	Keelpatam	22

But the average attendance of children does not exceed 243. Difficulties are experienced in the management of the Schools, from the aversion of the Masters to conform to a proper system of tuition, and of the Children and their Parents to the Christian Instruction taught in them. But some improvement becomes gradually visible. The Missionaries write—

Dr. Bell's System is going on pretty well in the Central School; where the Master, a Native Christian, has continued throughout the year to give us much satisfaction, entering well into the spirit of the system, and diligently pursuing it in practice. In all the other Schools, also, the System is being gradually introduced; every one of them is now carried on, more or less, according to it. Considering all circumstances, we have reason to be encouraged, and to be excited to fresh zeal and patient perseverance.

Mr. Schmid, who has anxiously studied in what way most efficiently to apply the System of Mutual Instruction*, makes some remarks which deserve attention:—

The longer I persevere in our method of instruction, the clearer I see that the various practices of Dr. Bell's Plan, as many of them as I found applicable, are exceedingly well calculated to benefit the Natives; much more so, than some practices of the Lancasterian System. I allude, especially, to the preferableness of giving small cards into the hands of the children, to the practice of hanging large cards on the walls. The introduction of small cards into Native Schools is certainly much more troublesome, for the first year especially, than the use of large cards; but the strict attention to the lessons, to which the children are necessarily accustomed by the use of small cards given into the hand of each boy, produces effects on their minds which are perceptible in the whole appearance of a School; and which greatly encourage me to hope that the attention paid to this branch of the Mission-work will repay itself richly, and that we shall, at last, bring in full sheaves with joy.

With respect to the practice of reading, there is a very correct remark in the Report of the Calcutta Diocesan Committee: (Miss. Reg. 1820, p. 531:) "The Native Children very soon become able to repeat lessons by rote, which upon examination they are found to have much difficulty in reading; and thus, in those with which they are a little familiarized, they generally appear to have acquired a readiness in reading which they do not really possess, the same difficulty of deciphering a new lesson still remaining." This is eminently the case in, I doubt not, all Indigenous Tamul Schools; the art of reading, as the American Missionaries at Bombay remark (Miss. Reg. 1820, p. 358) being "greatly undervalued and very little encouraged," in the Native Schools, as it seems, throughout India. I can say, I trust, that, in our first Tamul School, this defect of the generality of Native Schools is greatly removed, and the advantages are already now visible. We only want Schoolmasters, who have for some time, in their own Model School, learned the method, in order to introduce it, with the assistance of proper Ushers, in the other Schools, with some degree of accuracy and energy.

* In Appendix IV. will be found an account of Mr. Schmid's method of conducting these Schools.

On the Seminary, the Corresponding Committee report—

The dissolution, in the preceding year, of the Seminary, commenced at this Station by the Rev. Mr. Hough, owing to some regulations of the Missionaries affecting the CASTE of the Seminarists, was mentioned in the Report of that period. During the present year, the Missionaries have re-established the Seminary, chiefly with new pupils, among whom all distinction of caste is forbidden. Twenty-four Youths, of various classes, have been admitted on this principle. The general conduct of these Youths, and the capacity of most of them, give the Missionaries much satisfaction. They write—

If it please God to bless our labours among them, we have good hopes of seeing them, in due time, qualified to be sent among their respective Tribes in the district, with the message of salvation to those who still sit in darkness and ignorance.

Some of the Youths are still engaged in the elementary parts of learning. The others have begun the study of the Higher Tamul; and will shortly be instructed in the rudiments of various branches of general knowledge. All are taught English, and the European System of Arithmetic. Some of the Youths evince the best dispositions, and afford the fairest promise of eventual usefulness.

The Missionaries write, at the beginning of May—

The Corresponding Committee have authorized us to draw 20 pagodas for 20 Seminarists; and to apply the money hitherto required for the Palamcottah English-School, now transferred to Government, toward travelling expenses, the maintenance of New Schools, and the employment of Readers wherever we see an opening. The Tinnevelly English School is to be discontinued, and Mr. Lyon employed here. We thank God for these arrangements.

Various Boys are engaged as Ushers, at a small remuneration, with a view to future employment in Schools at Out-stations. Others are occupied as copyists.

The Gentlemen of the Station contributed, during the year, 238 rupees for the Schools.

On the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, the Madras Committee state—

The Weekly Public Service in English, which the Missionaries used to perform, has been discontinued, in consequence of the appointment of a Chaplain to the Station. The Public Services in the Native Language are continued as before; the former English School-Room in the Mission Garden being now exclusively appropriated as the Place of Worship: in addition, a stated Service, for the Heathen, on Wednesday Evening, has been begun in the Town of Tinnevelly, at the place where the second English School was formerly kept. The Missionaries observe—

The attendance of the Heathen has been most encouraging hitherto. From 30 to as many as 180 at a time, have there heard of the truth, as it is in Jesus, and received Religious Tracts. The attention which prevails, especially during the prayers, is remarkable.

At every visit to the Village Schools, the opportunity is taken to preach to the people. At Keelpatam, a School and House for Prayer has been erected for the people; who had applied, as stated in the preceding Report, for religious instruction: a Native Protestant-Christian had been stationed there, to conduct the School and teach the people.

The Missionaries write—

Not only Children, but many Adults also, reap benefit from the Schools: for many of them attend when we catechise the children, and learn the same wholesome truths; and, not seldom, they make up a handsome Congregation, to whom, after the School-business is over, we preach the Gospel, with exhortations to repent and believe in the Saviour.

Your Committee subjoin a few brief extracts from Mr. Rhenius's Journal:—

March 31, 1822, Sunday—Besides our usual Congregation, there were again several Heathen attending Divine Service. They begin now occasionally to come in and sit down.

During this month, I appointed David to instruct the Beggars, who come every Monday, or every other Monday, to receive some charity. When he first began to do so, about 35 poor, lame, blind, old, and other wretched men and women were together. We made them all sit down under a tree; and when I saw several of them sit rather scattered, I told them to come round and draw closer toward the others; they looked at me, as well as they could, waved their hands, and said—" Oh, Sir, we cannot sit close to them, because they are not of our caste!" Is it not astonishing, that these persons, equally wretched, and craving for a small pittance for their subsistence with the rest, should be thus solicitous about preserving their caste!

When an unusually large number were together on another Monday, two Heathens, having heard some portion of the Scripture-History Catechism, abruptly said, " Ah, this is to make us all Christians!" and went away.

David reads to these poor creatures portions of the Scripture Histories, and makes them intelligible to them: they are excessively ignorant, and altogether unconcerned about their souls and eternity. Perhaps it may please the Lord to open the hearts of one or other of them by these means.

April 21, 1822, Sunday—At the Lord's Supper, seven Native Christians were partakers.

May 26, 1822, Whit Sunday—Divine Service was attended by many Heathen, besides the usual Congregation: some of the Heathen, after standing for a while, were so courageous as to come in and sit down. May the Divine influence have been felt by them all! I mentioned to the Congregation the "Hints for a Union in Prayer for the out-pouring of the Holy Spirit." I doubt not that some of our Christians will observe them. They are excellent. May they be every where adopted! and may the Lord hear our united prayers, not only for the Heathen, but also for all Christian Churches!

The Missionaries notice the great advantage of Historical Sermons. A plan for a series of Discourses of this nature, by the Rev. Deocar Schmid, of Calcutta, was mentioned in a former Report*. Mr. Rhenius writes, in reference to this plan—

Last Sunday, being the Sixteenth Sunday after Trinity, we entered on another Ecclesiastical Year, when I began a Course of Sermons, according to the plan of Br. Deocar Schmid; which I conceive well adapted to convey to a Congregation, progressively, a thorough knowledge of the Histories, Precepts, and Doctrines contained in the Scriptures. I began with the Creation. I intend to write down these Sermons, so as to make them useful also for our Country Congregations unprovided with a Minister. Such a set of Sermons seems to be very much required among them.

Mr. Bernhard Schmid says—

The Sermons on the Histories of the Bible attract the people. My brother's plan of the Ecclesiastical Year, which is followed by Br. Rhenius in his Sermons, would doubtless in Europe be of great benefit to the people.

We see more and more by experience, that the best way of conveying moral truths and the knowledge of Christianity to the minds of the Natives, young and old, is to acquaint them with the HISTORY of our religion as contained in the Scriptures. On the same ground, the Parables of our Saviour are very useful to convey religious instruction to the Natives.

In regard to PUBLICATIONS, the Corresponding Committee state—

The Missionaries have distributed, in the course of the year,

* See Appendix VI. to the Society's Twenty-first Report, pp. 244, 245.

50 copies of portions of the Scriptures, and upward of 1800 Religious Tracts. These have, in various instances, been sought for with avidity; especially at the Weekly Service in the Town of Tinnevelly. The circulation of these Tracts is limited only by the supplies; for the applications continually exceed the means, which the Missionaries possess of furnishing them.

The Missionaries continue to devote a considerable part of their time to the revision of the Translation of the Scriptures, and to the preparation of various Elementary Works for Schools and religious instruction in that language. The Mission Printing-Press at Madras, which is the only one at present belonging to the Society on this coast, is unable, from its numerous engagements, to undertake the publication of these works with the despatch which is desirable; but they will be progressively printed, as the press is able to receive them.

Of some of the pieces in preparation for the press, Mr. Rhenius says—

Induced by various circumstances, I have written two Tamul Tracts. One is on these questions—"How has God a Son?" "Why did He permit sin to enter into the world?" and, "Why did not Christianity spread formerly, but only now?"—questions with which the Natives puzzle themselves, and which they sometimes propose in order to puzzle others. The Second Tract is on the Native and Christian Vedams, wherein both are compared, and the inference drawn that the Christian only can be a revelation from God.

Mr. Schmid writes—

I am beginning to compile a History of the World, with particular reference to the biblical traditions preserved in India, and with the view of convincing the reader of the truth and exclusive authority of the Sacred History. The more I consider the subject, the more I see how judiciously the Compendium of General History is written, which has been published by the Serampore Missionaries in their Periodical Publication, "The Dig-Durshun."

The Press is the grand medium of communication between all parts of the Missionary World. Mr. Rhenius gives a striking view of the benefit which it thus confers on Missionaries, in speaking of some Periodical Works which had reached them:—

They are old transactions; but many things, in relation both to India and other countries, were new to us. I bless and praise God our Saviour, for His mercies toward this generation. My heart rejoices, and feels thankful to Him, at every appearance of the enlargement of His kingdom throughout the world, particularly in my native country (Prussia). While reading the Reports and Journals of our fellow-labourers in Africa, India, China, the South Seas, America, England, Switzerland, Germany, Prussia, and Russia, I stop, in the spirit, at each Station—sympathize with them in their difficulties and distresses—rejoice with them at any appearance of success—pray for them—and praise the Saviour for His loving kindness toward the children of men! Oh, may He enable us to be more sufficient for these things! May He manifest His saving power among the nations! They got not the land in possession by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them; but by thy right-hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance. The same we must still say, with respect to our Redeemer's taking possession of the Heathen as His inheritance. Not by OUR might nor OUR wisdom. O Lord, help us to be diligent, yet always to expect all success only from Thee!

Mr. Schmid, who has been of a weakly habit, and has suffered greatly from severe head-ach, makes some observations on his present state of health, which may be serviceable to other Missionaries:—

May 3, 1822—I have much reason to praise the Lord, for the health and strength which He grants me. Although there has been much rain for more than a month, yet, during the last eight years, I have not been so well as I am now; and rainy weather formerly did not agree with me. Daily bathing in cold water and much exercise, with occasional use of cream of tartar, has, under the Lord's blessing, produced this happy change; and I would strongly recommend the first two preservatives to all who complain of the weakening effects of climate, or whose constitutions are not strong.

I have reviewed my Journal, and have noticed in what state of health I began the month, of May, in the five years during which I have been in India; and am constrained to say, that it is of the Lord's mercy, that I have been not only preserved, but restored and strengthened, while many of my fellow-labourers have either been called to their rest, or obliged to leave the scene of their labours. In the beginning of May 1818, I was unable to do any thing from the effects of a sickness, during which I found refuge and was restored under the hospitable roof of Mr. Strachan. In May 1819, I was languid and ailing. My Journal of May 1820, begins with heavy lamentations—I chattered like a crane. Last year, I carried on my School-work here, in much depression and suffering; but with a strong assurance that my condition would soon change in one way or other: and this hope has been fulfilled, this year, beyond my expectation. Bless the Lord, O my Soul! and forget not all His benefits who forgiveth all thine iniquities, and healeth all thy diseases!

The Journals of the Missionaries at this Station furnish the Committee with the means of ascertaining, both the difficulties and the encouragements of the Mission. The low state of the Native Character, and the degrading Superstitions of the people, oppose great obstacles to their labours; while the spirit of Inquiry which has been awakened, and the promising state of various Natives, particularly among the Young*, encourage them to proceed with vigour. In the midst of the difficulties which surround them, a Christian Church is gradually rising. The Corresponding Committee state—

'In this year, one Heathen man, one woman, and two children, have been baptized; and three Roman Catholics, two men and one woman, with two children, have been received into the Protestant Communion, after due instruction.

The Missionaries conclude their retrospect of the condition of this Mission in the following terms:—

With respect to the success which has been vouchsafed upon our labours in the Schools, in Preaching, and in the distribution of Tracts and the Holy Scriptures, we have to record, with great pleasure and gratitude to the Redeemer, that some of the Native Christians in our service have, during the year, given sufficient evidence of a change of mind, and a consequent sincere desire and determination to hate every evil way, and to follow our Lord Jesus Christ. They have, since, become greatly useful in the Mission, and are our joy in this wilderness.

Among the rest of our Native Christian-People, divine knowledge increases; but we wish to see them truly converted, and shew forth the power of that knowledge. They are still under the influence of the spirit of the world, and occasionally try us not a little. We are particularly grieved, at times, at the inconsistent behaviour of some of those, whom we received, during the year, at our Church.

Among the Heathen, the Word of God runs, and we humbly trust that it will also be glorified. Some of our Schoolmasters shew some change of character for the better; though their worldly connexions do not yet allow them to renounce Idolatry altogether. At Tinnevelly, in particular, inquiry about religion has evidently been excited.

Here and there, also, the young minds have been captivated by the Word of Truth; and we humbly trust in the grace of our Redeemer, that the fire kindled will not be extinguished, but will spread further, until His name be glorified among all.

The melancholy scene, of which we complained in our last Report, has, by the blessing of the Lord, thus begun to be changed. He has refreshed our hearts with the view of some souls seeking their salvation, so dearly procured by His death. Others are in a fair way to do so likewise. True, they are but few; but when we remember, that our labours in this country are still chiefly labours of preparation, and that our Saviour Himself had so few disciples during his personal ministry, we may be comforted, not despising the day of small things, but rather be greatly encouraged to proceed in our labours.

TRAVANCORE.

In reference to the Syrian Church, the Committee have the sincerest pleasure in reporting, that the various labours of the Missionaries in its behalf are carried on under the full sanction and encouragement of Colonel Newall, the present British Resident at the Court of Travancore; and they have the greatest satisfaction in receiving, from the Rev. James Hough and from Major Mackworth, the most encouraging testimonies to the good effect of the Society's labours. To an extended extract from Major Mackworth's Journal, printed in the Missionary Register for March, the Committee refer for many interesting particulars relative to the Mission among the Syrians. His concluding words cannot fail to impress the Members with the best hopes of its success:—

Blessed be God, that my last fortnight has been so delightfully spent; and that the general result of my inquiries is the all-but-formed conviction, that there are, in this remote and almost unknown corner of the world, between sixty and seventy thousand souls ready to receive the Gospel, as soon as it shall be preached among them unfettered by an unknown and obsolete tongue! With this belief I joyfully proceed; counting that my slight labours and fatigues have been amply recompensed, and have rarely been better bestowed.

Mr. Hough has very forcibly stated, in the following communication to the Committee, the claims of the Syrian Church to continued and enlarged assistance:—

The Mission to the Syrian Churches in Travancore is of more importance, and presents a fairer prospect of success, than any other Mission in India.

The Syrian Community in Malabar is but a remnant of the Ancient Church, which has existed for centuries in that mountainous country: but it is a remnant that has withstood the arts and threats of Romish Emissaries; and has held fast its attachment to the Scriptures, and its peculiar Creed and Mode of Worship, notwithstanding the wiles and violence of the Papal Power, in attempts to subvert its faith and constitution.

The Syrians have, moreover, hitherto remained unmoved by the influence of their Heathen Rulers, and the pageantry and customs of their idolatrous neighbours. This cannot be said for the Church of Rome: for though it has existed in India scarcely one-fifth of the period of the Syrian Church, it has adopted idolatrous usages to such an extent, that almost the only difference between the Roman and Pagan Churches in the East, is to be found IN THE NAMES OF THEIR RESPECTIVE IDOLS, or, as they BOTH call them, SWAMIES—the Romanists naming them Jesus, the Holy Mother, Peter, &c., and the Heathens, Brahmas, Vishnoo, Siva, &c. The Romanists use the idols, with other appendages of idolatry, in their processions; and study a conformity with the Heathen in most of their ceremonies. Indeed, a Romish Priest had once the boldness to tell me, when I was pointing to the car which stood before his window, and expressing my surprise at their adopting so many idolatrous customs, "If we come among dogs, we must do as dogs do." It was in vain that I rejoined, "No, our duty is to RAISE them to the elevation of human beings and Christians, and not to degrade OURSELVES to a level with those whom you esteem as brutes."

No compromise like this disgraces the present Syrian Church in the East. She has braved the shock of many a furious blast and overwhelming torrent; and stands yet, like the Rechabites of old, a monument of fidelity to the institutions of her fathers. In a spiritual point of view, indeed, she seems to have but a name to live: her sun is clouded by ignorance, and her visage deformed by immorality. Yet, were she not fallen, she would not require our aid. But, though cast down, she is not destroyed. And is it not our wisdom, as well as duty, in our endeavours to convert the Heathen, to seek to raise this, in some measure, faithful Church from the dust? and should it please God to crown our efforts with success, we shall find in her a powerful coadjutor in the evangelizing of the Heathen World.

The Syrian Church presents to the Missionary a fairer prospect of success, than any other description of persons in the East.

They acknowledge their ignorance, and are devotedly attached to the Word of God, and submit to its authority—whereas the Heathen think themselves as wise in THEIR way, as Christians are in theirs; and they account their own Shasters as sacred, and of as great authority with them, as the Bible is with us.

The Syrians confess their immoralities to be sinful and contrary to God's commands, and often blush for them—the Heathen will glory in their shame; and may justify their obscenities and vices of every description, by the examples of their Gods.

Many of the Syrian Priests, and of the people also, manifest a docile temper, and are thankful for instruction—Hindoos, on the contrary, and particularly Brahmins, seldom appear to take an interest in what you say; and not unfrequently shew, too evidently to be misunderstood, that they would rather you would not disturb them with your conversation.

The Syrians preserve no distinction of caste among themselves; and though they rank next to the Nairs, or nobility of Travancore, they will eat and drink, and even intermarry, with Low-caste Heathen Converts to their Church, provided they be cleanly in their persons and sufficiently respectable in their circumstances —but no consideration will induce a Hindoo to sit down to meat, much less to marry, with one of inferior caste: even the Native Protestants retain, most tenaciously, this distinction; and it greatly impedes the interchange of Christian Love among them.

Heathens of caste think themselves defiled by the touch of an European, how respectable soever he be; nor can they, without losing caste, partake of any thing which he may present to them, though it were but a cup of water: this must prevent any cordiality, friendship, or confidence on the part of the Heathen toward the Missionary, until their souls shall become truly converted to God—but the Syrians shake hands with a Gentleman whom they esteem, as one European would with another; and will sit down to eat and drink at his table.

The friendly disposition of the Syrian Metropolitan toward the Missionaries, and his entire concurrence with them in all their plans for the melioration of his Church, and approbation of what they have hitherto done, give further encouragement to the cultivation of this promising field—whereas, in every other part of India, Brahmins and other men of caste and influence are the most opposed to the Missionary's objects, and it is chiefly among the lower classes that he finds acceptance.

Upon the whole, therefore, I am persuaded that there is no class of persons in India, which has so great a claim upon the attention of a Missionary Society, as the Syrians of Malabar.

On the interest which is taken in the welfare of the Syrians by Colonel Newall, Mr. Strachan, Treasurer of the Madras Committee, thus writes, in August:—

Colonel Newall suggested to the Missionaries, that resources might be obtained in aid of their undertakings, if a proper representation of them were submitted to persons who take an interest in objects connected with the welfare of the Native Inhabitants of this country. A brief Memoir of the State of the Syrian Church, and of the Metran's and Missionaries' plans for its improvement, was, in consequence, prepared; and Colonel Newall has written a very encouraging reply to the Missionaries. It is proposed to print these papers*, with his sanction, and to circulate them: and if, as we may reasonably expect, Colonel Newall patronises the subscription, some material accession of funds may be obtained for the use of that most important branch of our operations.

The Corresponding Committee state—

The measures adopted in the preceding year, for extending the benefit of Parochial School Instruction throughout the country occupied by the Syrian Christians, and for establishing a Grammar School as an intermediate step between the Parochial Schools and the College for youths designed for the service of the Church, or for whom a better scale of education is desirable, were stated in the last Report.

From the Reports of the Missionaries on these several branches, your Committee will extract the chief passages.

On the PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS, Mr. Baker reports—

Five new Parochial Schools have been established, during the year: but these increase the number, on the whole, only two; as it has been found necessary to give up, for the present, three of those that were at first set on foot. More New Schools might have been established; but there are several parishes which I have not yet been able to visit, though I hope to do so shortly, and to set up a School at each place, if one be needed.

Of the GRAMMAR SCHOOL, he thus speaks—

The numbers have continued much the same as last year. Some of the boys who were then present have been permitted to leave, at their own desire: but their places were immediately filled up by others, some of whom have come from Churches situated as far as two or three days' journey from Cotym; which shews that the confidence of the people toward the Missionaries is increasing. The improvement of the boys has been satisfactory; and ten of them have, in consequence, been admitted to the College. A few only of the boys who have been received into the Grammar School have, until lately, learnt any thing before they came: but an improvement in this respect, likewise, is taking place; which, it is hoped, will go on, until the classes can be regularly filled up from the first classes of the Parochial Schools. Additions have been made to the Grammar School, so that there is now ample room for 100 boys, if it should be thought expedient to have so many.

Mr. Fenn states, in reference to the COLLEGE—

The number of Students is fifty: of this number, 12 are ordained, the remaining 38 unordained.

In November, 13 of the Students were formed into a Latin Class: the others are learning English. In Sanscrit, several are reading poetry. This account relates to the unordained Students.

All the ordained Students, except Marcus, confine themselves to Syriac. They find the acquisition of another language too difficult. Their progress in Syriac is tolerable. Marcus reads Scott's Essays and Milton; and, in Latin, Quintus Curtius: he has just begun learning a few passages from Virgil. He has begun Hebrew.

No Public Examination has been had this year. I intended to hold one in April; but the very alarming illness of Mr. Bailey, together with my own indisposition about that time, prevented it. It is in contemplation to establish Annual Examinations, to be held at the latter end of October or beginning of November. By making historical allusions, local customs, and the geography of the places, as well as the structure and idiom of the language, the subjects of examination, it will secure the Students and their Instructors from confining themselves to technical learning.

Mr. Fenn earnestly entreats the assistance of some of his learned countrymen. Without such aid, he says, the progress already made in the following course of study cannot be continued.

An attempt is making at the study of English, Latin, Hebrew, and Sanscrit, besides Syriac, and the Vernacular dialect of the country: and it is hoped that two years will not elapse, before the Greek tongue is added to the number. There is no hinderance, but rather every facility for the study of Arabic, for which the Syrian Clergy entertain a high veneration.

The conduct of the Students has been remarkably good. They behave with the greatest respect, while they are entirely free from all servility. Their natural dispositions, their desire of learning, their ability and application, are not at all inferior to what is found among Youths in Europe. If present hopes do not prove fallacious, in less than ten years, with the assistance now besought and the blessing of God, there may be fifty or one hundred learned Priests belonging to this Venerable Church, nourishing their own flocks, and spreading the triumphs of the Gospel around them.

The Missionaries, as a body, second the request for further aid. In reference to a suitable Head of the College, they say—

We hope that it may be possible to persuade one, who has distinguished himself in the seats of learning in England, to come and take charge of our Institutions. We are sure that there is no Station, which presents so many attractions to a man, who wishes to employ his talents in the instruction of his fellow-creatures: the whole of the Syrian Population look to the College as the eye of their body, and make it their boast; and the exertions of some of the present Students will, ere long, justify this feeling.

The Corresponding Committee state—

The College of Fort St. George has, with great liberality, permitted a Fount of Malayalim Types to be cast with its dyes, for the use of the Printing Press of the College at Cotym, the arrival of which from England was announced last year. These types have been recently forwarded to Cotym; and it is hoped that the press there—the first ever seen within the limits of the Syrian Church—will shortly be employed in aid of the other means now in operation for restoring the lights of knowledge and religion to a people, whose past history, and present state, alike render them the objects of peculiar solicitude.

The College of Fort St. George has also presented to the College at Cotym a copy of each of its publications; accompanied with an intimation from the Board of Superintendence of "their intention to present to that Institution every publication which may hereafter issue from the College of Fort St. George *."

Mr. Bailey, on whom the intercourse with the SYRIAN CLERGY chiefly devolves, writes, in September—

I have long wished for some useful books on the Christian Religion, to distribute among the Catanars and people; but there are, as yet, none of this kind printed in Malayalim. The best of all books is the Bible; and, wishing that to take the lead of all others, I have devoted almost the whole of my time to the translation of that Sacred Book. A number of copies of certain portions of it have been written out, and distributed among the Catanars and people; but what can be done in this way must be comparatively very little, from the great delay and expense which necessarily attend the employing of writers to copy them out. Nothing to any purpose can be done, in this respect, till some part, at least, of the Scriptures be printed.

* Copies of the Letter accompanying this acceptable present, and of the Reply written by desire of the Metropolitan, will be found in Appendix VI.

Since it has pleased God in a measure to restore my health, I have been preparing the Four Gospels for the press; and hope to have them done by the time the press is ready to set to work here. These, I trust, will soon be followed by the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistles: we have revised as far as to the end of the First Epistle to the Corinthians.

During the last year, four of the Students have been ordained Catanars; and it has pleased God to remove six of the Catanars by death, four of whom were aged men.

We should be glad to see a greater desire manifested by the Catanars for improvement in the best things. There is, I trust, a little; and that little is on the increase. There is evidently a growing desire of good among the Laity; and, by the blessing of God, we hope that, ere long, a change for the better will be more manifest among them. The Lord alone can crown with success the endeavours now making for the benefit of this Ancient Church: to Him we look, and on Him we depend; knowing that all our labours will be in vain, unless He be pleased to give the increase; and we pray that we may patiently wait His time. He has promised that His cause shall prosper, and all His promises shall be fulfilled: therefore, though we do not at present see that success attending our labours which we could wish, yet we are not discouraged.

On the general state and prospects of the Mission*, the Missionaries say—

We hope, that, by the Reports which accompany this, the Committee will see that every thing is in progress in the Mission, though the progress is slow, and much slower than we desire.

The connexion between us and the Syrian Church is as close as ever; and the period for the revival of learning and piety seems approaching. The desire of instruction is increasing, and rapidly increasing; and, in a very short time, our present means and establishments will be quite insufficient.

Mr. Baker, in November, thus speaks of the state of the Mission:—

I am happy to say that we are proceeding steadily on in our labours, and not without an evident blessing of God upon them. We meet with great encouragement, from the attention which the boys pay to the instructions given them, and from the progress which they are making. The Syrians are becoming dearer to us every day, and we likewise to them; and we have reason to believe that some are truly blessed of God. Still,

* Some further particulars in relation to the Syrian Church have been printed, since the Anniversary, at pp. 452 and 453 of the Missionary Register for October.

however, we must unite with others in the Petition, Pray for us. We need not only our own prayers, but those of our friends. We are not forgotten, I am sure, at your Weekly Meetings, nor do we forget our friends in England at our's; and when the Lord shall be pleased to pour out His Spirit more abundantly, our prayers, I trust, will be abundantly answered, both upon ourselves and those for whose benefit we are labouring.

ALLEPIE.

The Madras Corresponding Committee give the following view of this Station:—

Mr. Norton continues to conduct the entire Ministerial Duties, both in English and Native. The English Service is attended, generally, by about fifty persons, including the children of the Orphan Establishment under his charge: the Native Services are attended by about the same number of persons as the English. The number of Communicants is ten, whose general conduct is consistent with their Christian Profession. Two Heathens have been baptized during the year, and five children of Christian Parents; and seven Roman Catholics have been admitted into the Protestant Communion.

The Two Schools of the Mission contain 109 children; all of whom receive Christian Instruction, and whose progress in learning is satisfactory.

An occurrence in this Mission, evincing the happy effects of the perusal of the Sacred Scriptures, may be introduced with propriety. A Hindoo Youth belonging to the Mission School, who was employed by Mr. Norton to transcribe portions of the Gospels in the vernacular language, became impressed with a conviction of the truths contained in them, and gradually discontinued the observance of the idolatrous rites of his family. He was removed by his relations into the interior of the country, in order to detach him from the Mission; and violence was threatened, to induce him to conform to the customary practices of his caste. Urged by this treatment, he fled from the country; and, coming into the Tinnevelly District, on this side of the Ghauts, he heard of the Mission in the Town of that name, and sought admission into the Seminary there. The Missionaries in Tinnevelly wrote to Mr. Norton to ascertain the truth of as much of the Youth's account of himself as he might be acquainted with; and he was enabled so far to confirm its accuracy. The Youth has since applied himself diligently to his duties in the Tinnevelly Seminary, preparatory to baptism; and the Missionaries there write in terms of entire approbation of his conduct.

Many similar instances might be given of the converting influence of a simple perusal of the Holy Scriptures among the Natives, illustrating the propriety of the beautiful description of these Oracles of Truth given by the Psalmist:—The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. The entrance of thy word giveth light!

On the free use of the Scriptures, Mr. Norton is unavoidably at issue with his Roman-Catholic neighbours. Of one of the Members of that Communion, who has joined the Protestant Church, it is said—

He suffered much persecution. We are obliged to take him under our care, or they would confine him in what they call the black hole. The Bishop sent a Petition to the British Resident, requesting him to make Mr. Norton give him up. The Resident sent it to Mr. Norton; wishing Mr. Norton to give him a full account of the case, which he did: and the Young Man begged leave to write to him also, which he was permitted to do. He told the Resident that he had been in our School more than four years; that he had there learnt to read his Bible; and that he could not belong to a Church, which would deprive him of the only book that would teach him the way to heaven.

It is added—

There are several others in the School, who have told their parents that they cannot give up reading the Bible; and we hope, in time, the Lord will enable them to become decided followers of the meek and lowly Saviour.

The writer of the Letter from which these extracts are taken, was the late Mrs. Norton. The death of this zealous Servant of Christ was stated in a Note to the last Report: an Obituary has since appeared in the Missionary Register*. From the Letter just quoted, which is addressed to a friend, the Committee will extract some other passages, which give a lively picture of the little Christian Community from which she has been removed to her eternal rest.

We have here a poor blind man, who was a Heathen, and gave us great trouble when we first came. He used to go about singing loose songs for his living. Mr. Norton would often talk to him, and beg him to come to our poor-house; but he would laugh at him, and tell him that he was "too high caste for that." At last he consented to come to hear the Tamul Preaching, and now he is very glad to live in the poor-house. He has been baptized, and is quite changed in manner: instead of singing his old songs, he has learnt hymns, and is very fond of hearing good things, and I hope that the eyes of his understanding are opened. Should we only have come here to be the means in the Lord's hand of saving these two Young Men from perdition, it is worth all our privations, had they been ten thousand more than they are.

We commemorate the dying love of our Lord every First Sunday in the month, about one o'clock at noon, which is about eight A. M. with you, when we shall be thankful if you will offer a short petition for the little Church at Allepie. We are eight in number at present; but I have hopes when I next write you to have more; for we have some that wish to come: but my dear Husband is very cautious whom he admits, and his Wife is not fond of being over hasty; so that we go on but slowly at present. Two of the Communicants are our own domestics: they are man and wife: the man we brought with us from Colombo—his wife was a little girl whom Mrs. Munro, our late Resident's Lady, gave me, when I first came into the country: she was then a Roman Catholic. Her husband says, "When I came, I could tell lies; but now I so fear the great God, I can no do so." They are a great comfort to us; for the servants here are usually very dishonest, yet you cannot do without many. Mr. Norton married them on Christmas-Day four years back. It is such a wonder here for a Man and his Wife to be true to each other, that Parsees and all other Castes are quite astonished at their exemplary conduct.

I must now thank you for all the little books which you sent me, with needle-cases, thimbles, cotton-balls, &c. The children were almost frantic with delight, and I was not much better —only they laughed, and I cried. You would have been pleased to see the dear children next morning, which was Sunday. They had each one of the Hymn Books given them. I heard their little voices in a shady place, and went to listen: I found my own two and seven others singing, with all their might, the first Hymn— "This day belongs to God alone."

Mr. Norton, in a Letter to the Secretary, thus feelingly laments the loss of Mrs. Norton:—

I have, Dear Sir, lost a most affectionate and pious Wife, as well as a truly indefatigable assistant in the work of the Lord. She was my comforter, when cast down that the work did not succeed as I could wish, and my counsellor and cheerful companion and encourager, at all times. As to the Mission, she was most unreservedly devoted to it; and may be said to have laid herself out in the Sacred Cause. But especially was she set on promoting the good of the Country-born and Native Females: these lay much on her mind, and she was continually planning how she could benefit them. Hence we had several little Country-born Girls, and more were coming at her hoped-for recovery; and, had the Lord seen good to spare her, you would have heard from her on behalf of the poor Native Females. But this is all, for the present at least, fallen to the ground. She has bid adieu to all labours, afflictions, and sorrows; and has taken her flight to the land of eternal rest and happiness.

CANNANORE AND TELLICHERRY.

The Corresponding Committee report as follows, in reference to these Stations:—

The following extract from a recent Letter of the Rev. Mr. Spring, Chaplain at Tellicherry, shews the state of the Missionary Concerns under his superintendence at this period:—

I sit down to give you something like a report of Missionary Proccedings in these parts. If I had only to write of Tellicherry, and what comes more immediately under my own eye, it would be a more pleasing task.

I have no means of getting fully acquainted with what progress Christianity is making in CANNANORE, and hence I can seldom feel satisfied. I am willing to hope the best; but a Military Station appears to me at no time to have a favourable atmosphere for the plant of the Gospel. Not that I have any thing specific to object to Jacob Joseph or his flock: of himself, indeed, I cannot alter my general good opinion; and I really believe it to be a source of grief to him, that all his flock do not walk worthy of their vocation. Yet when I consider the air which many of them breathe, I cease to be surprised. When Europeans, not only of the common sort, but of rank and education, neglect, not to say contemn, God and religion, it is no wonder that they who serve them, and are in the daily habit of witnessing their conduct, should go backwards. If a few stand stedfast, it is as much as can be reasonably expected. I do not say this, because the number of professing Christians at Cannanore is diminished; for it is not: but because all are not Christians who are so called. If St. Paul was compelled to say to the Philippians, many walk of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ, we ought not to be surprised at the sad retrogradations in our day. I know not whether the Catechist is to be blamed: I scarcely think he is; but he informs me, that there is much irregularity in attending Divine Service under his ministration on Sundays, as well as other times of assembling together; and that the same irregularity is observable in the attendance of children at School: excuses are made on the ground of business. Some have altogether fallen away. Jacob Joseph's Congregation are all people of the other coast: and hence I am not able to communicate with them, as they speak the Tamul, not Malayalim; even if I could be oftener and stay longer at Cannanore, than at present my other more important occupations will allow. Perhaps it might not be considered advisable to remove Jacob Joseph, but I certainly think he would be a more valuable assistant, if employed under the immediate eye of a Missionary on the other coast, or at least where Tamul is the vernacular tongue: I leave this to the consideration of the Committee. With respect to the School at Cannanore, under Johnson, I am sorry to say that it has not, after a fair trial, answered my expectation: whether this was owing to negligence in the Master or indifference in the Scholars, I cannot determine—perhaps to both; but there was such irregularity in the attendance, that I did not feel myself justified in further expending the Society's funds upon it.

I now return to TELLICHERRY, where something is almost daily occurring to animate and encourage us in our course. Here, flashes of the heavenly light are continually gleaming through the darkened atmosphere. It is no longer ago than yesterday, that the Nair of whom I have often spoke, my right-hand and fellow-helper in the work of translation, brought me a paper, which he had composed in his own tongue (Malayalim) against idolatry, as the first of a series of Addresses, which he hopes one day publicly to deliver to his countrymen: it was read in the presence of my other assistants, three in number; who, by their manner, evidently coincided in opinion in all that it contained. I made an English Translation of it last evening, being much pleased with its logical correctness: I send you a copy, as a fair specimen of the abilities of one, who will, if it please God to spare him, be a bright and shining light in his day, and, I am strongly inclined to believe, a great instrument in introducing the Gospel into this hitherto-unenlightened portion of the East. Through him and others, I hear that there is, on every side, a readiness among great numbers to receive the tidings of the Gospel. I long for the Testament to be printed, that he may go forth with it in his hand, and say, Thus it is written. Not a translating-day passes, in which I do not say to them who are with me, more especially when they inquire the meaning of a difficult or obscure passage, "You are to go forth, and do that which I cannot do, on account of the defectiveness of my pronunciation, and my want of a thorough knowledge of the language—expound to your fellow-countrymen those things which I have laid open to you:" their hearts respond to my wishes; and I feel persuaded, that it may not be long ere there will be no despicable company here ready to receive Christ in all his characters.

The next thing to which I would call your attention, is the School at this place. It has not been denominated a Missionary School; though I have reason to believe that it has, in a great measure, answered the purpose of one: at all events, the Bible has been the book daily read in it, and the Church Catechism taught, no one objecting; and I have every reason to think that a foundation has been laid, in the minds of many, for the reception of the Gospel, while to some, the descendants of European Protestants, it has been a place of instruction. It is a gratifying thing to be able to remark, that those who have gone out from it and are now employed in the Public Offices, are commended by their superiors for their diligence, ability, and correctness of conduct: their number is seven. Many others are employed in various trades, of whom less is known. And there are now in the School not a few, who promise to do credit to it. Under such circumstances, it would be a great pity, you will readily allow, that such an Institution should fall to the ground. It is, however, to be feared that such may be the case, except the Society would be pleased to take it under its protection. At present, the number of pupils is—two Brahmins, two Nairs, three Chetties, thirteen Tiers, twenty-four Roman Catholics, and six Protestants: total fifty—and, of these, eight only contribute toward the support of the School.

The Committee have gladly acceded to Mr. Spring's wish for the Tellicherry School to be taken on the Society's establishment.

VIZAGAPATAM.

The School, supported by the Committee at this Station, continues, under the kind superintendence of the friend who succeeded the late Rev. Mr. Church in the charge of it, to be very useful for the otherwise neglected children of the European Invalids of the Station: 27 Boys and 39 Girls, making together 66 children, are instructed, at the expense of the Committee; and many of them are clothed by means of contributions from the European Society of the Station.

The Committee have lately received a very gratifying report of the attendance and improvement of the children.

The Expenditure of the South-India Mission has amounted to the sum of 37,166. 1. 0. Madras Rupees, the local contributions to 3,170. 11. 1; and the difference, being 33,995. 5. 11, was supplied from the funds of the Society. The particulars of the expenditure were, in round numbers of pounds sterling, as follows:—

The Corresponding Committee, ever anxious, like their fellow-labourers at the other Presidencies, to relieve the funds of the Society, by the increase of Local Contributions, add the following remarks on this subject:—

When the Committee consider the variety and extent of the demands on the liberality of the Christian Public in England; and the spiritual wants of the various countries where the Society maintains establishments, but where, from the state of the Native and European Communities, local contributions cannot be expected, or but to a very small amount—it is a subject of deep solicitude, that the drafts upon the funds of the Society should be so considerable from INDIA, where the ability to contribute is certainly not generally wanting among the members of the European-Christian Community, and where the urgency of the occasion for Missionary Institutions can scarcely be questioned by any who appreciate the comparative merits of Christianity and Heathenism.

The Corresponding Committee give the annexed general view of the Mission under their care, particularly in reference to its connexion with the Syrian Church:—

The preceding Report upon the Missions of the Church Missionary Society in the South of India, exhibits the progressive operation of many plans; all of which, in their degree, are calculated, under the favouring influences of Heaven, to advance the cause of Christianity. For the due execution of these plans, the Society and its Missionaries are responsible; and its agents appreciate that responsibility. But the RESULTS are in His hand, whose blessing alone can prosper any endeavours for the spiritual benefit of mankind.

The measures of the Society, however, are not directed exclusively to the conversion of the Heathen. Here, as in other countries, a principal object of its attention is the condition of Christian Churches and Communities, fallen from their original state by the influence of some or other of those causes, which have, for centuries past, conspired to deteriorate the character of Christianity in various places.

The persecuting spirit of Mahomedanism, which nearly destroyed the Churches of the North of Asia, with one of which Churches the chief of those in India was connected; and the baleful conquests of the Romish Church, effected in India by the aid of the Portuguese Power, and since maintained by the ascendancy of its Priests over the minds of the proselytes enslaved by ignorance and all the arts of priestcraft—may be mentioned among the principal causes of the present degraded state of Christianity in this country.

It has been the reproach of Protestant Christendom, in former periods, that a Christian Community in India was left, unaided, to struggle with the domineering power of the Romish Church; when so many of the European Reformed Churches had succeeded in establishing their independence. It is to the honour of the Church Missionary Society, that it should have made the first attempt to impart to the depressed Syrian Church of Malabar the aid which it needed, in order to revive a purer faith and practice in that Ancient Christian Community. Under what favourable auspices the measures undertaken with that view, in conjunction with the Dignitaries of the Syrian Church, are now proceeding, the preceding Report sufficiently evinces. In this branch of its plans, the Church Missionary Society has established a claim to the respect and support of every Member of our own Venerable Establishment; for here we plead for Christians, whose ancestors called on the Name of Christ before England became a Christian Country: while, by the combined system of all its Institutions, the Society commends its plans to the prayers of every Christian, and justifies an application—which however feebly urged here, will not, it is hoped, be urged altogether in vain—for a share in the liberality of every one, who desires the welfare of the Natives of India, and believes that Christianity is the heaven-appointed means of promoting human improvement and happiness.

Before the Committee quit this Mission, they would advert to the urgent calls, which are made in its behalf, for additional Labourers. It is reasonable to hope, indeed, that the Syrian Christians, in proportion as they shall be restored to Primitive Truth and Piety, will become efficient instruments for evangelizing this quarter of India. Increasing calls, therefore, among them for our friendly aid will be hailed with pleasure, and answered, as soon as the public zeal shall enable the Committee to do so. On this subject, Mr. Hough writes—

There is no class of persons in India that has so great a claim on the attention of a Missionary Society, as the Syrians of Malabar: and though what the Church Missionary Society has done for them is great, when compared with their own means, yet it is not the half of what is immediately wanted.

Mr. Hough enumerates places in Travancore, where ten or twelve additional Labourers are required, and adds—

The country east of the Ghauts stands in no less need of Missionaries than the west. Madura, Ramnad, and Coimbatoor, are stations that should be occupied with the least possible delay. There is room for two Missionaries at Tranquebar. The Nellighery hills, so much celebrated of late for their cool and salubrious air, are inhabited by a race of people who differ in customs, appearance, and language, from the natives of the plain: their religion is not yet known; but they have none of the Hindoo Idols or Ceremonies, at least none had been discovered when I left India; and the opinion was generally entertained, that they were not idolaters: they were very familiar with the Europeans who had made excursions up the hills; and, from all that has been said of them, they appear to be very interesting objects for Missionary Inquiry.

I could name yet a dozen places, between Madras and Cape Comorin, which would prove desirable Missionary Stations; but it will answer very little purpose to do so, until those already mentioned shall be occupied.

BOMBAY AND WESTERN-INDIA MISSION.

By the last accounts from this quarter, it appears that there were about 150 Boys under religious instruction in the Native Schools. Upward of 20 attend Mr. Kenney at his house, to learn Mahratta and English; and thus afford him an opportunity of conveying to them a knowledge of the saving truths of the Gospel.

The Rev. Thomas Carr, Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, makes the following Report of the state of the Schools:—

I went, with Mr. Farish, to visit the Native Schools under Mr. Kenney. We were very much gratified. The children read, in Mahratta, pretty well; the higher classes, with much more ability than I had expected: they read part of the Book of Genesis, printed; and repeated the Ten Commandments very well, answering the questions put by Mr. Kenney with a readiness that was very satisfactory. He has Six Schools, and the number of children was about 150. It is a very great point, that the children are able to read Mahratta, in print; as we now can disperse the Scriptures among them.

Mr. Kenney is endeavouring to turn his knowledge of Mahratta to good account. He writes—

I have translated, for the District Committee of the Christian

Knowledge Society, the "Principal Truths of the Christian Religion" into Mahratta. I have also written a little book in English and Mahratta, for the Society recently established here for the Moral and Intellectual Improvement of the Natives. The Liturgy, I have ever kept in view: I have translated a few of the Prayers, and shall be thankful if I am enabled to give a good translation of the whole.

Of the prospects of usefulness in this quarter, Mr. Carr thus writes:—

I do not think that it can be said with truth, at least according to my observation, that the people are DESIROUS of religious instruction; as appears to be the case in some places of which I read: but there does not exist any greater difficulty, than a Missionary would probably find in any other place, where the field was, in a great measure, new and unaccustomed to Christian Instructors.

With prudent zeal, Schools may be established to a very great extent; and I have not heard of any objection having been made by Natives to the use of Christian Books in instruction. The Schools might, in most cases, be houses also for the reading and exposition of the Scriptures.

On surveying the great sphere of labour which India opens before the Society, the Committee cannot but renew their thanks to the several Corresponding Committees, who have continued to direct its affairs, in the respective Presidencies, with vigilance and zeal: and they are happy to state, that the Meeting will hear to-day, from some of those Gentlemen themselves, lately returned to this country, the most satisfactory testimony to the good, both in progress and in prospect, in India.

And, in reference to this subject, the Committee quote, with pleasure, a communication from the Rev. Marmaduke Thompson, addressed to them in November last, while he was waiting at Falmouth to embark on his return to India. It will not only be found to present a satisfactory testimony to the Society's labours in India, but strongly to confirm what the Committee have stated, in reference to the importance of Native Labourers, and of able men to train such Labourers. Mr. Thompson writes—

It is not my wish to perpetuate animosities; or to enter into a discussion of the charges which have been advanced, on various grounds, against the Society. It will be satisfactory to the candid among our very objectors to know, that every instance of such charges which has come under my observation has been found to originate in hasty views, partial information, suspicion, or misconception; and to have fallen out rather to the furtherance of the Society.

With respect, however, to the reproach which it has been sometimes attempted to fix on the Society—that we have done, or seem to have imagined little, on a scale proportioned to the extent and civilization of India—I reply, first, That we have done what we could, according to the means in our power, for the short time within which India has been open to our Missionaries, since the renewal of the Charter of the Company in the Year 1813; and, secondly, That, as to the rest, I have never seen nor heard a suggestion of any thing yet wanting in our plans, which we have not ourselves long since contemplated in India. In the Christian Institutions, which it is well known the Society has been desirous, for some years past, to form in Calcutta and Madras, we have anticipated, it will be found, the principal suggestions that have appeared on the most efficient application of our several means to effect so great a work as the Evangelizing of India—especially the importance of carrying the system of local education to its highest standard, and of raising our Christian Teachers from among the Natives of India.

Few, indeed, can feel, as we do on the spot, how little is to be expected in India from European Missionaries alone, and from mere School Education. It was not so, we see, that our Roman-Catholic Predecessors effected the numerous conversions to the profession at least of Christianity, by which they are distinguished all over India. They sought, and they found far more easily alas! than we have done, in their Churches and Convents, from Priests and Monks, accomplished and active men; and formed their establishments, particularly at Goa and Pondicherry, to educate select converts on the most liberal European Systems: and we must imitate their wisdom and zeal, if we would make a deep and extensive impression on the Hindoos. We require holy men, who are at the same time Scholars and Divines—men, who, capable of adorning a University, but emulating rather the self-denial and toils of Apostles, and crucified as they to the world and the world to them, can, like them, gladly give themselves wholly to the service of the Heathen, for the love of Christ, at any personal cost and sacrifice. Some such men, I say it with confidence, it is our happiness to possess; but, few as is the total number of the Society's Missionaries in India, the ablest among them are oppressed almost to fainting from the want of help.

Would that this notice may provoke, at length, many of our Brethren of the Clergy to a holy jealousy; and thrust them forth, in the Name of the Lord, to the help of their fainting Brethren, and the service of the millions of our Hindoo fellow-subjects groaning under the curse of abominable idolatries! The country itself will not be wanting to us. From its proper Native Population, and from the descendants of Europeans, it has yielded, and still yields to the Romish Missions, and will yield to us under equal care, sufficient supplies of fit and able men for every department of our labours. May the encouragement, which the assurance of this fact is calculated to afford, move, through the Divine Mercy, the hearts of many in our revered Church, whom the Lord has abundantly qualified, by endowments of mind and spiritual gifts, for the Missionary Work in India!

The statements of other eye-witnesses of the scenes which are exhibited in India strongly enforce Mr. Thompson's representations. Mr. Hough writes—

The wants of India are beyond calculation: and it is not likely that they will ever be supplied from Europe. The hopes of all who desire the conversion of that benighted country must be fixed on the Country-born descendants of Europeans. The Catholics have long adopted this plan; and nearly the whole of their churches up the country are under the superintendence of Country-born Portuguese Priests, educated and ordained at Goa.

In the single district of Tinnevelly, about 100 miles in length and 60 in breadth, there are no less than 53 Roman-Catholic Churches, whose united congregations amount to 30,000 souls. Each Church has at least one Native Catechist, and some have two; and the whole are divided into eight jurisdictions, and placed under the charge of as many of these Goa Priests. Some of them with whom I have conversed are well educated, and better informed than any description of Natives; and I believe every District in the South of India is equally well provided with ministers for the Roman Communion. And when a similar plan shall be adopted by the Church Missionary Society, their Missions in the East will spread more widely than they can do at present, and that at a more moderate expense. For the Country-born Minister can enter more familiarly into the native habits and language than the European: he can itinerate at seasons when it is the wisdom of the European to sit still; and he can live comfortably with a much smaller stipend than a Missionary requires.

The deplorable state of the Natives appeals forcibly for relief to the consciences and hearts of Christians. On this subject, the Committee will quote a few passages.

From Burdwan, in the North of India, Mr. Perowne writes—

I cannot conclude without earnestly beseeching you to send us more Missionaries. Will none of the sons of our Venerable Church come over and help us? Oh! let them remember that these people are perishing by millions in ignorance and sin! While I am writing, my ears are stunned with the yells of Satan's worshippers, and the clanging of their instruments; and only a few hundred yards from this spot the Swing, the Thorns, the Fire, and the Iron Spikes are prepared, under the vain hope of gaining favour with their Gods. Oh that they knew of that precious blood, which alone can secure our peace with God!

Of the South of India, Mr. Hough writes—

Oh that the shouts and shrieks of infatuated Hindoos, the din of their festivals and processions, reverberated, but for one short hour, through the Cloisters of our Colleges! Oh that at every angle an altar streamed with blood, and that an idolater lay prostrate before an idol of copper, brass, wood, or stone, hideously deformed! Oh that the walks were lined with devotees inflicting on their bodies various tortures, to impose on the credulous and propitiate their Gods! Surely the sight, the sound, would harrow up the feelings of some devout men, and excite their compassion for millions of their fellow-subjects and fellow-creatures, thus borne down by superstition. And did they once really feel for them, they would not, they could not, hesitate long to put their shoulders to the burden. They would step forward with alacrity, prepared to make every temporal sacrifice, so they might but be honoured with the office of delivering myriads of human beings from an unprofitable and a painful bondage, and from Gods and Devils that cannot succour them. They would hunger and thirst with the desire of communicating to these perishing souls the knowledge of Him, "whose service is perfect freedom," and who only can save and destroy.

India offers, indeed, an almost boundless field for Christian Exertions. Its vast population, the far greater part of which, as placed by Divine Providence under the protection of this country, forcibly claims at our hands, not only every practicable melioration of their temporal condition, but more especially the communication of every spiritual blessing which it is in our power to bestow; and they offer a sphere of action, in which all Christian Societies may find ample room to labour harmoniously together.

On the degree of SUCCESS, which has been granted to the Society's efforts in India, the Committee of one of the County Associations thus sensibly remark—

Notwithstanding the inadequacy of the Society's means, it may be said of these Missions, that the appearance is on the whole extremely encouraging: not, indeed, enough to answer the expectation of those, who imagine that the Empire of Darkness will fall without a struggle—not enough to maintain that feverish excitement, which some have mistaken for Christian Zeal, and which makes unlimited and uninterrupted success the test of duty and the great stimulus to exertion—not enough to satisfy the impatience of those, who would reap in the seed-time—not enough to fulfil the desire of those, who pray and who labour for a world lying in darkness: but, enough, and more than enough, to excite in every friend of the Society, in every friend of mankind, devout gratitude to God.

With the following sentiments of the Madras Corresponding Committee on the subject of Success, your Committee will close their Report relative to India:—

Never, since the days of the Apostles, were endeavours made for communicating the benefits of Christianity so widely, as at the present period. Every dark part of the earth is, successively, coming within the scope of the Messengers of our Holy and Benign Religion; and, in every place, where endeavours to impart the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus have been made with earnestness and perseverance, a measure of success has resulted, quite commensurate to the effort, and to the reasonable expectations of those who planned and supported the undertaking, and of those employed to execute it. Success, in any sphere of Missionary Enterprise, is a pledge of success in every other place; for the warrant of their Divine Message is common to all the Messengers of the Gospel—the power, that alone imparts success to any endeavour for the salvation of man, is accessible to them all—and the PROMISE of the Divine Oracles, that in due season they shall reap if they faint not, is proved to be as universal in its application, as the DUTY founded upon the same Oracles to do good unto all men as we have opportunity.

For the success that has attended Missionary Endeavours in recent times, it is sufficient to refer to the rise and progress of Christianity in the Islands and Continent of North America, in the South-Sea Islands, and in Western and Southern Africa; in all which places, unknown or impervious to the Missionaries of earlier days, their successors, in these times, have carried the spiritual blessings of our Holy Religion, and the temporal benefits which have ever attended the progress of Christianity in all parts of the earth.

The apparent want of success of Missionaries in India, at the present time, should not be objected against Missionary Endeavours by those, who have hitherto done nothing to promote their success. They have been successful, in proportion to the extent and continuance of their endeavours; but enlarged plans and multiplied exertions are needed, judging from the analogy of all experience in the History of Christianity, to effect in India what has been successively effected, according as similar means have been employed, in every other quarter.

CEYLON MISSION.

The Committee will now pass to the Ceylon Mission. In that Island, the Society's Missionaries have continued their labours at the Three Stations—of Nellore, in the north, among the Tamul Population; and at Kandy in the interior, and Baddagamme in the south, both among the Cingalese. At these Stations, are Twelve European Teachers, with 17 Native Assistants, and upward of 600 Scholars, of whom nearly one-eighth are Girls.

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Missionaries was held in the beginning of October, at Baddagamme. All were present, with the Females of the Mission, except Mrs. Browning and Mrs. Bailey—Mr. Lambrick and Mr. Browning attending from Kandy, and Mr. Knight and his Sister with Mr. Bailey from Nellore.

Sir Edward Paget arrived at Colombo, as successor in the Government to Sir Robert Brownrigg, on the 1st of February of last Year; but having been appointed, on the retirement of the Marquis of Hastings, Commander-in-Chief in Bengal, Sir Edward Barnes returned to Ceylon from this country to assume the Government of the Island.

KANDY.

The Rev. Mr. Pering having arrived, as an additional Chaplain, was appointed, in the early part of last year, to take charge of the Garrison Duty at Kandy. Mr. Lambrick received, on retiring from this office, the thanks of Government, for the exemplary attention which he had paid to the Europeans.

On this occasion, Mr. Lambrick and his colleague Mr. Browning were led to consider the expediency of their continuing in Kandy, which, on several accounts, did not answer their expectations as a Missionary Station. They write, on this subject—

We thus became disengaged from all pastoral relation to Europeans, and were free to devote ourselves entirely to the objects of our Mission. We both of us agreed, that a town residence generally, and in particular that of Kandy, is not the most favourable for promoting, what is so highly desirable, a free and familiar intercourse with the Natives; and we thought that if we could fix upon a suitable place for a Missionary Settlement within the distance of a few miles from the town, somewhere on the other side of the river, we should secure this point, without losing our hold on Kandy; as we might visit Schools, and be ready to take advantage of any favourable opening.

The Town of Kandy is unfavourable for Missionary Labour; for, in addition to the shiness which the Natives have of Europeans and their continual endeavour to shun European Society, there are very few Native Kandians residing in the town; the population chiefly consisting of people from the low countries, Moormen, and persons of various descriptions discharged from the country regiments. The Kandians chiefly live near their paddy fields, in the surrounding neighbourhood; scattered in small hamlets, according to the division of their land: very few reside within the river, which nearly surrounds the town of Kandy, at a distance of three or four miles; and is a great barrier to a free intercourse with the Natives, as it is broad, and must be crossed by a ferry in every direction. We can, therefore, expect to do very little for their religious instruction, till we are permitted to go and reside in the midst of them.

Of an eligible place, near Kandy, for a Missionary Station, Mr. Lambrick thus speaks:—

Many places, in the neighbourhood of Kandy, are desirable for Missionary Stations; but one, in particular, Amunapoora, nine or ten miles distant, is peculiarly inviting. It was long occupied as a Military Post; and is surrounded by a numerous population, among which many Schools might be established within an easy distance: these might be frequently visited, and would afford an opportunity of speaking the Word to Adults as well as Children. Two Schools are already established near the place, which the Natives themselves first solicited us to begin; but they are now comparatively inefficient, for want of more frequent visiting than it is possible to give them from the town of Kandy.

Permission was requested of Government, by the Missionaries, that they might be allowed to settle in this place. Sir Edward Paget expressed his readiness to countenance every plan for the advancement of Christianity in Ceylon, which could be adopted with security and advantage; but the British Resident at Kandy not deeming it safe or expedient that the Missionaries should establish themselves where they would be out of the reach of military protection, the plan was, for the present, relinquished; but the Missionaries purposed to renew the application at a favourable opportunity, as they were themselves satisfied of its advantages. On this subject, the Noble President of the Society addressed Sir Edward Barnes, before His Excellency set sail for Ceylon. Sir Edward, having been fully satisfied, while he held the office of Lieutenant Governor, of the discretion which marks Mr. Lambrick's proceedings, will most readily grant him every degree of unrestrained access to the Kandians which circumstances will allow.

In February of last year, Mr. Lambrick visited Colombo, for the purpose of laying before Sir Edward Paget the state and prospects of the Mission; and proceeded to Baddagamme, to confer thereon with his Brethren. On his return, Mr. and Mrs. Browning took, in April, the same route, for the relief of Mrs Browning's mind, depressed by the loss of their infant, and for the restoration of her health: at Colombo, they were hospitably entertained, for some time, by their friend Sir Richard Ottley.

Mr. and Mrs. Browning returning at the end of May to Kandy, Mr. Lambrick, anxious to perfect his knowledge of the colloquial language of the Cingalese, removed to Cotta, a village near Colombo. His prospects of advantage from this step are thus explained by him:—

My progress in the language is at that point, that, going on as I do, mixing much with English, it may be years before I shall make any considerable advance in speaking it fluently, whereas, by separating myself entirely from all who speak English, a few months may secure this great object. I am therefore looking out for a retired place in our ancient possessions, where the Government can have no objection to my residing—that I may get among the Natives as much as possible, and converse with them on their own affairs; mingling, as the Lord may enable me, the good news of Salvation by a Crucified Saviour.

Of the place which he afterward fixed on for his residence, he thus speaks:—

The Village of Cotta, which I have fixed upon for this purpose, is eligible on many accounts. It is populous, and wholly destitute of Missionary Instruction. It is within a short distance of Colombo, whence medical aid, if necessary, may be quickly procured; and yet it is not in the high road to any place, and therefore much out of the way of intercourse with Europeans. Here I hope to cultivate the language by all the means in my power; and, at the same time, to deliver the Message of Salvation to a great number who are now, though Christians in name, Heathens in heart and in practice.

On Mr. Browning's return to Kandy, he resumed his labours there and in the neighbourhood. In the EXERCISE OF HIS MINISTRY, he had first ventured to preach in Cingalese in the February preceding: in that tongue he now began to preach every Sunday, between the Morning and Evening English Services; rendering assistance, in these Services, to the Chaplain, as opportunity offered.

His Congregation, at the Cingalese Service, was formed of the servants and scholars, with a number of beggars. Of these beggars, he says—

There are a great number in Kandy—blind, lame, and aged—who are constantly making applications for relief. These attend our Worship; but rather, I fear, for the sake of obtaining alms, than of hearing the Word of God. Happy, indeed, should I be to learn, that any were truly affected by the hearing of the Gospel. Some listen to it attentively.

To the Cingalese Service, another had been recently added, of the object of which Mr. Browning thus speaks:—

The Caffre Drummer, Jonathan Gambier, continues to walk worthy of his Christian Profession. He has lately induced a few of his comrades to come to hear the Word of God. For their sakes I have commenced a Second Service on Sundays, in the Portuguese, spoken in this Island. All the Caffres here speak Ceylon Portuguese: as I am not yet acquainted with that tongue, Jonathan acts as interpreter in this Service. I hope soon to acquire a knowledge of the Portuguese as it is spoken in Ceylon, that I may be able to address them therein. They listen attentively; and several have begun learning English.

What a mercy it would be, if it should please God to bring another of these poor Caffres to join in Christian fellowship with Jonathan! They are much more simple in their manners, and have fewer prejudices, than the Native Cingalese: but it is the Lord alone who is able to change the heart. Oh that more of the blessed influences of His Holy Spirit may quicken us in our work, and render our Ministry successful!

By the last accounts, it appears that the SCHOOLS, in Kandy and the Villages, had 85 Boys. Five Orphans in Kandy are supported and educated by the Society. The Master of the Kandy School having proved unfaithful, another was appointed, who gave much satisfaction. The Committee will extract a few passages on this subject from Mr. Browning's Journal:—

June 11, 1822—My School of Boys is now increased to eleven. I spend half an hour every day with them, in hearing a class of them read Sellon's Abridgment in Cingalese, in catechising them, and praying with them. May the Lord bless this feeble attempt to their good!

June 22—The Two Masters from the country, and the one who teaches the School, met at my house. I heard them read a chapter in the Cingalese New Testament, talked to them for some time, and prayed with them: they appeared to feel interested. Oh may it be profitable to them!

In his latest despatch, he says—

My School of Boys in Kandy is daily increasing: and to this School I think it my duty to devote a considerable part of my time, as it affords an opportunity of daily communicating religious instruction to this heathen people; and as it appears the most probable source from whence to expect an enlarged Congregation, to hear the Word preached on the Sabbath Day. The number of Boys at present in the School is 42.* Many of them come to learn English only: of this we can hardly expect that they will learn sufficient to be of much use to them in obtaining instruction from English Books or from English Discourses, in the short time that they may remain in the School; yet, as this is a means of bringing them together daily, where instruction can be vocally communicated to them in their own language, and as they thus become habituated to assemble on Sundays to hear preaching in the Cingalese, I am glad to receive them on this condition.

During Mrs. Browning's absence from Kandy her Female Scholars were dismissed. On her return she collected them again, but could induce only five to attend.

The Village Schools are three—Danture, with 11 Boys; Embilmegama, with 13; and Hurekade, with 19. Of these Schools, Mr. Browning writes—

In these Schools little has hitherto been taught except the native books, on account of the strong prejudices of the people in favour of Buddhism, yet we may reasonably hope, that, as they become better acquainted with us, there will be greater facilities of communicating religious instruction to them. In addition to these Schools, application has been made for others in the neighbourhood, but my Brethren advised me not to increase, at present, the number of Schools in the country: and I already perceive the great disadvantage of having Schools at so great a distance that they cannot easily be inspected; for, under whatever promising auspices Schools may at first be established, unless they are frequently visited, they will not, I fear, prove efficient, since the indolent and deceptive habits of the Natives are such that they cannot be trusted.

In his visits to the Country Schools, Mr. Browning converses much with the Children; and discovers hereby the difficulty of the work in which he is engaged. On one of these occasions, he writes—

Oh, how dark their minds! How buried are they in superstition and idolatry! Nothing less than the power of God will be able to enlighten their minds. Oh for faith, not to limit that power, but to believe that all things are possible with Him!

I had hoped that I should find a promising field, in going out to talk to the people in these Schools; but I now see that I must proceed with great caution, and be content to labour where there is little prospect of any immediate success. May the Lord give me strength and wisdom needful for every day!

Mr. Browning had obtained the assistance of a Cingalese Interpreter, of whom he thus speaks:—

For a long time, I laboured under great disadvantages, for want of an Interpreter, in my conversations with the Natives; but, in May last, a Young Man, William Perara, was recommended to me from the Seminary at Colombo; and though his knowledge of English is imperfect, yet I have found him of considerable assistance in conversing with the people, in family prayers, and in visiting Schools.

On a general view of his labours, he writes—

During the period in which I have been left in Kandy alone, since May, it has been my endeavour to improve myself in the knowledge of the language, to cultivate a more intimate acquaintance with the people, by frequent excursions into the surrounding villages, to establish and carry on Native Schools, and to preach the Gospel in Cingalese. During this time, having no call for English Duties, my undivided attention has been given to the important duties of my Mission.

Upon the whole, I feel much encouraged to press forward in the work in which I am engaged; relying on the Lord, that He will give a blessing to His own Word, and that He will display His Almighty power in the conversion of sinners, even in this strong-hold of Buddhism and superstition.

The grant of land in Kandy which had been requested of the Government, as stated in the last Report, was made in June. As the expediency, however, of a permanent establishment in that place could not, under present circumstances, be determined upon, it was resolved, at the Annual Meeting in October, to erect such buildings only as were immediately requisite for the accommodation of the Missionary and the Scholars. A PRESS, which had been sent from this country, had arrived, and it was, at first, intended to establish it at Kandy; but it was thought expedient, under all the circumstances of the case, to transfer it to Nellore for the use of the Tamul part of the Mission.

BADDAGAMME.

Mr. Mayor and Mr. Ward, with their Wives, have been pursuing their course of labour among the Cingalese more immediately in connexion with their Station. The present character of that people offers much, indeed, to discourage those who are seeking their good; but the Missionaries endeavour to commit their work to Him whom they serve. It is, however, a distressing report which they continue to make of the state of the people, and one which should stimulate to increasing exertions and prayer for their deliverance from the spiritual chains in which they are held:—

The Cingalese are made up of fraud and cunning, and specious imposture. It is amazing to think to what lengths they will go, in order to gain a slight worldly advantage. It is one of our greatest trials, that we are obliged to suspect every person about us. From the highest to the lowest, they will lie every one to his neighbour; neither is there any truth in them. Though this is their character, we know that when once the Gospel shall come to them with power, they will be freed from the bondage of the Father of Lies; and be taught to obey, from the high principle of love to Him, who is now far from their thoughts.

The Superstition of this people keeps pace with their moral degradation. One of the Missionaries writes—

I met large crowds of people returning from Kattragame, where they had been to make offerings to the stone idol, commonly called the God of Kattragame. Many of the persons whom I met on the road were old and infirm, and some lame and blind; yet they had travelled, some of them, from 100 to 200 miles on foot, in order to pay homage to this false Deity!

In order to be enabled more entirely to devote themselves to the MINISTRY OF THE WORD among this benighted people, the Missionaries applied, on the arrival of the Rev. Mr. Pering, to be discharged from the Garrison Duty at Galle; but that Gentleman having been placed at Kandy, this Duty was still discharged by them till another Military Chaplain should arrive. In the prospect, however, of being relieved of this charge, they state to their Brethren assembled in October—

We shall reflect upon our labours at Galle with some degree of thankfulness and encouragement. In various instances, prejudices have been removed; and individuals, who were formerly, in a great measure, regardless of the observance of the Sabbath Day, have been induced to attend Divine Service; and there is scarcely a European Family at this time at Galle, some part of which does not attend almost regularly the Public Worship of God.

On the same occasion, they speak thus of their own immediate charge:—

The Native Congregation at Baddagamme continues much the same as at the last Meeting: perhaps the attendance of Adults has been somewhat larger lately than it was formerly; but it is to be feared that this increase of attendance has not proceeded from any real desire to hear the Word of God. The publishing of the banns of marriage being performed by the Government Schoolmaster in the presence of the Congregation, brings many within the sound of the Gospel who would not otherwise attend.

Divine Service has been held in the School-room every Sunday Morning; and, in general, at some other place in the village, in the Afternoon. For some months, we have been accustomed to preach, at such times, at the house of some one of the inhabitants of the neighbourhood: notice is previously given to the person of the house, when he proceeds to invite his neighbours and friends to attend. On some occasions, we have preached to 50 or 60 persons, men, women, and children; and the Word of God is sometimes heard with apparent seriousness. The seed, which has been sown at these seasons, may be long hid in the ground: but it will, doubtless, spring up; and hereafter produce fruit, some thirty, some sixty, and some a hundred-fold. There is a constant tendency in us to expect an immediate effect to follow our efforts, and to be discouraged should our expectations be disappointed; but the Lord will have us to exercise a simple reliance on His promises—to use every means which He has appointed for their fulfilment, and to leave the rest to Him.

The Church was nearly finished at the last dates, and was about to be opened. It is 84 feet by 43; and is a substantial structure, and adapted to the accommodation of a large congregation. The unexpected difficulties attending this work were mentioned in the last Report: a more particular account of them has been since received, which, with the remarks of the Missionaries, will be read with much interest by the Members. Mr. Mayor writes—

We have had difficulties to surmount in the erection of the Church, which could not be anticipated. We encountered, in digging for the foundation, a bed of rocks, 60 feet by 50, which it was necessary to reduce, in some parts, ten feet in thickness. The expense and labour of levelling this bed of rocks exceeded the calculation which we had made for completing the whole. It consisted of the hardest granite, and we could only remove it by blasting it with gun-powder. Had not the Lieutenant-Governor very kindly assisted us, by allowing us to purchase gunpowder from His Majesty's Stores, we should have been obliged to leave the Church unfinished, after we had laid the first stone, and erected a part of the walls: it was the more kind in His Excellency to grant us this license, as there was, at that time, some apprehension respecting the continuance of tranquillity in the Kandian Territories, and the issue of gunpowder from the stores had been prohibited. The person who undertook to explode the whole, and who is a stone-cutter by trade, estimated that 50lbs. of gunpowder would be sufficient: but, such was the hardness of the stone, and the great difficulty of breaking it, that it required upwards of 700lbs.; and, employing as many men as we could, the whole was not finished within eight months.

But while we have to regret the unexpected and almost unexampled difficulties which we have had to surmount, the breaking of these rocks furnished us with the best possible materials for the erection of our Church: and, while we have been engaged in laying the foundation of this Earthly Temple, it has been our endeavour to lay also the foundation of a Spiritual Temple; and we cannot but hope, that the numerous labourers who have received, for these many months, daily instruction in the things belonging to the kingdom of God, have felt those convictions of the truth of our Holy Religion, which will be as permanent in their effects on the population around us, as the edifice which they have been employed to erect. We explained to them a portion of Scripture and prayed with them daily, before they commenced their work. By this means, a general knowledge of the truths of the Gospel has been diffused among them; and we do not hesitate to say, that their confidence in Buddhism, if not entirely destroyed, is much shaken.

The Church which we have erected is built of the best materials, will be sufficiently large to contain a congregation of 400 persons, and is so constructed that a gallery may be added without much expense. It is built of stone; and will remain, I doubt not, a monument to future ages, of the day when the Sun of Righteousness first arose upon this benighted village; and of that compassion, with which the Saviour has inspired British Christians toward the deluded Natives of Ceylon. It is the first Church which has ever been erected in the interior of this Island, for the sole benefit of the Cingalese.

In the business of EDUCATION, the Missionaries have charge, as stated in the last Report, both of their own Schools, and of others belonging to Government.

In October, the MISSION SCHOOLS had been reduced from seven to four, either by being transferred to Government or closed. In the Baddagamme Boys' School, there were 69—average attendance, 25: Baddagamme Girls' School, 69—attendance, 55: Marjuana School, 66—attendance, 25: Kembia School, 34—attendance, 15.

The occasions of the irregular attendance of the Boys were stated in the last Report. They are thus recurred to by the Missionaries—

The people, in general, being poor, and having no sense of the value of instruction, keep their children at home, whenever they have any work for them to do; and this is the case during more than one half of the year. The times of sowing, and weeding, and harvest, besides their New Year, and other seasons of pleasure, always occasion a falling off, if not an entire dispersion of the children.

Of the Girls' Schools, it is said—

The attendance continues to afford the strongest ground of encouragement. A circumstance occurred, a few months since, which appeared likely to lessen the number of attendants. A few Low-caste Women, having attended Divine Service several Sundays, wearing white cloth-jackets, which is a privilege hitherto allowed only to the Higher Castes, many of our School Girls took offence, and absented themselves for a short time from School; but they all returned again except two, whose prejudices still operate to keep them away*.

Three of the Elder Girls have been married from the School during the year. They had previously learned to read their own tongue; and have thus become possessed of a privilege rarely enjoyed by Cingalese Women.

The Schoolmasters continue to receive constant instruction by Mr. Ward. He writes, on this subject—

They have considerably improved in knowledge. I endeavour to press upon them the necessity of praying for the help of the Holy Spirit, to enable them to understand the Scriptures; and I encourage them to ask any questions on difficulties which have occurred to their minds. Our meetings are often very interesting to me, and I believe to them also.

The proposed plan of maintaining and educating Children to be named by Benefactors, was about to be entered on: but this, with the increase of the Missionaries' families, would require some alteration in their domestic arrangements. Mr. Mayor thus describes their present dwelling, the offices and store-rooms forming a separate building:—

Our house consists of six rooms, with an enclosed verandah and a centre-room. Three rooms are occupied by each family, and the verandah and centre-room are common to both.

It was intended that another house should be erected, on some spot contiguous to the present premises. Mr. Ward would, in this house, receive ten or twelve Boys, to be boarded and instructed; while Girls might be received into Mr. Mayor's family.

The appointment of the Missionaries to the care of the GOVERNMENT SCHOOLS, about 40 in number, in the Districts of Galle and Matura, was mentioned in the last Report. Mr. Mayor received this appointment, as Assistant Superintendant, from the beginning of last year; but Mr. Ward shares the labour with him. The field of usefulness which these Schools afford may be judged of by Mr. Ward's statements. He writes—

* The circumstance here referred to has been more fully detailed, since the Anniversary, and other particulars given respecting the Ceylon Mission, at pp. 496—504 of the Missionary Register for November.

These Schools have been established by Government for many years, but have always been inefficient, from want of regular superintendence. They extend over all this and the adjoining District, and are situated in the most populous villages. Two Masters are attached to each School, many of whom are, at present, very ignorant of the Christian Religion: we are directing our first care to them, trusting that they will become the regular channels for conveying religious knowledge, not only to the rising generation, but to the people of their respective villages. These Schools will give us access to many thousand Natives: they will increase our influence, and will afford us many more opportunities of preaching the Gospel and of distributing the Scriptures and Tracts than we could have had without them. Were we, indeed, but competently qualified in the languages, and could but expose ourselves to the sun, we might spend our days, like the first Great Missionary, the Lord from Heaven, in travelling from village to village, preaching the things which concern the Kingdom of God.

The experience of the first year, in the superintendence of these Schools, has confirmed the Missionaries in these views respecting them. The improvement of the Schoolmasters has, therefore, been a main object of attention with them. With this view, they have been assembled monthly, when they receive their salaries and give in their reports, and are instructed by the Missionaries in their duty. That they require their utmost care will appear from Mr. Ward's statements, on occasion of his having strictly examined them, in regard to their religious knowledge. He says—

They blend Christianity and Buddhism together. Most of them, perhaps all, have renounced the actual worship of idols; but they are still influenced by the peculiar sentiments and notions of idolaters. It is not, indeed, to be expected that they should have much acquaintance with the Christian Religion, not having heard its doctrines and precepts inculcated: but, considering the office to which they have been appointed, and the advantages which they might have derived from the perusal of the Holy Scriptures, a part of which they have for many years possessed, their progress in knowledge is less than might have been expected.

An Institution for the preparation of Masters is suggested by the Missionaries; as a measure, more likely than any other, to raise a class of Teachers, which the country cannot at present supply.

Mr. Mayor being much occupied with the superintendence of the buildings and attention to the sick, Mr. Ward took several journeys among the Government Schools. He has been fully confirmed, by these visits, in the view which they had of these Schools, to each of which ten or twelve or more Villages are attached, as opening a wide field for the preaching of the Gospel; and for communicating, in various ways, the knowledge of Divine Truth. The extent, however, of the tract of country over which they are scattered, from Bentotte to Tangalle, a distance of 80 miles, renders personal visitation, to the degree requisite for full effect, at present impracticable.

Mr. Mayor continues to render important services to the Natives, in healing their maladies. He writes—

I have couched several persons who had cataracts, and have been the means of restoring their sight. This has led the people to apply to us, in great numbers, and even from a considerable distance, for medical relief.

When I came first to Baddagamme, the Natives refused to receive medicine from me; but, latterly, they seem to have gained much confidence. We are happy to have any opportunity of shewing them that we take a real interest in their welfare. They are not so destitute of feeling as not to be impressed by kindness. In cases of sickness, they have been accustomed to have recourse to many superstitious ceremonies.

On a view of their situation and prospects, Mr. Mayor writes—

Our Station has, in every respect, answered our expectations. It has proved exceedingly healthy—has afforded us very ready access to the Natives, and gives us an influence among them which we should not otherwise have had—has enabled us to establish a School for Females, the regular daily attendance of whom averages 60—and brings round us on the Sabbath, to hear the Word of God, a greater number, I believe, of Adult Heathen than assemble at any other Station on the coast.

Had we selected a low situation, we might have avoided much of the expense and trouble, to which we have subjected ourselves by fixing our residence on the top of a hill. But we were led to choose our present situation, from the consideration, that, in the low grounds, we should be more exposed to fever, which is one of the most fatal and frequent diseases in this Island. We were strongly advised by other Missionaries to abandon our intention of settling in a native village in the interior, from the idea that we should certainly be obliged to quit it again through sickness: had we not, therefore, been prudent in our selection of the most healthy spot, we might not only have expended in vain the property of the Society, but have deterred other Missionaries from attempting to fix their residence in the interior, and settling in the midst of the Natives.

Our field of labour is very important and extensive. We are the only persons, for many miles around us, capable of directing an inquirer in the road to Heaven. How important is it then, that, when all around us is enveloped in gross darkness, we should walk in the light of the Lord!—that we should so let our light shine before men, that they may be led to glorify our Heavenly Father!

I continually oppose the pernicious principle, that we must look for success only among the Children in our Schools. Surely we are not authorized to consign a generation to destruction; or to believe that the Gospel will only be efficient when addressed to the pliant mind of a child. The Lord will, I trust, convince us, that the Gospel is the rod of His power; and that it is mighty to the pulling down of strong-holds, and to the overcoming of the prejudices and superstition of age, as well as the levity and folly of youth.

One thing I would intreat all the friends of Missions to pray for—an increase of faith and piety in the Missionaries! This is the blessing most needed. We want a greater measure of Apostolic Illumination—to have the grand truths of the Gospel manifested to our minds with the same clearness and power, that they were to the minds of those who counted all things but loss compared with the excellency of such surprising knowledge. A Missionary endued with such a spirit, would not be barren or unfruitful; but he would be enabled to speak with such earnestness and affection, as would arrest the attention of many who now slumber. I feel assured, that the out-pouring of the Spirit upon Missionaries, in a more abundant measure, will precede the coming of that period, when the earth shall be filled with the knowledge and glory of the Lord.

It delights and stimulates us much, to hear of the success which has attended the labours of our Society in different parts; but especially of that at Regent's Town. Many in England must say—"Oh that my Parish resembled the African Village, where the voice of prayer and praise is continually heard—where the poor, long-despised, afflicted Negroes dwell together in love and peace; and assemble in crowds to listen to those words of Eternal Life which form the joy and consolation of their hearts!" I think many in my own country, when they hear how the Negroes live at Regent's Town, will be stirred up to seek after like precious faith: what superior privileges have they had, to these, the most wretched of the slaves of avarice and cruelty, who have been regarded as the outcasts of the earth!

Mr. Ward adds, in the view of the greatness of their work—

Who is sufficient for these things? We are under no anxiety about pecuniary support: the silver and the gold belong to Him, in whose service we are engaged. Nor need we be under any concerning our success. God has given us work to do; and He tells us to do it, and to leave the result to Him. This is the spirit which we would wish to maintain; but, that we may do so, pray for us! I know that there are many Christians, whose hearts overflow with pity for the miserable and degraded Heathen; and their language often is, "What can we do for them?" Might I be allowed to reply to this inquiry, I would say—Pray for them. Prayer is the noblest sacrifice—prayer is the strongest expression of love. Yea, I do hope and pray, that the Christian World—all who love our Lord Jesus Christ—will rise to the discharge of this most effectual duty. We are, in ourselves, WEAKNESS: weakness is inscribed upon all efforts merely human. Nothing! nothing! but the powerful influence of the Holy Ghost can effectually turn the Heathen to God!

NELLORE.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, with the Sister of Mr. Knight, mentioned in the last Report as having arrived at Trincomalee on their way to assist Mr. Knight, reached Nellore on the 3d of March of last Year. A few weeks afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey took a House near Jaffna; but the illness of his Brother, the Rev. Benjamin Bailey, at Cotym, was considered to be so alarming, that he left home on a visit to him on the 30th of that month: returning on the 10th of May, he resumed the duties of the Fort Church, on which he had entered on his first arrival.

The return of the fatal Epidemic which has so long ravaged the East was stated in the last Report, and various particulars detailed in the Fifteenth Appendix. The prevalence of this disease occasioned interruption in the regular exercise of Mr. Knight's MINISTRY; but it led him to active exertions among the people, in visiting them and distributing Tracts. Of himself, he wrote at this time—

My own life has, through much mercy been spared hitherto; and my health continued amidst surrounding dangers and death. Whether I shall be spared for future days, to labour in the work of the Lord, and to testify to this deluded people the love of a Saviour, He only knows: but, whether my days be many or few, I trust that the Lord will enable me to be faithful; and when I depart hence, and am no more seen by my fellow-sojourners in this vale of tears, I hope, through the atonement and mediation of my Saviour, to rise and live for ever with God in glory.

After the disease had subsided, in the early part of last year, Mr. Knight thus speaks of it:—

This was a time of very great distress. So much misery I never before witnessed: and happy should I be, could I bear testimony to any good impressions made on the minds of the people by this awful visitation; but it was very distressing to see them, when most afflicted, more than usually addicted to Heathenism and its attendant superstitions.

The disease continued to prevail till about March, when it began gradually to abate; and I was enabled to re-open my Schools. Some of them now appear as promising as before, but others are much below their former numbers; and it is believed that many of the boys, as well as their parents, have been carried off by this fatal disease.

My Services on Sunday Mornings, which for a time were suspended, have again been commenced, and the different Schools regularly collected. The number of children in attendance exceeds 200, besides the masters, servants, and others.

Mr. Knight makes excursions, in company with one or other of his neighbouring fellow-labourers; of his constant and beneficial intercourse with whom, he uniformly speaks with pleasure. The objects of these excursions are, conversation with the Natives, and the distribution of Tracts; and, in this manner, the Truths of the Gospel are gradually gaining the ear of the people.

Of the SCHOOLS enumerated in the last Report, seven were suspended during the prevalence of the Cholera, and but little done in the other two. In July, however, Mr. Knight reports—

My Schools have all been re-established, with the exception of that at Kovitterru; and some of them are going on more to my satisfaction than before. The present Return is as follows:—

Schools.	Masters.	Scholars.	Attendance.
1. Kykooler	Venasytamby	54	45
2. Tallaly	Kathyrkamer	33	18
3. Tirunelvely	Koutor	46	30
4. Kaliancardu	Kanagasapey	38	33
5. Chiviarterru	Visuvanather	29	24
6. Nellore	Philip Mark	25	20
7. Narduterru	Sooper	43	37
8. Pariarterru	Kathyrkamer	28	21
	Total	296	228

In September, the total number of Scholars was 282, and the average attendance 215: but the number was then considerably reduced, by its being the season for gathering the palmira fruit.

On the want of proper BOOKS in this Mission, Mr. Knight makes the following statement:—

Thousands of people are found able to read; but we have had no books to put in their hands, except a few Scripture Extracts obtained from the Bible Society at Colombo, and a short supply of Tracts from Madras. These have proved very inadequate to the demand; and, in order in some measure to supply the deficiency, several of the Missionaries in the District have, for some time past, procured for distribution Tracts of different kinds written on the ollah. Convinced of the great importance of circulating Divine Truth in every possible way, I have been induced to imitate them in this laudable work. We find, however, that written Tracts are not so acceptable as those which are printed; and no prospect appears of procuring an adequate supply by any other means, than the establishment of a Printing Press in the District.

This statement was addressed to the Annual Meeting of Missionaries in October; and it was confirmed by an Address on the subject, sent to the Meeting by the American Missionaries in the District; who state the following conclusive reasons for the establishment of a PRINTING PRESS for the benefit of the Tamul Population:—

1. The NUMEROUS AND DENSE POPULATION of the District of Jaffna; not less, according to the best calculation, than 225,000 souls. Add to this, the Tamul Population of Trincomalee, Batticotta, Manar, Calpenteen, and Chilaw; which would all, in a greater or less degree, reap the benefit of a Press in Jaffna.

2. The LARGE NUMBER OF MISSIONARIES, NATIVE PREACHERS, AND ASSISTANTS, employed here; who could, in the most profitable manner, distribute the Scriptures, or portions of them, and Tracts, among the people.

3. The LARGE NUMBER OF NATIVE FREE SCHOOLS established here, many of which have existed several years. In all these, we hardly need say, that the Tamul Scriptures, and Tracts and School-books, are in the highest degree necessary.

4. The great importance of training up among this people a READING POPULATION. Until this can be accomplished, judging from the ordinary course of God's providence, we have little reason to believe, that Christianity will spread rapidly among them.

5. The importance of a small MONTHLY PUBLICATION, to be circulated among the people, has often been very deeply impressed upon our minds.

6. The DIFFICULTIES AND DELAYS, attendant upon procuring printing to any extent, either in Colombo or Madras, render it peculiarly desirable that there should be a Press in this District.

We have no doubt, also, that the establishment of a Press in this District would prove a blessing to many precious souls among this Heathen People; and, in many ways, promote the best interests of your Mission, as well as of our own.

It was resolved, in consequence of these representations, that measures should be taken for procuring the consent of Government to the establishment of a Press at Jaffna, under the responsibility of the Society's Missionaries.

AUSTRALASIA MISSION.

The advantages to the Society's concerns in the Australasia Mission, anticipated in the last Report, from the kindness of Sir Thomas Brisbane, have been fully realized. His Excellency has readily afforded advice and assistance to Mr. Marsden, under the pressure of the peculiar difficulties which have, more especially of late, afflicted the Society's friends in this quarter.

The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke at Port Jackson, in October, has been already mentioned: (see Note at p. 52 :) at the last dates, they were residing with Mr. Marsden, at Parramatta, expecting daily to receive intelligence from New Zealand which might determine their future course. In the mean time, Mr. Clarke was instructing some Natives of New Zealand and the Sandwich Islands, who were at Parramatta; for though the Seminary established there for New Zealanders has been suspended, as stated in the last Report, yet the Natives continue to visit it at all opportunities: on which occasions every endeavour is made to bring them acquainted with our language and manners; as they must become more familiar with the habits of civilized life than they now are, before they will be governed by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowell embarked at Port Jackson for New Zealand, at the end of January of last year, and arrived at the Bay of Islands about the middle of that month. They were accompanied by the Rev. John Butler; who had come over from New Zealand, and had spent about two months in the Colony.

Mr. W. Hall also came over from New Zealand, in May, in the Vansittart; which gave occasion, by mistake, to a report in this country that the Mission had been broken up by the violence of the Natives.

BAY OF ISLANDS, NEW ZEALAND.

The Missionaries and Settlers now employed by the Society, and stationed at Rangheehoo and Kiddeekiddee, are seven—the Rev. John Butler, and Messrs. John Cowell, William Hall, Francis Hall, James Kemp, John King, and James Shepherd. All are married, except Mr. Francis Hall: the peculiar circumstances of New Zealand, with some other considerations, have induced him to ask permission to return home. It is but a just tribute to this worthy man, to quote a part of Mr. Marsden's reply to him, on occasion of this request:—

As Secretary to the Mission, as well as Storekeeper, your services, with your uniform Christian conduct, would be very valuable; though you may be too far advanced in life to attain a knowledge of the native language: yet I cannot wish you to remain at your station, under existing circumstances, contrary to your own feelings.

New Zealand will fall in time. The Lord Jesus must be King among the Heathen; but the Heathen will never be compelled by carnal weapons to submit to Divine Authority. It must be the sword of the Spirit—the Word of God—which must subdue them to the obedience of the faith. If the present little force in New Zealand cannot make a breach in the strong-holds of Satan, more force will, in time, be sent; which will effect the downfall of the Prince of Darkness.

Your share of this work may be done; and you may, therefore, with credit retire from the field. I shall always approve of your conduct in what has passed in New Zealand.

The difficulties, which the warlike spirit of Shunghee and his partizans were bringing on the New-Zealand Mission, were mentioned in the last Report. The great object which he and his companion had in view, as it has since appeared, in coming to England, was to procure arms and ammunition. To augment the stores which, by some means, they had obtained when in England, they sold, at Port Jackson, on their return, the greater part of the clothing and ironmongery, with which the Society had furnished them at a large expense, and purchased arms and ammunition. They landed on the 11th of July, 1821, at the Bay of Islands, furnished, by these means, to a formidable extent, with the instruments of revenge and devastation.

With his mind imbittered, from some quarter, against the Society, notwithstanding the kindness which had been shewn to him, Shunghee, on landing, manifested a hostile spirit toward the Settlers who had remained at New Zealand, which the Natives of his party soon imbibed; and the scene of peace and friendship was changed into one of turbulence and insult.

On the 5th of September, 1821, after the most formidable preparations, the largest party of Natives which ever left the Bay, set forward to the Thames, with Shunghee at its head, to murder and ravage without pity. On the 21st of December they returned, after the destruction, it is said, of a thousand of their comparatively defenceless countrymen, three hundred of whose bodies they feasted on upon the field! The Settlers had the pain to see them return home, loaded with the relics of their horrible cruelty, and to witness the murder in cold blood, and the devouring, of some of their prisoners. At such times, the mildest dispositions seem to be absolutely brutalized by a ferocious superstition; and even little children would take a savage part in murdering other children who were prisoners-of-war!

On the 28th of February of last year, Shunghee and his party again left the Bay, a thousand strong, to gather more at every village, on another expedition, in which they determined to sweep the country with the besom of destruction.

While these scenes were passing before the eyes of the Settlers, the earth was yielding her produce, and repaying abundantly the toil to which they had submitted, in order to shew her inhabitants the rewards of peaceful labour.

Of Rangheehoo, Mr. W. Hall writes, in January of last year—

> I desire to be thankful, that I have just finished reaping a fine crop of wheat. I have built a new barn, and have got all the wheat in; and, with the blessing of God, it will serve my family the year round, and supply seed for the next sowing.

Of Kiddeekiddee, the other Settlement, Mr. Butler says, in February—

> We have gathered in an excellent harvest. We have, at this time, Twelve Natives at work, and it gives us great pleasure in having a WHEATEN LOAF, the produce of their own country and labour, with which to feed them.

In the midst of the distressing tidings which have been received, it is refreshing to find, that the grace of God leads His servants confidently to repose on His Almighty Arm.

Had, indeed, the whole number of Labourers in this Mission maintained among these Heathens the Christian Spirit and Character, the Committee would have made comparatively light of its external difficulties; but it is with grief that they add, that its main trials have arisen from within. It has been found requisite, in the faithful discharge of the duty which Christian Communities owe to the honour of that Name by which they are called, to separate from the Society two Members of the Mission, for conduct disgraceful to their profession. The Committee trust that it will never become necessary again to exercise this painful duty: but should the necessity at any time recur, the path of duty is obvious, as no blessing from God can be expected, but in proportion as the simplicity and purity of the Christian Character are maintained.

Under all these difficulties, there are not wanting ample encouragements to persevere, in exertions to rescue this people from the dominion of that Spirit which worketh in the children of disobedience. Up to the latest dates, it appears that the turbulence of the Natives, though it disquieted the Settlers and cramped their exertions, had not affected their personal security: and it is no small ground of encouragement to hear, as the Committee have done, from competent witnesses, that, in the midst of all the evils which have attended the Mission, it has already made, in various respects, a beneficial impression on the Natives, and is gradually opening the way for the diffusion of Christian Truth with all its attendant blessings*.

Visits are paid to the Natives in their villages, for the purpose of education and religious instruction. On these occasions, the great truths of the Gospel are opened and enforced on them; and the attention is such, as to encourage and stimulate the Settlers to increase these exertions. With this view, Mr. Shepherd is paying particular regard to the preparation, in the New-Zealand Tongue, of portions of Scripture, for the use of the children and adults who may learn to read; and the conviction is gathering strength among the Labourers, that a direct and unwearied communication of the Gospel to the Natives must henceforth, more than it has yet done, accompany and promote the efforts for their civilization.

Mr. Kemp, who has conducted himself as a Christian throughout the trying scenes which he has witnessed, writes, in November—

The Natives have been more favourable toward us of late. They have not been so rude as they were for some time after Shunghee returned home. But I am sorry to say, that there is still in them a thirst for war and bloodshed, which I believe nothing but the grace of God can subdue, when He shall give them to partake of that Spirit, the fruit of which is love, joy, and peace. They continue to work for us as usual.

* Some particulars of the cruel proceedings of the Natives were given, at p. 68 of the last Survey, in the Missionary Register; and, since the Anniversary, at pp. 504—511 of the November Number, further details have appeared on the same subject, and on the labours of the Settlers among them.

I have not been able to instruct the Natives in the knowledge of my business as a blacksmith to any material extent; because they will not bear confinement to one thing, but soon grow weary and want something new. When they become more acquainted with the benefits arising from such knowledge, they will pay more attention to our instruction.

We have endeavoured, as far as means would permit, to persevere in cultivating the ground. Last year, we grew 40 bushels of wheat, which proves very valuable, both to ourselves and the Natives: this year we have sown the same ground with wheat, and have a prospect of a good crop. We have distributed a small quantity of wheat and barley among some Native Chiefs; and I trust that they will discover the value of such produce, and gradually lose their love of war and bloodshed.

This Mission calls, it is true, for the exercise of unshaken faith in the Divine Promises, and for a patient abiding of the Divine Will: but the Societies, which are labouring for the conversion of the unknown multitudes of New Zealand, have not far to seek in the great Southern Ocean for sufficient proof that Faith and Patience shall not be disappointed of their reward. Let that distinguished man, the Rev. Samuel Marsden, speak, who has himself been, by the blessing of God, the sheet-anchor of our hopes respecting the continents and islands of the Southern Sea:—

I had many a battle to fight (he writes) for years, with some of the first settlers sent out to the Society Islands, who turned out to be unprincipled men. The Directors despaired of success, after they had expended many thousands of pounds; and they frequently wrote to me on the subject, expressing their fears that they must abandon the Mission. I never had myself, however, but one opinion relative to that Mission—and that was, that it would succeed: and God has now blessed the Word of His Grace to thousands of the poor Heathens in these Islands!

In addressing the Settlers at New Zealand on their duties and their trials, Mr. Marsden thus confidently expresses his assurance of ultimate success:—

If you obey the Society's instructions, the Christian World will approve your conduct, whatever may happen; but if you deviate from them, you take all the responsibility upon yourselves.

I am aware of the difficulties which you have to contend with: they are many and great; but not greater than might be expected in your situation. A Soldier gains no honour, while he rests in his barracks: it is in the field of battle, that he must win military glory.

If Satan's kingdom had been overthrown in New Zealand, your services would not have been wanted. I can truly say, my heart's desire and prayer to God is, that you may all prosper in your work, and that the Natives may be made partakers of the common salvation of our only Lord and Saviour.

The New Zealanders will become the inheritance of Christ; but who will have the honour of leading them captives to the foot of the Cross, is yet in the hidden counsels of Divine Providence.

He writes, on another occasion—

I greatly lament the evils which have taken place, but they do not make me despair. I have no doubt but that the New Zealanders will, in due time, become a Civilized Nation. God will deliver them from the dominion of the Prince of this World, and they shall see His Salvation. The way is still open, if Labourers can only be procured fit for the work; and God will find these, and send them forth, when He sees meet. You have some very pious Labourers, some excellent ones of the earth, in New Zealand, whom the Lord will assuredly bless. We must not sow and expect to reap the same day. When it shall please God to pour out His Spirit on the Inhabitants of New Zealand, then will His Word have effect indeed.

WEST-INDIES MISSION.

It has been stated in former Reports, that it was the intention of the Committee to extend the benefits of Education, as opportunities might offer, among the various Islands and Settlements in the West Indies. Mr. Dawes, of Antigua, who was to devote himself to this object, had been prevented from engaging in it so early as was designed. In January he embarked on board the mail-boat for Dominica, with a view to promote this plan. He writes—

I carry with me Letters of Introduction from our Governor, Sir Benjamin D'Urban, to the Governors of the British Islands, as far as Trinidad. I mean to visit the Settlements on the continent, as far as Demerara; and then, if circumstances permit, cross over to Santa Cruz, and call at St. Thomas, Tortola, St. Kitts, Nevis, and Montserrat.

ANTIGUA.

The Schools at English-Harbour are now exclusively under the charge of the Sunday-School Society of that place, while the Country Schools are under the entire care of this Society. Seven of these were enumerated in the last Report—Bethesda, Hope, Old Road, Sion Hill, Cook's, Golden Grove, and Union. To these, an eighth has been lately added, called Carlisle's: it is near Pope's Head, where a School was some time since given up.

The superintendence of these Schools remains with Mr. Dawes and Mr. and Mrs. Thwaites. William Anderson and his Wife, with six other Teachers, besides a number of Gratuitous Assistants, are engaged in instruction. The services of these Young Teachers are important, and they devote the whole of their spare time to the instruction of the children: it is customary to give each of them a book at Christmas, as a token of approbation; and Mr. Thwaites observes, with great pleasure, an increasing thirst among the Young People generally for reading good books. The Committee have much satisfaction in cherishing this desire of religious improvement.

No regular Return of the Schools has been received this year. In the absence of such Return, the Committee will extract from the communications of Mr. Dawes and Mr. and Mrs. Thwaites, such notices as occur in reference to the state of the Schools:—

The Children at Bethesda are become so numerous, that the School must be enlarged to twice its present size.

Hope School is very prosperous. About 120 read the Testament, and more than 40 the Bible. It is pleasing to see 350 Teachers and Scholars engaged in an employment so likely, under the blessing of God, to save their souls.

At Sion Hill were about 200 Teachers and Scholars. A falling-off took place, chiefly in the Alphabet Class, for want of a sufficient number of Teachers and Inspectors. Such had been the case with the other Schools, in like circumstances. Some of the Teachers of Hope School, hearing of this, volunteered their services, and go every Sunday.

The Attorneys and Managers of the Estates at Cook's, Golden Grove, and Union, have greatly encouraged the Schools. They have appropriated good buildings for the purpose, and promote the attendance of the Scholars.

When the Negroes at Carlisle's were told that a School was about to be opened, they answered that all Pope's Head would rejoice. The School was soon joined by 123 children, besides adults. The Scholars are full of emulation, and the Teachers zealous.

Mr. Dawes writes, in September—

The Schools prosper in every quarter. Some of the first characters in the Island openly advocate our cause, and others rapidly lose their prejudices.

BARBADOES.

The Secretary of the Colonial Charity-School writes, in December, that the Annual Examination of the Scholars had been highly satisfactory; but particulars have not reached your Committee.

NORTH-WEST AMERICA MISSION.

On the Mission last formed, that to the Indians of North-West America, the Committee have but little, as yet, to report. The Rev. John West is expected home in the latter part of this year, in order to fetch his family; his separation from whom, for several years, with the view of laying the foundation of a Mission to those wandering tribes, is a satisfactory pledge that his heart is engaged in the cause in which he has embarked. The Committee will quote his own words in the latter part of last year:—

I am fully aware of the further aid that I shall receive, if surrounded by my family: and happy should I have been to return to England this autumn; but my plans are not sufficiently matured to admit of it. I feel that I ought not to leave, for a year, in the wilderness, the work which we trust has been auspiciously begun; and, while British Benevolence enables us to carry it on, may we never forget, that, through Britain's Prayers in the behalf of Missions, which ascend to God as the voice of a vast multitude, blessings are imparted, to support the mind under every privation, and encourage it in all difficulties.

The Rev. David Jones has been appointed, as already stated under the head of Missionaries and Students, to assist in this Mission.

On communicating to Mr. West the proceedings of the Committee in the adoption of this Mission, as stated in the last Report, he replied to the Secretary, under date of August 28, 1822, in the following animated terms, from York Fort, which he had visited from the Red-River Settlement:—

No one ever received news from a far country which more gladdened the heart, than your Letters did mine. I read them again and again, with lively emotions of gratitude; and with joyful hope, that as the sinews of war were now afforded, the Banner of the Cross would be successfully unfurled among the British North-American Indians.

Our ground of rejoicing is this—the expressed interest and co-operation of the Hudson's Bay Company, as affording facilities, which otherwise COULD NOT be obtained, in seeking to extend the light and influence of the Christian Religion among the Natives of this vast territory. God be praised! Commerce is now consecrated for this purpose. For centuries, they have been left to wander through life, uncheered even by a single ray of Divine Truth: but this darkness is, we trust, past, and "a foundation is now laid," as one of the Directors writes to me, "to extend the blessings of religion, morals, and education, wherever the Representative of the Company may set his foot." All, all, is encouraging to proceed: yet I will not conceal my fears, that expectations may be raised too high as to the progress that may be made in that vast field of labour which presents itself.

"There are a great many willows to cut down, and roots to remove"—as an Indian Chief said to me, when he welcomed me to the country—"before the path will be clear to walk in." The axe, however, is laid at the root of the tree, in the establishment of Schools, as the means of instruction, and of diffusing Christian Knowledge in this moral wilderness; and we may triumph in the hope that numbers will arise to enjoy, what they are capable of feeling—the endearments of social life, as well as of moral and religious elevation.

At York Fort, Mr. West met with the Officers who were returning from the late enterprising Journey to the shores of the Polar Sea. He writes—

I have had much pleasure in meeting with Captain Franklin and Dr. Richardson, of the Northern Land-Expedition; and rejoice in their testimony in favour of educating the Native Children. They have promised to call at the Church Missionary House, and have expressed much interest in behalf of the Esquimaux Indians. These have been the frequent subject of our conversation; and there appears a good opening for establishing a School among them, about 150 miles north of Churchill, in Hudson's Bay. If practicable, I hope to visit one of the Chiefs, next Spring, before my return to England: he is supposed to be very desirous of having a White Man to instruct his Tribe. I shall rejoice if I can make any arrangement for the benefit of this interesting race.

From the Red River, he afterwards writes—

I feel much interested in my intended visit to the Esquimaux Chiefs in July. Captain Franklin's heart is with us, in seeking to establish a School among them. I purpose leaving Red River in the beginning of June, for York Factory, if the ice in Winipeg Lake will permit; and, on my arrival at the Factory, to walk with a guide to Churchill, as the ice in the Bay, in July, may prevent any boat or canoe being navigated.

Mr. West sent home a specimen of writing by an Esquimaux Indian, who had accompanied the Expedition as a guide, and who had been taught to read and write by the Officers: he belongs to a Tribe who traverse the shore 100 miles north of Churchill Factory.

Captain Franklin, on his return, called at the Society's House; and strongly urges on the Committee the prosecution of this Mission in behalf of the various Tribes, which roam over the vast plains through which his adventurous Expedition was conducted.

Mr. West returned to Red River from York Fort; and arrived there, to quote his own words, "after six weeks' buffeting against strong rapids and through stormy lakes." A Young Woman, Elizabeth Bowden, who had arrived from England in the Company's Ship, accompanied him to Red River, and was married by him to Mr. George Harbidge, the Society's Schoolmaster, having been engaged to him before he left England: she had been qualified, in the Central School, to assist in the education of females.

A School House had been erected, 60 feet by 20; which Mr. West used as a temporary Place of Worship. Of his proceedings and plans with reference to Indian Boys, he writes, while at York Fort, in August—

Four Indian Boys, whom I have had under my charge at Red River, have made steady progress in learning to read: two of them have read the Four Gospels; and can repeat the Catechism, broke into short questions and answers, correctly. With the Christian Knowledge which they possess, and capability of reading, I baptized them just before I left the Settlement. Through the kind interest of Mr. Harrison, every expense which has been hitherto incurred in clothing, educating, and maintaining them, has been defrayed.

As I left the Settlement in about a fortnight after the receipt of the Letters of the Committee by the way of Canada, I had no time or immediate convenience to admit more Indian Children into the School; but I purpose to do this as soon as I return: and in organizing and conducting the Missionary Establishment for Native Indian Children at the charge of the Church Missionary Society, the Committee may rely upon my paying strict attention to economy.

The Hudson's Bay Company have requested the valuation of the School House to be sent to them; and have likewise given up to me one of their vacant Posts at the Settlement, where I purpose to establish a School for the education of the half-caste children. The School Establishment will therefore be totally distinct and separate.

The Committee are desirous to collect information* on the subject of the Indian Nations in connexion with British North-America, in the hope that, by degrees, plans for their benefit may be formed and acted upon, somewhat commensurate to the obligation, under which this Christian Country lies, of communicating the blessings of the Gospel to all the tribes of the earth over which its authority or influence may extend. The Christians of the United States, under the sanction and with the assistance of the Government, are making great exertions for the benefit of the Indians, amounting to nearly half a million, connected with the Territory of the States†. No estimate has yet been formed of the number of those who inhabit the immense countries to the north of the United States, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans, and which have a peculiar claim on the benevolence of British Christians.

In the NINE MISSIONS of the Society, there are FORTY-THREE STATIONS, which have TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIX SCHOOLS connected with them; some of which Schools are, in fact, separate Stations, being established in considerable places, at a distance from the head-station. These Stations and Schools are occupied by THREE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVEN

* In Appendix VII. will be found some remarks on the Indian Languages, and a List of Works relative to these Nations, by General Clinton, Governor of the State of New York, with which His Excellency has been so kind as to furnish the Committee.

† A valuable Report on the Indians of the United States, by the Rev. Dr. Morse, has lately appeared. It forms, with a copious Appendix, an Octavo Volume of about 500 pages; and comprises the Narrative of a Tour, in 1820, performed under a commission from the President. The principal results stated in this Report will be found at pp. 76, 77, of the last Survey, in the Missionary Register.

LABOURERS; of whom 109 are Europeans, and 238 were born in the respective countries where they are employed. The number of SCHOLARS under the Society is TWELVE THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN: of whom 8610 are Boys, 2354 Girls, and 1347 Adults. Many CHURCHES and CHAPELS have been erected; but these do not furnish any adequate criterion of the number of persons who may, occasionally at least, HEAR THE TRUTHS OF THE GOSPEL, as the greater portion of these hearers are, in most parts of the Heathen World, to be sought in the streets and highways. The number of real CONVERTS from among the Heathen, it is not easy to ascertain: in Sierra Leone, the Divine Blessing has peculiarly rested on the Society—upwards of 650 Africans having been admitted to Christian Communion, on the most satisfactory evidence of real conversion; all of whom were, within the last very few years, in a state of the grossest darkness and degradation. For the more rapid and extensive diffusion of sound knowledge and Christian Truth, the Society has established PRINTING-PRESSES in those Missions which are connected with a numerous and reading population: and its Missionaries are supplying these Presses with the Scriptures, the Liturgy, and Tracts, in some of the principal languages of the respective countries; while large editions of the Scriptures, in others of those languages, are printed for the Bible Societies in several quarters.

While the Committee record, with gratitude to Almighty God, the opportunities for exertion which He has been pleased to open before the Society, and the measure of success which He has vouchsafed, they are truly happy to add that their coadjutors in this great work continue also to be blessed by Him. The increase of the Society's means and exertions has not been at the expense of kindred Institutions. All have prospered. By the efforts of all, a degree of progress has been attained, which would have otherwise been aimed at in vain.

For the protection and favour of Persons in Authority, this Society continues to have cause for gratitude. Both the Government at home and the Local Governments abroad have, in various ways, assisted its designs.

The Committee have had the pleasure to add, during the year, to the List of the Society's Vice-Presidents, the Heads of Four Colleges at Oxford and Cambridge —the Provost of Oriel College, and the Principal of Magdalen Hall, at Oxford—and, at Cambridge, the President of Queen's College, at present Vice-Chancellor of the University; and the Master of Corpus Christi College: to these has been added the name of Sir Robert Harry Inglis, Bart., long a warm friend of the Society. The Right Hon. Lord Barham, having succeeded to the Peerage, and the Right Hon. Lord Bexley, having been called by His Majesty, in acknowledgment of his able and faithful services, to the Upper House—have become Vice-Patrons of the Society; having been enrolled, for several years previously, among its Vice-Presidents.

In conclusion, the Committee wish to remark, that, encouraging as the progress is which has been already made, a far greater work yet remains to be done; for the work, on which the Christian Church has yet entered, can be called great, only in comparison with that of former years: it is little indeed, when considered in reference to the exertions which are still required.

And, to these exertions, the Christian Church is now manifestly called. It is the COMMAND of God, that this sacred work of evangelizing the world should be undertaken—His PROMISE is engaged in support of His servants, while they labour herein to make Him known; the manifestation of whose Glory, as displayed in the Gospel, is placed, as it were, in their hands—His PROVIDENCE opens before them the opportunities and the means of labour—and His POWER will uphold their weakness, and subdue their foes—and His GRACE will crown their conflict and toil with a Victory, which shall be the subject of everlasting praise.

APPENDIX I.

(See Page 53.)

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE REV. HENRY WILLIAMS, PROCEEDING AS A MISSIONARY TO NEW ZEALAND; WITH MR. WILLIAMS'S REPLY, AND AN ADDRESS BY THE REV. E. G. MARSH: DELIVERED AUG. 6, 1822.

Instructions of the Committee.

DEARLY BELOVED IN THE LORD—

THE Mission for which you have long been under preparation, and to the service of which you have willingly devoted yourself, has latterly occasioned much anxiety to the Committee. The various communications received, for some time past, from the Settlers themselves and from the Society's friends in New South Wales, sufficiently prove that the Mission has been of late in critical circumstances. The eagerness of the Natives for fire-arms and ammunition, the manner in which these have been obtained, the devastation and bloodshed which have followed, the erroneous views and practice, in reference to the supply of arms, into which a small part of the Settlers have fallen, and the difficulties which in consequence surround the rest—these and some other points connected with the temper and the conduct of some of the Settlers, render it difficult for the Committee to determine conclusively on the course which you should pursue. They refer you, however, with entire confidence, to the Rev. Samuel Marsden, who, under the advice of His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane, and in concurrence with other friends of the Society, will be best able to direct your future course.

The Committee have witnessed, on your part, such a steady determination of mind toward your object, during the considerable period of time in which you have been under preparation, and they have seen you so anxious to improve those qualifications for this Mission which you had already acquired by having spent the active years of your youth in various quarters of the world, that they cannot but hope, that you will hereafter, by the Divine Blessing, be enabled greatly to subserve the objects of the Society in behalf of New Zealand.

It may be found expedient, in the judgment of Mr. Marsden and of the friends who act with him, that you should not proceed immediately to New Zealand. On this point, the Committee doubt not but you will be entirely guided by them: and, though they have no apprehension that you will yield to any inducements needlessly to protract your stay in New South Wales, yet some circumstances which have occurred make it their duty to put you, and all others who may proceed on the service of this Mission, on your guard, in reference to this point.

In the state of uncertainty, with respect to your more immediate steps on your arrival in New South Wales, under which the Committee feel themselves, they wish particularly to direct the attention of Mr. Marsden and the other friends of the Society to the revival and enlargement of the Seminary, which has heretofore existed at Parramatta, for the Instruction of New Zealanders.

The circumstances of New Zealand and of the Mission to those Islands have greatly increased, in the view of the Committee, the importance of a Seminary of that nature. The collateral security which will naturally attach to the Society's Settlements from the residence in New South-Wales of a number of New-Zealand Youths, the superior advantages of instruction to be obtained for them in the Colony, the more effectual influence which may be there brought to act on their minds in weaning them from the evil habits of their country, the frequent visits of their relatives—these, and other considerations, have much weight with the Committee, in inducing them to think that a more promising measure could not well be adopted in behalf of this Mission, than the establishment of an efficient Seminary in New South-Wales, for the Christian Education of Young New-Zealanders, perhaps of both sexes. Major-General Macquarie has, since his return from the Government of that Colony, expressed to one of the Society's Officers his decided opinion, that this measure would be highly advantageous to the objects of the Mission,

It is the great and ultimate purpose of this Mission, to bring the noble but benighted race of New Zealanders into the enjoyment of the light and freedom of the Gospel. To this grand end, all the Society's measures are subordinate. This end, therefore, the Committee urge it on you, and on every other Labourer in this Mission, to keep continually in view. And they are the more earnest with you on this point, because, in the constant attention which this Mission will require, for years to come, to secular business, the temptation of the Labourers has been, and will be, not to give a due proportion in their plans to Religious Education and Instruction.

The Committee have made you acquainted with the most recent intelligence respecting the Mission. This intelligence has been the subject of much careful deliberation. On its various points, the Committee have adopted such Resolutions as appeared to them, in the exercise of their best judgment and looking for the gracious guidance of their Heavenly Master, most likely to meet the difficulties which presented themselves. You will be charged with Despatches on this subject, which you will convey to Mr. Marsden, and on which he will act in such way as to himself and his friends, under the advice of His Excellency the Governor, shall seem best.

The Committee regret to state, that the circumstances of the New-Zealand Mission oblige them to recall to the minds of the Settlers those principles, which were laid down for its regulation, in the Instructions delivered to Mr. John Cowell, on his appointment to this Mission. The Plan of a Missionary Family, supported by a common stock, and all contributing their labour to the common good, was adopted on full deliberation, as peculiarly applicable to a Mission circumstanced as that to New Zealand is. The regulations were formed on the experience of those exemplary Missionaries of the Church of the United Brethren, who have for so many years conducted Missions among the uncivilized tribes of Greenland, Labrador, and South Africa. The Committee have observed with pain, that difficulties have arisen in the application of these principles to the New-Zealand Mission, which would not, as they conceive, have been felt, had the true Missionary Spirit been cherished by all the parties concerned.

The Committee have no hesitation in expressing their conviction, that a Missionary Community, acting on principles of this nature, is likely to prove an efficient instrument, in awakening the attention of the Heathen, and in conciliating their regard to the Gospel. The Christian Communities of the United Brethren, just mentioned, have long held out examples of the blessing of God on such bodies; and the American Wilderness is now exhibiting the animating spectacle of various Missionary Families, some of them very considerable in number, which are treading in these steps, and realizing in a good degree the picture of the Church in her earliest days.

When, indeed, Missions are established under circumstances which will allow of the whole support of the Missionary being provided for by a Stipend, the necessity for a common stock ceases: but, even then, the persons who are intrusted with the direction of Missionary Societies are bound, in the faithful execution of their trust, to fix the stipend at no higher rate than may be requisite for the reasonable support of the Missionary and those who may be dependent upon him. It should never enter into their views to allow the means of accumulation, lest these should serve as an incentive to that worldliness of spirit, which is most fatally opposed to the right temper of a Missionary. It must ever be remembered, that Missionary Appointments differ from all Secular Appointments in this essential particular—that the remunerations and engagements for secular labour are its known and fixed reward, while the connexion of a Missionary Society with its labourers is that of a Father with his Children, who will supply the place of a protector to any whom they may leave behind.

Wherever, indeed, a Missionary is maintained by a fixed stipend, that stipend ought to be settled, not on a parsimonious principle, but with all that liberal and kind consideration which the duty owing to the great object will allow; and a Missionary so circumstanced will, therefore, not want opportunities of manifesting the influence of a noble spirit, in sometimes denying himself, for the enlargement of his own means of doing good.

But there can scarcely be conceived a better opportunity for the full exercise of the graces which should most strikingly characterize and adorn a Christian Community, than that which is afforded by a Missionary Establishment, such as the Committee have wished to form in New Zealand. Where the wants of all are supplied out of a common stock, into which all proceeds of labour flow; and all future contingencies are engaged for by the Society—there, all anxiety and care as to the things of this world may well be dismissed from the mind; and if the spirit of self-love be kept in due subjection, every Christian Virtue will find full and easy opportunity for its exercise.

If, under such circumstances, the persons connected with a Missionary Society cannot be content, they must be under a temptation of providing for themselves and their families, which will prove a dangerous snare to their minds. And such persons do not sufficiently consider, that wherever the desire to accumulate property manifests itself, the contract with the Society to which they belong is thereby virtually dissolved, and all claim for assistance to any who may survive them is forfeited.

There is no wish, on the part of the Committee, to interfere with any property which may accrue to a Missionary independently of his connexion with the Society: but, from the period of his being received into such connexion, all the time and labour both of himself and his family are to be devoted, by the very terms of his engagement, to the promotion of the Society's objects; the Society undertaking, on its part, to provide for himself and those dependent upon him, and to take charge of any who may survive him.

The Committee have reason to believe that your views on this subject fully coincide with their own; and that you would be unwilling to proceed to New Zealand, on any other principles than those which have been now stated. Whenever, therefore, it may be judged expedient for you to proceed to New Zealand, it is the wish of the Committee that you should associate some of the Settlers with yourself, who may be cordially disposed to act on the same principles; and they trust that they shall witness a Community of Christians, established either at one of the present Stations of the Society or at some new Station as circumstances may direct, living and acting in the true spirit of such a Community.

You will bend your first efforts, after you are sufficiently accommodated with a dwelling, to acquire the language; that you may be able, with as little delay as possible, to declare to the Natives the glad tidings of Salvation. While the preparation of Elementary Books and the Translation of the Scriptures must ever be kept in view, unwearied attention must be paid, in your various conversations with the people, to this one point—the bringing of them acquainted with the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

In the education of Female Children, and in the general improvement of the condition of Women in New Zealand, we doubt not but Mrs. Williams, next to the care of your own Children, will readily contribute all that may be in her power; and we have the best hope that you will exhibit to the Natives the instructive example of a happy Christian Family.

Let it, however, never be forgotten by you both, that your circumstances will call for a constant command over your natural dispositions, and an unwearied patience and deadness to the world and its comforts and pleasures, which nothing can supply to you but the gracious influence of the Holy Spirit, constraining you to ready toil and privations by a sense of the Love of Christ to you.

Go forth, then, in the true spirit of a devoted Missionary, having no secular object in view, but desirous of bringing glory to God by advancing the kingdom of His Son. May you be enabled by the Holy Spirit to keep this end ever in your view, amidst the multiplied labours, disappointments, trials, and afflictions which you must expect in your arduous undertaking. Live near to Christ. His grace is sufficient for you. Labouring in His name and in His strength, we shall not be disappointed in that favourable hope of your characters in which you are now sent forth.

The result of your labours, be well assured, will, in due time, shew itself. What a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Indefatigable labours, unwearied patience, persevering prayer, simple faith, and unfailing love, will, in the end, produce their visible fruit to the praise and glory of God; while self-will, evil tempers, indolence, self-indulgence, pursuit of gain, a worldly spirit, strife and contention, neglect of devotion, and all those other evils to which we are by nature prone, would render you unprofitable to New Zealand, and a burden to the Society; and would fill you with self-reproach and sorrow, if they did not end, as they have done in some awful instances, in a state of apostacy from God.

Remembering, then, the Apostle's declaration, We are not sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves, but all our sufficiency is of God—ever bear in mind the duty and privilege of entire dependence on the grace of the Holy Spirit. Guided by Divine Wisdom, accepted in Christ, and protected and prospered by the Almighty Arm, your labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.

By Order of the Committee,
JOSIAH PRATT, B. D. Secretary.

Church Missionary House,

Reply of the Rev. Henry Williams.

GENTLEMEN—

I hope you will not measure my zeal in this Holy Cause, by the fewness of the words which I may this day address to you. But while I have the opportunity, I would desire to express my gratitude to Almighty God for suffering one, who had long trod the path of sin, now to go forth as a Minister of His Word among the Heathen. And to yourselves, Gentlemen, I would return thanks for that great kindness which I have received at your hands, from my first connection with you. While this kindness serves to increase my affection toward you, I hope it will free me from all anxieties for the future; trusting in that gracious promise of our Lord, that if we seek first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, all things necessary shall be added unto us.

I have long felt the deplorable state of the Heathen, and especially of that people among whom I hope to live and die: for it is my desire, even to the end of my days, to spend and be spent in the service of my God, in bringing these people to the knowledge of His ways.

I am not ignorant of your great anxiety in reference to this Mission. I feel anxiety myself; and it shall be my main object to endeavour to repair those breaches which the Enemy has made in our small body, by promoting brotherly affection and union; without which, I am sensible, we cannot expect the blessing of God.

In the observance of the orders and wishes which you may, from time to time, send to me, I shall ever consider it, I do assure you, as a most sacred duty, to regard them as rigidly as ever I did those of my Senior Officer while I was in His Majesty's Service. I look to you for direction, as the Stewards of the Lord's vineyard; and shall at all times, I hope, be thankful for your advice. Nay, more: if reproof shall be thought needful, I trust to be enabled to be thankful for reproof also; for I ought to be aware that I have many infirmities, and you may soon have occasion to discover them yourselves: but I do hope and entreat, that, when any part of my conduct does not meet your approbation, you will not fail to tell me with all possible plainness.

With regard to Mrs. Williams, I beg to say, that she does not accompany me merely as my Wife, but as a fellow-helper in the work: and though it will be, for some time, her chief care to watch over those tender plants which are committed to her immediate charge; yet she will, I trust, be performing therein no inconsiderable duty to the Mission. They have been dedicated to the Lord; and we hope that you will consider them as part of your Missionary Household; and that when we shall be laid in the grave, they may be raised up to carry on the work of the Lord.

Address to Mr. and Mrs. Williams, by the Rev. Edward Garrard Marsh.

My Dear Brother and Sister—whom I am happy to acknowledge under a double tie, of earthly connection and Christian fellowship—the duty on which you are now preparing to enter is the most honourable to which our Lord and Saviour has called any of His faithful servants since the days of the Twelve Apostles. To go forth as the Champions of the Cross, and to plant that Holy Standard in lands where the God of this World possesses an undivided empire, is an office of the highest dignity and importance. But, in proportion to its importance, is its difficulty: no human strength can avail us in a warfare in which our enemies are not carnal, but spiritual; and in which, consequently, neither must our weapons be carnal, but such as are mighty through God alone to the pulling down of the strong-holds of Satan.

The chief point, then, to which I shall endeavour to direct your attention on the present occasion, and the remarks which I shall offer upon it, will have reference rather to your final destination in New Zealand, than to your temporary residence in New-South Wales. It is the cultivation of that CHRISTIAN SIMPLICITY which is absolutely necessary for a Missionary who would be faithful, in the midst of surrounding difficulties, to his Master's cause.

For this purpose, the first thing that seems desirable, is to disencumber himself of every thing which could prove a temptation to him in the way of his duty: for, though earthly weapons cannot help you in this warfare, they may hinder you, like the armour of Saul, girt upon the limbs of David: and the Christian must put them off him, as David did; remembering the advice of St. Paul—No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life, that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

The situation of a Mission in a Heathen Land is, in many respects, different from that of a Christian Establishment; and particularly in this, that, whereas in a Christian Establishment every Minister has his particular provision, out of which he is to maintain himself and his family; in a Mission, on the contrary, he is not only subsisted, but is secured against permanent loss, by the Society of Christians who send him forth; and has simply the office of discharging his errand, without being careful and troubled about inferior things. If he adds unnecessarily to his duty, he will be sure to experience how truly our Blessed Saviour has forewarned him, that no man can serve two masters; and particularly, that he cannot serve God and Mammon. It is his privilege to be at liberty for the service of God, without being subject to many of those impediments which here divide the attention of Christians, through the necessity under which they live of attending to matters of secular concern, and securing a provision for their households.

Hence the acquisition of personal property, and the cares which belong to it, ought to be totally disclaimed by a Missionary, as an entanglement and a snare, which cannot fail to perplex his conscience in some of those numerous cases which are sure to arise in the contest that he has to maintain against all the inveterate habits, prejudices, and passions, of a people under the dominion of Satan, and who are also certain of being strengthened in their errors by all the cunning, malice, and power of the Adversary. For, though it should be true that sufficient protection will be extended toward him in a Heathen Land, to enable him to acquire property without diminishing his present or apparently endangering his future usefulness; still, in the course of Providence, some crisis must needs be anticipated, in which the success of the Mission will require one mode of proceeding, and the preservation of his property another: and although a conscientious man will not hesitate which to choose, a true servant of Christ, who is duly sensible of his own weakness, will desire to be preserved from the temptation.

A Missionary should, indeed, be the last person to entertain that corrupt sentiment exploded by St. Paul in his First Epistle to Timothy—that godliness is a gainful occupation. Indeed, says that fervent Apostle to his own Son in the faith, From such—as take this perverted view of their holy profession—from such withdraw thyself! For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out; and, having food and raiment, let us be therewith content. But they that will be rich fall into temptation, and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition: for the love of money is the root of all evil; which, while some have coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

On this subject, therefore, it cannot but give us unfeigned gratification to think, that you have afforded to the Society an unequivocal pledge of the simplicity of your devotion to the cause in which you are embarked, by foregoing a fair prospect of worldly advantage for the sake of preaching among the Heathen the unsearchable riches of Christ. It is equally pleasing to know, that, in doing this, you have made no stipulation for your own temporal interests, but have committed yourself and your family to the Master who was never known to fail those that truly and faithfully trust in Him. To deviate from this principle now, would be to look back to the world which you have renounced, after having set your hand to the plough: and, therefore, I feel confident, that, as you have uniformly professed, so you will continue under Divine Grace to act, by promoting simply the success of the Mission, without seeking any secular advantage. In this respect, as well as others, the United Brethren have set you a most instructive example, well worthy of your study and imitation.

Although, however, you are exempted from the anxieties of life and the cares of property—although you have renounced for yourselves the acquisition of wealth with every worldly object, and will, consequently, have no motive for strife and contention with others, it is yet right that you should endeavour to improve the temporal condition of those among whom you will have to dwell, in imitation of our most gracious Redeemer, who went about doing good to the bodies of men, while yet His main purpose in coming into the world was to accomplish the salvation of their souls. It is with this view, that you, my Dear Brother, have been turning your attention to the arts of surgery and medicine, as well as to various useful inventions, the acquisition of which is of vast importance to an ignorant and uncivilized people. Particularly, whatever pains you may hereafter bestow, in withdrawing their minds from the pursuits of war to the habits of peace, the quiet occupations of husbandry, or the useful arts of life, will be employed, not only innocently, but beneficially to the objects of your Mission: for it is one of the ends of the Gospel, to beat the sword into a ploughshare and the spear into a pruning-hook. When their minds are less warlike, and their occupations more tranquil, they will be better disposed to listen to instructions which come from heaven, and more at leisure to think of the concerns of their souls; and, if they see, that, while you are not intent upon acquiring property for yourselves, it is not from want of skill or of industry, but that you are actually desirous to improve their powers for a purpose which you yourselves are not anxious to pursue, it will place before them in so striking a point of view the disinterestedness of your intentions and the beneficial character of your Mission, as to gain their confidence and dispose them, under the blessing of God, to acquiesce in the higher and more heavenly instructions which it is your main design to communicate.

For the same reason, as well as from the necessity of husbanding the resources of the Society, and enabling us to employ them in multiplying our Missions and extending our sphere of action, it will be desirable that you should bestow all the attention in your power, consistently with the grand object of your life, in bringing the land, which shall be assigned you, into cultivation, and stocking it with the most useful productions; that you may both set the Natives an example of industry, and also render the body of Missionaries at large as independent as possible of the capricious kindness of the high-minded but variable Natives. There is a wide difference between labouring to acquire property for yourselves individually, and labouring for the common stock: for, while the former object is too likely to separate the Missionaries, the tendency of the latter is to combine them, to give them a common feeling, to strengthen their regard for one another, and to suggest such expedients as may improve their common prospects, that, like the fastened bundle, they may be neither bent nor broken.

Akin to the solicitude of maintaining your property is that of defending it. As you are about to enter the territories of a savage and powerful people, to commit yourselves to their hospitality, and to live under their laws, it would be vain to think of protecting yourselves by force against their violence. Should they harbour any evil design against you, it is impossible to shut your eyes to the fact, that, so far as human means are concerned, you must be considered as in their power and at their mercy. Any reliance, therefore, on your own means of protection would only serve to disguise from yourselves the situation in which you stand; and to cancel that claim, which even the most savage breast is capable of admitting—the claim arising from your having trusted yourselves to their generosity and honour. But your protection will not depend on a claim like this, nor on any precarious support. It will be in the arm of Him, who defends the earth, as it were, with a shield; and who has graciously said to His Church, No weapon, that is formed against thee, shall prosper: Thou, Lord, will bless the righteous: with favour will thou compass him, as with a shield.

All offensive instruments, therefore, relying on this protection, it is wise for a Missionary to renounce. As his object is peaceful, so should his hand be unarmed. He should carry the olive branch, and not the sword; and should exhibit the example of a person, who comes into the enemy's camp in the sacred character of a Herald of Peace. He will, therefore, neither wear a sword, nor bestow one. But, though he should long dwell among them, that are enemies unto peace—though he should have occasion to say, I labour for peace, but when I speak unto them thereof, they make them ready to battle—yet will he persist in abstaining from earthly weapons, while he is prosecuting a spiritual warfare. He will say, under all provocations, I will go forth in the strength of the Lord God, and will make mention of His righteousness only. Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of Hosts, the God of the armies of Israel.

In short, Disinterestedness in regard to himself and Forbearance toward others, are among the best and most necessary qualifications of a Christian Missionary. In respect to himself, he must be prepared to take joyfully the spoiling of his goods, knowing in himself, that he has in heaven a better and an enduring substance. In respect to others, the servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves, if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the Devil, who are taken captive by him at his will.

In a word, our Lord has Himself, in His Charge to the Twelve Apostles, given you a description, both of your position and of your duty. Behold! I send you forth, as sheep in the midst of wolves. Be ye, therefore, wise as serpents, and harmless as doves!

In obedience, therefore, to this precept, you will act with conciliating kindness toward the Natives: not wantonly opposing any of their notions or customs, which are innocent; while, at the same time, you will denounce their vices, and, by a simple and honest manifestation of the truth, labour to commend yourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

In all these particulars, St. Paul has afforded you a model. Consider that great Apostle, entering the populous city of Corinth—himself a stranger—and surrounded by unbelievers! He came among them, as the Ambassador of the Most High: but he was neither known nor acknowledged in that character; nor was there any thing in his person or manner calculated to command attention. What then was the way, in which he commenced his arduous duties, and gained respect to that Sacred Name which he represented? First, it is recorded, that he found a certain Jew, named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy with his wife Priscilla, and came unto them; and, because he was of the same craft, he abode with them and wrought; for by their occupation they were tent-makers. This was the humble way, in which St. Paul entered on his career of service; labouring with his hands, that he might be chargeable to no man, but yet fixing his mind chiefly on the great object of his errand: for which purpose he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks. To this work, therefore, he devoted his principal attention: neither seeking property for himself, a thing which he esteemed as dross; nor conniving at any thing that was contrary to sound doctrine in others. When, therefore, the Jews opposed themselves, and blasphemed, he shook his raiment, and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads! I am clean. From henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles. St. Paul, indeed, boldly rebuked vice, wherever he met with it; whether in Elymas, or in Felix, or in any of the professed disciples of his Master. Yet, though his zeal brought upon him in Corinth, as elsewhere, the enmity of the Jews; and though the enmity of the Jews was almost uniformly followed by the persecution of the Gentiles, what was his conduct? Did he abandon that scene of labour? Did he provide by any sinister methods for his personal safety? No! His reliance was on His Saviour: and, at the very time when his Mission seemed most unpromising, then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid! But speak, and hold not thy peace! For I am with thee; and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee; for I have much people in this city.

The true Missionary must never despair. Divine grace is sufficient for all purposes; and often, when the tempest is blackest and the ship is covered with the waves, the voice of the Saviour is heard amidst the storm, saying to the troubled ocean, Peace! be still!—He stilleth the raging of the sea, and the noise of his waves, and the madness of the people.

I cannot refrain from citing for your encouragement, a recent confirmation of this truth, from the narrative of Mr. Campbell's Second Journey in South Africa. The noted Africaner, and Berend the Griqua Captain, who, before their conversion, were mortal enemies to each other, were seen, by that enterprising traveller, worshipping under the same tent. Africaner was not brought to feel the power of Divine Truth till several years after Berend: but, when it pleased the Lord to have mercy upon him, and to bring him out of darkness into the marvellous light of the Gospel, he sent a message to the Griqua Chiefs, confessing the injuries which he had done them, and soliciting them at the same time to unite with him in promoting universal peace and the improvement of his people. They are now both of them judicious Christians, instruct their families, preside among their people in the absence of Missionaries, and breathe nothing but peace and good will to men.

May such, my Dear Brother and Sister, be your experience! The scene of labour, to which you are called, does not, in some respects, seem very encouraging: yet the Natives perceive the superiority of Europeans. They invite your coming. They desire your continuance; though, at present, they have no value for your spiritual ministrations. Yet it is to these, notwithstanding all discouragements, that you must devote your chief care; and, while you are willing to labour with your hands, that you may avoid being chargeable to any one and may assist your neighbours in any service that may benefit them either in body or estate, you must take care to undeceive them, should they imagine, that this is the principal object of your visit, by preaching to them, from the very first, Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

There is no time, or season, or state of society, to which this doctrine is unsuitable: it is equally adapted to abase the proud, or to comfort the humble. The Cross of Christ is the great instrument for the salvation of all men; and that Missionary is unworthy of his office, who fears to hold it up in the face of all opposition. The Love of Christ in dying for sinners, is an argument intelligible to all, and goes directly to the heart; while other reasonings necessarily spend their force in circuitous efforts to reach the understanding, before the affections can be moved by them. Its power in reforming the most degraded of our species may be strikingly seen among the Negroes under the Society's care in the Colony of Sierra Leone; and the language of a poor female Matchappee, recorded in the Work to which I have already referred, is a further illustration of this power:—"She told me," says Mr. Campbell "that, when she first heard of the Bible, she did not think it was true. But when she found it describe her heart so exactly, she could not but believe what it said. She was now determined, therefore, always to live near some place, where the Word of God was preached, and where she might hear about a Crucified Saviour, though she should starve."

There are, nevertheless, various methods of placing this cardinal truth with effect before the minds of the people: and the advantage of regularly training Children in elementary knowledge, that, when it shall please God to touch their hearts, their minds may be open to the reception of this truth, must not be lost sight of. It is an object worthy of the attention of both of you, though it may fall particularly within the province of a Female, in training her own children, to associate others with them, and endeavour to make her family an example to the whole.

The business of a School is, indeed, the permanent hope of a Mission; and claims the most serious and anxious attention of every one of its servants. Yet the adult generation of Heathens must not be neglected for the sake of the rising race: they are nearer to their last account; and deserve, therefore, still greater anxiety: and, besides, the conversion of one Father of a Family will commonly draw after it the conversion of many Children, and extend to other families likewise. It was to adults almost exclusively that St. Paul addressed himself; and, beginning from the very first to testify to them that Jesus was Christ, he found the reward of his labours in that important effect, that, at length, the Chief Ruler of the Synagogue believed on the Lord, with all his house; and many of the Corinthians, hearing, believed and were baptized. Nor must I forget to add, that, whether addressing yourselves to Adults or to Children, you should never be inattentive to the important object of training up Native Teachers; or of inducing those, who, by the blessing of God upon your faithful labours, may be brought to a saving hope in Christ Jesus, to communicate to others what they have themselves received. On this subject, however, if happily the occasion should rise, the Society at home will be ready to advise and instruct you.

This, then, my Dear Brother and Sister, is the great work to which you are about to devote your lives. May the Lord grant you an abundant blessing!

It must, however, be borne in mind, that this is a work which cannot be carried on without much opposition; and, the greater your success, the stronger will be the opposition which it will encounter. The Evil Spirit, when he is about to be dispossessed, will tear the victim with the greater violence, and will make a more frantic display of his power. There is, indeed, in Meetings like the present, a glow of feeling excited, which overlooks obstacles, and awakens an energy that promises to overpower them. The prophecies of Scripture elevate the heart. The meeting of Christians animates the spirits; while, at the same time, the distance of the contest conceals its difficulties from our view. Yet, my Beloved Friends, it is desirable to take a more sober view of the enterprise which lies before you. It is necessary to bear in mind that seasonable check to human presumption—a check, which I know you have always in your recollection; of which, indeed, we have some proof in the Address which we have just heard from you—Let not him, that girdeth on his harness, boast himself, as he that putteth it off! You will assuredly meet with many things to try your faith, to dishearten your zeal, to abate your resolution. In particular you will carry with you to the opposite side of the Globe that corrupt nature, which we all derive from Adam: and, though, I trust, there is good evidence before us, that you will carry with you a better nature also, the conflict between the spirit and the flesh will still continue; and perhaps be even exasperated to greater violence, by the examples of vice with which you will become unhappily familiar, and the want of that Christian communion and mutual encouragement which in this country is abundantly supplied. The absence of these encouragements and the evil of those examples will best be met, by embracing every opportunity to strengthen each other's hands, by friendly communication with your brother Missionaries, and by earnestly labouring to unite in prayer and service for the advancement of the common cause.

In striving to promote Christianity among the Heathen, you must never forget the necessity of preserving your own; and, happily, in thus seeking your own peace, you are best consulting the interests of your Mission. Shew the ignorant Native one victory of the Cross, by exhibiting it in your own lives! Let the Heathen see the standard of your God, and the devotion of his servants! Be careful, in particular, to respect the Christian Sabbath—to maintain family prayer—to read the Word of God, both alone and to each other—and, occasionally, to refresh your spirits in the Lord by reviewing the examples of those faithful men, who have gone before you in the same line of arduous duty. Give the people, with whom you associate, an opportunity of seeing the generosity, the forgiving disposition, the self-denying character, the patience, the perseverance in well-doing, the meekness, and gentle heroism, which Christianity inspires! and yet, with all this endeavour, beware of expecting great effects from any thing which you yourselves can do! Take heed to be a light among them, even a burning as well as a shining light! but remember, that it is God only, who can enable them to see it! Christ Himself, whose service and doctrine and example were alike perfect, was rejected. May this consideration animate you to pray earnestly, both for yourselves and for those whom you seek to save! and may the grace of the Holy Spirit be with you, to bear you up under every discouragement, and to reward you with abundant success!

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE REV. MESSRS. BECKAUER, GERBER, METZGER, AND SCHEMEL, AND MESSRS. LISK, VAUGHAN, AND BUNYER, WITH MRS. GERBER, MRS. METZGER, MRS. SCHEMEL, MRS. LISK, MRS. VAUGHAN, AND MRS. BUNYER, PROCEEDING TO THE WEST-AFRICA MISSION; AND TO THE REV. MR. DEININGER, PROCEEDING TO THE MEDITERRANEAN: WITH AN ADDRESS TO THEM, BY THE REV. JAMES HALDANE STEWART: DELIVERED, SEPT. 24, 1822.

Instructions of the Committee.

DEARLY BELOVED IN THE LORD—

It is with feelings of deep interest, that the Committee now send forth a larger body of labourers to Western Africa, than they ever before dismissed to their work in that Mission. Such, however, are the growing demands for assistance therein, that you who are now proceeding thither do not amount to more than one-fourth of the number of Labourers who have been requested for the supply of the different Stations: but you go forth, Christian Friends, to meet the earnest entreaties and pressing wants of many, and will be cordially welcomed by your Brethren and the Society's other friends on your arrival. May it please God that you may go among them in the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ!

All of you who have been admitted to the exercise of the Christian Ministry, have studied several years at Bâsle; and, after remaining a considerable time in this country, are now sent forth, the first Missionaries who have proceeded from the Bâsle Institution to Western Africa. The Committee doubt not, from the spirit which you have manifested, that your future conduct will be such as to justify the favourable character with which they rejoice now to dismiss you to your labours.

You, Mr. Lisk, are returning to a scene with which you are acquainted; and may hereafter, probably, be intrusted by His Excellency the Governor with the charge of a Settlement of Liberated Africans: while the destination of your countrymen, Mr. Vaughan and Mr. Bunyer, will be more particularly that of educating the Young. To this duty, indeed, all of you, wherever you may be situated, must devote, with your Wives, every degree of attention in your power. For this purpose you have all been admitted, like many who have preceded you, to the Central School of the National Society. Where your other duties may be such, as to prevent any of you from engaging much in the work of direct instruction in the Schools, all of you must exercise over them a vigilant inspection: and, in every case, it must be your constant aim and endeavour, to bring forward the most promising Young Persons, of both sexes; and, by kind and assiduous attention, to prepare them to become Instructors of their country-people.

you all, not only on the ground of that duty which you owe for Christ's sake to all classes among whom you may labour, but from the especial benefits which may be reasonably expected to result from their future labours. The Committee have, indeed, great reason for thankfulness to Almighty God, that the hearts of Adult Natives within the Colony of Sierra Leone have been opened to the reception of the Gospel, beyond the example, perhaps, of any other Adult Heathens throughout the world; and the labours, therefore, of the Ministers of Christ among them are carried on under a degree of encouragement, withheld as yet from the greater part of their Brethren who are bearing among the Heathen the burden and heat of the day: yet in Africa, as elsewhere, the Christian Church must look chiefly to the rising generation for the supply of intelligent and devout Native Labourers, by whom, under the Divine Blessing, the Faith may be extended throughout their own countries.

The Committee wish you, Mr. and Mrs. VAUGHAN and Mr. and Mrs. BUNYER, to devote yourselves to the care of the Freetown Schools. With much regret, they have hitherto witnessed, from the death or sickness of the Teachers destined to this object, the disappointment of their endeavours to place these Schools on that efficient footing, which their importance to the Colony requires. The Committee entirely agree with Sir Charles MacCarthy, in the estimate which His Excellency forms of their importance. The rising population of Freetown will have, of necessity, a powerful influence on the rest of the Colony; and the character of the future inhabitants of this chief place in the Colony will depend, very much, on the care and constancy and piety, with which the present race of Children are trained. The Committee appoint you, therefore, to this post of labour. They trust that your health will be spared; and they doubt not, if you patiently and assiduously devote yourselves to this work, with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Fox, who have faithfully served in these Schools, that they shall have the satisfaction to see them gradually rising toward that state of efficiency, at which the Committee are aiming to bring them. They have some further arrangements in contemplation, for the benefit of these Schools: in the mean time, they wish it to be understood, that the Colonial Schools are to have a chief place in the attention of the Missionaries; and that every exertion is to be made to keep up, under all contingencies, a supply of competent Teachers.

It has occurred to the Committee, that you, Mr. METZGER, might be advantageously placed at the Plantains; and might enter there, with the assistance of William Tamba, on that wide field of labour which has been opened by that Christian Native. But, as the state of things on your arrival may be such as to require other arrangements, the final adjustment of your Stations is left to a Special Meeting of the Chaplains and Missionaries, subject to the wishes and approbation of His Excellency the Governor.

You, who are now going out for the first time to Africa, have had the advantage of learning the actual state of things in the Colony from Mr. Düring and Mr. Lisk; and will have thus been enabled to form some judgment of what your future station and employment will be.

Mr. Düring's absence in the country, on a visit to some of the Society's Associations, prevents the Committee from addressing him, on this occasion, in connection with yourselves: but they gladly avail themselves of this opportunity, to express the pleasure which they have derived from witnessing his faithful and devoted course; and the spirit and temper with which he is, through the mercy of God in restoring his health, about to return to his Station: they have requested him to furnish them with his own views and reflections on the course of his labours, as Mr. Johnson did on occasion of his visit to this country. With that assiduous Labourer in the vineyard of the Lord, the Committee affectionately sympathize, as they do with Mrs. Johnson, in the painful separation which her continued ill-health occasions between them; and they trust that both will receive that gracious return of spiritual blessings, which is promised to those who sacrifice their domestic comforts for Christ and the Gospel. The Committee are thankful that Mr. Nyländer and Mr. Wilhelm are enabled to continue their labours; and they wish, on this occasion, to direct the particular attention of all of you who are now first proceeding to Africa, to the advantage of availing yourselves of the experience of all these Brethren who have been named. A few months spent with one or other of these elder Missionaries, as circumstances may direct, before you enter on any charge of your own, will give you most advantageous opportunities of learning how best to fulfil your respective duties; and a constant recurrence to the advice and counsel of these friends, and of such others as may have acquired experience in the right management of the Natives, will, at once, evince a proper knowledge of yourselves and your duty, and will preserve you from those mistakes and evils into which some have been betrayed.

This is a point of such vital importance to your success, that the Committee cannot but urgently press on your regard the duty of thus attending to the advice of the Brethren, who have been long in the Colony, and whose labours God has been pleased to bless. They strictly require you, in the first instance, to conduct yourselves among the Natives who may be placed under your care, as the experience of these Brethren may direct you to do; especially labouring to combine unwearied patience and affection, with that firmness which may be necessary to establish good habits among the Africans. It is a great advantage to have counsellors able to direct you: but all this advantage will be lost, if you yield to the temptation, as some have done, of following any fancied superior plans of your own; and thus subject yourselves, after much loss of time and many bitter trials, to be obliged, in the result, to return to that system which much experience has proved to be the most effective.

It had been designed that you, Mr. Deininger, should accompany your Brethren to Africa. Educated with them at Bâsle for Missionary Labour, you have cherished the expectation, during your residence in this country, of proceeding thither with them; but you have been called by the Providence of God to an exercise of faith and patience, in submitting to His will. As your state of health is considered by the Medical Friends of the Society to be unfit for Sierra Leone, and to require a more genial climate, the Committee have resolved to direct your course to the Mediterranean: and they the more readily adopt this change of your destination, as your acquisitions have prepared you to enter with pleasure into the objects of that Mission, and to relieve Mr. Jowett of a part of that burden which presses too heavily upon him. The Committee have long wished to enlarge the plans of that Mission; and they doubt not but you will, by the grace of God, cordially assist Mr. Jowett, and open the way for some of your Brethren from Bâsle to follow you. The employment of the Press, and the practice of travelling for the purpose of disseminating Christian Truth, appear to be the two great means of usefulness to those most interesting regions which surround the Mediterranean. In these, and in the pursuit of other means so ably developed in Mr. Jowett's "Christian Researches," you will rejoice, we doubt not, as God shall give you opportunity, to promote the ends of the Society.

The Committee doubt not but that their Friend, who has kindly undertaken to address you this day, will urge the importance of Prayer for the gracious and abundant influences of the Holy Spirit. They wish, however, to state, that the whole course of their experience has led them to see, that it pleases God to bless his servants, in proportion to their simplicity of dependance on Him, and the fervency and constancy of their prayers for His grace to prosper their labours. It is as essential toward ensuring success to your work, that you stir up yourselves and those among whom you may labour to earnest prayer for that preparation of heart which is from the Lord, as it is that you should constantly and faithfully declare the truth among them. However skilful the sower, however diligently he may sow, and however good the seed, yet it is only the good ground which bringeth forth fruit to perfection.

It may be expedient to guard you against some of the temptations by which you may be soon tried in your work.

Watch against HASTINESS OF TEMPER. You will find many things which will call for much patience. Inconveniences of various kinds are inseparable from a work like yours. The ignorance and dullness of some of the people, the perverseness and obstinacy or the deceit and fraud of others, will often try you: but follow, by the Divine Strength, the meekness and gentleness of Christ; and, in your patience, possess ye your souls.

Watch against DISUNION AMONG YOURSELVES. This is a point of vital importance. If Satan can prevail here, your whole labour will be in vain—your desired success will utterly fail. But you will have been long since well aware, how much need there is, that even Christian Brethren should bear one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ: and it may be hoped that you are all prepared, in the spirit of Christian Love, to make sacrifices one for another, that the God of peace may be with you all.

Watch against the LOVE OF THE WORLD. You profess, when you engage in this work, to be crucified to the world; nor have you given any reason to doubt but that you are sincere in this profession: yet our Great Enemy will be ever watchful, that he may again ensnare you, and lead you to desire the good things of this life as your portion and happiness. But, as your treasure is in heaven, let your affections and conversation be constantly there; and let not the conduct of men, who leave this country with no such profession or design as yours, be any temptation to you to depart from the life of faith and hope and love.

Watch against being MISLED BY DESIGNING MEN. It was one of our Lord's directions—Beware of men; and experience has taught us its importance. One of your Brethren in the Colony of Sierra Leone has been so deceived, and probably defrauded, by those with whom he associated, as to involve himself in considerable debts, and to disqualify himself for future usefulness. You are, therefore, solemnly warned—Owe no man any thing, but to love one another.

The Committee wish strongly to impress on your minds the importance of a constant study of the Holy Scriptures, as necessary both for your growth in personal piety, and your usefulness among those committed to your charge. They hope that you are now in the daily habit of studying them, with much prayer; and they trust that no public engagement will tempt you to lay aside a practice, so essential to the maintenance of vital religion in your own souls, and so indispensable to furnish you richly with those truths by which you are to be the means of saving the Heathen.

They have furnished you with such other books, as they hope will be truly useful to you. They trust that you will make the lives of Brainerd and of Martyn your models, as well as your study—following them, as they followed Christ. The Committee hope, also, that you will become well acquainted with the History of the Church of Christ, by those able Servants of God, the Milners: in that Work, you will find those great principles clearly discriminated, strikingly illustrated, and powerfully defended, which have distinguished the true Church of Christ in every age.

It is always to be understood, but is now mentioned in order to prevent mistakes, that all the Books furnished by the Society and bearing its mark, are to be considered as the property of the Society; and that, in case of the removal of a Missionary from the Mission, or on a change of his Station to one furnished with books, they are to be at the disposal of the Quarterly Meeting of the Missionaries, to be appropriated as may be most subservient to the good of the Mission.

It is the trust and hope of the Committee, that you may be honoured instruments of increasing and enlarging the Church of Christ in Western Africa. You are engaged in a labour eminently calculated to glorify God, and promote the present and eternal happiness of man. Oh, sink not down into any miserable, selfish, and carnal projects; having in view only your own present ease, or any petty temporary gain, or any worldly honour.

The Committee feel a holy jealousy over you, while they send you forth. Some, who have stood before them like yourselves, and have gone forth with their best wishes and warmest expectations, have deeply grieved their hearts and disappointed all their hopes. They have departed, by degrees, from that first zeal and love, which seemed to induce them to go forth to labour; and have become secular and earthly-minded; and one or two have even fallen into opensin. These things should be your beacon and warning. Watch ye—stand fast in the faith—quit yourselves like men—Be strong, in the Lord and in the power of His might.

The Committee would affectionately address a few words to the FEMALES, who accompany the Brethren now proceeding to their labours.

It was the honour of the Females of the Primitive Church whose names are recorded by the Apostle, that they greatly aided the work of the Gospel. Of one, it is said that she was a servant of the Church at Cenchrea, and a succourer of many and of the Apostle—of another, with her Husband, that they were the helpers of the Apostle, and for his sake laid down their own necks—and of another, that she laboured much in the Lord. And not only the Apostles, but also the Churches of the Gentiles gave thanks for them. You are going forth, it is confidently hoped, with a determination to copy the example of these Holy Women of old time, and gladly to do all that may lie in your power for promoting the great work in which we are all engaged. TheFemales and the Female Children will fall much under your care: let your conduct be such, as to gain their confidence and to secure their affection, while you give them such instruction as is adapted to their various circumstances. You are, probably, about to undergo many trials and difficulties. Afflictions await you. But be not discouraged. Many, who have gone before you, have rejoiced over them, and triumphed in them. He, whom you serve, is able to carry you through all that is before you, with comfort to yourselves; and to make you a blessing to your Husbands, and to the Mission. Let it be your aim, ever to unite, and never to divide, the Brethren. Let that high commendation belong to each of you—She openeth her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness.

The Committee now send you all forth, committing you to the constant guidance, and watchful care, and unfailing love of the Great Head of the Church. May He fill you with the Holy Ghost, and make you workmen that need not to be ashamed! May we and the Church of Christ have joy in you, as faithful Labourers in the Lord's Vineyard; and, at the Last Day, may you each hear the joyful welcome—Well done, good and faithful servant! Thou hast been faithful in a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.

By Order of the Committee,
JOSIAH PRATT, B. D. Sec.

Church Missionary House,
London, Sept. 24, 1822.

Address to the Missionaries and Teachers, by the Rev. James Haldane Stewart.

DEARLY BELOVED IN THE LORD—

By the kind providence of God we are now met together, on a most interesting occasion—to commend you, who are leaving this country on the service of our Blessed Lord, to His gracious protection; and to address to you a few words of exhortation, which may assist you in your highly important undertaking.

Assembled for such a purpose, before I commence my Address I would particularly request all who are present, earnestly to entreat the Divine Blessing upon our meeting. May that gracious Lord and Saviour, in whose name we are met together, condescend to be in the midst of us! May He, by the power of the Holy Spirit, give such energy to the observations now to be offered, that they may be peculiarly useful to you, my Beloved Friends, and beneficial to us all!

The office, upon which you are going forth, is one, in every way, arduous. The unhealthiness of the climate, the uncivilized state of the Natives, their gross immoralities, the degrading nature of their superstitions, the corrupting and hardening tendency of the Slave Trade—all combine to make a Mission to Africa one of peculiar danger and difficulty: while the glorious end which you have in view—the giving of light to nations sitting in darkness and the shadow of death—the breaking of the moral chains of men bound in a worse captivity than even that of a Slave Dealer—the raising of them from this distressing bondage to the exalted privileges of the children of God—this glorious end makes your office unspeakably blessed. Yours is a work, which angels behold with rapture; and which the Lord of Angels left the bosom of His Father to fulfil. He came to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound—to seek and to save those that are lost—to give His life a ransom for many.

In considering your object as Missionaries, we are naturally led to the History of the first propagation of the Gospel.

Here we learn, that, after our Saviour had directed that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His Name among all nations beginning at Jerusalem, He said to His diciples, Behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you; but tarry ye in Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high. Faithful to the command of their Lord, they continued with one accord in prayer and supplication. While thus assembled on the Day of Pentecost, they were all filled with the Holy Ghost. The Apostle Peter then lift up his voice, and preached to the multitude. Such was the Divine power that accompanied the Word, that three thousand persons were on that day baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus. In the very city, where, a few weeks before, Jesus had been condemned to death, there, through the power of the Holy Ghost, He was acknowledged by His Crucifiers as Lord and Christ! This happy commencement continued. The chief priests, indeed, forbad the Apostles to preach in the Name of Jesus; but, filled with the Holy Ghost, they spake the Word of God with boldness. The number of the disciples multiplied greatly, and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

Nor was the success of the first Teachers confined to Jerusalem. Persecuted by their enemies, they were scattered abroad. Some came as far as Antioch, preaching the Lord Jesus, not only to the Jews but to the Grecians. And the hand of the Lord was with them; and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord. To this Church of Antioch came Barnabas and Paul from Jerusalem; and, here, the Disciples were first called Christians.

It was from this Church, consisting of converted Jews and Gentiles, an emblem of that union which shall yet subsist between the Children of Israel and the nations converted to the faith, that the First Mission to the Heathen went forth. As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. Thus sent forth by the Holy Ghost, they went preaching the Word; and with such success, that, in a few months, Churches were established in Pisidia, at Lystra, at Derbe, and at Iconium. With joy the Apostles returned to Antioch, and rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

A Second Mission, undertaken by Paul and Silas, was still more abundantly blessed. Recommended again by the brethren at Antioch to the grace of God, they left this Church, and arrived at Troas. Here, a vision appeared to Paul: There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over, and help us. Setting forth from Troas, they preached the Gospel in various quarters. Upon their return, a few years afterward, they could enumerate Churches established at Philippi, at Thessalonica, at Berea, at Corinth, at Ephesus, and in other places. Assisted by the gracious influences of the Holy Spirit, the prison of Philippi was changed into an assembly of Christians—in three sabbaths, the Thessalonian Church, consisting of disciples remarkable for their faith and zeal, was established—and, at Ephesus, those, who used curious arts, publicly forsook their idols, and burned their heathen books. So mightily grew the Word of God and prevailed!

Such is the History of the first planting of the Gospel among the Heathen. The Apostles were sent forth by the Holy Ghost: they themselves were filled with the Holy Spirit; and the Word came, not in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance.

In giving to you, then, My Beloved Brethren in the Lord, a word of counsel before you depart upon your Mission, I know not, bearing these past events in remembrance, that I can offer any thing so important to you, as earnestly to impress on your minds, as your one object — TO BE MEN FULL OF THE HOLY GHOST YOURSELVES, AND THAT ALL YOUR MINISTRATIONS MAY BE ACCOMPANIED BY HIS DIVINE POWER.

I do this the rather, as the Station to which nearly all of you are going, is one where the union of Divine Providence and Grace has been eminently visible. The finger of God has been so strikingly displayed at Sierra Leone, that it may well be doubted, whether the events on that shore do not exceed even the mercies of the Apostolic Age.

For, while our first Missionaries could not, for some years, collect a hundred, or even fifty persons, willing to hear the Gospel, the Providence of God, overruling, in a marvellous manner, the wickedness of man—making even his wrath to praise Him—has assembled thousands of Liberated Slaves; and these, men of different tribes and different nations, who gladly hear the Word of Life. There, also, the Word preached has been accompanied with such Divine power, that some of the most savage of the African Tribes have been brought to forsake their wickedness, to trust simply in the merits of our Saviour, and to adorn His doctrine by the daily practice of the various duties of a Christian Life.

Yes, my Friends, in the very places where, eight years since, there was not even a house, much less a Christian Church, now, glory be to God, there are large villages of civilized Africans, numbers of whom worship God in the Spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus; and afford constant proofs that Divine Grace has taught them to live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world.

On that shore, therefore, as with a sun-beam, it is written—Not by might, nor by power; but by my Spirit—I will work, and who shall let it? His hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

I know not, then, as I have already stated, any thing which I can offer so likely to be useful, as to lead you to this one object—To aim at being men full of the Holy Ghost yourselves, and that your ministrations may be accompanied by His gracious power.

Oh that God, our Heavenly Father, for His Dear Son's sake, may this day give unto you the Spirit of wisdom and revelation! May you be strengthened with might by His Spirit in the inner man! May all His needful gifts be imparted unto you; and all His blessed fruits live, and grow, and flourish, and abound in you! And though, my Beloved Brethren, we do not expect the same audible command as was delivered to the Church at Antioch, it is my earnest prayer that the Holy Ghost may, in effect, say of you, "Separate me these my Servants, for the work whereunto I have called them." May HE send you forth upon your Mission, and grant you a much more abundant blessing than even St. Paul and his companions enjoyed!

In assisting you in this desirable object, allow me to recommend to you that course which is most suited to obtain this blessing—ever remembering, that we can merit nothing at the hand of the Lord; that all which He bestows is of His own free grace, conferred upon us for the sole merit of His Son, our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Allow me to address a few words to you, who are Ministers of the Gospel, on your Preaching; and, to all of you on your Temper and Conduct. These should be such, as to evince, that you are under the constant guidance and influence of the Holy Spirit.

1. Let your PREACHING be such, therefore, as the Holy Spirit approves and blesses.

When our Blessed Saviour spoke of the promised Comforter, it was in these words—When the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of Truth, which proceedeth from the Father, HE SHALL TESTIFY OF ME; and, again, Howbeit, when He, the Spirit of Truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth— HE SHALL GLORIFY ME, for He shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

This is one of the peculiar offices of the Holy Spirit—the great object for which He is given—to honour the Lord Jesus. As when a voice came from heaven, saying, This is my Be- loved Son, in whom I am well pleased, then it was that the Holy Ghost rested upon Jesus of Nazareth; so it is to the voice, which honours and exalts Him, that the Comforter still bears witness.

It was when the Apostles were preaching Jesus, that the Holy Ghost accompanied their word. When Peter spoke of His death, and resurrection, and exaltation, then His crucifiers were pricked to the heart. When he declared, at the house of Cornelius, that to Him give all the prophets witness, that, through His name, whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sins, then the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

In like manner, when St. Paul affirmed, at Antioch, that by Him, all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the Law of Moses, then the Holy Spirit so acted, that the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them the next Sabbath, and that almost the whole city came together to hear the Word of God.

It was when this same Apostle was opening and alleging, at Thessalonica, that this Jesus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ, that then such a Divine power accompanied the Word, that they received it, not as the word of man, but, as it is in truth, the Word of God.

Yes, my Beloved Brethren, if you would ensure the presence and blessing of the Holy Spirit on your preaching, JESUS must be your theme. Jesus Christ, and Him crucified, in all His fulness, and in all the bearings of this grand doctrine—the dignity of His person—the all-sufficiency of His sacrifice—the merits of His death—the power of His resurrection—His ascending glory, and continued exaltation—the punishment which He can inflict—the blessings which He can bestow—the covenant which He has ratified—the commands which He has enjoined—the ordinances which He has instituted—Jesus, our Judge, our Lawgiver, our King, our Saviour! these, and all other the unsearchable riches of Christ, in their due season, their just order, and their right proportion, must be brought forth—nothing held back; but the truth as it is in Jesus plainly, and fully, and unequivocally declared.

It is this Doctrine of the Cross, which has been, and ever will be, till the Church Militant becomes the Church Triumphant, the doctrine which the Holy Spirit honours. May it be, my Brethren, as I am fully assured that it will be, your doctrine! May you go forth determining to know nothing among the Gentiles, but Jesus and Him crucified!

2. Let your SPIRIT be that of men in whom the Holy Ghost dwells.

For, Know ye not, asks the Apostle, that ye are the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you! He dwells and walks in His people; and He manifests His presence with them, as in temper and spirit they approve themselves to Him. How important, then, that you should ever seek to please Him! For though He may, at times, bless his own Word, even when spoken by a false professor, still we cannot expect His aid, unless our aim is to be approved of God.

The spirit and temper which will please Him, may be well understood from the emblem under which the Holy Ghost appeared upon our Saviour. He descended upon him, in a bodily shape like a Dove—the emblem of purity, and peace, and of love. This is His own nature. This is the spirit which He approves. He is emphatically the HOLY GHOST. Sin is His abhorrence. He departs from whatever is impure. Peace is His delight. Blessed are the peace-makers; for they shall be called the children of God. Yea, His nature is love—GOD IS LOVE!

If, then, you would have the Holy Ghost with you, seek this triple union in your own spirit—purity, peace, and love.

Purity, in its largest meaning, you must ever cherish and pray for—purity of mind and heart—a spirit without guile—clear as the crystal fountain—cleansed from all filthiness of the flesh and of the spirit—hating even the garment spotted by the flesh. Oh, my Beloved Brethren, keep yourselves pure.

Be men of Peace. The servant of God must not strive, but be gentle unto all men. What a peaceable spirit is visible in our Saviour! The only occasion on which He wrought a miracle for Himself, was to preserve peace: Notwithstanding, lest we should offend them, go thou to the sea, and cast in a hook, and take up the fish that first cometh up; and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee. A similar spirit is observable in His Apostles: St. Paul's injunction is—If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.

Let Love, also, be your constant guest. You need this grace as your inner armour. A soul filled with love, is not so accessible to Satan: his poisonous darts will not mix with this sacred element. Neither will temptations to sin have the same force: the man, in whose heart love dwells, will say with Polycarp, "Eighty and six years have I now served Christ; and He has never done me the least wrong: how can I blaspheme my God and Saviour!" You need the grace of love to keep you zealous in your work. This is the flame which burns the brightest: it was a coal taken from the altar of redeeming Love, which made the Prophet exclaim, Here am I, send me! Love also led the Apostle to say, None of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the Grace of God. The love of Christ constrained him. This grace, therefore, is needful to preserve you from temptation, and to inflame your zeal; and it will especially insure the presence and approval of the Holy Spirit; He that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God, and God in him—If a man love me, he will keep my words; and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him: not pay him a transient visit, like a traveller who tarrieth only for a night; but be a constant resident—abide with him, by the continued influences of the Spirit of Truth.

Let me, then, that your spirit may be that of men in whom the Holy Ghost dwells, repeat my exhortation—Seek this triple union of Purity, Peace, and Love. Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another; tender-hearted; forgiving one another, even as God, for Christ's sake, hath forgiven you. Then, indeed, Brethren, will you be those in whom the Holy Spirit abides—Men of Purity—Ministers of Peace—Disciples of Love! May the Lord bestow upon you of this spirit for His Name's sake!

3. Let your CONDUCT be such, as the Holy Spirit enjoins.

Time would fail me to enter, with minuteness, on this topic; though its importance might excuse detail: for it is the Conduct of the Missionary, which both God and man regard. The soundest doctrine, without a corresponding practice, will avail nothing. What force did it give to the exhortations of St. Paul, when he could thus address the Churches!—Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily, and justly, and unblameably, we behaved ourselves among you that believe—Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you, at all seasons, serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears and temptations—I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel: yea, you yourselves know, that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them which were with me.

This it is, which wins the hearts of the Heathen—when the life of the Missionary displays the power of his doctrine—when love to God and man is so visible in his daily conduct, that, if his language should be misunderstood, yet, his course is perfectly clear. "He points to heaven, and shews the way."

It is this, which the Holy Spirit, throughout the Scripture, enjoins. What stress has He laid upon the conduct of His servants! Under the Law, the same atonement was required for the sin of the priest, as for the sin of the whole congregation—as if the Lord would shew, that the failings of the priest were peculiarly noticed. Under the Gospel, while St. Paul prays for grace and peace upon the Churches, he supplicates for grace, mercy, and peace, for Timothy and Titus—as if their offices required a peculiar union of grace and mercy, to procure the remission of their sins. You will observe, also, that while private Christians are exhorted to shine as lights in the world, His ministering servants are directed to be examples of the believers—that they are to follow so closely after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness, to be such eminent patterns in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity, that they may say to the Churches, with the Apostle, Be ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.

Yes, my Brethren, the very names given to you denote a peculiar beauty and loveliness of conduct. Ye are ambassadors for Christ. Ye are in Christ's stead—the messengers, or the angels, of the Churches, and the glory of Christ. The glory of Christ!—or the shining out of the beauty and excellence of the ever adorable and blessed Jesus!

My Brethren, we are aware that ye know these things—that you have frequently considered what ought to be your doctrine, your spirit, your conduct; but such is our love for you, such our desire that the Holy Spirit may be with you, that we cannot but endeavour to stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance. Oh that God may bless these hints to you—that your preaching may be honoured, your spirit approved, and your conduct in all things as directed by the Spirit of Truth!

In stating to you, however, the course which will ensure to you the presence and aid of the Holy Spirit, let me remind you that it is not by your own power that you can proceed in this course. The will and the power must be given you from on high.

Let me then urge it upon you, daily and continually to be coming to our blessed Saviour, in FRESH ACTS OF FAITH, to receive these gracious influences of the Comforter. We receive the promise of the Spirit through faith. The Spirit is given to Him, without measure; and, of His fulness, we all receive, grace for grace. It pleased the Father, that in Him should all fulness dwell—even all the hidden treasures of wisdom and knowledge. Come, then, continually unto Jesus. Receiving pardon through the merits of His obedience unto death, receive from Him the Holy Spirit.

With these actings of faith, seek also FOR LIVELY DESIRES after larger and still larger measures of the divine blessing. Never be satisfied with any degree, either of personal or ministerial progress. Still press toward the mark. Still say—As the hart panteth after the water-brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God.

And, to raise and quicken these desires, FREQUENTLY MEDITATE ON THE LOVE OF CHRIST. Think of His leaving the bosom of His Father, to die the accursed death of the Cross. Frequently go with Him, in spirit, to Bethlehem—to Gethsemane—to Calvary. Behold His agony. Hear His dying cry. Ascend with Him to glory; and there behold Him sitting at the right-hand of God, ever living to make intercession for us. Meditate, also, on His peculiar love to you: as our departed Brother, Henry Martyn, when he saw a Brahmin of his own age worshipping an idol, immediately reflected on that grace which had made him to differ; so do you, when you see poor Africans trusting in their greegrees and in evil spirits, contemplate the love, the grace, the mercy which has been shown to you. He loved me, and gave Himself for me—will be like a burning coal to kindle your desires.

Then think of the horrible MISERY AND WICKEDNESS OF SIN—of its degrading and debasing nature—how it blots, and defiles, and poisons every thing that it touches. Then turn your thoughts to the BEAUTIES OF HOLINESS—to the ineffable excellencies, visible in our Blessed Lord—to His meekness, compassion, gentleness, devotion, and love.

Consider, also, what this earth would be, if all loved Christ: and then reflect upon your own privileges as a Missionary—that to YOU is this grace given, to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ. My Beloved Brethren, it should make your hearts burn within you, to think of saving one immortal soul! But you have prospects far, far more delightful. You may be the honoured occasion of raising many a joyful note in the highest choir of Heaven. The angels, and archangels, and all the company of Heaven, may laud and magnify His glorious Name through your labours! You, by divine grace, may place many a gem in the crown of your Saviour. You may do more—you may cause, by the conversion of these simple Africans, your Blessed Lord Himself to rejoice—to see of the travail of his soul, and be satisfied!

It is my earnest prayer, that God may give you a large heart—that you may never rest satisfied, while one Station remains unblessed, or even one soul unconverted.

Let me recommend it to you, to embody these desires, by FERVENT AND EARNEST PRAYER FOR THE GENERAL OUT-POURING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

It was when Jesus, our great High Priest, was praying, that the Holy Ghost descended upon Him. The Apostles were waiting in prayer, when the Spirit was granted on the Day of Pentecost. And it was when the Christians at Antioch were ministering to the Lord with fasting, that the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them.

It will be thus still. Prayer for the Holy Spirit must precede the gift—not for any merit in our petitions, but that we may feel and acknowledge our entire dependence upon the Lord. Oh, my Brethren, be men of prayer—watch unto prayer. Be not satisfied with your morning and evening devotions—live in the spirit of prayer. Often be darting your soul heavenwards, in ejaculatory petitions. Let your private studies, your ministerial duties, be preceded and followed by prayer. Set apart seasons of extraordinary prayer. Stimulate your Brethren to prayer. Praying always, with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto, with all perseverance and supplication for all saints; and especially for all the servants of the Lord, that they may open their mouths boldly, to make known the mystery of the Gospel.

I cannot say how much I was impressed by the declaration of our Brother Düring, when he first appeared in this room, on his return from Africa—"It is not your money that we so much want: it is your prayers."

I need not remind you, with this watchfulness unto prayer, to be DILIGENT STUDENTS OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES. The Word of God is the sword of the Spirit. It is in the use of weapons drawn from this armory, that you may expect the exertion of His divine power. It is one of the promises, that, in the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom, the Spirit and the Word shall be united.

Among the first Christians, we are told but of one Minister remarkable for his eloquence; and, of him, it is recorded, that he was mighty in the Scriptures: and, of the discourses of the Apostles, those are found to have been most successful, which have the most frequent reference to the Word of God. Let, then, this Word dwell in you richly in all wisdom; that, as men of God, you may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

Was our exhortation to be measured by our desires for your welfare and success who are Ministers of Christ, we should still continue our Address; but as there are some Companions in your labours, who are dear to us all, permit me now more particularly to speak to them.

To you, my Dear Friends, who are going forth as SCHOOLMASTERS, I would say, that I trust what has been spoken more particularly to our Missionary Brethren, may be useful to you: for, whatever Christian Office is assigned to any, the gracious influences of the Holy Spirit can alone make that office effectual. Let it, then, be your aim, like theirs, to be filled with the Spirit, and to have His blessing constantly on your work.

You are entering on an employment, which it has pleased God to commit, in different ages, to His most honoured servants. David, the sweet Psalmist of Israel, invited the Youth of Judah, Come, ye children, and I will teach you the fear of the Lord. Solomon, the wisest of men, was inspired by the Holy Spirit to instruct the young; and one greater than Solomon took the little ones up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them.

Consider, therefore, what a high privilege it has pleased the Lord to confer upon you; and at the same time remember, that He has said, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. To you, who will be chiefly engaged with children, a child-like spirit is peculiarly necessary. Be, yourselves, children—children, in meekness and docility; while, in wisdom, you are men. Be, yourselves, examples of ready obedience to those who are placed over you. Be as ready to receive, as you are to give instruction.

In entering on your office, consider its proper nature—the training up of children for God. You will have to instruct them in reading, writing, and in many useful arts; but remember that your grand instruction is, to teach them that they have a God to serve, and a soul to be saved.

In your daily duties, unite, as much as possible, kindness, with firmness—patience, with activity—forbearance, with diligence—zeal for advancement, with allowance for incapacity. Be the friend, rather than the master, of your scholars. Engage the affections of your children. Imitate our Blessed Saviour in His instruction to His disciples—pity their weakness, pardon their errors, bear with their infirmities: strive, by easy similes, to remove their ignorance: still repeat, and again repeat, your lessons: let every surrounding object aid your instructions. Above all, like Him, let your lessons be accompanied with prayer: pray for your children: plead their cause, in your Saviour's Name, before our Heavenly Father: ask, for yourselves, that wisdom which may enable you to teach; and, for them, that divine influence which may open their hearts to receive your instructions.

Should you, at any time, be faint or weary in your office; should the recurrence of the same tasks, day after day, prove irksome; let this thought cheer your spirit—NOTHING IS LITTLE IN CHRIST'S SERVICE! The teaching of a child to read, the conveying to its mind of the most simple instruction, is connected with the glory of the Saviour. Your lessons are like the first step in Jacob's ladder: its base was upon earth—its top reached to heaven. Your little tasks, and questions, and stories, and engaging anecdotes, are as much parts in conducting to the heights of glory, as the later and more difficult instruction of after-life. Always, therefore, remember the END of your labours — that the children under your care may hereafter, with ascending angels, see the face of God!

Be encouraged, also, from this consideration — that these children may not only themselves enter into heaven, but that some of them, at least, may be the happy instruments of leading their countrymen thither. It may please God, from the Schools under your charge, to select those Missionaries, who shall preach the Gospel to the remoter nations. The seed, which you sow in their tender minds, may spring up with such a blessing, as hereafter to fertilize the now-barren plains of Africa. Oh that it may be thus!—that it may please God to confer upon you the delightful office, of raising up many, many African Missionaries!

I would now turn to you, my SISTERS IN CHRIST—to you, who accompany your Husbands in their arduous work. Do you, my Sisters, raise your hearts in praise to Him, who has given to you such a privilege. You are going forth in His service, who is Himself your Husband, your Redeemer—who has said, a woman may forget her sucking-child, but I will not forget thee! He unites all the love of a Husband, and all the compassion of a Mother, to all the power and wisdom and faithfulness of God! He says, Fear not! I have redeemed thee: thou art mine. When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. Under His care, you are as safe, on the stormy sea, or under the rays of a burning sun, as you are in this room. He can still the tempest. He is as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. He has declared that the very hairs of your head are all numbered — that He will never leave you nor forsake you—that He will guide you by his counsel, and afterwards receive you unto glory.

Your office is, to help your Husbands in the work of the Lord. Let no one deem your aid unimportant. It was the Wife of Manoah, who stilled her Husband's fears. It was Abigail, who checked David's anger. The Widow of Sarepta fed Elijah. Esther delivered the Jews. Priscilla, as well as her Husband, laid down her neck for St. Paul. Indeed, in every remarkable era, it has pleased God to make use of your sex for advancing His gracious designs. All that regards you is peculiarly interesting to Him. Fifteen hundred years after the death of Sarah, St. Peter shews that even her dress was remembered with approbation.

It will be your privilege, to teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, obedient to their own husbands— to lead them to imitate the example of the early Christians. Their widows, indeed, were to have this character— Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children; if she have lodged strangers; if she have washed the saints' feet; if she have relieved the afflicted; if she have diligently followed every good work.

What an honourable office, then, is intrusted to you, my Dear Sisters— to elevate the Female Character in Africa!—to assist in raising them from the degraded state in which idolatry and oppression have placed them, to become the companions of their Husbands, the teachers of their Children, the helpers of the Church, and the ornaments of Christian Society! Ah, when I think of the obligations under which some of us lie to our dear Mothers; that, to them, under God, we owe our first serious thoughts; that they convinced our judgments by their mild reasonings, and commanded our hearts by their love, even when our wills were prone to run another course: when I think, that it has been kind female friends, who have often revived these early impressions, when, like faint embers, they had almost died away: when I think, what great things are now doing throughout our land, by the softened zeal and generous ardour of Christian Females—it is my earnest desire, that Africa, poor and injured Africa, may have all the benefits which will arise from devoted Female Labourers—that you may go forth, to win them to the Saviour—and that, enforcing by your private counsels and daily example the more public instructions of your Husbands, many of them may be led to choose that good part which shall never be taken from them.

And now, Beloved Brethren and Sisters, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace. You go forth, accompanied by the earnest prayers of many. Seas may separate our bodies—nothing can divide our souls.

Join'd in one Spirit to our Head,
Where He appoints we go:
And still in Jesu's footsteps tread,
And do His work below.
Oh let us ever walk in Him,
And nothing know beside;
Nothing desire, nothing esteem,
But Jesus crucified.

To this Blessed Lord, even to Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory, with exceeding joy; to the only wise God, our Saviour, be glory, and majesty, dominion, and power, both now and ever! Amen.

APPENDIX III.

EXTRACTS FROM THE JOURNAL OF THE LATE REV. W. JOHNSON, AT REGENT'S TOWN, SIERRA LEONE; FROM FEBRUARY 1822, TO FEBRUARY 1823.

Feb. 23, 1822—Last night, I distributed some Tracts in the Evening Schools: they were received with thankfulness. The Teachers had some difficulty in keeping their Scholars to their lessons; as they were so eager to read the Tracts, that they could not wait till they got home.

Tracts in the form of Dialogues are of great use.

One man visiting another found a Tract, "The Swearer's Prayer," and read it; after which he begged the loan of it for only one night, in order that he might go to another place to read it to one who was a swearer. I heard of it, and furnished him with the same Tract and several others, which he received with gratitude.

March 1—I have had a long conversation with Dr. Nicoll, who is a very judicious physician. He said that Mr. Düring should have visited England last year; as the strong medicines, which he had been obliged to take, had injured his constitution; and, unless he got a change of air, he could not continue in much service. If a person wishes to be useful in Africa, Dr. Nicoll said that he should return, at times, to Europe; for both body and spirit suffer so much from the various diseases, that, otherwise, he would become comparatively useless, although he might live for many years.

I must confess, that, had I not visited Europe, I should not be able to do the duty which I now perform. The fact is, that I feel less fatigued now, after having kept Divine Service four times on Sunday, than I used to do before I went to England; notwithstanding the exertions are more, as both the Congregation and the Church are larger. Although I hope

I may never be obliged to return to Europe, as it would be almost impossible for me to leave my people, yet I fully acquiesce in the opinion of Dr. Nicoll.

March 8, 1822—Went this morning, with Dr. Sibbald, to Leicester Hospital to visit the sick. Those of Regent appeared to be happy to see me.

One of our Communicants is dangerously ill. Her husband waits upon her. The Doctor thought, that, by a strict course of medicine, she might recover; for which purpose she was conveyed to the hospital. All hopes of recovery appear, however, to be at an end. I went to her bed, and communicated to her the likely event. She received the information with great composure of mind. She complained of darkness and coldness, and expressed some fear of the safety of her state: yet she spoke of her Saviour with delight. Under her pillow was the Bible, to which she pointed: both the woman and her husband can read, which they said was a great blessing to them. Her husband is likewise a Communicant.

April 8—In the evening I had my visitors, as usual. One Woman, who had been very ill, wept much. She was taken ill about the same time as Mary Düring, a Communicant who lately died. She now was dead, but herself had recovered. She said, "God done punish me for my unbelief; but God has punished me in mercy—He has spared me. When I heard that Mary Düring was dead, I thought I must die too. I wanted very much to see you, Massa: my husband want to call you; but I did not like, for you have so much business—you have no time. I thank the Lord Jesus Christ, He has spared me. I was glad too much when I very sick."

April 27—This has been a week of much hurry. Many have been my troubles; but mercies have been innumerable.

A Woman came this morning (while I was sitting in my chair, and thinking on what I should preach to-morrow, it being Sacrament Sunday, with my mind much distressed at being unable to think of a text) and sat down at my feet on the floor, almost unperceived by me, and began thus to speak—"The Lord Jesus Christ is my father, my mother, my brother, my friend, my sister, my husband. I have a husband, but he is not my true husband." I looked at the woman, and felt ashamed to think that I did not know what to preach about. I could now have spoken immediately, seeing that this poor woman had plenty to say of her Saviour.

April 29—I am disappointed with respect to John Sandy's going to York. I cannot get him away from this place: he says, if I go, he will go too; but if I come back, he will do the same. He has officiated for Mr. Davey at Leopold, who is ill, for two Sundays; but always contrives to be here once on a Sunday to Divine Service.

Yesterday, we had the Lord's Supper; and it was very gratifying to me to see my children come home from every quarter, to partake of that Holy Sacrament.

One Woman, who is married in Freetown, and comes almost every Saturday and returns to her husband on Monday, came on Saturday Evening. One Man, who lives at Leicester Mountain in the Hospital, came also. Tamba from Gloucester, Davis with his wife from Bathurst, Sandy from Leopold, and James Thompson from Wilberforce, all having kept Divine Service early at their respective places, then came to join us at the Lord's Table.

I have undertaken to superintend Gloucester during the absence of Brother Düring.

Having learned a profitable lesson when I left my flock, I should be grieved to see the people of Gloucester in the same predicament. I will do, by the help of God, what lies in my power to keep things in order; I shall visit the place as frequently as practicable.

I intend to administer the Lord's Supper, by the help of God, the last Sunday in the month at Regent's Town, the first Sunday at Gloucester, and the second Sunday at Leopold or Charlotte; and, when practicable, to go to Kent and administer the same there.

Pray for me, that the Lord may give me health to accomplish His work, and to finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the Grace of God.

My Sister remains well, and is useful. Afflictions have humbled her much. She is perfectly satisfied with her situation; and lives, I may say, a life of faith. She has about 100 Girls under her care, whom she manages with great propriety.

May 1, 1822—My poor Wife is suddenly so much affected with the disease in her head, under which she has so long laboured, that the Medical Men recommend her immediate return to Europe.

Under these circumstances, you will conceive what my feelings must be. The trial is indeed severe, but I thank my God who supports me wonderfully. I firmly believe that I shall not see her again in the flesh; but what shall I say, or what can I do? The will of the Lord be done! May He give me strength according to my days!

May 11—This has been to me a busy day. I rode to Gloucester, and settled my business; and then returned to Regent's Town. I have to preach three times to-morrow, and have no text: oh, my God, help me! I have no time to study, being continually engaged. May Thy Grace be sufficient for me, and Thy strength made perfect in my weakness!

June 7—A Naval Officer came to see us; chiefly, I believe, with the view of ascertaining whether the state of things at this place is such as has been represented. He went to Evening Service and Evening School, and expressed his suprise how it was possible to manage a number of people without corporal punishment. I found that he was much inclined to speak to the people and ask them questions, when I was absent; for which I gave him opportunities.

While standing by one class, a Lad made a mistake, through inattention, for which he was taken down. The Officer asked him, "When you mistake thus, do you not get flogged?" The Lad replied, "They do not flog here, Sir!" He could not conceive how a School of grown persons could be conducted in this manner: he said, "I never beheld a scene like this—all is pleasure and animation." I took the opportunity of telling him that it was the influence of the Word of God, which had reached their ears and their hearts. It appeared, however, still a riddle to him: he frequently said, "Never could I have believed this! I am glad I have come to see."

One of my servants was stung by a scorpion, which put her in violent pain. I find that the remedy which I have frequently administered, is the most effectual that can be used. She was stung in the arm. I held the part with my hand till some spirit of nitre was brought; and then rubbing the part infected with it for ten minutes, it became quite benumbed: the pain abated, and did not return; the arm being as well as before.

June 8—I went to Leicester Mountain, to visit the sick in the Hospital. A number of Boys and Girls have been sent to that place, affected with ophthalmia, which has unhappily broken out in our School, having been introduced here by the vessels which lately arrived. The children ran round about me, being anxious to shew me that their eyes were getting better. I fear this disease will spread over the Colony.

June 10—When I arose yesterday morning, I found that one of my eyes was rather sore. I preached in the morning, with comfort, from John vi. 37. Went, in the afternoon, to Charlotte: upon my return, my eye got worse: I attempted to preach, but was obliged to dismiss the people. When I arose this morning, I could scarcely see any thing: one of my eyes is shut, and the other very weak. I was not aware of the disease being so contagious. Ten more children have been afflicted since yesterday. May the Lord in mercy deliver us! The Doctor has been here, and thinks of making the Hospital at Leicester Mountain an Ophthalmia Hospital. The disease has shewn itself at other places.

June 12, 1822—My eyes were much inflamed last night; but they are much better this morning. The disease continues to spread: more children have become afflicted since yesterday.

Admitted, last night, four more adults as Candidates for Baptism; and thirteen others, who had been, for a short time, excluded from the Communion: these shewed deep contrition. Several others were told to come to-night. I hope that the rest, —about eleven more—who were, some time ago, separated from the Church, will be re-united. There appears to be a general stir, both among those who are baptized and those that are not. A few appear to continue hardened; but there is hope concerning them, as they attend the means of grace. There seems to be some inquiry among the new comers —those who came hither May 17th of last year.

June 18—Our Girls' School, which now consists of about 130, is above half afflicted with ophthalmia. Most of my servants are also labouring under it. I am much better to-day, but could scarcely see any thing yesterday. The Doctor lanced one of my eyes yesterday, and put a blister on one of my temples, which has eased me much, and restored my right eye entirely. I can see a little with the left, but dare not expose it. Through the mercy of God, I hope to be able to resume my labours in a day or two.

June 19—I am happy to say that I can see again with both eyes—the Lord be praised! The Doctor came here yesterday afternoon, and recommended that all who were afflicted with ophthalmia should be separated, which was effected; and I hope we soon shall be able, through the blessing of God, to put a stop to this painful malady.

Mr. and Mrs. Davey have been very ill. The Doctor went there one day, and came to Regent, quite alarmed, saying, that Mr. and Mrs. Davey were both very ill, and that there was nobody to attend to them: the children had left them. I mounted my horse, and took two of our eldest girls, and went and found Mrs. Davey almost exhausted: had not a change for the better taken place soon, she must have died. Mr. Davey was not so ill: I left the two girls with them, who stayed there till they were recovered. Mrs. Taylor is still very ill: I don't know that I ever saw her so reduced. Thus the "vale of tears" is not in favourable circumstances: if any one wishes to experience trials, let him come to Africa. Bad as the climate certainly is, yet there is not a spot in the world which I like better—I could not live elsewhere.

One of our School Girls came lately from the Hospital, having been sick. When she went into the School House, she met at the staircase one of the new girls: both stopped, and looked at each other, and then wept aloud—they were Sisters! who had been borne away, at different times, from their parents, by cruel men who deal in human blood, but God meant it unto good: He caused them to meet together again at the Girls' School House at Regent's Town!

July 8—Thanks be to that Gracious God, who has, in mercy, restored my sight so far that I can resume my labours.

At the Quarterly Meeting, held at Kissey, on the 25th ult. I caught cold, which brought on a relapse, and almost deprived me of my left eye. I fear it will not be perfectly restored: I feel thankful that I can see a little with it. The Lord be praised for His mercy!

The Rains are very severe. It rains almost continually. I never enjoyed better health, and am the only one who has hitherto escaped fever.

July 15, 1822—The weather continues to be very severe: the water comes down in torrents. Most of the new children are sick, in consequence; and several have died. Their constitutions suffered so much in the holds of the Slave Vessels, that their strength is insufficient to endure the Rains, which prove, this season, so very severe. None suffer more than the females, especially girls from 10 to 12 years of age, who die very fast: having arrived at that age when African Females come to a state of maturity, that change, with the hardships which they have undergone, proves too much for them, and they sink under the affliction. Oh, horrid Slave Trade! Lord, how long shall the wicked triumph? They slay the widow, and the strunger, and murder the fatherless! I could wish myself away from these scenes of horror: they are too deplorable to be witnessed! Were it not Christian principle which keeps me on the spot, I think I would rather be shut up in a dungeon than hear the sighs and dying groans of these unhappy victims! All effort to save their lives seems to be in vain; and to prepare their minds for eternity seems also in vain. When some of those, who have been here longer, and have been awakened by grace, address them in their own language, it appears to make no impression on them: they are so benumbed, through so many and such continual afflictions, that they have lost even rational feeling!

July 18—We have hitherto all escaped the grave; and, though the Rains set in most violently, we have had now nearly fourteen days of fine weather.

Aug. 23.—I went, on Tuesday, to Freetown on business; and had pleasing conversation with some of my people in the evening; which refreshed my spirits again: a busy day at Freetown deprives me of that comfort, which I enjoy otherwise among my simple people. Some seemed much distressed in mind, but still, reliance on Christ only was their entire hope, having no confidence in the flesh.

In the Hospital, poor "John Calvin" has lost the use of his limbs: he had, first, ophthalmia very severely: of this he got better, when the other disease attacked him. "Flora Windham" has lost, by the ophthalmia, both her eyes: poor girl! she is about fourteen years old, and is thus early deprived of the greatest temporal blessing: the people in the Hospital spoke with wonder of her extraordinary patience and resignation: the Doctor said that he should endeavour his utmost to recover one eye; but he feared it would be impracticable. May the Lord her Saviour support her! Her benefactor will be grieved to hear of this sad affliction.

Sept. 3—Many have been my engagements; and doubts and fears, in them, have also been many: but thanks be unto God for His goodness toward me! It is an unspeakable mercy, that He has been pleased to give me something to do; and, above all, that He blesses my feeble endeavours with abundant success. Oh, why me! what am I, that the Lord should be mindful of me! All is grace, yea sovereign grace, which continues to be poured upon me. Language cannot express what I feel—when, on the one hand, I behold my EXCEEDING SINFULNESS; and, on the other, the BOUNDLESS MERCIES which I enjoy! Another rainy season is nearly passed without any fever, yea without a head-ach: I have been able to go through my various engagements without the least inconvenience; while others no sooner recovered from illness, but they were attacked again. Besides this, success in the great work in which I am engaged attends me on every side! O Lord, what shall I render unto Thee for all Thy benefits toward me! Give me a heart filled with gratitude, and keep me humble; for Thou, who searchest the heart, knowest that I am very proud and ungrateful!

Last Sunday it rained very much, so that all the people got wet: notwithstanding, the Churchwardens came before the bell rang the second time, and told me that the Church was "full too much." The new addition and galleries were all filled. Mr. Norman read the prayers, and I preached on Isaiah i. 18. After the Sermon, I baptized 29 Adults and 8 Infants; and administered the Lord's Supper to 365 Communicants, myself included. What I felt is only known to God: may He receive all the glory!

Prayer Meeting was held in the afternoon, under the direction of Mr. Norman. As it rained very much in the evening, and the people had got wet twice, we had not so many at Divine Service. I confined myself chiefly to addressing the children, from 1 John ii. 18. The Boys concluded the Sabbath with their usual Prayer Meeting.

Among the Adults, were four Young People, who bear the names of Benefactors; and, so far as I can judge, are partakers of divine grace.

Sept. 13, 1822—The Evening Schools were so full last night, that we did not know where to find room. The lower rooms of both Schools were crowded: each room is 73 feet by 24. I consulted with David Noah, and we put the female Scholars who are but few, into the upper Girls' School-room, and thus got the above-mentioned two rooms for the men, who filled them completely.

Sept. 16—Yesterday we had another wet Sunday. Such of the people as had umbrellas were well off: but such as are poor, and cannot afford to buy that article, came dripping into the Church; and I was really surprised to see it so full. I could not help feeling for such as had infants in their arms, cold and wet. A few umbrellas for those who cannot afford to buy them, would be very acceptable, as sitting two hours in wet clothing generally gives them bad colds.

Oct. 18—My grateful acknowledgments are due to the Committee for the excellent and more powerful Organ, which they have been pleased to send.

Since our Quarterly Meeting, I have received 180 men from a Slave Vessel, who have increased our population to about 1900.

Our Church proves again too small. It would hold our own people; but, as strangers join us on the Lord's Day, a great many are obliged to remain out of doors.

The number of Candidates for Baptism has increased, since our last Quarterly Meeting to 36. The Lord is still doing wonders among us. May His name be praised! I have scarcely any time to study; yet I never enjoyed greater freedom in the pulpit than I do at present. My engagements are so numerous, that I scarcely know, from morning to night, what I have been about: but my God sustains me through His mercy.

Nov. 14—Death has visited us, and carried alarm among the Communicants; five of whom were buried in one week, but all, blessed be God, departed in peace. One poor man was last year a Candidate for Baptism, but quarrelled with his wife, for which he was excluded, and consequently not baptized: when he was taken ill, I was absent at York, and his only prayer was, that God might spare him until my return: when I arrived, he sent for me and told me his grief and sorrow for sin, and expressed a strong desire to be baptized: I asked him several questions, which he answered to my satisfaction; and

I hesitated not to baptize him in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: on my praying with him, he repeated distinctly, The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c. and instantly expired without a struggle. I improved the deaths of our brethren the Sunday following; when the Church was crowded.

Nov. 22, 1822—We are still busy in making a road toward York. I have about 300 men at work, who have done a great part toward the False Cape. We have the most difficult task remaining, but have no doubt of success. The people have worked almost beyond their strength: the rocks, which have been moved and burnt out, are immense. I explored the valleys and mountains with David Noah and John Johnson, the day before yesterday; and walked a new pair of shoes all to pieces. I hope we shall accomplish our object next week. The roads in the mountains are all made and in good order.

Dec. 5—Last Sunday, I baptized 24 Adults of Regent, and administered the Lord's Supper to nearly 400 Communicants. The Church was full. I preached on Mark xvi. 16. When I had finished administering the Lord's Supper, I was really tired. In the afternoon, Mr. Norman kept Prayer Meeting. In the evening, I spoke on Matt. v. 3. May God the Spirit grant His blessing, so that saints may be established in the faith and sinners be converted!

I rejoice to find that more are inquiring, both at Regent and Gloucester, what they must do to be saved. I shall take an early opportunity of examining them; and such as appear to be partakers of grace, shall receive on trial, and for instruction, under the care of John Sandy at Regent, and of Wm. Tamba at Gloucester

Dec. 9—Last Saturday evening, we had our usual meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Lisk, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman, were present. The simple way in which our people expressed themselves delighted us much. One Woman said, "Suppose two people quarrel, another person can come and make peace between them. When we have no peace with God, the Lord Jesus Christ makes peace between us and God: but, when a man is once in hell, who can make peace between him and the Devil!"

Last Saturday Evening, I read the names of the newly-received Candidates for Baptism to the Communicants, and exhorted them to watch over their conduct.

Last night, a gang of Sawyers, who are always in the forest, to cut and saw timber, but attend Divine Worship very regularly, came to me, and wanted to tell me what the Lord Jesus had done for their souls. As I had no good opinion of them, being very rough, independent fellows, I told them to come again this afternoon. They were eight in number. When they were gone, I went to the Evening School, and inquired of some of our good people concerning those men, who informed me that they had observed them of late to be quite different men, and had hopes that the grace of God had touched their hearts: this was most surprising but pleasing news to me.

Hail, Mighty Saviour! how divine
Is Thy victorious sword!
The stoutest rebel must resign
At Thy commanding word.

Dec. 18—Through the mercy of God, I have been enabled to examine those, who proposed themselves as Candidates for Baptism: 33 have been received as Candidates for Baptism at Regent, and 14 at Gloucester.

Dec. 20—I have received 5 more Candidates for Baptism, which increases the number to 38. John Sandy stated, that, as there were more persons who were not yet examined, his house was too small to contain all that would most likely be added; and begged to know where he must go next. As the carpenters are at work in the Church, and the School-houses and Institution are well filled and occupied, I told him to assemble his flock every morning in the Governor's cottage on the hill, which will hold them all. I find Sandy very useful in preparing the Candidates for the ordinances of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, which he does every morning, from 7 to 8 o'clock; and then attends, in the course of the day, the School at the Seminary, and at night the Evening School.

Dec. 25, 1822, Christmas Day—We had the largest Congregation which I ever witnessed in Africa. Our Church was by far too small. The people from Bathurst came by 9 o'clock; and when Wm. Davis found that most of the people had left and gone to Church to Regent, he came with the rest, saying that he wanted himself to hear the Word.

The Church was full before the bell rang; and after Divine Service had commenced, the Communicants of Gloucester also joined us, but were obliged principally to remain outside. I preached on Isaiah ix. 6. After the Sermon, Mr. Metzger assisted me in administering the Lord's Supper. The Communicants of Gloucester, with W. Tamba, having joined us, we had, altogether, 470 at the Lord's Table. God be praised for this goodly number. What I felt on the occasion can be better imagined, than by me described.

Through the addition of new people, our population has now increased to full 2000, which number our Church comfortably contains. Should we, however, get more, which is likely to be the case, our Church will be too small again; and, in that case, we must build another gallery over the altar.

Jan. 5, 1823, Sunday—We had the Lord's Supper again. About 370 persons communicated. The arrival of our friends in the Esther has so much involved me in business, that I am not able to attend to my beloved people as I wish, which makes me very uneasy. I am again afflicted with ophthalmia: my left eye is very much inflamed, so that I cannot leave my house, which is a hard task for me.

Jan. 27—I am only able now to write a little. My eye became so much inflamed, when in the pulpit on Sunday before last, that I have been obliged to give up all my engagements ever since.

Feb. 12—Our Schools are now full of children. Since the Christmas Report, we have had a considerable increase of labour. I have been deprived of the assistance of my Sister Hannah, who was married, on the 4th of July, to Mr. Beckley.

Rachel Garnon, now John Johnson's wife, with the assistance of Mary Ann Reffel and Maria Johnson, conduct the Girls' School. Mrs. Norman occasionally visits them; as her strength and her care of her infant will not admit her constant attendance. On the whole, the School goes on as well as can be expected. The Boys' School, under the care of David Noah and William Bickersteth, goes on well.

The Adult Schools have also increased. All the Four School Rooms are occupied in the evening: indeed they are sometimes so crowded, that one can scarcely pass through them.

We have three Shops in this place, which have hitherto been supplied from the Merchants of Freetown, who fix the same prices as those of Freetown, and then allow the Shopkeepers 25 per cent.

I believe the climate is not so unhealthy as represented. I am fully persuaded, that many die of fear, and others through negligence—not taking the advice which is given them by those who have resided in the country. Others die through an improper course of living, either in indulgence or indolence. Exercise is one of the best remedies against all sorts of diseases; and thus an active man or woman will enjoy comparative health in Africa.

We have commenced a building at the Seminary for new comers. It will be covered in before the Rains, and will contain three families. When more Labourers arrive, we shall thus have an opportunity of instructing them, and preparing them for their stations. Our own houses are convenient only for our families. The Society's house in Freetown is but small; and if new-comers are placed there, they learn nothing of the superintendance of a village.

APPENDIX IV.

REV. BERNHARD SCHMID'S METHOD OF CONDUCTING THE TINNEVELLY SCHOOLS.

I. Ciphering.

As the Natives attach much importance to this branch of education, it was thought that it would induce them to send their Children to School at the right hour, if the Lessons began with Ciphering. As I have not hitherto found time to acquaint myself sufficiently with the native mode, I have left the management of this Lesson entirely to the Schoolmasters.

II. Committing to Memory Tamul Works.

The regular instruction in this branch has been confined to that Collection of Aveyar's Sentences, called "Atisudi;" and part of the Collection called "Condreivenden."

Up to October 1821, Atisudi was dictated, with the literal translation, to the whole School; the smaller boys writing in sand as much as they were able, while the elder wrote the whole on ollas: after an explanation of each word, the School unitedly repeated the sentence and interpretation with a loud voice, and then each boy singly, according to Dr. Bell's method, so long as it appeared advisable. Some circumstances having occasioned a great fluctuation of attendance, from July to September, I divided the School, in the beginning of October, into two classes; and continued to dictate to the Reading Class, while the rest were occupied in some other way.

In the middle of November 1821, I began Condreivenden with the whole School, in the same way as before; but, some months ago, the arrival of our Seminarists, and other changes in the School, made it appear profitable to begin this Collection afresh; the taller boys being employed, during the hour, in writing.

Circumstances have not yet allowed me to introduce the "Devágaram," as I had purposed; but I am now about to bring it forward. In some of the other Schools, I find it is learnt by the Pupils.

III. Committing to Memory Christian Books.

In March 1821, the whole School began to commit to memory the Society's Tract No. 3, or the Short Doctrinal Catechism, strictly according to Dr. Bell's method, without dividing the School into classes; but, in about a month, I formed two classes: at the end of April, one class had advanced to the 13th question, and the other to the 3d. In May, the School considerably increased; and I formed four classes, employing some of the Seminarists as Ushers: but great apprehensions having soon after arisen, on account of the Children's committing to memory our Christian Books, and the disturbances in the Seminary having terminated in its dissolution, I was at once deprived of many School-Boys and useful Ushers.

The number of classes was therefore diminished; and, in order to employ the School profitably without Ushers, I dictated, in another hour, the Sermon on the Mount, which the smaller boys wrote in sand, and the taller ones on ollas, with a view to commit it to memory, after having finished the Short Doctrinal Catechism.

5th Class—learning Sermon on the Mount; Short Catechism finished.
4th and 3d united—learning the 19th Answer of the Short Catechism.
2d Class—learning the 1st Question and Answer of the Short Catechism.
1st Class—learning the regular Lessons in the Alphabet.

I perceived, by experience, that the mental faculties of the younger boys are too little exercised, their knowledge of their own language too imperfect, and their dispositions generally too playful, for Dr. Bell's method to be really useful; especially as none of them had been trained up in the System. I therefore, from time to time, ordered more boys to the sand-board; and, at the end of November 1821, the School stood thus—

2d Class (12 boys) committing to memory the Scripture-History Catechism.
1st Class (12 boys) committing to memory the Short Catechism—and the rest of the attendants (13 boys) were learning the Letters and Spelling.

Those who were learning the Short Catechism, were constantly taught to repeat it according to Dr. Bell's method; but, as the boys of the higher class were now so far advanced in reading, and in the exercise of their understanding, I could, without disadvantage, give each a copy of the Catechism to learn by themselves, sitting in a row in one corner of the room; whereby I gained time to direct my attention to the smaller boys. Other circumstances induced me to leave the boys to themselves, when learning the Scripture-History Catechism. Several of them, either by talents or private study at home, made remarkably rapid progress—others were less quick—and again others were slow; so that they ought to have been divided into three or four classes, if taught according to Dr. Bell's method.

A predilection for our books also increased among the boys, in proportion to their increasing ability to read; and what was not thus effected in some boys, I succeeded to accomplish by the introduction of reward-tickets, of which I shall speak more hereafter.

By these means the emulation and diligence of the boys were so happily roused, that, by the 9th of February 1822, two had finished the Scripture-History Catechism, and, by the close of March, four more. An equal diligence was also perceptible among those who had to learn the Short Catechism in the same way; and I found, after various trials, that it was best to let the pupils learn nothing by heart, according to Dr. Bell's method (except the Sermon on the Mount and Aveyar's Sentences), until they could themselves read what they had to learn. Every boy, therefore, when promoted to the Sixth Class, was ordered to learn the Short Catechism, like the others, by himself: they also received, on their request, a copy each, to learn at home; in consequence of which, several boys learnt it in a remarkably short time. While writing this, I discovered that one boy, who had obtained a copy, has learnt a good part of it at home, although he cannot read without previous spelling.

Those boys, who have finished the Scripture-History Catechism, are now learning the Psalms, which are copied out by some of the elder boys, and some Prayers. But I must not omit mentioning that their diligence has perceptibly abated, for several months past; which I partly ascribe to the faulty management of temporary Schoolmasters (the proper Master being sent to organize another School); partly, to the want of new Tamul Publications, to excite the desire of possessing them; and, partly, because I could give them only single detached pieces to learn, so that their emulation was not incited. A number of Dr. Rottler's Tamul Prayer-Books, with the Psalms, would greatly remedy this latter inconvenience.

IV. Reading, Spelling, and Alphabet.

These Exercises, which give to our School completely the appearance of one on the Madras System, are, according to our regulations, performed in the fifth school-hour. Although we have fixed only one hour a day for these exercises, yet, as learning by heart their Native Books, and especially the exercises in the second hour, are greatly subservient to the acquisition of reading, this hour's reading appears superfluous to the Natives; who consider the art of proper and fluent reading as not at all belonging to school-instruction. I have observed that many boys have left the School, just after they could read a little; and I do not think that fear, or hatred of our religion, was the motive which induced ALL the parents to take their children out of the School.

When I began to organize the School in April 1821, I could form only three classes, which stood, at the close of the month, as follows:—

3d Class (10 boys)—reading, with previous spelling: ended p. 4 Scr. Hist. Catechism.
2d Class (15 boys)—spelling dissyllabic words.
1st Class (18 boys)—alphabet.

And, at the end of the following month, they stood thus:—

5th Class (17 boys)—reading, with previous spelling.
4th Class (4 boys)—spelling words of four syllables.
3d Class (6 boys)—spelling words of three syllables.
2d Class (19 boys)—spelling words of two syllables.
1st Class (10 boys)—alphabet.

In the following months, the number of pupils diminished again considerably; but the arrangement of the classes remained nearly the same till October 1821, when a number of boys had advanced so far, that a proper Reading Class could be formed; in consequence of which the classes, at the close of November, were thus:—

6th Class (4 boys)—reading the Society's Tract, No. 4.
5th Class (12 boys)—reading, with previous spelling, the same Tract.
4th Class (8 boys)—spelling—the Spelling Cards just ended.
3d Class—(none).
2d Class (4 boys)—spelling dissyllables.
1st Class (9 boys)—alphabet.

The following account, for January 1822, shews a continued decrease in numbers; but, at the same time, the improvement of those that remained:—

6th Class (11 boys)—reading Society's Tract, No. 4, the second time, with strict questioning.
5th Class (4 boys) } united to try if the 4th class could keep up with the 5th.
4th Class (5 boys) }
3d Class (5 boys)—just finished the Cards of three syllables.
2d Class (4 boys)—words of two syllables.
1st Class (3 boys)—alphabet.

At the end of April, they stood as follows, including our Seminaries:—

6th Class (13 boys)—Society's Tract, No. 6.
5th Class (4 boys)—Tract Society's Tract, No. 6.
4th Class (12 boys)—words of three and four syllables.
3d Class (6 boys)—dissyllabical words.
2d Class (3 boys)—compound letters.
1st Class (10 boys)—simple alphabet.

I was induced to divide the original first class into two (as above), in consequence of the difficulty of learning the various forms of compound letters; but this difficulty has been greatly alleviated by a card, containing a selection of the letters arranged according to their greater or less simplicity, which the Corresponding Committee printed for us last year.

V. Catechetical Instruction.

This most important branch was introduced into the School, as soon as we took charge of it. Besides the Weekly Catechisings by Mr. Rhenius, on the Short Doctrinal and Scripture-History Catechisms, I devoted daily a portion of time to question the boys on Aveyar's Sentences, &c., as those books were used in the School; and I have reason to believe that these endeavours have had the desired effect in the whole School. In January 1822, I began with the Reading Class these exercises strictly according to Dr. Bell's System, which have been continued by the Schoolmaster for a considerable time to my satisfaction.

VI. Writing on Slates and Paper.

The indifferent state of my health obliged me to leave the School entirely to the Master in the afternoon, till about the middle of the year 1821; at which time my health improving, and it appearing desirable (as I had reason to hope that several of the boys would sooner or later join the Church of Christ) that they should be kept as long as possible in connexion with us, and acquire some knowledge by which they might become useful to the Mission, or be enabled to obtain a livelihood in case they should be obliged to leave their former connexions through professing Christianity; I began to give Writing-Lessons to such of the boys as had committed to memory the Short Catechism, as a reward for their diligence. I obliged them, for a long time, to make only straight strokes; and when they were perfect in these, I gave them letters. Two boys made remarkably quick progress in calligraphy; and, having acquired habits of attention and reflection, and an accurate knowledge of Tamul Orthography, they are able to make out any Tamul Draught of ours; and earn almost sufficient to maintain them by copying for us, while they continue to attend several lessons.

An English Writing-Lesson is given by Mr. Lyon to the Seminarists, to which such of the reading-boys of the School as desire it are admitted.

VII. Arithmetic.

Last year, I began to give to the boys of the Sixth Class a lesson in Arithmetic, according to the European method; with a view to ascertain their talents, and prepare them for instruction in Geometry, as I had then the idea of completing the number of our Seminarists with the most promising boys of the Central School: but I soon found that their understandings were not prepared for this science, and therefore discontinued it.

VIII. English Language.

The number of Seminarists being completed, I began with them a lesson in the English Language in the afternoon; to which the Sixth Class of the Central School was admitted. All the Youths appear to be very desirous to learn English. We intend to make arrangements for Mr. Lyon to take this lesson in future.

IX. Practices of the System.

It is well known that EMULATION is the grand principle, which puts and keeps in motion all the wheels of a Madras School. The success of the whole system depends on the degree of attention which is paid to the several means, that have been devised by Dr. Bell to "take entire possession of the minds of the children:" and the effect which he aims at is declared thus in his Instructions—"It often falls to my lot to say to those who visit Madras Schools, 'See the tears in that child's eyes, and say if the disgrace, by his loss of his place in his class, be not a sufficient punishment, and the strongest incitement to future exertion!'"

To obtain this end, the places to which the boys may have advanced at the end of the day in their respective classes are written down; the boys being placed in the same order on the following day: and this practice is continued, from week to week, and from year to year; and the rewards and other distinctions are made commensurate only to the place which a boy keeps in his respective class.

In introducing the System into the Mission School at Madras, I invariably observed this practice. I have also tried it here, at different periods, and in different classes: but the longer I have tried the system, by personally teaching according to its rules, the more I have become convinced that this systematic and deliberate rousing and fomenting of ambition and pride, those most powerful and dangerous passions of man, is directly counteracting all religious instructions which may be given in the School. The System, carried on with the consistency, strictness, and energy prescribed, is admirably calculated to produce excellent Soldiers and Sailors. Though the pupils soon become acquainted with an outward Form of Religion, and their outward conduct and morals are changed, yet I am afraid that their hearts are far from being touched, or their evil nature subdued; yea, whatever good impressions may be received from the books used in the School, or from other means of grace, they will and (humanly speaking) must be stifled by that ambition, which is so successfully roused in their breasts. The greater the strictness with which the System is carried on, the further, I fear, will the Scholars be from becoming Soldiers of the humble Jesus.

These considerations have induced me to discontinue the before-mentioned practice entirely; and to allow the boys, at every new lesson, to place themselves as they liked.

Concerning the Motive of diligence which I endeavoured to place instead of that of Emulation, I need not enlarge. It was my aim to make the fear of the Lord, and a desire to know Him, the motive of their diligence and exertion; and the various practices of the System, excellent as they are in themselves, I considered as secondary and subservient to this primary object. How far I have succeeded therein, my Journal will show; so that I need mention here only a few particulars.

Even before I saw the hurtful tendency of the principle of Emulation, I was aware of the still greater mischief which would, in the present condition of the Native Mind, be produced by pecuniary rewards given to the children. All such rewards, whether consisting in being honourably distinguished or in mere presents of money, have, at all events, a beneficial influence only for a time; and the minds of the children are insensibly accustomed, not to desire either science or the knowledge of Religion itself, but the outward rewards connected with them: and they will, in most cases, relax in their diligence, as soon as such rewards have ceased.

For a length of time, I was uncertain what plan to adopt. I tried various means, and watched diligently the hints which circumstances might give me; and I resolved, rather to undergo more trouble and to labour for a longer time without visible success, than, by introducing Dr. Bell's system of Emulation in all its energy, to take full possession of the minds of the pupils, and thereby to weaken the influences which the Gospel of Christ might otherwise have over them. For this reason, I made very little use of the practices of the Madras System, in those lessons which were purely religious; and, in the other lessons, such as exercises of memory and reading printed books, I made use of it only as much as seemed necessary to rouse them and keep their attention alive, without the necessity of bodily punishments: and, notwithstanding this, more boys were sent to lower places, because they were too forward in correcting the faults of others, than for want of attention.

When I saw that my plan had so far succeeded, that several appeared to be really impressed with the truths of the Gospel, and a desire after reading was become general, I seized the opportunity to introduce tickets as rewards. They were printed by the Committee several years ago, on strong paper, each containing a select scripture passage. These the boys were allowed to take to their houses; and, when they had obtained a number of them, they were returned, and Tamul Books or Tracts given in exchange—the boys first repeating by heart the verses on their tickets. Although a ticket was only presented to that boy who had learnt ten questions and answers in the Scripture-History Catechism in one week, and took ten tickets in exchange, or a Tamul Hymn-book; five for Commandment Tract, and in proportion for other Tracts; yet, in seven months, I distributed, in this way, 36 larger and smaller books to schoolboys alone, exclusive of copies of the Short Catechism and the Scripture-History Catechism given to those boys who wanted them to learn at their homes.

I must not forget to mention, that we have found it advisable to introduce only one other reward beside books, i.e. clothing: but this is given, only at the Quarterly Examinations; and principally for regular attendance and good conduct, without respect to natural talents or the place which the boys held in the School. As many of these children are exceedingly poor, and hardly able to procure a little dirty rag to cover a part of their body, such presents are indispensably necessary.

X. Management of the Schoolmasters.

Nothing can be done for the benefit of a district in the way of Schools, without the cordial co-operation of Native Schoolmasters: but all Europeans, who have attempted any thing in this respect, agree more or less, that these Masters are inconceivably reluctant to leave their old and beaten track; yea, seem almost incapable, especially if not young, to enter into our views. I experienced the same in Madras: where even our best Native Assistant, a Catechist, told me plainly, that I made such arrangements in the School, merely because I did not yet know the customs of this country; and that, after a few years, I should let the Schoolmasters do according to their custom. While at Madras, I came to the conclusion to consider the MASTER, in whatever School I intended to introduce the System, as a CIPHER; and to do all myself, until I should be able to use the best boys of the School as assistants; who, sooner or later, would supersede the necessity of a Master: and I believe that only this plan will secure success in introducing an European System in India.

The Master of our First School, I am happy to say, is an honourable exception: he has perfectly entered into our views, and carries on all the branches of instruction with zeal and judgment, and to my entire satisfaction: but he is the only one whom I can thus praise; although some of our other Schoolmasters give satisfactory evidence that they wish to be useful and faithful in the discharge of their duties.

STATEMENT TO THE BRITISH RESIDENT IN TRAVANCORE, BY THE SOCIETY'S MISSIONARIES, OF THE CONDITION OF THE SYRIAN CHRISTIANS.

To Colonel Newall—

British Resident at the Courts of Travancore and Cochin.

SIR—

In compliance with the wish which you did us the honour of expressing to us, we beg to transmit to you the following statement of the condition of the Syrian Christians. We do not flatter ourselves that it will convey to you much additional information on a subject with which you must be so conversant; but we trust it may not be altogether useless, if it serve to bring before you a few particulars, which a residence of some continuance among them, and a degree of attention to their current traditions and history, as well as to their present circumstances, have enabled us to collect.

It will be unnecessary, and perhaps irrelevant, to detain you on the Antiquity of the Church in Malabar; a point which has so long engaged the attention of the learned in Europe. Whatever may be thought of the credit due to the current tradition of these people, that the Apostle Thomas planted Christianity among them; yet, so much may, we humbly conceive, be considered as established beyond contradiction:—that they existed here as a well-established Church, connected with the Syrian Church in Persia, as early as the year 535, the period when Cosmas travelled to this coast—that, at a period somewhat later, but certainly prior to the year 825, the commencement of the era of the country, considerable grants, immunities, and precedences, were conferred on them by one of the Perumal Princes—and that the greater part of these privileges have been uninterruptedly enjoyed, and are now visible among them. Every person of observation, now visiting the interior of the country, is necessarily led to this conclusion. He discovers a race of Christians, differing widely in their general manners from the later specimens of Native Converts, who, from the time of the Portuguese Settlements, have been so numerous on the Coast — bearing indeed undoubted marks of their Syrian Original, and of the high dignity to which, in former times, they were raised — a people, in short, who identify themselves with the subjects of the above traditions, and to whom the names of Portuguese and Roman Catholics are comparatively new. But we feel that it would be unpardonable to trespass further on your time, in enlarging upon a topic, which is a matter so entirely of personal inspection.

It may, however, be useful here to introduce a few remarks respecting their Moral Character. A body of people, separated by its religious and social customs from the other classes of the community, may naturally be expected to possess a peculiarity of moral feelings and impressions: and the state of the Syrian Christians will be found to justify this expectation. At the time of their first discovery by the Portuguese, they were distinguished by their scrupulous regard to truth, and their general manliness and independence of character; and were considered as constituting the chief strength of the nations who employed them. Many testimonies to this effect are collected by La Croze, to whose interesting and accurate work we beg leave to refer you. The acts of the Synod of Udiyampur, the number of books then destroyed, and the strong opposition which Menezes not unfrequently encountered in propagating his innovations among them, bear ample testimony to a point nearly allied to the former — the Learning of their Clergy: and, notwithstanding the many causes that have conspired to produce a lamentable deterioration in this respect, yet the most cursory observation finds, even now, continual traces of their former eminence.

We beg leave to call your attention to a few of the causes which have led to their decline.

The breaking up of the petty sovereignties, created by Cheram Perumal, through the overbearing influence of the Rajahs of Travancore and Cochin on the one side, and of Hyder Ally and of the Europeans on the other, cannot but be conceived to have produced a sensible alteration in the condition of the Christians, whose political importance rested entirely upon the immunities and privileges which they enjoyed under that remarkable system: from being a compact body, forming either separate principalities of themselves, or aristocracies, considerable as to numbers and influence among the petty states through which they were distributed, they now formed but a small integral part of a large community, in which their consequence was left to depend solely on the opinion which their former influence had created. But, independently of these causes, (which apply equally to that very remarkable body the Jews of Cochin,) there are others, which, in a more serious and peculiar manner, affect the Syrian Christians. These causes are all to be referred to the appearance of the Roman Catholics on these shores; and the contest, which this Church has consequently had to sustain, for three centuries, with the unremitted vigilance, the force and intrigue, of an usurping and intolerant hierarchy: the preponderating influence of the Portuguese with the Heathen Government was all employed in forwarding the designs of the Romish Emissaries; while, through the system adopted, either from policy or principle, by the Protestant States, the Syrian Church has been left unaided by any corresponding influence in the opposite direction. And the consequences of all this upon its moral and ecclesiastical condition have been, indeed, most deplorable. Mutual fears, suspicions, and jealousies, fomented by their enemies, and terminating in a fatal and apparently irreconcilable schism in their own body—the destruction of their best antient monuments, during the short calamitous interval in which they were all nominally subjected to the Papal Power—together with the interruption, both then and since, of that regular intercourse with Syria, on the feeling of which depended that peculiar spirit and individuality of character for which they were formerly so distinguished—these may be noted as the more general and direct consequences, from which others of a more particular nature, and more immediately striking the attention, have proceeded: such as—the withdrawment, from conscious weakness and want of favour, from all share in the public history of their country, in which they formerly acted so distinguished a part—the increasing ignorance of the Clergy—their growing unacquaintance with the only language in which the principles of Divine Knowledge were contained; and their consequent inability to become acquainted with these principles, far less to communicate them to the people—the disuse of education—the introduction of many superstitious practices unknown to their ancestors —and a gradual verging toward many of the customs and some of the vices of the country.

It is remarkable, that, under all the causes of deterioration which have been mentioned, the character of the Syrian Christians should still present so many points of superiority. The duplicity and deceit for which the Natives of India are so proverbial, is not a feature of their character: on the contrary, they may be said to possess, in no small degree, the opposite virtues of honesty and plain-dealing, accompanied with a peculiar simplicity of manner, which distinguishes them in the eyes of the stranger from the other inhabitants of the country. But we feel it would be needless to do more than hint at a subject, which we humbly conceive cannot have escaped your observation.

With regard to the actual Number of these people, it is difficult to arrive at any exact conclusion. It appears, however, most probable, as well from the reason of the case, as from the accounts of Anquetil Du Perron and others, that they were a much more numerous body of people in former times, than we find them to be at present. They now themselves reckon up 88 Churches belonging to their body; of which 55 have maintained their independence of the Roman Pontiff. According to the most accurate estimate that we have been able to form, the number of families belonging to these 55 Churches amounts, at the lowest computation, to 13,000: the majority of these are poor, and support themselves by daily labour: others employ themselves in merchandise and agriculture. Though many among them are most highly respectable, especially those of the class termed Tarragan, yet there are none who can justly be styled men of property: there are very few, indeed, among them possessed of a property to the amount of 5000 rupees.

The number of officiating Priests, commonly called Catanars, is 144. These are wholly supported by the offerings of the Laity, on Festival Days, and on the administration of the Occasional Rites of the Church; which, for the most part, afford but a very scanty support; and in very few instances do the monthly offerings, received by a Catanar, exceed five rupees. They are generally of the best families; and consequently upon their character, as to morals and information, depends, in a great degree, that of the districts in which they reside.

Having thus, Sir, explained, in as brief a manner as we could, the former and present condition of this interesting people, we beg leave to submit to your notice the plans now in operation for their benefit, and some others that have been proposed for the same purpose. In doing this, we act under the direction of the Very Reverend the Metropolitan: and we beg leave here most distinctly to state, that whatever relates to the concerns of this Church, proceeds directly and entirely from Him; with no other advice and assistance from us, than that, which, partly our official relation to him, and partly his voluntary consultation of us, have made it our duty to give. The objects which the Metropolitan has in view may be included in these four heads.—1st. The Circulation of the Holy Scriptures, in the Syriac and Vernacular Tongues, with other Works of religious and general information. 2d. The general Instruction of Youth. 3d. The special Instruction of the Clergy. 4th. The erection and enlargement of Churches.—Upon each of these objects, allow us to add a few words; with so much regarding ourselves and our Mission, as may be necessary to shew the proposed mode of attaining them.

The First object proposed is the CIRCULATION OF USEFUL WORKS, AND ESPECIALLY OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES. The importance of the latter point, in every scheme of moral improvement, will be acknowledged by every Christian: and its claim in the present case, is made more urgent by the veneration which the whole Syrian Community have for the Scriptures, and their eager desire to be possessed of them. A translation has, in consequence, been commenced, with the co-operation of some of the principal Clergy of the Syrian Church, and with the assistance of some Brahmins and Nairs well skilled in the language of the country. A few other Works, principally such as are required in the College and Schools, have been translated; and others are in progress and contemplation. A Press, with a fount of English Types, has been forwarded by the Church Missionary Society, and a fount of Malayalim Types is expected.

The Second thing proposed is THE INSTRUCTION OF YOUTH. In furtherance of this most necessary object, it has been thought desirable that Schools should be formed in every Parish; and that, independently of these, Institutions, on the plan of what we term in England, Free or Grammar Schools, should be established in three different districts. Parochial Schools have accordingly been formed for 37, out of the 55 Churches, subject to the Syrian Metropolitan; and the CENTRAL Grammar School has been erected at his residence at Cotym. Some of the Parochial Schools are supported by the Syrians themselves; partly from the contributions of individuals, and partly from the Church-property of the Parishes to which they belong: others are supported by the contributions of the Church Missionary Society: and the remainder, constituting the greater proportion, from both these sources jointly, but principally from the latter. The sum allotted to this purpose by the Society is 800 rupees annually; but no buildings have hitherto been erected—a circumstance much required on account of the Heathen Children in the Schools, as the Syrians and the Heathens have an equal aversion to their being instructed within the walls of the Church. The average cost of one of these buildings will be 100 rupees. The annual funds of the Grammar School at Cotym, amounting to 1000 rupees, are supplied entirely by the Society: but these are not found sufficient for the support of more than 50 Boys, a number far below what was originally intended to be admitted on the foundation. The two remaining Grammar Schools, for the Northern and Southern Districts, have not yet been established for want of funds. The building alone of each of these Schools, including the apartments for the Master, &c. cannot be estimated at less than 1000 rupees. In addition to the education received at these Schools, it is proposed that the most proficient Scholars should eventually be transferred to the College, to complete their education for such civil and ecclesiastical duties as they may be called to fulfil.

The Third object proposed is the INSTRUCTION OF THE CLERGY, that is, of those destined for the Clerical Office. In a body so situated as the Syrian Church is, it is principally from this portion of it, that we must expect an Academical Institution to be supplied. It is on this account only, that we have referred to the head of the instruction of the Clergy the notice of the College of Cotym; without, however, losing sight of the fact, that it will include other Students to whom an acquaintance with the higher branches of literature may be important and desirable.

The College was begun by the late Metropolitan, Mar Dionysius; and continued by the present Metropolitan, under the patronage of the late British Resident Colonel Munro. It was endowed with extensive grants of land and money, by Her Highness the Rannee; and is now in operation under the eye of the Metropolitan, who resides in it as its head. The establishment consists of two Malpans, or Syrian Doctors; who, besides their Lectures in Syriac, officiate daily in the College Chapel—a learned Jew, of Cochin, Teacher of Hebrew, toward which language the attention of the Malpans and others is excited—two Native Teachers of Sanscrit—and an English Teacher and his Assistant. It is in contemplation to introduce the study of the Latin and Greek Languages, and a general acquaintance with European Literature. The number of Students is 51; 18 of whom have received the Initiatory Ordinations; and, from the experience which we have already had, we feel fully justified in expressing our conviction, that the Students will prosecute their studies with credit to themselves and the Institution. The annual revenue of the College, consisting of the interest arising from the investment of the Royal Grants above alluded to and from other sources, amounts to somewhat more than 2500 rupees; and its expenditure, including the expenses of the Metropolitan and his attendants, exceeds 4500 rupees. The excess of expenditure is borne by the Church Missionary Society. Even with this assistance, the funds of the College are by no means sufficient. The building itself requires great alterations and improvements. The commencement of a very valuable library has been made; the completion of which will, of course, be a matter of considerable expense. No income has yet accrued from the Royal Grant of the property near Quilon: on the contrary, it has been a very heavy burden upon the funds of the College, and will require the laying out of a much larger sum before it can be made productive.

The Fourth object proposed is the ERECTION AND ENLARGEMENT OF CHURCHES, which includes the repairing of such as are in a state of dilapidation. Many of the Churches are much fallen into decay: among these, may be reckoned the very antient Church of Neranum, which tradition refers to Apostolic Times—the Church of Omallur, lately destroyed by fire—the large Church of Cadambanat, not unlike an English Cathedral in its lofty roof and lengthened Chancel, now undergoing complete repairs—the large Church of Parur, capable of containing 1500 persons, destroyed by Tippoo, and but lately begun to be rebuilt—the Churches of Ancamali, Acaparamba, the large Church of Catamangalam, Perumattam, Molucolum, Cundare, Calade, and some others. In consequence of the extensiveness of several Parishes, some Chapels of Ease, as we should term them, are building; and the erection of others is contemplated, as soon as adequate funds can be raised: among the former, we may reckon those of Tiruvalla and Etatott for the extensive Parish of Neranum, and Ammina for the Parish of Cotym: the latter are required in the Parishes of Kotalacare, Mamalacheri, Curupampati, and some others. The average expense of building a Church, according to the plan usually adopted by the Syrians, including the apartments for the Priests, &c. cannot be estimated at lower than 5000 rupees.

Having thus, Sir, laid before you, in as brief a manner as the nature of the subject would admit, the plans already commenced, and the further plans in contemplation for the improvement of this remarkable people, permit us to indulge the hope, that they will appear to your mind, in some measure worthy of that patronage and encouragement which is necessary to give them efficiency. A residence of nearly five years in the midst of them, in the habit of the most familiar and uninterrupted intercourse with the Dignitaries of their Church, the whole body of the Clergy, and the Society at large, emboldens us in expressing the full conviction of our minds, that they will not prove unworthy of your favour, nor fail in answering any degree of culture which may be bestowed on them. Members of a Church, venerable for her great antiquity, and which retains as her language the very dialect of our Lord and his Apostles—using a Version of the Scriptures made by Apostolical Men—miraculously preserved, during a succession of ages, in the very midst of a Heathen Population, and in spite of all the violent and unceasing attacks of the Romish Hierarchy, a monument of the truth of Christianity and of the protecting care of the Most High—they seem, in a peculiar manner, to call for the sympathy and assistance of a Christian and Protestant Nation. And we cannot but consider all these claims as coming with a peculiar force on the Members of the Anglican Church—a Church which retaining, as no other Protestant Communion has retained, those features of primitive custom and discipline that unite her with all the unreformed Churches of Apostolical original in the East and West, has, at the same time, suffered equally with any from the Antichristian Domination of the Court of Rome; and having escaped pure from that infection and that persecution, is best prepared to feel for those who are yet groaning under the effects of both. And these circumstances, of common interest with our Protestant Episcopal Church, are not wholly unknown or unfelt by our Syrian Brethren.

To carry on the plans above mentioned, Funds, to a very considerable amount, are required. Those appropriated to the object by the Church Missionary Society, though amounting to many thousand rupees annually, are not adequate to the purpose. On this account are we induced to submit these facts to your notice; and feel greatly obliged and encouraged, by the wish which you so condescendingly made known, of being informed of the particulars of our Mission and the nature of the assistance required. We beg leave to observe, that applications have been made for that Literary Help, which the College so imperiously demands; and that considerable hope is entertained, that it will eventually be under the immediate guidance of men of regular academical habits, and of acknowledged reputation for learning in our English Universities.

Permit us, in conclusion, to apologize for the length of this communication, and to assure you with how much respect we subscribe ourselves,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servants,

(Signed) Benjamin Bailey,
Joseph Fenn,
Henry Baker,

Cotym, March 13, 1822.

To the Rev. Messrs. Bailey, Fenn, and Baker—Cotym.

GENTLEMEN—

The delay which has taken place in replying to your communication dated 13th March, has not proceeded from a lukewarmness to the importance of the object which you have in view. The advantage to be derived from a general diffusion of knowledge in a part of India, which has heretofore been proverbial among the nations of the East, for the ignorance and immorality of its inhabitants, must be considered of primary importance to the interests of the State; but duties, which imperiously demanded an immediate consideration, have withheld my attention, until this period, from your interesting exposé of the rise, progress, and actual condition of the Syrian Church and People in Travancore.

The general instruction of Youth, the circulation of the Holy Scriptures, the improvement of the condition and respectability of the Clergy, and the maintenance of places for Public Divine Worship, are objects worthy of the patriotism, zeal, and piety, of the Very Reverend the Metropolitan. Do me the favour to assure him, that it will afford me much gratification to support his efforts in these laudable undertakings, by every means in my power; and I shall hope, that, with your valuable assistance, aided by the contributions of the well-wishers of the Syrian Church, and under the protection of the liberal Sovereign of Travancore, that the Metropolitan's exertions will be rewarded with success, commensurate to the importance of his designs. I am, Gentlemen,

Your faithful Servant,

(Signed) D. Newall,
Resident.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE COLLEGE OF FORT ST. GEORGE, AND THE SYRIAN COLLEGE.

SIR—

The Board of Superintendence for the College of Fort St. George, under the sanction of the Honourable the Governor in Council, request that the Syrian College at Cotym will accept the accompanying Works, printed at the College Press; and direct me to notify to you their intention, to present to that Institution every publication, which may hereafter issue from the College of Fort St. George.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,

[As the College is destitute of a Principal, the following Answer was penned in the name of the Metropolitan.]

SIR—

The Very Reverend the Metropolitan of the Syrian Church in Malabar, Mar Dionysius, requests me to acknowledge the receipt of the publications of the College of Fort St. George, accompanying your Letter of the 5th ultimo. The Metropolitan further requests that you will have the goodness to present to the Honourable the Governor in Council and the Board of Superintendence, his most sincere thanks for their valuable present to the Syrian College, in the Library of which the books have been deposited. The Metropolitan feels particularly gratified, that the plans which he is adopting for the spread of learning among his Clergy and People, meet with the approbation of so learned a body. He is anxious to render the Syrian College as efficient as possible; but is sorry that its slender resources, and the great neglect of learning which his Church has fallen into, during the last fifty years in particular, present such great obstacles to the rapid diffusion of science. He is happy, however, to say, that a commencement is made of a revival of learning among his Clergy; and he hopes, that, at some future period, they may be contributory by their endeavours to the further advancements to the interests of literature and morality.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,

LIST OF WORKS RELATIVE TO THE NORTH-AMERICAN INDIANS.

James Eastburn, Esq. to the Secretary.

New York, Sept. 28, 1822.

REV. AND DEAR SIR—

I AM unable to refer to your last Letter, as the sudden appearance and rapid progress of the Yellow Fever, early last month, compelled me to quit my house and warehouse, leaving behind almost all my private papers, in which your Letter was included.

Previous to that awful visitation, I had so far attended to your request, as to write to His Excellency the Governor of the State, whose extensive knowledge of every thing connected with the History of the Indian Tribes, and his condescending readiness to communicate his knowledge whenever it can be useful, made him the most proper person to apply to for information.

General Clinton was on his Tour for the inspection of the Grand Canal, when my Letter reached his office; which accounts for the long delay. I have deemed it best to enclose His Excellency's Letter for the use of the Society. Such books as cannot be procured in London, with two or three not noticed by the Governor, I will procure as soon as it pleases God to permit us to return to the City, which I fear will not be sooner than the middle of November.

I beg, Rev. Sir, that yourself, or the Society, will at all times command my services. My Son, the Rev. Manton Eastburn, would also offer his services, if they can in any way be useful.

(Signed) JAMES EASTBURN.

General Clinton to James Eastburn, Esq.

DEAR SIR—

I HAVE received your Letter requesting information, for the use of the Church Missionary Society of London, relative to Works of character, illustrative of the Languages, Religion, Customs, Manners, or History of the Indians between Hudson's Bay and the Pacific Ocean. I now, with great pleasure, contribute my mite of intelligence on this subject; and because some of the works recommended do not immediately relate to the countries in question, it may be proper to make a few explanatory and preliminary remarks.

1. There is a great sameness in the Manners and Customs, and a considerable resemblance in the Physiognomy, of all the Indian Nations of North America.

2. The radical or parent Languages are but few, although they are subdivided into many dialects. The Algonquin or Chippeway, and the Iroquois or Huron, are the two principal languages used in all that vast region East of the Mississippi.

3. The Origin of all our Indian Nations is probably the same, that is, from the Tartars of Asia.

With this explanation, you will at once perceive, that there is an important connection between your inquiry and the greater part of the books now recommended, which I have arranged into two classes.

1. Such as were published and can be procured in this Country.

2. Those that can be obtained in Europe.

First Class.

1. Archæologia Americana.
2. Stoddart's Sketches of Louisiana.
3. Pike's Expeditions to the Sources of the Mississippi.
4. Barton's New Views of the Origin of the Tribes of America.
5. Brackenridge's Views of Louisiana.
6. Collections of New-York Historical Society.
7. Collections of Massachussett's Historical Society.
8. Lewis and Clarke's Expedition to the Pacific Ocean.

Second Class.

1. D'Auterville's Voyage to California, Mexico, and Newfoundland.
2. Lafitau, Mœurs des Sauvages Ameriquains.
3. Histoire de la Nouvelle France, par Lescarbot.
4. Histoire de la Nouvelle France, par Charlevoix.
5. Histoire de l'Amerique Septentrionale, par De la Pollierie.
6. Hennepin's Discovery.
7. Lahontan's Voyages to North America.
8. Bradbury's Travels into Louisiana.
9. Hearne's Travels.
10. Colden's History of the Five Nations.
11. Clavigero's Mexico.
12. Roman's History of Florida.
13. Adair's History of the American Indians.
14. Bartram's Travels through the Carolinas, &c.
15. Carver's Travels.
16. Du Pratz's History of Louisiana.
17. Mackenzie's Voyages to the Pacific Ocean.
18. Henry's Travels in Canada.

I should have answered you before: but, during my absence from this place, your Letter was unfortunately mislaid, and I did not receive it until lately.

(Signed) D. Clinton.
